INSPECT JERSEY ROADS

Supervisor Meeker Shows to Marylanders State's Fine Tnoroughfares.

SEE PLAINFIELD STREETS.

All Parts of New Jersey Visited by Highway Commission—Favorably Impressed.

The Highway Commission of Maryland, comprising Messrs. Tucker, Hutton, Shoemaker, Chief of Geological Survey W. B. Clark and Chief Engineer W. W. Crosby, accompanied by State Road Supervisor R. A. Meeker, of this city, made an interesting two days' inspection of New Jersey roads on Tuesday and Wednesday, the visitors having just come from a similar trip through Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Supervisor Meeker met the party in New York, and escorted them to Newark, where two automobiles were in waiting for the trip. The officials on Tuesday went through Orange, East Orange, Brick Church, Montclair, Upper Montclair, Overbrook, Livingston, Rahway Valley, Springfield, Westfield, Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan, Belle Mead, Kingston and at Princeton inspected a road built with the use of heavy asphalt oil, and the visitors were much pleased with the result, declaring that it was better than similar roads found in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The trip was then continued to Lawrenceville, where a road sacarafied two years ago was inspected. This is telford pave and resembles the famous Cumberland Pike in Maryland. The condition of it, however, is much better than that of the Government road. From Lawrenceville the party went to Trenton, where they met State Road Commissioner Gilkysen, after which they went to Philadelphia.

On Wednesday the party continued its journey through the roads in the southern part of the State, going over the Imperial road at Westville, thence through Blackwood, Magnolia, where a road treated with "Amiesite" was inspected. In the use of this patent preparation the stone is heavily coated with asphaltic oil and thrown onto the road cold.

Continuing their journey the officials traveled over the famous White Horse Pike, between Camden and Atlantic City, making notes of places in the road where Tarvia has been used. This was found to be rough and uneven. Then the party went to Berlin over the gravel roads to Hammonton, Bass River, New Gretna, Tuckerton, north over the Ocean Boulevard a distance of five miles.

The gravel thoroughfares attracted considerable attention on the part of the visitors as their idea of a gravel road was the use of loose stone thrown over the road. Mr. Shoemaker, declared that the gravel roads were the finest he had ever seen, being smooth and even.

The members of the Maryland commission expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the roads as they found them in New Jersey, declaring them to be far in advance of anything they had yet seen. They believed that the State was receiving more actual value throuugh its good roads than other States, and they were especially interested for the fact that the roads in New Jersey resemble those in Maryland, that is being hilly in the northern part and flat in the southern end.

ALBERT C. CLARK TO WED MISS LAURA STUHR.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Albert C. Clark, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., of 59 Jackson avenue, and Miss Laura Stuhr, of New York. The ceremony will take place in New York on Saturday, May 15. The couple will reside here after a wedding trip.

Mr. Clark is associated with his father in the hat manufactuuring business in Newark, and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances here.

Thirteenth Birthday Party.

The thirteenth annual birthday party of The Little Missionary's Day Nursery, of which Miss Sara Curry is the matron, will be held at the Seventh Street church, 22 East Seventh street, New York, Tuesday night, May 11, at 8 o'clock. Plainfield friends of the Nursery have received invitations to the celebration, also a small silk bag in which they are requested to place a substantial offering for the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, of Jersey City, have removed to Westfield, where they will make their future home.

GOVERNOR TO APPOINT I. P. RUNYON AS JUDGE

State Senator Joseph Sherman Frelinghuysen today sent to Governor John Franklin Fort his approval of the candidacy of Isaac P. Runyon, of North Plainfield, for the new district court judgeship in Somerset county. The office was created by the recent Legislature, the Governor having promptly signed the Frelinghuysen bill. Inasmuch as Mr. Runyon has obtained the Senatorial endorsement, his appointment by the Governor is expected at an early date. His chief opponent was Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville, who was backed up by the "Bridgewater statesmen." Runyon had the support of N. B. Smalley and other county leaders.

I. P. Runyon is a native of Somerset county. He is about forty years of age and is married. He was admitted to the bar fifteen years ago and since then has had his offices in this city.

HOME INFLUENCE ON THE CHILD HIS THEME

Mothers and fathers of Plainfield public school pupils to the number of about one hundred gathered in the auditorium of the Irving School yesterday afternoon for the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. The feature of the session was an address by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church. The clergyman's topic was "Home Influences on the Child," and his remarks were of a decidedly practical nature. The speaker told of experiences of his boyhood days.

In addition to Mr. Warner's talk, the meeting was marked by some excellent music, and selections were rendered by Charles L. Lewis and Miss Hattie Filmer, who sang "A Winter Lullaby." Mrs. J. C. Pierson, president of the association, was in charge of the meeting. At the conclusion of the afternoon's program, a social hour was spent, and refreshments were served. Mrs. Pierson was assisted by the officers of the association, Miss Genevieve Petrie, vice-president; Mrs. A. E. Force, secretary, and Mrs. George O. Stevens.

TOWNSHIP VOTERS TO DECIDE TWO QUESTIONS.

At a meeting of the voters of Piscataway Township to be held at the New Market School, Tuesday night, May 11, it will be decided whether to purchase from Marie Harlow, of South Plainfield, the lot east of and adjoining the school property at South Plainfield. The plan is to use the additional land as a playground and the price is not to exceed $2,500.

Another important question to be decided will be that of building a two-room brick addition on the East Bound Brook school, and the furnishing of the same at a cost not to exceed $5,000. The amount thought to be needed for both propositions is $7,500.

School of Methods.

The spring school of methods of the Somerset County W. C. T. U. will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Gladstone on Friday, May 21. There will be morning, afternoon and night sessions. Addresses will be made by Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark, State president, and Miss Elizabeth Goodwin, of Elizabeth, State secretary. Conferences on the work of different departments will be held. Special music will be rendered by the church choir.

George Bolsterle to Preach.

George Bolsterle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Bolsterle, of Watchung avenue will be graduated from the Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, on Thursday, May 20, and he will preach his first sermon after that in Trinity Reformed church, this city, of which he is a member, on Sunday, May 23. Mr. Bolsterle, at the Spring session of the Classis of Newark, held recently, made application for admission to the ministry.

Buys Four Houses.

A Wall street operator has purchased through the Central Park Realty Company four large dwellings on Gresham road, at Leland avenue. One of the dwellings will be occupied by himself and the balance will be held as an investment. The consideration involved was $40,000.

Theodore Smith's Funeral.

The funeral of Theodore Smith, aged forty-one years, who died yesterday morning, will take place from his late residence, No. 4 Allen place, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made at Westfield.

PATTERSON LECTURES ON THE HOLY LAND

Under the auspices of the Brothhood of the First M. E. church, an illustrated lecture of unusual educational interest was given in Vincent chapel, last night, by C. E. Patterson, comptroller of the American Locomotive Works, on "The Holy Land." It was "ladies' night" and a general invitation was extended to the public to attend. Considering the weather there was a large audience and all fully enjoyed the fifty or more views displayed and the fine talk by Mr. Patterson.

The views pictured to a large extent the scenes and incidents in the Old and New Testament, reviewing the story of the Bible so far as it relates to the Holy Land. Of especial interest were the pictures of "The Mount of Olives," "The Well of Abraham," "Garden of Gethsemne," and the sepulchre where Christ arose from the dead. The pictures were perhaps of greater interest because they were taken by Mr. Patterson on his recent trip abroad and he described them with a personal knowledge not often possessed by a speaker.

During the course of his remarks, Mr. Patterson related many incidents concerning his trip that were of an amusing character, and at the close all were given an opportunity to meet the speaker and enjoy a social half-hour.

HOSPITAL GETS $5.000 BY MRS. GRAYDON'S WILL

At a special meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, the officers were authorized to receive the $5,000 given to the hospital by the late Mrs. William Graydon, of West Eighth street, through her will. The executor of the will notified the board a few days ago that he was ready to comply with the terms of the will regarding the hospital, and for that reason the special meeting was held last night.

Mrs. Graydon resided on West Eighth street for a number of years and she was always deeply interested in the hospital and the work done there. When she died it was learned that she had left the institution $5,000.

Y. W. C. A. SECRETARY TELLS OF ITS FOREIGN WORK.

At the meeting of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss May S. Shreve, of Grove street, Miss Tapping, secretary of the local Y. W. C. A., gave an address on the work of the association in other lands. In an interesting manner she told of the various branches in China, Japan, Australia, India, Turkey and Jerusalem and of the efficient work being done by them.

Reference was made to Miss Nellie Yaba, of Burma, at present in St. Louis, who will return this summer to her own country where she proposes to carry on the work of the Young Women's Christian Association among the women and girls of Burma. She is a daughter of Yaba Tulu, a Burmese, who came to this country when a lad and was educated at the expense of the late William White and the First Baptist church.

TWO HUNDRED ATTENDED FIRST BAPTIST SOCIAL.

Under the auspices of the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church the last social of the season was held in the church last night. There were about two hundred members of the school present and the whole evening was devoted to playing all sorts of gams, while piano selections by different members were much enjoyed. The large room was attractively decorated for the occasion with American flags and flowers. Sociability was a predominant feature and proved a great success.

Frederick S. Thompson was the general chairman of the committee in charge, while Miss Pauline Denton was chairman of the committee in charge of the games. Mrs. Harold Serrell was chairman of the refreshment committee, while James E. Church was chairman of the reception committee.

Mrs. Nicholas Conover.

Mrs. Nicholas Conover, aged about fifty-eight years, a well-known resident of High Bridge, and the mother of Charles Conover and Miss Ella Conover, of Elmwood place, this city, died at her home last night after a lingering illness. The funeral service will be held at High Bridge on Tuesday.

LOVING CUP FOR COACH

Big Audience at Hope Minstrels Witness Presentation to Judge Runyon.

SOME GREAT LOCAL HITS.

Mayor C. J. Fisk, Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur and Others "Roasted" by the Funny Men.

Marked by the biggest house of the three-night run, the Hope Chapel Minstrel Troupe gave its final performance at the chapel auditorium last night, and closed the box office more than $300 to the good. It was announced that the proceeds of the show were to be donated to the chapel organ fund, but as those West Enders only needed $125 to complete the cost of the instrument, it has been decided to invest the balance in a new carpet. The big curtain, made for the minstrels, has been presented to the chapel by the members of William N. Runyon's Bible class, who gave the show, and will be used in future entertainments.

During the performance, Charles G. August, chairman of the general committee in charge of the show, presented Judge Runyon with a handsome loving cup, the gift of the troupe in appreciation of his services in coaching the burnt-cork performers and arranging the performance. The cup is a two-handled tankard, mounted on an ebony base, and is about two feet high. It bears this inscription: "Presented to William N. Runyon by the Hope Minstrel Troupe of 1909."

The show was changed considerably from the two previous performances, for there were lots of new local "hits" in the interlocutary cross-fire. F. Clyde Doane, one of the end-men, made a big hit with the topical song "That's a Thing Awfully Hard to Understand," written by Judge Runyon. Doane is the son of Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, and got lots of applause with these new verses:

"It's a mystery to me why our Freeholders don't go daft.
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.
My papa and Sammy Wilbur claim they work as hard as Taft,
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.
It's a lovely sight to see them, so Pop and Sam say,
A building roads and bridges in an energetic way.
Now if they're so fine, why don't they strike for more than two per day?
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.

"What has Mr. Fisk accomplished in his late excise crusade?
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.
Is old Jersey any better for the efforts he has made?
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.
For we know in spite of all the work he did to cure our ills,
He never worked so hard to close up vile saloons and stills,
As he did to get our grateful State to settle up the bills.
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.

"I'm informed the Dairy Lunch has just been pulled for selling beer,
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.
And the big New York department stores have done the same, I fear,
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.
If they shut off Mr. Macy, do you think there's any hope
For those who have their liquor sent in boxes labelled "soap?"
How on earth will thirsty people manage now to get their dope?
That's a thing that's awfully hard to understand.

At the conclusion of the show, the sixty-four Hope Chapelites who took part as performers, ushers and orchestra members, formed in line in front of the chapel and marched to Timbo's, where a supper was served. The marchers were headed by cornet and drum, and the way was lighted with red fire. A fine dinner was served, and there were songs and speeches, too. Before the party broke up, a flash-light photograph of those who took part was taken at the North Avenue station. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Charles G. August, chairman; Marcus W. Clark, secretary; Charles Leighs, Charles Vincent and William Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Whiton, of Central avenue, are registered at the Hotel Chalfonte, Atlantic City.

MRS. THEODORE WHEELER IS DEAD AT 72 YEARS

Mrs. Jane Anne Wheeler, aged 72 years, widow of Theodore Wheeler, and mother of Thomas S. Wheeler, of Park avenue, this city, died yesterday at the old family homestead, "Dutchess Valley Stock Farm," at Wingdale, Dutchess county, New York, following a long illness from a complication of diseases. Her husband died six years ago. Mrs. Wheeler spent last winter in Florida with her son, Thomas S. Wheeler, and his wife, and the change seemed to be beneficial for a time. She was a member of the oldest family in Dutchess county, the farm being the home of three generations of the family.

Mrs. Wheeler's maiden name was Miss Chapman. Her residence in New York was at 235 West Seventy-sixth street, where she was accustomed to spend her winters. She was a life-long member of the Baptist church and an earnest Christian worker; also contributing largely to charitable objects.

Besides a son, Mrs. Wheeler is survived by two sisters, Mrs. William B. Ross, of New York city; Mrs. George W. Chase; also a brother, Perry Wheeler, of Pawlings, N. Y. The funeral service will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and the burial will be in the family plot at Wingdale.

FORESTERS ENJOY AN ENTERTAINMENT

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, at its meeting last night received four applications for membership. After a large number of sick claims were adjusted the meeting resolved itself into a "good and welfare time." Deputy Supreme Chief Ranger W. T. Bingham, of Elizabeth, gave an address on "Forestry," and Chief Ranger Hansen and Court Deputy McCarthy also made remarks pertinent to the Court's welfare.

An adjournment was then made to the banquet hall, where an elaborate spread was enjoyed. A large phonograph played the latest selections and Thomas Roddy, John J. McCoy, Edward Hann and P. Galbraith rendered a number of vocal selections. Messrs. Tozze and Caraso, gave banjo and guitar selections in good style. After the program cigars were passed during a social hour.

The committee in charge comprised Edward J. McCue, James M. Smith and John R. Cline. A vote of thanks was tendered to the committee. There were visitors from Bound Brook, Dunellen, Westfield and Elizabeth and the members of the local Court turned out in large numbers.

GOES TO CONFERENCE OF PLYMOUTH BRETHREN.

Samuel Ridout, of Boyerstown, Pa., who has been the guest of James F. Parker, of Grove street, left this morning for England, where he will attend the peace conference of Christians, commonly called "Plymouth Brethren," to be held the latter part of May in the Southern part of England. Paul Loizeaux, of Brook avenue, also left on the same steamer, for the same purpose.

The conference to be held in England is for the purpose of uniting the members of the faith in the United States and England on certain points of differences which have existed for a long time. The conference will be one of the most important in the history of this religious body.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Euchre.

One of the largest and most successful progressive euchre parties given by Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., took place at Junior hall took place last night. There were seventeen tables. Mrs. Fred Welch and Wesley Hunter played the best games. During the evening there were mandolin solos played by Elmer Fry, of Garwood. Walter Cubberly and J. D. Moon sang several popular songs. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Those on the committee were George A. Ballentyne, J. D. Moon and M. L. Wyckoff.

Auction to Satisfy Judgment.

Under a judgment obtained by Arthur Venable against the Metropolitan Mercantile and Realty Company, docketed in the Supreme Court at Trenton by William G. De Meza, Venable's attorney, Deputy-Sheriff Peter Weaver has made a levy on the company's grocery store at 320 Plainfield avenue and the goods and chattles will be sold at public auction to satisfy the judgment next Thursday.

ITALIAN SLAYER GETS TWENTY YEARS SENTENCE

Dominck Mangano, the Italian murderer, who has been in the Trenton State Prison, having been granted a new trial, after being sentenced by Supreme Court Justice Bergen to be electrocuted, and who was brought to the Union county jail this week, was arraigned before Justice Bergen this morning and entered a plea of non vult, through his counsel, William R. Wilson.

Immediately following his plea, Justice Bergen sentenced Mangano to twenty years in State prison. Several days ago it was learned that Mangano would plead non vult to the charge of murder, the penalty for which is the same as murder in the second degree. During the prisoner's confinement in State prison he made an atrocious assault on a couple of the keepers and after that he was heavily guarded day and night as he occupied one of the death chambers, being under sentence of death.

MISS HOOLEY IS CAPITAL IN "THE MAGISTRATE"

In the cast of "The Magistrate" to be given by the members of the Park Comedy Club at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night, May 21, there are three roles that have proved especially well adapted to the respective participants. They are "Charles Verrinder," "Beatie Tomlinson," and "Popham." Miss Frances L. Vandeventer has been quick to respond to the requirements of her part and in the most humorous manner will play the gushing Charlotte.

The friends of Miss Helen Ray Hooley, it is said, are congratulating her on her perfect interpretation of "Beatie Tomlinson—a young woman reduced to teaching music." Miss Hooley's success in this part is assured.

The character of "Popham," a sentimental parlor maid given to reading dime love stories, will be taken by Mrs. A. M. Abbott, and although this will be her first appearance as an active member of the club, she leaves nothing to be desired in the portrayal of this comedy part. It is a signal for a laugh the minute she makes her entrance.

T. MOWER SMITH TOLD POLICE HE WAS ROBBED.

Reporters who visited police headquarters at Elizabeth, this morning, found the following report written on the "blotter:"

"Officer Fretz, 12:10 a. m. T. Mower Smith, Terrill road, Plainfield, N. J., complained that his watch was stolen in Joseph Serpico's saloon, 1175 Elizabeth avenue. With Officer Guinee made an investigation and found his story to be false. Smith was in this saloon and asked two colored women to have a drink with him and then invited them to go out with him.

"They refused because they were married women and were waiting for their husbands who were to call for them. The watch was found by Officers Fretz, Guinee and Smith, as they were about to leave the saloon on the floor."

Further investigation on the part of reporters failed to bring to light any further information regarding the case.

ARE READY TO WIDEN THE GREENBOOK ROAD.

All obstacles having been removed for the widening of Greenbrook road, from Gavin's corner to a point near Debele's farm, the work on this improvement will be started as soon as the weather will permit. It was learned today that Rutgers Cadmus, who resides and owns considerable property on Greenbrook road, had consented to donate thirty-five feet so that the original plans can be carried out and the thoroughfare widened to the full extent.

It was largely through the efforts of Freeholder Andrew Lutkins that the plans for the improvement were adopted. When completed it will provide a direct highway from the western end of Somerset county to Newark.

Another Ash Carter Fined.

Fernando Brown, of Webster place, who was arrested by Chief Marshal Weiss on Thursday for carting ashes without a license, was fined $1 by Recorder Dolliver this morning.

Mrs. A. S. Olmstead, of Westervelt avenue, who recently underwent an operation in a Brooklyn hospital, returned to her home yesterday and is improving rapidly.

Among the events will be the potato race, running high jump, running and standing broad jump, shot put and hurdle races. At the conclusion of the events games will be played.

Plainfield Woman Honored.

Among the noteworthy features of the dinner given this week at the Montauk Club, Brooklyn, for United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, in honor of the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birthday, was the singing by Miss Josephine Schaffer, dramatic singer, formerly of this city, who has just returned from Europe. She is a pupil of Mme. Emma Thursby. In account of her singing, the following apepars: "Her clear and sympathetic efforts in two arias from "Tannhauser" and two from "Goaconda" caused many 'bravos.'"

Put This Stove in Your Kitchen

It is wonderfully convenient to do kitchen work on a stove that's ready at the instant wanted, and out of the way the moment you're done. Such a stove is the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. By using it you avoid the continuous overpowering heat of a coal fire and cook with comfort, even in dog-days The

NEW PERFECTION

is so constructed that it does not add perceptibly to the heat of a room. It differs from all other oil stoves in its substantial CABINET TOP, with shelf for warming plates and keeping cooked food hot, and drop shelves for holding small cooking utensils. Has every convenience, even to bars for towels. Three sizes. With or without Cabinet Top. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp is the ideal lamp for family use—safe, convenient, economical, and a great light giver. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

WESTFIELD.

The dedication exercises of the McKinley School, in the Fourth ward, Westfield, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. The program includes music, by the High School Glee Club; presentation of the building, by the architect and acceptance by J. W. Davis, of the Building Committee; an address by State Superintendent Baxter; presentation of Bible and flag on behalf of the Jr. O. U. A. M., by Rev. J. Morgan Read, and the acceptance of the flag and Bible by President A. E. Merrill, of the board.

The farmers in the vicinity of Westfield report that cold and snow of Thursday did considerable damage to the cherry and peach blossoms. Other small fruits were not sufficiently advanced to be damaged. Some who had vegetables up had them frozen back, but this was not general enough to work any great amount of damage.

Dr. J. J. Savitz, county superintendent of schools, has announced that teachers' examintions will be held at the court-house, Elizabeth, May 14 and 15. The examiners will be Dr. J. J. Savitz, A. L. Johnson, A. G. Woodfield and Edward V. Walton. On Friday the examinations will be the third grade only.

It is stated that the site of the partly constructed ice plant near Garwood has been sold, and that the new owner will complete the plant.

The choir of the Westfield Presbyterian church has been reorganized, and will conduct the singing at the church next Sunday.

Councilman R. F. Hohenstein, of Westfield, who has been ill for three weeks with pneumonia, is reported to be much better.

Kitchen Floors.

Make a kitchen floor new, bright and durable at hardly any expense. Get a can of the L. & M. Home Finish Floor Paint from H. C. Meyer, Scotch Plains. Paint the floor in the morning. It will dry hard enough over night to walk on, and make your kitchen bright and cheerful.

GOLF.

Than John Miley, who takes upon himself the onerous duties of starting the Lakewood tournament entrants upon their way each succeeding year, it would be difficult to conceive of any more interesting personality. John thoroughly enjoys his self-imposed task and is as happy in the performance of his duty as the golfers are pleased to see him on the scene. He has a cheery word for all, and one would be justified in believing that when the last stages of the tournament arrive he is already looking forward to the next meeting.

When the last batch of golfers has been sent on their journey Miley betakes himself to the clubhouse and sits down to preside at the distribution of the silver plate. Long practice has so sharpened his faculties that he can almost tell by the footfalls whether or not the players as they come in are his clients and it is a safe wager that what pains him most is the fact that a piece of plate is not provided for each individual entrant.

Nor does he allow the unsuccessful golfers to depart upon their way without a cordial farewell. When Miley stands at the clubhouse door and wishes them back for the next meeting and tells them that they are "certainly 'bum' golfers, but most charming company," it seems almost a pleasure to go empty handed from Lakewood.

James Braid is already in good form and has beaten his great rival for leading honors—Harry Vardon. The game between the two crack professionals was played at the opening of a new golf course in Kent and the champion beat his opponent by 3 to 2. In the afternoon a stroke competition was held, in which Braid, Vardon and Ben Nicholls took part, the former again being successful. The placing of the players was: Braid, 78; Nicholls, 81; Vardon, 84.

The Yale golfing schedule is quite a refreshing compilation and shows the students know how to frame a list of fixtures that will give pleasure and change. The calendar is composed of a series of team matches calculated to keep the students on the move. The first of these matches was played last Saturday against the Hartford Golf Club at Hartford, and during the first three Saturdays in May New Haven, Wee Burn and Greenwich County will each be visited in turn. On May 22 a match will be played over the links of the Nassau Country Club, with Williams College as the opposition, and the month will be rounded out by another team match against Morris County. After this the schedule will be suspended until the intercollegiate championship comes off at Apawamis on September 13.

COURT RULING GIVES JOLT TO SOMERVILLE

Circuit Court Judge Vail has thrown a bomb into the camp of the opponents of the borough form of government. In a case in which the town of Somerville was plaintiff, Judge Vail decided that from an examination of the town's charter and the statutes referring to it he believed it was not a corporation but merely a part of Bridgewater Township. This sustains one of the strongest arguments of the advocates of a borough.

The case was that of the town of Somerville against Angeline Roberts. It was brought by the Board of Commissioners to recover land which had formerly been used as a street, but which was alleged to have been closed by a fence by the Roberts estate a number of years ago. Judge Vail directed counsel to make a motion for a nonsuit, and on this he certified the case to the Supreme Court.

He stated that in his examination of the charter of the town and the statutes relating to it he believed that it was not a corporation, but was merely a part of Bridgewater Township. There was no power to enforce ordinances or to establish building lines. Judge Vail based his decision largely on the opinion of Justice Magie, who rendered a decision in the matter of Fritts vs. the town of Somerville. This action was brought by Jacob Fritts for damages done to his property by means of the town changing the grade of East Main street. This was in 1883. Justice Magie decided in that case that the Board of Commissioners was not liable for any damage that might result because Somerville, by the act of incorporation, did not have the powers and liabilities usual to a town government.

The vote on the adoption of a borough government will be taken next Tuesday, and the boroughites have developed additional confidence since this decision.

BABY FATALLY BURNED PLAYING WITH MATCHES.

Paterson, May 1—With the exception of his left foot and leg, Emilio, the seventeen-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Barrechio, did not have a portion of his body escape being burned as a result of his fatal playing with matches yesterday afternoon. The baby died in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday night.

From the hour of the mishap until he died the little one was in agony, despite all the physicians could do to alleviate his suffering. His father was badly burned about the hands trying to extinguish the child's burning clothing. His mother fainted when the accident occurred.

The Barrechios live on South Mill street, near Garret Rock. Mr. Barrechio was at work sawing wood, and his wife left the baby in the house with a three-year-old brother, while she performed some duties in another part of the house. She was absent less than ten minutes, and on her return found the baby enveloped in flames. She screamed and her husband ran in, and with difficulty beat out the fire. The little brother could not tell how the accident occurred, but a number of burned matches were found on the floor where the baby had been sitting. The baby was bathed in olive oil before being taken to the hospital.

Another Smallpox Case.

Trenton, May 1.—Another case of smallpox developed here yesterday, Thomas Farrell, a well-known business man, being removed to the Municipal Hospital, where Mrs. Charles H. Elder, wife of the pastor of Trinity Methodist church, was taken Thursday night, together with her young daughter, who volunteered to assist in nursing her. Mr. Farrell is one of the official members of Trinity church, and he accompanied Mrs. Elder home from Pine Bluffs, where she had been visiting her husband, who has been ill.

BOY ADMITS ATTEMPT TO WRECK A TRAIN

The Flemington passenger train on the Belvidere division of the Pennsylvania Railroad narrowly escaped being wrecked at the bridge crossing of the Alexauken Creek, near Mount Airy, yesterday.

A plank had been placed across the rails near the bridge after the morning train had passed. The locomotive struck the obstruction, but fortunately did not leave the rails. The moisture of the track bed resulted in the wheels shoving the plank for about three lengths of the train before it was stopped. The plank was extricated with great difficulty. At the point where the obstruction was placed upon the rails there is a high embankment leading to the bridge on each side.

Detectives John H. Mangah, of Trenton, and Cyrenus Slack, of Lambertville, were detailed on the case, and yesterday afternoon arrested Howard Smith, fifteen years old, residing at Mount Airy. He was brought to Flemington, committed to jail and later released under bail to await the action of the September Grand Jury. He admitted placing the obstruction upon the rails while passing the point, but gave no reason for his action.

Services at Monroe Avenue Church.

There will be communion at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church tomorrow morning and reception of members. Miss Carolyn Van Pelt will lead the Epworth League service at 7:15 o'clock in the evening and at 8 o'clock the pastor, Rev. Charles S. Kemble, will preach, his topic being "The Impulsive Man and Jesus."

Scenes of Passion Play.

Under the auspices of Plainfield Aerie, F. O. E., Henry Ellsworth, who has spent ten summers at Oberammergau, the scene of the Passion Play, gave two interesting lectures on the people and their plays before two good sized audiences at the New Plainfield theatre yesterday.

FALSE INTERPRETATION SAYS PASTOR HERRING

Editor, The Daily Press:

In the course of the sermon preached last Sunday evening, I took occasion to speak of Mrs. Marsh's exposition of certain passages of Scripture as being presumptuous. I see no reason for withdrawing the criticism. There is abundant opportunity given to any man to interpret the Bible in his own way, but these interpretations must be within certain rational limits. A Catholic and Protestant differ as to the meaning "This is my body" in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper; a Baptist interprets the word "baptidzo" to mean "immersion," whereas a Presbyterian interprets it to mean "sprinkling." All these interpretations are based on rational grounds; but to say that "Our Father" in the Lord's Prayer is only another expression for "Our Progress" is irrational.

Why does "Our Father" mean "Our Progress"? Mrs. Marsh works it out in this way—The word "Father" sounds like the word "farther" or "further." This suggests the word "furthering," and, of course, this means "progress" Ergo, "Our Father" is "Our Progress." How would this work out in the Greek, for the New Testament was written in that language and not in English? In the verse "Be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors," the lecturer interprets the word "doors" to mean "doers." To her own inner consciousness, the words sound alike. They mean alike, therefore, but the Hebrew for "door" is "deleth" and the Hebrew for "do" is "asah" and these certainly do not sound alike.

The Word of God can mean anything according to such methods of interpretation. What a man needs in these days of false interpretation of the Word of God, is to honestly search the Scriptures for himself; not bring his theory to the Scriptures, but discover God's thought to him, and he will know the truth.—the truth as it is in Jesus—and that truth will make him free.

OWL SOCIAL CLUB'S THIRD ANNUAL DANCE.

The third annual ball of the Owl Social Club took place at Saengerbund Hall last night. The affair was the largest and most successful ever held by the "night birds," who made it their sole object that all present should have the best time possible. From 9 o'clock until 12 the floor was crowded with dancers, there being twenty-four numbers on the dance card. Music was furnished by Suhr's Imperial orchestra.

On the committee of arrangements were George M. Smith, Jacob A. Schlick and Paul A. Otto; floor manager, George M. Smith; reception committee, George Mead, Monroe A. Nichols, Edward Mattell and Frank Jellig. The club will hold its annual May walk a week from tomorrow.

Surprised Miss Ruth McCarthy.

A birthday surprise party was tendered to Miss Ruth McCarthy at her home on New street, last night. The evening was spent playing games, after which refreshments were served. Among those present were the Misses Ruth McCarthy, May Hepner, May Donley, Norah McCarthy, Jennie Luhr, Jennie and Nellie Higgins, Ethel Schomp, Margaret McCarthy and James McCarthy, John McDonough, Percy Havley, Joseph Miller, Jerry Walsh, Harold Rogers and Harold Gloke.

Capacity Audiences at Proctor's.

Capacity audiences witnessed the fine bill at Proctor's theatre yesterday, the "S. R. O." sign being displayed frequently. The specialties and pictures were fully enjoyed. These pictures will be shown today: "Vulture Hunting in Africa," "Gendarmes Horse," "A War Time Tale," "Jack's Successful Bluff," "In the Days of Witch Craft," "Educated Abroad," "Calling Day," and "Nick Carter's Double."

Circus Not on Saturday.

Robbins' circus will be here next Friday and not on next Saturday despite its billboard announcement. Two weeks ago Mayor Fisk issued a license for Friday, May 7, and the merchants who have been under the impression that a circus would be here on a Saturday are unnecessarily alarmed. A short time ago, the merchants petitioned the Mayor not to issue permits for Saturday performances of the kind.

Gets Suspended Sentence.

George Sutphen, seventy years old, of Westervelt avenue, was arrested yesterday on a complaint of being drunk and disorderly. When brought before Recorder Dolliver, last night, he begged the mercy of the court. Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence after telling the aged man has behavior would be watched in the future.

Harry Witters Fined.

Harry Witters was fined $3 this morning by Recorder Dolliver for disorderly conduct at the Owl Club social at Saengerbund hall last night. The young man attempted to remove some decorations and was placed under arrest by Marshals Gaub and Reinman.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

If the weather permits the local ball team will play the Highlanders, of Plainfield, on the Park avenue grounds this afternoon at 3:30. This will be the first game of the season and while the home team should win, still the Highlanders are playing good baseball and should keep the locals busy.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hours. Morning preaching at 10:45, at the close of the sermon the monthly communion will be held. B. Y. P. U. meeting at 3:30 in the afternoon, followed at 4:30 by the vesper service.

W. D. Murray, of Plainfield, will speak at the vesper service at the Baptist church tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Murray's subject will be "The Religion of Men." There will be special music. All are welcome and cordially invited to attend the service.

Summons on contract has been issued in Justice Clark's court in the contract case of Payne vs. Lambert. Summons is returnable May 5.

Attachment has been issued in Justice Clark's court in the case of Carpowetti vs. Lacabo. Hearing will be held May 17.

Mrs. Otto Peterson, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Benjamin Clark, has returned to her home in Newark.

William Nester and family have removed from Forest avenue to the Morel cottage on Mountain avenue.

Rev. E. C. Grisriel will lead the weekly prayer and praise meeting at the Methodist church tonight.

Only one session was held at school yesterday owing to the storm.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

An interesting lecture was delivered at the First Methodist church, Thursday night, by Miss Alma Matthews, of Ellis Island, on the home missionary work that takes place among the immigrants. One of the notes of interest mentioned by the speaker, was the work of the Immigrant Home, at State street, New York city, where they looked after all young immigrant girls who had missed those who were to meet them. These girls, said the speaker, are kept until they are called for by their relatives or friends, or else are found positions.

At a meeting of the official board of the First M. E. church, Thursday night, the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Rev. W. A. Knox; recording secretary, W. L. McCauley; financial secretary, M. S. Apgar; treasurer, I. J. Stites.

Mrs. S. Voorhees and daughter, who have been living at Prospect avenue, moved to Newark, yesterday, where they will make their future home.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Society of the Methodist church will be held Wednesday afternoon in the basement of the church.

George Trimmer has removed from his house on Walnut avenue to the Kuldoshes flats on North avenue.

There will be a meeting of the Borough Council on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The games for today are Metuchen Yankees vs. Juniors, morning; afternoon, Holy Cross Seconds vs. Juniors; S. P. A. C. vs. Netherwood Field Club. On Sunday morning Iola A. C. vs. S. P. A. C. on Crescent Oval.

Joseph Harlow has so far recovered from his recent attack of appendicitis that he will go to school Monday.

The meeting of the Township Committee will be held Tuesday night in Thornton's Hotel, New Market.

Mrs. David Blackwell, of South Plainfield avenue, has returned home after visiting her parents.

Melvin Shrope will move shortly to the house on Front street recently vacated by John Phillip.

William Hamilton is making an apple and pear orchard on his property on Lehigh avenue.

Mrs. Edward Alexander, of Front street, is spending a few days with friends in Easton, Pa.

COMSTOCK RAGES IN A MUD PUDDLE

Anthony Comstock, New York postoffice inspector, and James Perry, village jehu of Summit, had dealings with each other again last night at Summit, with the result that the hackman refused to allow Comstock to ride in his hack, and the vice-crusader was left standing in a puddle of water in the middle of the street. Adding to the crusader's discomfiture, were the jeers of many commuters, who stood under the station roof of the Lackawanna Railroad station.

While Comstock stood in the middle of the street, the water reaching over his shoetops, he appealed to the police for help, but his cries fell on deaf ears. As the water and mud seeped into Comstock's shoes his anger grew apace and at last, despairing of help or sympathy from the crowd, he waded out of the mudpuddle and then to his home.

Comstock and Perry have had frequent clashes. Some six weeks ago the hackman refused to drive Comstock home, with the result that the hackman was threatened with arrest.

Last night when Comstock alighted from the train from New York he stepped into Perry's hack and gave orders to be carried home. Perry drove to the middle of the road, where there was a large mud puddle, stopped there, dismounted and opened the door. Comstock was seized about the waist, lifted bodily from his seat and planted in the pool of water.

Comstock sent the C. D. Q. call for help, but Policeman Gannon, standing on the station platform, had other business and the crusader was left to take care of himself. Seeing that the officer of the law would not come to the rescue, Comstock called to those on the platform to come to his assistance, but they, too, had troubles of their own.

PORTRAIT SOLD FOR A KING'S RANSOM.

Masterpiece of Holbein Bought Presumably for an American for $330,000.

London, May 1—One of Holbein's most famous masterpieces, a full-length portrait of Christina of Denmark, has been sold by the Duke of Norfolk for $330,000 to Colnaghi & Co., who, it is believed, bought it for an American client.

The picture has been loaned for years to the National Gallery, the trustees of which were granted a month's option of buying it at the same price.

TIGER GUNNERS WIN.

"Prep" Team Not Equal to Beating Varsity at Princeton.

Princeton, May 1.—The Princeton gun team held its fourth shoot of the season over the university traps yesterday afternoon and beat the Princeton "Prep" by a score of 91 to 75, each man shooting a string of twenty-four birds.

There was a high wind and the shooting consequently was erratic, the high score being 20, made by Cannon. The individual scores follow:

Princeton—Latta, 19; Latta, 19; Biddle, 17; Biddle, 16; Cannon, 20. Total, 91.

Princeton Prep—Vanderwerkin, 17; Pettitt, 16; Chesbro, 17; Duval, 9; Southwick, 16. Total, 75.

Pierced by Hot Wire.

Peter Corchme's abdomen was pierced with a hot wire yesterday in the plant of the Waclark Wire Company, Bayway, Elizabeth. He is in a serious condition at the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, and complications are possible.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Nelson, of "Pleasant Valley Farm," New Market, have issued invitations to the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding to be celebrated at their home Thursday night, May 13.

DAUGHTERS PLAN SHAFT FOR CHESTNUT HILL SITE.

Patriotic women of New Jersey are being asked to contribute to a fund with which to erect a shaft at Chestnut Hill, Atlantic county, in commemoration of the battle fought there October 11, 1777.

General Lafayette Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, launched the project. A committee of the organization has sent a request to every "Daughter" in the State requesting that she contribute one dollar.

Before this battle wiped out the town the community was the most flourishing in South Jersey.

Miss Sarah N. Dougherty is regent of the chapter, and Mrs. E. S. Thompson, of No. 131 St. James place, Atlantic City, is treasurer. The shaft committee is composed of Mittie S. Gartner, Lucinda Devine, Charlotte Pitner and Florence Scull.

T. B. HENDERSON DEAD.

Aged Springfield Resident Was Veteran of Civil War.

Born seventy-five years ago in Lincoln, Scotland, Thomas B. Henderson, a Civil War veteran, died at the home of his brother, Edward Marsh, of Maple avenue, Springfield, yesterday. Mr. Henderson came to this country when he was 25 years of age and started in business as a steam engineer.

When the Civil War broke out he entered in the Forty-seventh New York Infantry, in which he served almost three and a half years.

The funeral will be from his late residence this afternoon, conducted by the Rev. William Hoppaugh, of the Presbyterian church. The interment will be in the Presbyterian cemetery.

Contracts for gas-holders from California and Mexico aggregating $2,500,000 have been awarded the Camden Iron Works. This will be joyous news to the army of employes, as it will mean a continuation of steady work for months to come.

Taking a dose of liniment in mistake for a tonic, Benjamin B. Weatherby, vice president of the Millville Trust Company, was taken seriously ill. A physician's prompt aid probably saved his life. The liniment was found to contain a virulent poison.

A specialist from Philadelphia states that Mulford Ludlam, of Millville, a former judge of Cumberland County Court, a former Assemblyman and one of the most prominent Democrats in the State, who has been critically ill, has a chance of recovery.

When Walter Duble, of Alloway, went to the county clerk's office to be sworn in as justice of the peace, he found that the election officers had failed to return his name to the secretary of State. The matter is being investigated.

While handling a .32-caliber revolver he did not know was loaded, John Rockow, of Passaic, yesterday accidentlly shot Joseph Juworski. The bullet entered the man's breast and embedded itself in his shoulder. A physician removed the flattened bullet and sent the man to St. Mary's Hospital in Passaic.

It is stated on good authority that Mayor William Adamson, of Paulsboro, whose term will expire this fall, has been offered, through a committee, a furnished home with a good yearly salary to move to Bridgeport and boom the town, as he has done Paulsboro. At the same time, Paulsboro residents are opposing the proposition, even though the Mayor has had harsh things said about his doings.

Joseph Russell, a bricklayer, yesterday instituted a suit in the Circuit Court against P. J. Farley, a builder, for $2,500 for injuries sustained in the recent collapse of walls at a building being erected by Mr. Farley at Eighth and Linden streets, Camden. Three of the other victims, there being nine in all, have also sued Mr. Farley, all claiming faulty construction.

Accused of robbing the homes of E. G. C. Locke, 537 Linden street, Benjamin C. Reeves, 640 Cooper street; Mrs. Jennie Hyers, 414 State street, Camden, and Mrs. Ida Davenport, of 108 Collings avenue, Collingswood, John Wedel was yesterday committed without bail by Recorder Stackhouse, in Camden. The robberies were committed last August, since which time Wedel has been a fugitive from justice. He pleaded not guilty.

William T. Fredericks, eighty-six years old, the oldest man in Sea Isle City, died at the County Asylum Wednesday. He was taken to that institution about two weeks ago, after having been found wandering about the city at 3 o'clock in the morning in his underclothes and bare feet. His advanced age and exposure were the direct cause of his death. Fredericks was among the first to come here. During the Civil War he was one of the commissioners appointed to take the soldier vote in the Southern fields.

BOY OF RUTHERFORD MISSING SINCE TUESDAY.

Rutherford, May 1.—Mrs. Carrie Sipple, of 27 Donaldson avenue, notified Chief of Police George Halland yesterday that her son Howard, thirteen years old, has been missing since Tuesday noon. A thorough search among the friends and relatives of the family has resulted fruitlessly. The mother decided to send out a general alarm through the police, and police headquarters of all the surrounding towns have been notified to be on the lookout for the lad.

When he left home on an errand he had only $1.12. He has an uncle living in Nebraska, and that fact, coupled with the wild West ideas he had gleaned from hearing boys who had been through Western experiences, it is believed, has tempted him to start West. He is small for his age, of fair complexion and blue eyes. He wore a dark blue serge blouse suit, soft brown hat, patent leather shoes and black stockings. He was a pupil of the Park School and a member of the basketball team.

Second Wife Contests Will.

Trenton, May 1.—Mrs. Emma Elmer, second wife of the late Dr. William Elmer, a wealthy Trenton physician, filed with the Surrogate here yesterday an appeal from the decision of County Judge Rellstab admitting her husband's will to probate. The will was made before Dr. Elmer's second marriage, and under it his widow gets only her dower, the bulk of the estate going to the children of the first marriage. The widow filed a caveat against the will when it was offered for probate, and, losing there, she now carries it to the State prerogative court. The estate is worth about $60,000.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They are Plainfield People, and What They Say Is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs hight here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Thomas Haskard, retired, 927 S. Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "During service in the Civil War I contracted itching piles and they bothered me off and on for a long time. I tried several salves and ointments but never found one that would relieve my trouble until I commenced using Doan's Ointment. Three boxes of this preparation cured me and I have never experienced a return of the affliction."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

The English Channel is nowhere more than 900 feet deep; the Irish Sea is 2,130 feet deep.

Sixty years ago there were 150,000 children attending school in India. Now there are over 4,000,000.

The Russian Empire holds the record of having under its sway sixty-five separate and distinct racial groups.

Birmingham boasts the largest pin factory in the world, where 37,000,000 pins are manufactured every working day.

Great Britain's output of coal in the year 1907 was 267,832,962 tons; fireclay, 2,890,097 tons; ironstone, 8,236,118 tons, and oilshale, 2,675,779 tons. There was an increase in the coal production of 16,763,334 tons in the year 1906.

The director of the United States Mint estimates that in 1907 the world's consumption of the precious metals in the arts alone—that is, the manufacture of jewelry of all kinds, gold-filling for teeth, gold-leaf for gilding, etc.—was 5,882,000 ounces of fine gold and 85,196,000 ounces of silver.

In all crustaceans, as, indeed, in almost everything in Nature, there is a certain percentage of iron. Upon boiling the lobster the iron is oxidized. This effect is largely due also to the percentage of muriatic acid which exists naturally in the shell. The chemical change which takes place here is almost similar to that which occurs in the burning of a brick.

The pear tree will continue bearing fruit for several centuries, trees bearing fruit in abundance when at least 300 years old being not uncommon. They are much longer lived than the apple, which rarely lasts more than 100 or 150 years. The pear tree also grows much larger than the apple, and when 200 years old has often the dimensions of a forest tree.

In London property to the value of £1,083,393,000 is insured against fire.

The United States now holds third rank among the nations as an exporter of manufactures.

Not a single case of intoxication occurred last year among the 9,000 inhabitants of Whitlesey, Cambridgeshire.

There is one tiny street within the city of London's limits. It contains but tow houses (one on either side) and is only eighty feet in length.

A wreath placed on the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, at Lincoln City, Ind., on February 12 was paid for by one cent contributions from 2,500 school children of Indianapolis.

About 75,000 foxskins are sold out of Maine every year. Very few of the sly animals are shot. Many are killed by the use of poisoned bait, while hundreds of others are killed in drives.

Holloway jail, to which obstreperous suffragettes are sent, is described by a London journal as a place where one fares almost as well as in a good hotel, the best of food being provided. The health of most of the inmates improves in a short time.

According to the report of J. M. Lamadrid, head of the St. Andrew's one cent coffee stands, poor people of New York and Brooklyn to the number of 149,637 were served with warm, wholesome food during 1908 at the nominal price of a cent a portion.

RUST FROM STEEL.

An English woman is authority for the following rule for cleaning rust from cut steel:

Dissolve a quarter of an ounce of camphor gum in nearly half a pound of lard. When the mixture is melted and blended take off the scum, and when it begins to thicken add enough black lead to give a deep iron color.

Rub the ornaments with the mixture and leave them for a day and night. Then polish them with a soft cloth and a brush that will go into the crevices and apertures.

Another remedy for cut steel that is not badly rusted is fine emery powder mixed with vaseline or paraffin.

This is rubbed thoroughly into the steel work, and then putty powder is applied with oil and rubbed off with a soft cloth. To prevent cut steel ornaments from rusting it is a good idea to rub them occasionally with vaseline.

Village Innocent was No Fool.

It was said of a certain village "innocent" or fool in Scotland that if he were offered a silver sixpence or copper penny he would invariably choose the larger coin of smaller value. One day a stranger asked him:

"Why do you always take the penny? Don't you know the difference in value?"

"Aye," answered the fool, "I ken the difference in value. But if I took the sax-pence they would never try me again."—Everybody's Magazine.

Soutache.

It's a passion.
It may be simple.
It may be elaborate.
It is noted on broadcloth.
It flourishes upon heavy cotton.
It adorns many a fine silken rug.
It also adorns the filmiest of nets and chiffons.

THE GUILTY PARTY

By O. HENRY.

[Copyright, 1906, by S. S. McClure Co.]

A RED haired, unshaven, untidy man sat in a rocking chair by a window. He had just lighted a pipe and was puffing blue clouds with great satisfaction. He had removed his shoes and donned a pair of blue, faded carpet slippers. With the morbid thirst of the confirmed daily news drinker, he awkwardly folded back the pages of an evening paper, eagerly gulping down the strong, black headlines, to be followed as a chaser by the milder details of the smaller type.

In an adjoining room a woman was cooking supper. Odors from strong bacon and boiling coffee contended against the cut plug fumes from the vesperine pipe.

Outside was one of those crowded streets of the east side in which at twilight falls Satan sets up his recruiting office. A mighty host of children danced and ran and played in the street. Above the playground forever hovered a great bird. The bird was known to humorists as the stork. But the people of Chrystie street were better ornithologists. They called it a vulture.

A little girl of twelve came up timidly to the man reading and resting by the window and said:

"Papa, won't you play a game of checkers with me if you aren't too tired?"

The red haired, unshaven, untidy man sitting shoeless by the window answered, with a frown:

"Checkers! No; I won't. Can't a man who works hard all day have a little rest when he comes home? Why don't you go out and play with the other kids on the sidewalk?"

The woman who was cooking came to the door.

"John," she said, "I don't like for Lizzie to play in the street. They learn too much there that ain't good for 'em. She's been in the house all day long. It seems that you might give up a little of your time to amuse her when you come home."

"Let her go out and play like the rest of 'em if she wants to be amused," said the red haired, unshaven, untidy man, "and don't bother me."

"You're on," said Kid Mullaly. "Fifty dollars to $25 I take Annie to the dance. Put up."

The Kid's black eyes were snapping with the fire of the baited and challenged. He drew out his "roll" and slapped five tens upon the bar. The three or four young fellows who were thus "taken" more slowly produced their stake.

"And, oh, what'll be done to you'll be a-plenty," said a bettor, with anticipatory glee.

"That's my lookout," said the Kid sternly. "Fill 'em up all around, Mike."

After the round Burke, the Kid's sponge, sponge holder, pal, mentor and grand vizier, drew him out to the bootblack stand at the saloon corner, where all the official and important matters of the Small Hours Social club were settled.

"Cut that blond out, Kid," was his advice, "or there'll be trouble. What do you want to throw down that girl of yours for? You'll never find one that'll freeze to you like Liz has. She's worth a hall full of Annies."

"I'm no Annie admirer!" said the Kid, dropping a cigarette ash on his polished toe and wiping it off on Tony's shoulder. "But I want to teach Liz a lesson. She thinks I belong to her. She's been bragging that I daren't speak to another girl. Liz is all right—in some ways. She's drinking a little too much lately. And she uses language that a lady oughtn't."

"You're engaged, ain't you?" asked Burke.

"Sure. We'll get married next year, maybe."

"I saw you make her drink her first glass of beer," said Burke. "That was two years ago, when she used to come down to the corner of Chrystie bareheaded to meet you after supper. She was a quiet sort of a kid then and couldn't speak without blushing."

"She's a little spitfire sometimes now," said the Kid. "I hate jealousy. That's why I'm going to the dance with Annie. I'll teach her some sense."

"Well, you better look a little out," were Burke's last words. "If Liz was my girl and I was to sneak out to a dance coupled up with an Annie I'd want a suit of chain armor on under my gladsome rags, all right."

Through the land of the stork-vulture wandered Liz. Her black eyes searched the passing crowds fiercely, but vaguely. Now and then she hummed bars of foolish little songs.

Liz's skirt was green silk. Her waist was a large brown and pink plaid, well fitting and not without style. She wore a cluster of rings of huge imitation rubies and a locket that banged her knees at the bottom of a silver chain. Her shoes were run down over twisted high heels and were strangers to polish. Her hat would scarcely have passed into a flour barrel.

The "family entrance" of the Blue Jay cafe received her.

"Whisky, Tommy," she said as her sisters farther uptown murmur, "Champagne, James."

"Sure, Miss Lizzie! What'll the chaser be?"

"Seltzer. And, say, Tommy, has the Kid been around today?"

"Why, no, Miss Lizzie, I haven't saw him today."

"I'm lookin' for 'm," said Liz after the chaser had spurted under her nose. "It's got to me that he says he'll take Annie Karison to the dance. Let him. The pink eyed white rat! I'm lookin' for 'm. You know me, Tommy. Two years me and the Kid 've been engaged. Look at that ring. Five hundred he said it cost. Let him take her to the dance. What'll I do? I'll cut his heart out. Another whisky, Tommy."

"I wouldn't listen to no such reports, Miss Lizzie," said the waiter smoothly from the narrow opening above his chin. "Kid Mullaly's not the guy to throw a lady like you down. Seltzer on the side?"

"Two years," repeated Liz, softening a little to sentiment under the magic of the distiller's art. "I always used to play out on the street of evenin's 'cause there was nothin' doin' for me at home. For a long time I just sat on doorsteps and looked at the lights and the people goin' by. And then the Kid came along one evenin' and sized me up, and I was mashed on the spot for fair. The first drink he made me take I cried all night at home and got a lickin' for makin' a noise. And now—say, Tommy, you ever see this Annie Karison? If it wasn't for peroxide the chloroform limit would have put her out long ago. Oh, I'm lookin' for 'm. You tell the Kid if he comes in. Me? I'll cut his heart out. Another whisky, Tommy."

A little unsteadily, but with watchful and brilliant eyes, Liz walked up the avenue toward the Small Hours Social club.

At 9 o'clock the president, Kid Mullaly, paced upon the floor with a lady on his arm. As the Lorelei's was her hair golden. Her "yes" was softened to a "yah," but its quality of assent was patent to the most Milesian ears. She stepped upon her own train and blushed, and—she smiled into the eyes of Kid Mullaly.

And then as the two stood in the middle of the waxed floor the thing happened to prevent which many lamps are burning nightly in many studies and libraries.

Out from the circle of spectators in the hall leaped Fate in a green silk skirt under the nom de guerre of Liz. Her eyes were hard and blacker than jet. She did not scream or waver. Most unwomanly she cried out one oath, the Kid's own favorite oath and in his own deep voice, and then while the Small Hours Social club went frantically to pieces she made good her boast to Tommy, the waiter—made good as far as the length of her knife blade and the strength of her arm permitted.

Liz ran out and down the street swift and true as a woodcock flying through a grove of saplings at dusk.

And then followed the big city's biggest shame, handed down from a long ago century of the basest barbarity—the hue and cry. Nowhere but in the big cities does it survive, and here most of all, where the ultimate perfection of culture, citizenship and alleged superiority joins bawling in the chase.

They pursued, a shrieking mob of fathers, mothers, lovers and maidens, howling, yelling, calling, whistling, crying for blood.

Knowing her way and hungry for her surcease, she darted down the familiar ways until at last her feet struck the dull solidity of the rotting pier. And then it was but a few more panting steps, and good mother East river took Liz to her bosom, soothed her muddily, but quickly, and settled in five minutes the problem that keeps lights burning o' nights in thousand of pastorates and colleges.

* * * * * * *

It's mighty funny what kind of dreams one has sometimes. Poets call them visions, but a vision is only a dream in blank verse. I dreamed the rest of this story.

I thought I was in the next world and there was a great crowd of us outside the courtroom where the judgments were going on. And every now and then a very beautiful and imposing court officer angel would come outside the door and call another case in a loud voice.

While I was considering my own wordly sins and wondering whether there would be any use of my trying to prove an alibi by claiming that I lived in New Jersey the bailiff angel came to the door and sang out, "Case No. 99,852,743!"

Up stepped a plain clothes man—there were lots of 'em there, dressed exactly like preachers and hustling us spirits around just as cops do on earth—and by the arm he dragged—whom, do you think? Why, Liz!

The court officer took her inside and closed the door. I went up to Mr. Fly Cop and inquired about the case.

"A very sad one," says he, laying the points of his manicured fingers together—"an utterly incorrigible girl. I am special terrestrial officer, the Rev. Jones. The case was assigned to me. The girl murdered her fiance and committed suicide. She had no defense. My report to the court relates the facts in detail, all of which are substantiated by reliable witnesses. The wages of sin is death. Praise the Lord!"

The court officer opened the door and stepped out.

"Poor girl!" said Special Terrestrial Officer the Rev. Jones, with a tear in his eye. "It was one of the saddest cases that I ever met with. Of course she was"—

"Discharged," said the court officer. "Come here, Jonesy. First thing you know you'll be switched to the potpie squad. How would you like to be on the missionary force in the south sea islands—hey? Now, you quit making these false arrests or you'll be transferred—see! The guilty party you've got to look for in this case is a red haired, unshaven, untidy man, sitting by the window reading in his stocking feet while his children play in the streets. Get a move on you!"

Now, wasn't that a silly dream?

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Maude Adams, by a recent performance at the Empire theatre, completed the first six months' run in New York of "What Every Woman Knows."

Eva Tanguay, the cyclone comedienne, returns to the Colonial on Monday, presenting her repertoire of lively songs. Jesse L. Lasky will present "At the Country Club," the smartest of his many vaudeville offerings. W. C. Fields, the eccentric juggler, will offer his amusing specialty Ward & Curran will appear in their screaming comedy skit, "The Terrible Judge," and other headline attractions are: Walter Law & Co., in a one act ploy "At the Threshold;" Chas & Fannie Van in a comedy skit entitled "A Case of Emergency;" The Artois Bros. in a comedy bar act; The Italian Opera Trio and The Six Dancing Dandies. Sunday concerts will be given as usual.

Charles Frohman now has in his possession new plays for American production next season written by the following playwrights, a group that taken all in all, hail from almost the four corners of the world: Henry Arthur Jones, Henry Bernstein, Henry Battaille, W. Somerset Maugham, (author of "Jack Straw" and of "Lady Frederick"), Alfred Sutro, (author of "The Builder of Bridges"), John Galsworthy (who wrote "The Silver Box" and "Strife"), De Caillavet and De Flers (authors of "Love Watches" and "Buridan's Donkey"), and, in America, Augustus Thomas, Cylde Fitch, George Hobart, not to forget the newest comer in the ranks of playwrights, William Collier.

Frances Starr can hardly realize that she already appeared more than 100 times in Walter's play, "The Easiest Way," but such is the case. Capacity audiences have their influence on the player as well as on the box office and overwhelming attendances—which have been the rule since Miss Starr's opening night at the Belasco Stuyvesant—seem to lend wings to time. In all probability the young artiste will have reached her second century mark of performances before David Belasco decides to send his star and her company away for a few weeks' vacation during the hot weather.

Blanche Bates is in her second and last week at the Lyric theatre, Philadelphia, where the Belasco star is appearing in her latest great success, "The Fighting Hope." Miss Bates made the trip from New York to Philadelphia in her automobile.

ERROR FOUND IN TALLY.

Passaic, May 1.—The recount of votes cast last fall on the proposition to have an appointive Board of Education has shown big fraud in the second district of the Second ward. Two hundred and forty-nine votes were falsely recorded in this district. The count of the election officers was 34 for and 350 against the proposition, but the true count, by the County Board of Elections, made yesterday, is 144 against and 211 for.

This change carries the Second ward for the proposition by 87, instead of losing it, and causes a tie vote throughout the city—1,096 for and 1,096 against. One machine district is still to be counted, but it is not likely that the result there will be changed.

It Costs Money to Paint.

It costs more if you don't. Your house wears out if not painted. Then it costs money to repair it and money to paint it. It don't cost much money to paint with the L. & M. Paint, because 4 gallons of the L. & M. and 3 gallons of Linseed Oil makes 7 gallons of ready-for-use paint at only $1.20 per gallon. Thirty-five years use in every part of the United States has proven it. Sold by Woolston & Buckle, Plainfield; H. C. Meyer, Scotch Plains; Edw. Pennock, Dunellen.

ASBURY PARK NOW IS GETTING BUSY

Asbury Park, May 1—This month is looked upon by many familiar with this section of the coast as one of the finest in the entire year. This is because of the attractiveness of the adjacent country district, which is now being enjoyed daily by several hundreds of cottagers and many early hotel guests who ride and drive. Rather cool weather has kept people at all sorts of athletic sports, and there has been a steady daily travel between the hotels that are open and the Deal golf links, where a hundred or so of players are seen out daily. There has also been much brisk promenading of the boardwalk, for most of the time, only in the lee of some of the pavilions, where the sun poured down hot, was it warm enough to bask.

Looking well ahead into the summer season the carnival commission this week made preliminary provision for the great baby parade fete, for which Asbury is famous. It set the date for the Queen's coronation for Friday night, August 27; that of the Deal Lake carnival for Tuesday night, August 31; the masque fete, Wednesday night, September 1, and the baby parade, Thursday afternoon, September 2. These dates thousands of people all over the country are interested in, because those of the fortnight's vacation crowd whose leave comes the latter part of the summer who can, generally arrange their vacations long beforehand, so that they can take them in. This schedule is a departure from the usual custom of having the carnival events follow one another in rapid succession. The intervals were provided for so that in case of rainy nights interfering with the first events all those of the series need not be upset.

The beach commission at this week's meeting expressed alarm over apparent delay in the work of the septic sewer plant at the foot of Eighth avenue, but it developed that the plant will be completed in about fortnight. When it is finished it will constitute an improvement that will come in for more appreciation on the part of summer visitors than any in years. It will do away entirely with the possibility of greasy water such as occasionally used to be washed in shore from the old sewer outlet about a fifth of a mile east of the stand.

Arrangements were perfected the other day for the annual excursion next summer of the Clark O. N. T. employes from Newark, which brings down several trainloads each year. Decision to come here again was made upon the beach commissioners promising the use of the Arcade for dancing in the afternoon of the excursion day.

One of the changes to be effected soon along the boardwalk will be the removal of the rather unsightly electric light poles of wood that now line the eastern edge of the thoroughfare. When the new arc lights go up on decorative metal supports the present number will be increased 50 per cent., and the new arrangement will be considerable of an improvement.

MRS. ISABELLA M'COSH IS NINETY-TWO YEARS OLD.

Mrs. Isabella McCosh, wife of the late President McCosh, of Princeton University, was ninety-two years old yesterday. The Daily Princetonian yesterday made the following reference to the anniversary:

"On behalf of the undergraduate body, we wish to offer our felicitations and best wishes to Mrs. McCosh, who today celebrates her ninety-second birthday. For many years Mrs. McCosh has been most intimately interested in the happiness of the students. Many an older graduate can testify to her thoughtfulness and skill in caring for those whose misfortune it was to fall ill when there was no infirmary to which students might be sent, and it was because of this constant watchfulness that the present infirmary was named in her honor. Although the men now here have not come directly under the generous care, they are none the less eager to pay a tribute of goodwill to one who has done so much for the university.

"It will be a matter of interest to know that J. W. Alexander, the artist, has just completed a portrait of Mrs. McCosh and has very generously presented it to the university. It is expected that it will be on exhibition within a few days.

"Dr. Andrew J. McCosh, '77, who was killed recently in a runaway accident in New York, was the only son of President and Mrs. McCosh. The two daughters, Mrs. Alexander Maitland and Mrs. David Magie, are living in Princeton. Two grandchildren are Professor David Magie, Jr., '97, of the university faculty, and James McCosh Magie, '04, of New York city.

The Innocent Swain.

"Millie," said the young man, as he slipped the engagement ring on her finger, "have you told your mother about this?"

"Oh, you innocent!" exclaimed Miss Millie. "Why, Clarence, mamma knew it six months before you did."—Chicago Tribune.

After a season of heavy games, the Y. M. C. A.'s first and second basket-ball teams have finished their schedules and are arranging to hold their annual banquet. Under the direction and with the skillful coaching of Physical Director G. L. Listman, the two fives have each won a goodly share of the contests and believe that the season has been the most successful in the association's history.

This is the result of the play of the first team with other associations and other fives, the score made by the opponents being given last: 38 Milburn 36; 53 Naval Reserves 21; 35 Marathon A. C. 23; 23 Passaic 48; 71 Second Team 21; 2 Columbia Second 0; 23 Newark 65; 36 Brooklyn 37; 29 Williamsbridge 49; 16 Brooklyn 29; 31 Montclair 61; 25 Orange 68; 31 Montclair 64; 20 Elizabeth 35; 36 Second Team 22; 2 Townsend Harris Hall 0; 21 Paterson 35; 20 Newark 50; 30 Elizabeth 29; 29 Paterson 24; 55 Morristown 20; 27 Passaic 37; 30 Orange 86; 12 Morristown 37.

NASH AND BLATZ GO AFTER RECORDS.

There was some good bowling on Campbell's alleys last night, Billy Nash and Frank Blatz being the heavy scorers. In their first series the "legal advisors" were in great trim and could have pulled the wool over any bowling judge's eyes. Nash started the ball rolling in great fashion and by the finish time had run up a total of 164. Blatz got busy in the last game and made 225. Their highest double score was 436. O'Keefe and Shannon were the next high score men with a total of 408.

SYKES IS CHEERFUL.

Charges Pile Up Against Trenton Lawyer, Nevertheless.

Trenton, May 1.—John Sykes, the former lawyer, pleaded guilty in Mercer Court here yesterday to five additional charges of forgery and embezzlement. One of the allegations is another charge of forging the name of his sister to negotiable paper. This makes twelve counts to which Sykes has pleaded guilty, and other charges are to be made against him before sentence is imposed.

Sykes, however, continues cheerful and has expressed the belief that he will get off with a term not exceeding three or four years. If he should be given the limit under the charges now held against him he would go to prison for the rest of his life.

Jury Gives $6,000 to Woman Hurt at His Resort and Husband.

A jury in the United States Court at Trenton yesterday brought in verdicts aggregating $6,000 against William J. Thompson, the "Duke of Gloucester," as the result of a trolley accident at Washington Park two years ago. Mrs. Dora Green, of Chester, Pa., alleging to have been permanently injured, was awarded $4,500, and her husband, William H. Green, was given $1,500 for the loss of her services. A daughter, who recovered from injuries, received nothing.

PINGRY SCHOOL TO FORM ASSOCIATION.

Alumni Believe Records of Famous Preparatory Institution Should Be Preserved.

The first steps toward the organization of a Pingry School Alumni Association at Elizabeth were taken at a meeting in the school last night, when about twenty-five graduates met.

S. Archibald Smith, Pingry's head master, called the meeting to order, announcing the object of the gathering and outlining tentative plans. H. E. Manvel and Arthur T. Pendleton both declared that the school, which is forty-eight years old, and one of the best known preparatory schools in the country, should have an organization of graduates second to none.

Efforts are now being made to complete the history of Pingry School. Records for twenty years back have been preserved by the older alumni, but data is lost. The section of the school destroyed by flames some time ago is now rebuilt.

The following committee was appointed to make arrangements for the formation of a society and will report at the next meeting, which will be held in a fortnight: H. E. Manvel, chairman; W. R. Gray, L. H. Carr, E. A. Weeks, Edward Olmstead, Norman F. Charlock and A. T. Pendleton.

A Stirabout Recipe.

An old-fashioned housewife, who knows how to cook delicious dishes that are also wholesome, prepares cornmeal "stirabout," of sapawn, in a way that appeals to hungry palates. She fries it while it is still hot from boiling, putting it in to a hot griddle in large spoonfuls just as it is, without egging or flouring it at all. Her sapawn is crisp and brown and makes a good breakfast dish served with maple syrup and accompanied with crisp bacon and hot coffee.

OPPOSES SUNDAY BALL

Loose-Thinking Christians Back Agitation Says Rev. John Y. Broek.

HOLY DAY, NOT HOLIDAY.

Trinity Church's Pastor Takes Issue With Prof. Myron T. Scudder.

Taking exception to the statement made by Professor Myron T. Scudder, principal of Rutgers Preparatory School, in an address before teachers of city and borough schools here about a week ago, Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, took occasion to speak against Sunday baseball for boys in a sermon in Sabbath observance, preached at the church last night to a congregation. "This question of Sunday baseball," said the speaker, "is being agitated by a few loose-thinking Christians, who tell us that public opinion demands it. I would hesitate a long while before I would advise a boy to attend a school where he was encouraged to play baseball on Sunday. The Sabbath Day is a Holy day, not a holiday."

Mr. Broek took his text from Genesis, 2 and 3, "And God blessed the seventh day and 'sanctified it * * *" and in the course of his sermon discussed the institution of the Sabbath Day, the necessity for its observance and some misconceptions in regard to such observance. Speaking of Sunday baseball, Mr. Broek said:

"It is proposed that we have Sunday baseball, and it is claimed that it is a necessary outdoor sport. What is the trouble with the whole matter? Who wants Sunday baseball? A few loose-thinking Christians must be held responsible, who tell us that public opinion is in favor of it. I question this.

"Can we, as a nation, afford to sacrifice our religion for pleasure and amusement? Are we not already pleasure-mad in this country? Which is the more important in the development of a child's character, the Sunday-school, or the Sunday afternoon baseball game? How shall we evangelize the churchless masses if we let slip the last grip we have on them for instilling reverence for God by sacred observance of His day. I would hesitate a long while before I would advise a boy to attend a school where he was encouraged to play baseball on Sunday. The Sabbath Day, next to the Christian home, is the greatest influence for developing Christian character.

"Shall we make the Sabbath Day a holiday or a holy day? Shall we make it a day of amusement or a day of religion? As Christians who love the gospel of Christ there is but one side to the question. There should arise a protest which should be tremendous. We cannot be too flexible or obliging on this point; we must fight hard against the evil and stand our ground firmly. This entire matter of Sunday observance is not a question of individual freedom, but of individual responsibility. The question with us should not be how much dare we do, but how far can we stay away from Sabbath descreation and how much by our life can we preserve the sanctity of the Sabbath Day."

THE NEW ICE COMPANY BEGAN BUSINESS SATURDAY.

The Plainfield Ice & Supply Company, recently formed and incorporated, to deal in ice, coal, lumber and masons' materials and manufacturers of cement building blocks, on May 1, took over and is now conducting all the business formerly carried on by the Natural Ice Company; also all the business carried on by McDonough Brothers at 222 Madison avenue, comprising ice, coal, lumber, masons' materials, cement building blocks, etc.

The new company hopes by consolidation to materially reduce expenses, and place the the highest class goods in its various lines in the hands of customers at the lowest possible price. The business of the company will be in charge of the same men, and conducted along the same lines formerly employed by the companies succeeded.

Funeral of Theodore Smith.

The funeral service of Theodore Smith was held from the late residence on Allen place at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends, and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, officiated. The burial was in the family plot at Westfield and these persons acted as pall-bearers: A. D. Findley, Andrew Love, Jr., Fred Moore, William Townley, Edward Steuerwald and Oliver Grandall.

FATHER'S LIFE SAVED BY HIS LITTLE SON

Smelling a strong odor of illuminating gas which emanated from his father's bedroom, the little son of Daniel Ferris, a lather, of 45 Washington avenue, in Elizabeth, tried to enter the room yesterday morning about 8 o'clock, but found the door locked. He alarmed the neighbors and entrance was finally effected by means of a window.

Ferris was found lying in bed overcome by the fumes and unconscious. He was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital. The entry on the blotter at police headquarters by Policeman Egbert stated that it was impossible to tell whether it was a suicidal attempt. Ferris will recover.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN KILLED AT ELIZABETH YARDS

An unidentified man, known only as "Mike," was killed last night in the freight yard of the Central Railroad at Elizabeth. The body was removed to Engle's morgue. It was that of a man about 30 years of age, five feet six inches tall, with a small dark mustache. It was clothed in dark coat, black derby hat, gray sweater with a red border and heavy black shoes.

One of the railroad officials said that a man answering the description had appeared in the yard early last evening and asked permission to sleep in one of the cars. He was refused. The body was discovered about 11:25 o'clock and was in a badly mutilated condition.

Policeman Ohrenberger saw a man who answered to the description of the victim on Union street, Elizabeth, earlier in the evening. Then the man was intoxicated.

When the body was searched there was found on it a pay envelope marked "Mike—15 hours, $3.96." It is believed that the man was employed by Robert Montgomery, a contractor, of Cross avenue, who stated that a man answering the description recently had worked for him. The body awaits identification at the morgue.

RAISE FUNDS TO ENDOW A BED AT HOSPITAL

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., held a successful "May tea and sale" at the home of Mrs. James F. Buckle on Westervelt avenue, Saturday afternoon, the proceeds of which will go toward a fund to endow a bed at Muhlenberg Hospital. Despite the storm the attendance was large and everything was disposed of at good prices. The home was attractively decorated with flowers, palms and ferns, especially in the dining room.

Mrs. James F. Buckle was chairman of the reception committee, and also presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. William R. Codington, Mrs. Daniel C. Adams, and they were assisted by the Misses Inez and Juna Tolles, Helen Adams and Clara Buckle as waitresses.

Mrs. Arthur McVoy was chairman of the committee at the fancy goods table and Mrs. E. A. Lowe was her assistant. At the candy table Mrs. Frank G. Payson was the chairman and she was assisted by Mrs. N. Y. Hull and Mrs. R. C. Woodhouse. Mrs. Winfield S. Angleman was chairman of the committee at the cake table and her assistants were Mrs. Julius Williams and Mrs. H. W. Marshall.

City Judge Runyon Ill.

City Judge William N. Runyon is confined to his home with a severe cold and the nine cases which were to come up in the court today were postponed until tomorrow morning. Other cases are a truancy case, some coal stealers and an auto speeder.

League Meeting Friday.

The Epworth League of Grace M. E. church will hold its regular business meeting on Friday night. On Thursday night the league will send a large delegation to the Monroe Avenue church for the group rally. The speaker of the occasion will be Rev. Dorr F. Diefendorf, pastor of the Roseville M. E. church, Newark.

I. O. F.'s Last Euchre.

Court Watchung, I. O. F., will hold its last progressive euchre for this season tomorrow night in K. of C. Hall, over Drake's Business College. The committee reports a large sale of tickets and a good time is expected.

NEW THOUGHT HIS THEME

Rev. Dr. Herring Compares Cult's Creed to the Complete Gospel.

MISINTERPRETS TEACHINGS.

Pastor Tells Wherein the Belief Differs From That of Other Denominations.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring last night at the First Presbyterian church preached on the New Thought. His subject was "The New Thought As Compared With the Gospel of Jesus." His remarks follow:

In that matchless chapter of John's Gospel, the fourteenth chapter, our Lord, as He is sitting around the table of the last supper, utters among other things, this revelation of His relation to all men, "I am the truth." He did not say, "I am 'a' truth," and that other men have given you truths of equal value with mine, but I am 'the' truth. There is no need of other truths to supplement the truth I have given to men. Only one who stood in the unique relation of a son to God could speak with such positiveness. With this serse as a text, let me say something regarding a phase of teaching which is very much in vogue at the present time, but which is not in perfect harmony with this word of our Lord. I refer to that philosophy of life which goes by the name of 'New Thought.' People read the magazines of this new colt because they are optimistic and bright, and because New Thoughtists preach to men that they can accomplish a great deal for themselves and others, if they only think and will to accomplish these things. But while New Thought says many bright things, it not only fails to give the perfect teaching of Christ, but it misintehprets that teaching.

"Firstly. There is no clear teaching of the personal Fatherhood of God. New Thought quotes Scripture which speaks of the personality of God, and then refers to this deity as 'it.' For example—Trine says, 'Nothing is surer than Deity. It will never fail the one who throws himself upon it.' Deity in the Scripture is called 'He.' Again to quote Trine, 'If one is willing to trust himself fully to the Law, the Law will never fail him.' The Bible never speaks of Law as never failing a man, but of God Jehovah as never failing him.

"Secondly—New Thought speaks of Jesus Christ as a man—'the man of Nazareth,' 'the lowly Nazarene.' Patterson says, 'There is no ground for believing that the personality of Jesus differed from that of other men.'

"Thirdly. New Thought makes a difference between Jesus and Christ; a heresy as old as the New Testament. Trine says, 'Don't mistake His mere person for His life and teaching.' Teach as did Jesus, the living Christ. Teach as did Jesus, the Christ within. You may find this Christ as Jesus found it, then you will also be one who will speak with authority. This is the pearl of great price. Patterson also states that thought in this way, 'The Christ alone can save us; Jesus of Nazareth points the way.'' Christian Science says the same thing, 'Jesus is not the Christ.' But Scripthre has an answer for it in these words, 'Who is a liar, but he that denieth that Jesus is Christ.'

"Fourthly. There is a denial of the atonement in the orthodox sense, Patterson explains the shedding of blood as the casting away of Christ's old nature. He cast it away as something no longer useful, and took the new nature. Now if one soul died to a knowledge of earthly things, and lived to a knowledge of heavenly things, all souls can develop in the same way.' That is certainly not our conception of the atonement.

"Fifthly. Jesus Christ in New Thought is not the only teacher of men. He is not 'the' truth, but simply 'a' truth. 'We do not believe that He is the only great prophet of God, but that all people have had their prophets. A Christian asks: 'Was not Christ inspired?' 'Yes,' New Thought answers, 'but He was not the only one inspired.' A Buddhist asks: 'Was not Buddha inspired?' 'Yes,' New Thought answers, 'but He was not the only one inspired.' The belief of the orthdox Christian is quite different. He does not believe that all the bright sayings of all religious teachers taken together measure up to the perfect revelation of God in Christ Jesus.

"Sixthly. New Thought has not very much use for the Bible, for each man is to be guided by his own 'psychic aura.' His 'intuitive perceptions of truth' will be all that he needs in realizing himself. An or-

SIEGFRIED ARENS WEDS

Takes Miss Emma Meyer as His Bride Before a Fashionable Congregation.

AT A BROOKLYN CHURCH.

Mrs. Adolf G. Hagerdorn Matron-of-Honor—F. C. Kirchhoff Best Man—Couple to Live Here.

Siegfried Arens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Arens, of Rahway road, was married to Miss Emma Meyer, of Brooklyn, at the German Evangelical church, Brooklyn, Saturday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Jacob Loch, and was attended by a large number of Brooklyn and New York society people. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and cut flowers and the full Episcopal service was used.

The bride was magnificently gowned in a wedding dress of crepe meteor and duchess lace, and entered the church upon the arm of her brother, Julius Meyer, who gave her in marriage. Mrs. Adolf G. Hagedorn, sister of the groom, was the matron of honor, and was gowned in white chiffon cloth. She carried day-break carnations. F. C. Kirchhoff, of this city, a cousin of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Louise Ruth Coleman, Miss Tillie Rose, Miss Mary Davidson and Miss Gladys's Schrodder, the latter a niece of the bride. They wore pink satin Empire gowns and carried pink carnations. Adolf G. Hagerdon, Kenneth H. Lord, of this city, Harry Escher, Jr., and Frederick Gravenhorst, of Brooklyn, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 309 Cumberland street, Brooklyn. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried Arens will make their home in this city, where the groom is planning the erection of a house on Rahway road.

RED MEN PLANNING FOR A BIG POW-WOW

Pam Ra Paugh Tribe of Red Men of Bayonne is arranging for a big celebration to be known as "Farrarnite," and to be held in the opera house there on June 26. It is expected that over two thousand Red Men from all parts of the State and from New York and vicinity will be present, including many from Plainfield.

Among the guests will be Great Incohonee Joseph Farrar, of Pennsylvania; Judge Carl Foster, great junior sagamore of Connecticut; former Mayor Norsery, of Camden; great Tocaken; former Senator Green, of New York, past great Incohonee; Andrew H. Paton, of Massachusetts, P. G. L.; Thomas Donnalley, of Pennsylvania, P. G. I.; Dr. Farley, of Philadelphia, great junior sagamore; Harry Rathbone, of Trenton, great sachem, and the full board of great chiefs of New Jersey; Dr. Whitemore, of Oceanic, P. G. S.; Judge Newcorn, of Plainfield, P. G. S.; Judge Rees, of Trenton, P. G. S.; former Assemblyman Rogers, of New York; Great Chief of Records Boyd and Great Keeper of Wampum Gallagher, of New York, and Great Sachem Jacobs, of Connecticut.

Mayor Garven will welcome the visitors, and after the address the warriors' degree will be exemplified on the stage of the opera house. It is expected that over one hundred candidates will be initiated.

Common Council to Meet.

The regular May meeting of the Common Council will be held tonight when several matters of greater or less importance will be considered. There will be a public hearing on the proposed new dog ordinance and other ordinances and a number of matters will be reported by the various committees. It is said that at the hearing on the dog ordinance many persons who do not favor the proposed changes will have something to say.

Mrs. Zeller's Funeral.

Mrs. Mina Zeller, wife of Joseph Zeller, formerly a resident of this city, who died at her home in New York city last Friday, after a lingering illness, was buried in St. Mary's cemetery Saturday morning. Mrs. Zeller was well known in Plainfield, where she had a number of relatives and friends. Besides her husband, she left three children, Elsie, Arthur and Joseph.

MANSION FOR FRIENDLESS

Dr. Coles Gives Splendid Property at Mountainside for the Orphans.

DEED HAS BEEN DELIVERED.

Thirty Acres Donated by Scotch Plains Philanthropist As a Memorial to Sister.

Thirty acres of rich New Jersey farm land and a mansion to house its homeless tots have been given to the Home for the Friendless in Newark.

The donor is Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, by birth a Newarker, whose magnificent donation is given as a memorial to his sister, Miss Emma S. Coles. The deed to the property was delivered Saturday to the trustees of the Home.

Fifty-five little children, the inmates of the Home, will spend their summers on the farm among the daisies and the wild flowers there. The farm is located at Mountainside.

The institution celebrates today the thirty-seventh anniversary of its organization. The event will be a doubly happy one.

The farm is one of the most noted in New Jersey. Dr. Coles said last night that he had given it to the Home for the Friendless as a memorial to his sister, Miss Emma S. Coles, who lives with him at 17 West Thirty-ninth street, New York, and Abraham Coles, his father. The house is of the colonial type, three stories high and with rooms enough to care for all the children now at the Home. M. E. Blanchard, of 407 Prudential Building, acted for Dr. Coles in making the gift, the deed of transfer being executed Saturday.

Dr. Coles, as executor of his father's estate, gave the life-size bronze historic Indian group in Lincoln Park and a bronze bust of his father, mounted in Washington Park, the mounts being constructed of stones brought from the Mount of Olives, Jerusalem, Nazareth and Bethlehem. The base is a seven-ton boulder from the vicinity of Plymouth Rock.

He has also given to the State of New Jersey the painting hanging in the State House of "The Good Samaritan," by Daniel Huntington and Paul Delarche. For his victory at Manile Bay May 1, 1898, Dr. Coles presented to Admiral Dewey a Barye allegorical bronze of an agle and dead heron. To the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge he has given replica life-size bronze busts of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, modeled from life by Jean Antoine Houden. To the Metropolitan Museum, Columbia, Yale and Harvard colleges, as well as other institutions of learning throughout the United States, he has given many valuable works of art.

His collection of pictures includes an original portrait of Benjamin West, painted by himself, and also the famous Paris salon painting, 7 by 12, of "Pharaoh Pursping the Israelites Crossing the Red Sea," which is regarded as the masterpiece Frederic A. Bridgeman. He has also contributed and published articles on medicine and other scientific subjects.

Dr. Coles was born in Newark May 6, 1843, graduated from Columbia College in 1864, and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1868. He later studied in European universities and hospitals. He has been president of the Union County Medical Society, is a member of the American Medical Association, and a life member and trustee of the New Jersey Historical Society.

At the Home for the Friendless tonight the children will participate in a program of songs and recitations, the chief feature of which will be a flower dance. There are now fifty-five children at the Home.

The children of the Home will go to the mansion given them by Dr. Coles this summer. There many of them will have their first real glimpse of the country.

Dr. Bulkley to Speak Here.

Dr. Lucius Duncan Bulkley, of New York city, who has just returned from an extended trip to the far East, will address the Women's Foreign Missionary Society meeting of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Tuesday, May 11. He will speak especially of his visit to his son, who is one of the medical missionaries in Siam.

TRAIN STRIKES TRAMP; HIS ARM AMPUTATED

John Leary, a tramp, was struck by a west bound freight train near the South Plainfield station of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and received such injuries that when he was admitted to Muhlenberg Hospital it was found necessary to amputate his arm at the shoulder.

According to the story of those about the station at the time of the accident, Leary was tramping along the railroad and evidently did not see or hear the train until it was too late to escape being struck. The man is about sixty years of age. At the hospital it was said that he had a fair chance for recovery.

SANATARIUM INMATE TRAINS FOR MARATHON

Clad in a big white sweater and wearing spiked running shoes, Cornelius Sonneborn, a young New Yorker, who is taking treatment at Cooley's sanatarium, created considerable excitement this morning by racing through the city streets at top speed. He seemed particularly fond of the brick pavements for his running, and acted so strangely that Patrolman Daniel McDonald stopped him to find the reason for his violent exercise.

"Why, don't you know?" said the breathless Sonneborn, "I'm practising for that Marathon race, man. I've been matched to meet 'Johnny' Hayes for the championship of the United States.' I've got to practise pretty steadily, because the time is getting short."

After this explanation, the young man started to offer certain articles of his clothing to bystanders. The officer persuaded the man to go with him to police headquarters, where Dr. Cooley was notified. Two attendants were sent to take him back to the sanatarium.

Sonneborn, who has been a patient at the local retreat for the past six weeks, lives on West Seventieth street, New York city. He got up early this morning, and made his way out of the sanatarium unnoticed.

NEW VOICES HEARD IN LOCAL CHURCHES

R. A. Laslett Smith, the new organist, and three new members of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church quartet, took part in the services at the church yesterday for the first and made a good impression. The new members of the quartet are Miss Beulah I. Duncan, soprano; whose home is in Waco, Texas, where she was a student at Btaylor College; E. S. Pilcher, of New York, tenor, and Birnie Pettigrew, of New York, baritone. Miss Grace Carroll, contralto, continues. The selections at both the morning and evening services were well received.

S. Frederick Smith, the new organist at Grace church, took charge of the music yesterday for the first, when he introduced a boy choir, instead of the one of mixed voices. Mr. Smith showed considerable ability and the music by the choir was well received by the large congregations attending the various services.

Miss Jeanette Grant, of Roselle, the new soprano soloist, sang at the First Presbyterian church, yesterday, morning and evening. She was given no solo work, aside from incidental solos in the various anthems rendered by the choir. Miss Grant has a pleasing voice and her singing was much enjoyed by the large congregations. At present she is studying music in New York.

Miss Josie Bracker, the new contralto soloist, sang for the first yesterday morning and evening at the First Baptist church, and gave satisfaction. At the morning service she sang a beautiful solo from "The Messiah," and gave evidence of possessing a fine voice. She has been contralto soloist in a Presbyterian church in Newark for several years.

R. Burns Eglinton, who has been the temporary organist at Holy Cross church, has been succeeded at the church by Mr. Beach, of New York city, who was in charge at yesterday's services for the first. While Mr. Beach is only temporarily in charge of the church music, it is possible that he may become the regular organist and choirmaster.

Driving Association to Meet.

The Plainfield Driving Association will hold a meeting tomorrow night to further complete details of organization and discuss plans for the race-meet to be held at the driving park on the afternoon of July 5.

MAN SHOT IN A BRAWL

Clifford Brokaw Escapes After Seriously Wounding James Rafferty.

SEARCHING FOR ASSAILANT.

Victim in Hospital—Affray Follows a Drinking "Bout" at Lincoln On Sunday—May Amputate a Leg.

Shot by his neighbor, Clifford Brokaw, in a brawl at Lincoln Saturday night, James Rafferty, an employe at the Levering & Garrigues shop, lies in a serious condition at Muhlenberg Hospital today. His assailant, who is only about twenty years of age, has escaped. Rafferty, who is 45 years old, was wounded by receiving the full charge of Brokaw's shot-gun in his right thigh; hospital physicians say that the thigh bone is badly splintered, and it is believed that amputation will be necessary.

The shooting took place in front of the house where Brokaw lives with his mother. Immediately after wounding Rafferty, the young man fled toward the railroad. Chief Kiely was quickly notified of the shooting, and east-bound trains were watched by a squad of the local police, but no trace of the assailant could be found.

Lincolnites say that the two men had been drinking together during the afternoon and started quarreling about suppertime. Rafferty became enraged at Brokaw, and is said to have knocked him down and struck him repeatedly. Brokaw made his escape, and ran toward his home, followed by the older man. Reaching his house, Brokaw secured his shot-gun, which was loaded with a heavy charge of bird-shot, and as Rafferty rushed for him, shot from the piazza.

Rafferty received the full charge of shot in his thigh, and fell helpless. He was discovered by his wife, and carried to his home, which is but a few hundred feet from Brokaw's house. Dr. D. C. Main, of Dunellen, was summoned and ordered that the injured man be immediately removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. Examination there showed that the thigh bone had been splintered into seven or eight pieces, but Rafferty refused to allow amputation. He is resting more easily today, but his condition is considered serious.

Brokaw has been employed by Mobus Brothers, of North Plainfield. He has relatives in this city. Rafferty has been employed for some time at Levering & Garrigues, where he is a "layer-out" of castings. He has a wife and five children.

MUSIC LOVERS AWAIT MR. CARLETON'S RECITAL.

The music lovers of Plainfield will recall with pleasant memory the song recital given by W. T. Carleton last season in aid of the King's Daughters Day Nursery, and the announcement that the favorite baritone will give another recital for the benefit of the King's Daughters' baby camp at the Hartridge auditorium on Tuesday evening, May 11, will be welcome news. Mr. Carleton's long career in both opera and concert is well known and in the program he has selected for the present occasion, will be found selections from the favorite operas with folk songs and ballads of many countries. The list of patronesses embraces some of the most prominent names here, and such is the general interest in the entertainment that it may be regarded as one of the most interesting events of the season. Mrs. W. L. C Glenny, 520 Stelle avenue, has consented to act as treasurer, from whom tickets may be procured.

Changes at Trinity Sunday-school.

At a meeting of the officers and teachers of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school yesterday afternoon after the session, two librarians were elected to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of Clarence Rittenhouse, who has been made assitant secretary, and Bertram Leggett, who retires. William Wyman was chosen in place of Mr. Rittenhouse and Sidney Frazee in place of Mr. Leggett. There was also a brief discussion regarding the athletic association of the school. The school team will play Warren Chapel Saturday afternoon.

Bound Brook has a baseball team this season made of the "real stuff" and the management proposes to go after the scalps of all clubs within a radius of twenty-five miles of that town. The aggregation is made up of experienced players and it is proposed to "get even" with clubs that administered defeat last season.

The Clinton Avenues were unable to play Bloomfield on Saturday, owing to the weather. The game will be played later in the season.

The rain was also responsible for the postponement of the game here between the Y. M. C. A. team and the Bedford, N. Y., branch.

Manager Listman has certainly got a collection of ball players this season and they will be heard from later on. All departments are filled by able players, who are sure to give a good account of themselves.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The opening tournament of the season for the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association will be played Wednesday at the Morris County Golf Club, Morristown. It will be an eighteen-hole handicap, and will be followed by a similar event on May 18 at the Salisbury links, Garden City. Following this will come the local championship from May 25 to 28, at Nassau.

Alex. Smith, who left Nassau Club last fall to take charge of the Wykakyl golf links at New Rochelle, has made several improvements to the course, and the links have never been in better condition than this spring. A big entry of local players is assured for the three-day tournament on June 10, 11 and 12. The first women's tournament at Wykagyl will be played May 13.

The first big tournament in the immediate vicinity of New York will be held this week, beginning Thursday, at Garden City. Walter J. Travis will be among the players.

In preparation for the three-day event at Fox Hills, beginning May 13, the State Island course has been thronged with players during the last two weeks. The club has been generous in its prize awards, cups being offered for four sets of sixteen, with additional prizes for the runner-up in each set.

The Upper Montclair Golf Club, with its enlarged course, this year offers an attractive series of events, including a larger number of women's competitions for the Ridgeway Trophy will begin May 22, ending on Decoration Day. H. J. G. Mackie is chairman of the Golf Committee.

Willie Collins has been re-engaged as the Oakland Club's professional, and the competitive season opened last week. The annual event for the Governors' Cup will start next Saturday. The series consists of six monthly matches, the winners to play off at the close of the season at match play.

A cup that is sure to arouse interest among the golfers of the Englewood Club has been offered by E. Mortimer Barnes. It will be given to the player who at the end of the season, Nov. 2, shows the best selected score for the eighteen holes. Every card turned in must be carefully attested. H. V. Keep remains as chairman of the Tournament Committee.

Those received on confession were Godwin Beard, E. Elston Hoagland, James A. Perry, Miss Mildred Brown, Miss Araminta E. Ayres, Miss Sarah M. Wean, James E. Hermann and James Peacock. Those by letter were Mrs. Charles E. Herring, from the Evangelical Congregational church, Indian Orchard, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. James Bradley, from Trinity Reformed church; Miss Lucie A. Tallatschek, from the Hillside Presbyterian church, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford A. Braider, from the First Baptist church.

At the Congregational church, yesterday morning, Miss Lillian D. Whitall and George Lund were received into membership on confession of faith.

These persons were received into membership at the Park Avenue Baptist church: Miss Edith Lowry, Miss Madelyn Moy, William Watts, Philip Schuyler and Frederick Smith.

thodox Christian believes that a rational prayerful study of the Bible will develop full manhood as nothing else will.

"Seventhly. New Thought cuts the nerve of missions. 'Mahomet and Confucius are in their sphere as good as Christ is in His. A man has light within. What he needs is not a message from other lands, but to develop himself from within. Even the worst man has God within him. Think, then, of the divinity in Nero or Heliogabalus. Scripture speaks of the possibility for any man to have God within him, but he never possesses God when sin dominates him.

"Eighthly. New Thought declares that it has no use for dogmatic theology, for that has had its day. But what is dogmatic theology? A dogma is a doctrine, and a doctrine is a teaching. We need not be frightened by the phrase 'dogmatic theology.' It is simply the systematized teaching of God's word, so that we can see all of God's truth. But that is just what a New Thoughtist does not want, for he prefers to wander at his own sweet will through the beautiful sayings of the ages to find that which supports his theory.

"Ninthly. New Thought denies that the grace of God helps men. "Instead of God's power helping a man, man is to realize the deity that is within himself. In realizing himself, he realizes his divinity.' Yet Paul says, "It is by His grace that I am what I am.'

If New Thought books were only under the Pure Food act, we might read on the labels just how much is genuine Christianity and how much is adulteration, for to the ordinary Christian these books are very subtle.

"This is the message of God to men as He has revealed that message in the book which contains all the wisdom of the world—the message on the lips of His son, 'I am the truth.'

"New Thought, however, does not stand for that."

MISS ALICE BERTHA OVERLACK WIFE OF P. FRANK HOFFMAN.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Overlack, of Duer street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice Bertha Overlack, and P. Frank Hoffman, of Verdon street, the borough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, at the parsonage on Park place. Only the members of the two families were present.

The couple is well-known in the borough and city and have a host of friends and acquaintances. The groom holds a responsible position with the C. & C. Electric Company, of Garwood.

Mass at Linden.

For the first time in several years mass was celebrated in Linden yesterday morning. The Catholics of the township got together and rented the office of the Linden Building and Contract Company, on Blancke street, which will be used temporarily as a chapel.

THE FORUM.

Not Rev. T. Moore-Smith.

Editor, The Plainfield Press:

I observe a paragraph in your issue of today taken from "blotter" in police headquarters, Elizabeth, stating that some one giving the name "T. Mower Smith" and address "Terrill road, Plainfield, N. J.," was robbed. I beg to say that I am not the party referred to. I was not there, do not even know the place where the supposed robbery took place and was never in it in my life. I feel I ought to make this statement as the name given by the party is so much like mine and some might conclude that I was that party.

Yours, etc.,
T. MOORE-SMITH.

BUSINESS STANDARDS AS SEEN BY A PASTOR

"The man who lets his property for use as a saloon cannot be said to be conducting business measured by Biblical standards," said Rev. A. E. Finn in discussing the choice of a business in the course of a sermon on "Biblical Standards in Modern Business," preached at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night. He characterized "any business that does possible harm to mankind" as the wrong business for a Christian man to take part in. Mr. Finn further stated in this connection that any business depending for its success on risk and chance cannot be said to be a business measured by Biblical standards.

The pastor's sermon was a practical discourse on present-day business and business methods, and his text was taken from Romans XII: 11. The discourse was treated under three main topical subdivisions—the choice of a business, business methods, and business motives—and the speaker outlined the conducting of business by Biblical standards. Declaring that every man should be engaged in a business that will measure up to the standard set by the ten commandments, Mr. Finn said that honesty, truth in word and in act, was the first requisite in business methods. "The wages of sin is death," he said, "and this applies in business as well as in social, domestic or religious life." Industry should mark business methods, and also altruism, the continual putting into practise of The Golden Rule.

In referring to motives of business, the speaker said that the aim of every business man should be primarily the glory of God. Each should recognize God as the Proprietor of his business, and should carry it on as a steward, to gain money that he might glorify God. "The Utopia," concluded Mr. Finn, "will come when we all conduct business according to the Biblical standard."

LOCAL M'ALL BRANCH CONVENTION COMMITTEES

The Plainfield Branch of the McAll Association has completed its list of committees to serve during the annual convention of the National Association in this city, on Wednesday and Thursday. EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION HOLDS A CELEBRATION

About one hundred members of the New Jersey Editorial Association enjoyed a dinner at the Hotel Astor, Saturday night, in celebration of the passage of the bill in the Legislature fixing a uniform and higher rate for all kinds of legal advertising. Among the guests of the association were State Senators Fiedler, Wakelee, Brown; Assemblyman Olwell and Judge Robert Carey, all of whom spoke. Matthew Ely, of the Hoboken Observer, was the toastmaster.

The speeches were all of a congratulatory nature, the senators and assemblyman present assisting in the passage of the bill, while Senator Hillery was also praised for the part he took in behalf of the measure. At the close of the affair it was suggested that the executive committee be instructed to prepare an explanatory note to be published setting forth the chief points in the change of advertising rates. This suggestion was adopted.

Interspersing the speeches Bowers, the cartoonist, entertained the newspapermen by drawing a number of clever pictures and telling some good stories.

Special Musical Service.

The vested choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist, gave an enjoyable musicale service, last night, comprising selections from the works of Gounod. There was a duet, "O Divine Redeemer," by Miss Bertha vanNuis Willis and Miss Jessie Haynes; offertory solo, "Glory to Thee, My God," by Miss Jessie Haynes, contralto. There was also a baritone solo, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," by Bertram Tallamy. The rest of the program comprised anthems.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

George Manlove, of Paulsboro, is picking strawberries at the rate of about four boxes a day.

Virgil Williams, one of Ewan's old residents, has just begun the study of arithmetic and grammar.

Material is being hauled to the site of the new Catholic church on Cooper street, Woodbury and work on the handsome structure will soon be commenced.

Stricken with uremia on the street, several days ago, Daniel Henry, a canvasser, of 238 North Eighth street, Philadelphia, died in the Cooper Hospital, Camden, yesterday.

The Co-operative Cranberry Company of Philadelphia has purchased 3,000 acres of land at South Park, in the pine belt of Burlington county, and will there establish an Italian colony and start cranberry bogs.

George Gee, employed as a machinist in Rogers' Locomotive Works plant, Paterson, fell on an iron frame and sustained a broken rib. He was attended at the General Hospital. Gee lives at 123 Twentieth avenue.

Joseph Rachor, of Ewan, and John Reed, of Mantua, were schoolboys together forty years ago. Thursday they met for the first time since they separated, although living all this time within a few miles of each other.

The corner-stone of the new county buildings at Bridgeton will be laid with imposing ceremonies Saturday afternoon, May 22. The Grand Lodge of Masons will have charge, the grand master of the State performing the act.

In the Cumberland County Court Saturday, Alfred Demby, of Bridgeton, pleaded guilty to stealing a five-gallon keg of whisky, and was sentenced by Judge Tuller to one year in State prison. James Barber, for the illegal sale of liquor in Millville, was fined $50.

Architect William Fanning had the revised plans for the proposed new High School in Paterson ready for inspection Saturday night and presented them to the members of the Board of Education. It was decided to meet next Friday afternoon for the purpose of taking them up and approving them.

Charles Brindley, of 103 Redwood avenue, Paterson, was thrown heavily to the floor in the Spiers Silk Company plant, Saturday, when a ladder on which he was standing, slipped on the floor and fell. The victim was taken to the General Hospital. Mr. Brindley is suffering from a scalp wound and a broken wrist.

Arraigned in the Camden Police Court Saturday on suspicion of being slot meter thieves, Charles Arduski, twelve years old, of 325 Sycamore street, and Stanley Steve, nine years old, of Ninth and Chestnue streets, told the recorder that another boy was teaching them how to rob machines. They were sent to jail pending investigation.

Handwriting experts are said to have been called in the case in which Roland Perkins, a farmer, between Rancocas and Beverly, was held on the charge of forging the signature of his father, S. Budd Perkins, to certain promissory notes, and they have declared that the signatures are those of the father, who made the complaint. At any rate, no matter what the experts might have said, no indictment has been found against young Perkins.

The case of Morris L. Johnson, of Atlantic City, who owns considerable property in Ocean City, and who recently was fined $59.15 for maintaining an alleged nuisance on the beach, was retired by Judge Hildreth on Johnson's appeal to the Cape May County Court of Common Pleas, and he lost. The court held that Johnson was guilty of violating the city's sanitary code; ordered the fine to stand and the appellee to pay the additional court cost.

Mrs. Emma Elmer, widow of Dr. William Elmer, of Trenton, through her counsel, Thompson & Cole, of Atlantic City, has taken an appeal from the ruling of the Mercer County Orphans' Court by which she is to receive only her dower in the estate of her late husband under a will made prior to her marriage to him, she being his second wife. The estate is inventoried at about $55,000, and all the property was left to the four children.

Two Camden men were injured Saturday by being caught in machinery at their places of employment. George Harris, aged forty-five years, of 573 Carman street, was hurt about the arms and legs when he got tangled up in a machine at the New York Shipbuilding plant, and Victor Rogensky, aged nineteen years, was injured internally by being caught in a belt at the plant of the Rudolph Kid Company. Both were taken to Cooper Hospital.

Row over the plans to be adopted for the new Ohio Avenue School, Atlantic City, between Architect Ogden, of that city, members of the Board of Education and City Council has already cost the city something over $10,000 for plans secured and something like $5,000 is to be added to this sum for consultation fees with Chief Clark, of the Philadelphia Building Bureau. At the end of the controversy the city at last has plans for the building made by Davis & Davis, Philadelphia architects, which Ogden claims are no better than his and the row may develop some lively controversy at the next meeting of Council.

Union County Court of Common Pleas.

Notice of Hearing Objections to Assessments For Street Improvements in the City of Plainfield.

Thomas J. Hughes, Harry B. MacDonald and Andrew J. Gavett, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas, by order entered on the ninth day of December, 1908, to estimate and assess benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinances of said city specified in said order, (said ordinances being also hereinafter specified) and the character of the work and improvements for which said assessments have been made and a description of the sections of the particular streets and avenues thereof which are included in said assessment, being as follows: viz.: (1) The paving with permanent and durable vitrified brick pavement of:

East and West Front Streets, respectively, from the westerly side line of Madison Avenue to the easterly side line of Watchung Avenue;

under the ordinances of said City entitled: "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," approved July 1, 1907, "An Ordinance to amend an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits,' adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907 and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907," approved July 13, 1908, and "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable Macadam Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council May 4, 1908; re-adopted by the Common Council June 8, 1908, notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor, which ordinances were adopted under and by virtue of the act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to authorize the improvements of streets and highways in cities of this State and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same," approved June 13, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the clerk of said court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by surveys and maps prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, respectively, the total cost of the whole work upon each of the sections of said streets or avenues improved as aforesaid, under the aforesaid ordinances; the portions assessed upon the City at large, and the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate for the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax, and the other matters required by said acts of the Legislature, as by reference to said report and maps will more fully and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given, that the said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the twelfth day of May, 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the Court can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

JAMES C. CALVERT,
Clerk of the Union County Court of Common Pleas.

Don't Wrestle With Furnace Clinkers
Clinkers just naturally pass right through the grate of the Boynton.
If they hesitate, the cutting bar smashes them. There is no chance of clogging. The intense and uniform heat of the reduces nearly everything to the finest ash. That's because a square pot develops more heat per unit of fuel than any other kind. That's economy.
BOYNTON
Square Fire-Pot FURNACE

The Boynton has some other exceptional features too—the fresh air supply—the dust flue—the square ash pit. Any BOYNTON dealer will be glad to explain how these points reduce the care and cost of up-keep.
There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

THE SOFT PETTICOAT.

When the warm weather arrives petticoats will come back into favor. Not because women are going to look more voluminous in their clothes than they have done, but thin, unlined skirts require something more than tights beneath.

The new petticoats are quite interesting. They are of soft muslin, when muslin must be used, and are done up without starch.

They are trimmed with scanty ruffles of lace and are gored at the top and fastened low on the corset with a hook and eye or button. Barbarisms, like drawing strings, are not to be considered.

For wear under all skirts that are not transparent there is a popular petticoat made of a soft fabric that in color and quality looks more like a toy balloon than anything else. It has elastic qualities and is as light in weight as a pocket handkerchief. The preferred colors are dark blue and red.

China silk is also used widely for skirts. It shakes dust and has neither bulk nor weight. Stiff taffeta has no place in the wardrobe, not even on slim women. Pongee is used by some, as it also has the right qualities. The white skirt is only used under transparent muslin frocks and white linen skirts.

VOILE COAT SUITS.

While voile is not first fashion this year, it is such an admirable fabric that some of the best designers are showing coat suits of it in a coarse mesh that is quite attractive.

The woman who wants comfort in her suits during hot weather will surely get it in this fabric. By all rights of service and durability it should never go out of fashion. It is made up with an unlined coat over a one-piece frock or a frankly short separate skirt.

The models show it in dregs of wine, which is still popular, and that faded blue which is rarely becoming, but has been brought back in favor by the milliners. It is called Nattier by the designers and Alice blue by the shops.

A girl who can wear this blue will find a suit of it in voile a useful adjunct to her summer wardrobe, but she shouldn't make it her best suit. It could be simply trimmed with binding of cloth to match, fastened with buttons in the same color and worn with a soft white blouse, a blue and white jabot and a white hat trimmed in the same color of satin ribbon.

Fish Carry Disease Ferms.

That fishes may carry the germs of typhoid fever and cholera in their internal organs—particularly the alimentary tract—has been proven by Remlinger and Norris in the investigation reported to the French Biological Society. This causes no risk in food, for in cooking a fish, even without opening it, the temperature of every part is high enough to kill all microbes. A real danger appears however, in the possibility that fishes may spread disease by carrying germs from a contaminated stream into unpolluted tributaries, and known cases of epidemics that have followed streams upward may be explained in this way.

Prairie Chicken Roasted.

After preparing the bird for cooking, truss it and bind it with thin slices of fat salt pork. Roast in a quick oven, basting it often. The flesh will be dry if it is not well basted. The basting liquid should be of water in the bottom of the pan, a lump of butter, pepper and salt and the juice of half a lemon. When serving remove the slices of pork, tie paper frills on the leg bones, lay the chicken in a bed of parsley and let it be well wet with the liquid in which it is cooked.

Keep Two Calendars.

It is a handy plan for the business woman or the housewife who has much domestic accounting to do to keep two calendars, one to tear off day by day, the other to refer back to past dates when necessary. The reference calendar, which can be very small and inconspicuous, should have its special hook on the desk or writing tables.

DECEIVERS EVER

By R. E. VERNEDE.

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

Judith lay in a hammock that swung between two acacias, and the white blossoms fell at intervals into her brown garden hat and into her brown hair tresses, which had not yet been put up, I was glad to see. There was a far-away look in her eyes and trouble under them, though I flattered myself the latter disappeared somewhat when she caught sight of me.

"I am so glad to see you again, Mr. Derrick," she said. "It was nice of you to come. You got my letter? (I had got a letter beginning "Dear Uncle Derrick" to announce that Judith would be back from Germany in a few days.) It was Fraulein's fault that it was like that. She was very particular about whom we wrote to."

"She doesn't know I'm an old fogy?"

"You're not," said Judith, indignantly. "You're nothing of the kind. And it was nice of you to come so soon."

"You don't consider me a boy, I hope," I said.

"Why?" demanded Judith.

"Because I hear you hate boys."

"Oh!"

Judith sank back in the hammock, and the far-away look came back to her eyes again. I began to perceive that there was something in what Mrs. Doyrington had said when she dispatched me into the garden to try and find out what was the matter with Judith.

"I don't know what's wrong with the child," she had said. "She's come back from the school in Germany quite changed."

"Measles?" I suggested.

"It's not physical," said Mrs. Doyrington. "Its mind. She mopes—dismal as a wet cat and won't utter a word."

"Perhaps she's forgotten how to speak English," I said, encouragingly. "After a long absence from one's native land, one sometimes forgets the use of it."

But I was on the wrong tack.

"I don't believe she's learned a word of German," said Mrs. Doyrington, with indignation. "I wish to goodness I'd never sent her. I always thought there was a je ne sais quoi about those German finishing schools that you can't get even in Paris; but you never can trust these Frauleins and people. Would you believe it, I invited young Keppel Hathaway here yesterday afternoon on purpose to play badminton with Judith—such a nice boy, and he'll have twenty thousand a year on his majority—and what does Judith do but go out for a walk five minutes before he arrives and stay away till he's gone!

"But you go out and see if you can rouse her, Mr. Derrick. She used to tell you everything."

But everything, as I reminded Mrs. Doyrington, concerned dolls in those days. And looking at Judith as she swung in the hammock, bringing down the acacia blossoms, with the new trouble under her eyes, I wondered how much I was going to learn.

"You are rather like an uncle, Mr. Derrick," she said, suddenly.

"Thanky," I said, meekly. The position of uncle has its advantages, no doubt. But in any case I have not and am never likely to have twenty thousand a year.

"You see," Judith went on, "you understand things without fussing, and you don't have to consult somebody else about me if I don't happen to want to play croquet or something."

"Badminton, for example," I said.

"Why should one play badminton?" Judith asked with vehemence.

"Or billiards," I said. "One shouldn't, unless one feels inclined. What used you to play with him?"

"With whom?"

"That boy in Germany?"

"Lawn tennis," said Judith. "It's a horrid game, and badminton reminds me of it."

"And Mr. Keppel Hathaway reminds you of— What was his name?"

Judith looked away into the acacia trees.

"John Teddington Birt," she murmured.

"Johnnie?" I queried.

"Jack," said Judith, instantly. And there was a little pause.

"We all love Jack."

I suppose I must have repeated the refrain aloud, for Judith's eyes came to earth.

"I don't. I hate him. I don't believe I ever did love him, either. He was boarding with a tutor there."

"To learn the language—Ich liebe—liebst du—"

"That was all the German he knew," said Judith, with scorn. "And he was very conceited about that, as well as about his tennis, though I beat him several times. Fraulein used to take us to the English courts."

"I remember them," I said.

"We used to go there twice a week," remarked Judith, "with the French governess.

"And she used to knit, didn't she?"

"I wonder how you know that," said Judith.

"The French governess always does," I explained. "It's a kind of instinctive tact—she doesn't have to see all that's going on—and mittens are so useful in the winter. I suppose she didn't see Mr. Birt much."

"I suppose not," said Judith. "There were a lot of trees round the courts—linden-trees—and we used to stroll there when we got hot playing to cool—all of us."

"Mixed pairs?"

"Generally," Judith admitted.

"And one fine day—" I prompted.

"It was dreadfully hot," said Judith with a gasp, as if the heat were still obvious, "even under the trees. I don't know how it happened. But he said he'd been thinking over it for a long time. I don't believe he had, because he had been awfully keen on getting up a cricket match against the Germans the week before, and the week before that he was making flies to catch trout in the mountain near Rudesheim, so that he didn't even come down to the courts for days."

"But he had come to a conclusion, anyhow."

"Yes," said Judith gravely, and a very faint pink grew in her cheeks, so that if John Teddington Birt had been present, I should certainly have choked him for a blundering, thick-headed boy. "He said that he loved me. He wanted me to leave Fraulein's and run away with him."

"Yes?" I said.

"I didn't know—I wasn't sure what it was like—to love somebody, I mean. It was so—you understand, don't you? And I said I didn't think it would be quite fair to Fraulein to run away like that."

"It wouldn't have been," I said. "Not in the least."

"I'm glad you think so too," said Judith. "Jack—I mean Mr. Birt—didn't. He was rather annoyed, and he said I wasn't game."

The corners of her mouth drooped and shook a little as she repeated this dire verdict.

"I—I wanted to be game," she went on wistfully. "But I suppose girls can't be—very."

"That is the error of the young and very stupid boy," I said, and was glad to see Judith smile, however wanly.

"He didn't seem to think it made all the difference at first," she said. "He told me that, of course, he should always love me, however long I kept him waiting, because men were like that—and he gave me a brooch."

"Coral and gilt, from a German jeweler? I hope you didn't wear it."

"It was a little large," Judith nodded. "I didn't wear it—not outside—because it didn't seem properly to belong to me—until—I thought that later, perhaps. Only, you see, the American girl came later, in the middle of the term. Her name was Damozel P. Giggs—rather a pretty name, wasn't it?" asked Judith.

"P. Giggs?"

"Damozel," Judith said she meant. "Ja—Mr. Birt said he thought it was the prettiest name he'd ever heard, and (Judith pronounced this steadily with a deep breath), that she was the right sort. He didn't play tennis much after that. You see, she said she guessed she didn't hanker on to tennis. And they used to stroll among the trees most of the time we were playing."

Evidently we were approaching a climax. Judith had straightened her slender shoulders.

"I didn't know quite what to do. I had wrapped up the brooch in tissue and brown paper, and I meant to ask him, only I didn't see him alone at all—until one afternoon, when he asked me to go for a stroll. Damozel had been kept in for having her room untidy. So I went, meaning to give him back the brooch, only there wasn't time."

"How was that?" I asked.

"Because," said Judith, "he began talking about it at once. He said it was all very well to pretend to love a man and ruin his whole career by keeping him hanging on."

"The career being?"

"I think he was going into an office," said Judith doubtfully, "if he managed to learn German."

I nodded. Judith was looking away from me.

"It was all very well to ruin that," I reminded her.

"But it wasn't fair to keep a man's presents when I wouldn't do anything for him. He—he wanted to give it to Damozel."

Judith stopped with what was almost a sob, which I respectfully did not observe, and then the sob stopped.

"I threw it down on the ground, and it fell out of the paper, and he said I'd broken it, so I gave him five shillings to have it mended. And, oh, Mr. Derrick"—Judith sprang out of the hammock like a young queen of tigers—"oh, I hate boys!"

I suppose the greatest knowledge an uncle can possess is the knowledge of when and how to change a subject of conversation. I changed it then, and we talked of many things gayly, such as the color of hollyhocks. I do not fancy Judith would have been grateful for sympathy, and she was too magnanimous to welcome an opinion as to the merits of John Teddington Birt. Afterward, when we had forgotten our troubles and it was time for me to be going, Judith accompanied me as far as the house.

"It was so nice of you to come," she repeated. "No, I won't go in. I expect mother'll want to consult you about me. I am rather a trial, you know. But you won't tell?"

"About the hollyhocks?" I asked.

And Judith smiled trustfully. Mrs. Doyrington is not so sure of my discretion.

"Has the child confessed to you?" she asked.

"Judith is the gamest person I know," I answered.

"I dare say," said Mrs. Doyrington, shrugging her shoulders. "But why is she so absurd about boys?"

"She'll get over it," I said. "Perhaps the next one will be nicer."

"The next one? What do you mean, Mr. Derrick?"

I saw that I had nearly betrayed my trust.

"It's a figure of speech," I said vaguely. "I don't think she cares for badminton much. Good-by."

WARREN'S SEWING SCHOOL GRADUATING EXERCISES.

The sewing school of Warren chapel held its closing exercises on Saturday afternoon. In spite of a stormy day seventy children, thirteen teachers and twenty-three visitors were present. First on the program came a short story from William D. Murray, and then the ribbon badges were given out. The twelve children receiving red, white and blue bows, as a sign of graduating from the sewing department, were Marion Wooley, Edna Mundy, Vera McCready, Selina Cornell, Stella MacDonald, Marjorie Chandler, Grace Wakefield, Ethel Hall, Mildred Smith, Beatrice Ackerman, Katherine Weber and Sadie Banker.

The seven children who received badges from the cooking class were Mary Voehl, Laura Dawe, Bertha Martin, Mary Morgan, Marion Lyons, Marion Renwautz and Edith Higgins. The five children who received badges for making dresses for themselves were Nelly Burke, Helen McCready, Annie Retzer, Mamie Corrigan and Lilian MacDonald. Eight children received badges for being present every Saturday through the year. These were Dorothy Seader, Mamie Corrigan, Bertha Martin, Katherine Weber, Sadie Banker, Alice Buhren, Grace Wakefield and Edna Mundy.

After another story from Mr. Murray, Mr. Banken entertained the school by showing them a few tricks. The last thing on the program was refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Ranks Sixth in Newspaper Contest.

Julien Linke, of West Front street, now ranks sixth in the voting contest for a trip around the world, being conducted by a New York newspaper. In the periodic awards for gains today, he received a five-dollar goldpiece, and his photograph is printed in the newspaper today as ranking among the leaders in the contest. The contest closes June 15, and the local contestant's is now 113,978 votes. The boy, who is but fifteen years of age, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linke.

CAMPBELL'S CHAMPS DEFEAT RARITAN FIVE

By splendid bowling before one of the largest and most enthusiastic audiences that ever attended a match game in this city, Johnny Campbell's champions on Saturday evening proved a hot proposition for the crack Raritan team, composed of the pick of Somerset county. Winning every series rolled they retained the honors of being the Somerset county champions for another season.

Premier individual honors were taken by Captain Campbell, who showed himself to be as much a bowler against Matthews, as he was against Asa Harris, the boy wonder of Newark, two weeks ago.

All alley records were broken in the first game when Plainfield registered 989.

In a Bike Race.

The Plainfield Bicycle Club yesterday made a run to Valley Spring, Long Island, yesterday, where two of its members, Raymond Mantz and George Adams entered the ten mile road handicap event. Out of a field of over fifty riders Mantz won second prize. Adams rode in hard luck getting a bad fall in making a turn on the slippers roads, but finished eighteenth.

RAIN SPOILS OPENING AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The heavy storm on Saturday necessitated the postponement of all regular competitions at the Plainfield Country Club, but as there were fifteen or twenty players on hand ready to brave the elements, President Leighton Calkins offered the pick of any club in "Marty" O'Loughlin's shop as a special prize for the best net score in an eighteen hole handicap. The prize was won by E. T. Wilson with a 68 net, three strokes under par. Mr. Calkins himself had a fine 79, the best gross score of the day. These cards were turned in during the afternoon:

E. T. Willson, 83, 15—68; J. E. Erickson, 88, 19—69; Leighton Calkins, 79, 8—71; J. A. Lane, 90, 17—71; S. H. Patterson, 95, 16—79; Howard Huntington, 102, 21—81, J. P. Murray, 105, 21—84.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD 6; IOLA BASEBALL NINE 4

The South Plainfield A. C. easily defeated the Iolas Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 4. Up until the seventh inning the game was well played, then both teams began to make errors (many of which were inexcusable) and before the inning closed South Plainfield scored 4 runs and the Iolas 2. Soffield of the winners pitched a fine game, giving but few bases on balls. The grounds were wet and soggy causing slow fielding on the part of both teams. The line-up:

S. P. A. C.—F. Terry, rf; Soper, 1b; J. Terry, 3b; Moran, 2b; M. Terry, c; E. Terry, cf; Soffield, p; Corelle, ss; A. McDonough, lf.

Iolas—Trotter, 3b; Dodge, ss; Thompson, 2b; Hallard, 1b; Connors, c; Lyness, cf; Lanton, rf; Harquess, cf; Winderlich, p.

MUCH REPAIR WORK TO BE DONE ON STREETS.

The Councilmanic street committee is planning this year to repair a number of thoroughfares throughout the city, using a sufficient quantity of stone to put them in first-class condition. On all new streets, the committee favors the use of an oil preparation, something that is recognized and endorsed as being satisfactory.

The committee on account of other work has not been able to do much repair work in several years. There are a number of streets which need heavy repairs. A statement made that automobiles are a detriment to highways should be qualified, according to the committee. Experience has proved that where machines are run up to a speed of fifteen miles an hour, they prove a benefit, but a speed beyond that tears up the macadam making it difficult to keep the thoroughfares in condition. As to the use of oil preparations experience shows that the best results are obtained where it is put on two or three times a year.

MRS. A. CLINTON WILMERDING PATRONESS FOR BIG DANCE.

Mrs. A. Clinton Wilmerding, of Belvidere avenue, is among a number of patronesses, some of whom will receive, for a big dance to be given tomorrow night in the ballroom at Delmonico's, New York. Her sister-in-law, Miss Henrietta M. Wilmerding is chairman of the committee and the floor committee comprises the Misses Natalie Morrison, Janet de Kay, Abby Morrison, Helen Lucas, Sadie Hidden, Anna Livingston short and the Messrs. E. Coster Wilmerding, John M. Barrett, M. Gregg Latimer, Oliver B. Capen, William DeWitt Tyndall, Donald Lee, Hampton Lee, E. O'Neal Shotwell and J. Gough Jamison. Among other patronesses are Mrs. John C. Wilmerding and Mrs. Thomas A. Wilmerding, of New York, relatives of Mrs. A. Clinton Wilmerding.

Y. W. C. A.'s Sunday Meeting.

Mrs. Lucy Bainbridge, who has charge of city mission work in New York, was the speaker before a large audience of women at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Bainbridge spoke on the subject of "Influence of Thought Upon the Physical Life." Mrs. George Ring sang several soprano solos.

STEEPLECHASE PROGRAM

Watchung Hunt Club's Fifth Annual Meet to Be Held on Its Grounds.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 29.

Six Events In All—Many Cups Offered—Farmers' Race Included.

The fifth annual race meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club will be held on Saturday afternoon, May 29, beginning at 2 o'clock, on the club's handsome new grounds on Plainfield avenue. This will be the first time that the meet has been held on the club's own grounds and considerable interest is shown in consequence. The meet will be held under the supervision of the Hunts Committee of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, as in the past.

Assurance has been received of a large number of fine entries and the meet promises to be the best in the history of the organization. All races run at this meeting will be confined to horses the bona-fide property of members of a recognized hunt or polo club, or of persons invited by the race committee. Of course, the farmers' race will be one of the big features, as usual and a large entry list is promised. The club will tender the annual courtesy to the farmers over whose grounds the members hunt.

The program for the day will be as follows:

First race—Netherwood cup, for galloways, fifteen hands or under. Second race—Middlesex cup, steeplechase for bona-fide hunters. Third race—Farmers race, for work horses, the property of farmers in the neighborhood of Plainfield. Fourth race—Union cup, for hacks or hunters. Fifth race—Watchung cup, (must be won twice before becoming winners property), Steeplechase for horses that have been regularly hunted with the Watchung Hunt Club, of Plainfield, to be ridden by members of that club. The winner in 1907 was Charles D. Freeman's "Strongheart," and last year, Charles W. Fisk's "Apple Jack," won the trophy.

Sixth race—Somerset cup, steeplechase for thoroughbred hunters, qualified under the rules of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association. Seventh race—Westfield cup, hurdle race.

The race committee from the club having charge of the meet comprises C. E. S. Bellows, chairman; Charles J. Wildey, Jr., Charles W. Fisk, Lewis E. Waring and Rufus C. Finch.

CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church was held yesterday afternoon in the church parlors, with a large attendance of members. The yearly reports were presented by the secretary, trasurer and chairman of all committees. It was announced that the literary and musical entertainment arranged for April 29 will be held on Thursday night, May 20. The twenty-eighth anniversary of the society will be held Sunday night and the members and their friends will be addressed by the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek.

As the recently adopted by-laws of the organization prevent the holding of office longer than two years, an entire change of officers was the result as follows: President, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse; first vice-president, Mrs. A. L. Force; second vice-president, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck; secretary, Mrs. B. D. Newell; treasurer, Mrs. Virginia Chickering.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers for their faithful efforts during the past year.

McCauley Sent to Jail Again.

James McCauley, who spends much of his time as an inmate of the county jail at Elizabeth, was arrested for drunkenness on Second street Sunday afternoon by Patrolman Charles Flynn, but on account of City Judge Runyon's illness did not comeup for a hearing at police court until today. "Jim" was sentenced to sixty days at the county seat. A remarkable feature of the case is that McCauley was released from jail about April 1, and has been around town for the entire month without being "picked up" for intoxication. This is a record for him.

Passed Tax Ordinance.

The annual tax ordinance, which was previously passed on two readings by the Common Council, was called from the table last night and adopted on third and final reading and as soon as the Mayor affixes his signature to it will become effective.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., observed its third anniversary last night, inviting its sister councils to join in the celebration from Newark, Cranford, Dunellen and New Market were represented in addition to Benevolent, Somerset and Franklin councils, of this city.

The speaker of the occasion was Rev. Dr. William Knox, the new pastor of the First M. E. church, Dunellen. During the course of his remarks, he said that he was among those who favor an American flag flying from every school-house every day and the reading of the Bible at the morning exercises. He was also in favor he said of teaching the American youth the spirit of patriotism and the true love of country. He concluded his remarks by declaring that the Jr. O. U. A. M. is one of the great movements for installing the true spirit of patriotism in the hearts of the young American.

At the conclusion of the speech-making, refreshments were served. Among the visitors were Rev. Dr. W. A. Knox and N. H. Mundy, both of Dunellen; Arthur Drake and R. Cooke, both of New Market, and A. Bakley, of Newark.

AUGUST BODY HEARS OF "TANK" COMMITTEE LAW

For the information of the members, the new State law which provides for the appointment of a "Board of Protectors" to inquire into and investigate drunkenness, was read at the May meeting of the Common Council last night. The law gives such boards considerable authority, and also provides a penalty to be imposed upon dealers in liquor who dispense the same to those of the "habitual drunkard" class, after being warned not to do so, and furthermore a dealer's license may be revoked, but not until he has been given an opportunity to be heard.

No action was taken last night regarding the law, except to refer it to the committee on laws and ordinances. It is not known whether Plainfield will take advantage of the act or not, and no one present last night ventured an opinion.

TO CHANGE HIS TITLE TO GIVE HIM $60. MORE

That it is the intention of the Councilmanic police board to abolish the office of roundsman and substitute seregants, became known last night, when Chairman Frank Randolph offered an amendment to the police ordinance to strike out the words "roundsman" wherever it appears and insert the word "sergeants." The amendment was offered for information only, but it is the purpose of the board to urge its adoption.

Following the last meeting of the police board it was announced that it was the intention to promote Roundsman Maurice Higgins by abolishing the office of roundsman and creating the position of sergeant.

Mr. Randolph explained last night that the change would mean an added expense of $60 a year to the city, but the board had decided that for the best interests of the department it is wise to have fewer officers. If there are a sufficient number of sergeants, one can be detailed to desk duty, another for outside duty, and there is less liklihood of "hard feelings" as the sergeants would all be on the same basis. The present roundsman, said Mr. Randolph, had been very efficient and it was believed that he would make a good geant.

According to the proposed amendment the word "roundsman" as well as the figures "$1,080" his salary is stricken out. If it is adopted, and Mr. Higgins is made a sergeant he will receive an additional $60 a year. Mr. Randolph did not explain, however, specifically the reasons why it was desired to abolish the roundsmen. It is said that in every police department the roundsmen are considered valuable officers and are able to render a service not possible by other men in a department.

Members of the Grand Jury.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, John H. Cose and A. D. Ayres have been chosen as the Plainfield members of the Grand Jury to serve during the May term. Burton P. Hall, of Fanwood, has also been selected as a member of that body.

J. D. Spicer, of West Fifth street, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is much better.

SCHOOL BUDGET $63,000

Board of Estimate to Be Requested to Make a Larger Appropriation.

RUNNING EXPENSE $150,000.00.

Last Year $140,000 Was Used—Paid Tuitions Aggregate $4,000—What Clark Says.

At the May meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education held at the High School last night, a resolution was passed asking for $63,000 from the city tax receipts for the school budget of next year. Last year the Board got $35,000. The resolution has not yet been submitted to the Board of School Estimate.

While the amount asked for by the Board for next year exceeds last year's appropriation by about $25,000, the city schools received $25,127.89 from the Perkins' main stem railway tax proposition for 1907, the amount having been withheld during that year pending legislation. Deducting this amount, the proposed budget will exceed last year's by about $3,000. The amount asked for from the city for next year is less than has been asked for more than in other years. In 1907, it was $71,000, in 1906, $73,000, in 1905, $70,000, in 1904, $68,300, and in 1903, $64,000, making a five-year average of $69,250, as compared to the figure of $68,000, the amount asked for in last night's resolution.

It is estimated that the schools will receive a grand total of nearly $150,000 from various sources for the coming year, if this budget is approved by the Board of School Estimate. Last year the amount was about $140,000. The railway tax is expected to be about $23,500, and the Board has figured on the State school tax bringing in about $55,000. Last year this State tax amount to $55,040.01, and County Superintendent J. J.Savitz has assured the local Board that the amount will be about the same. It is figured that about $4,000 will be received by the city schools for the tuition of out-of-town pupils. F. B. Clark, clerk of the city Board of Education, said today in speaking of the budget that the increase would be about $3,000.

SKATING AGAIN ON THE HIGH SCHOOL'S WALKS

The signs "Roller Skating Strictly Forbidden on the School Grounds," posted at the Plainfield High School by F. B. Clark, clerk of the Board of Education, have been taken down by order of Leander N. Lovell, president of the Board. This action again gives the children of the neighborhood the privileges of the broad concrete walks at the school for roller skating.

In speaking of the posting of the signs at the school, Mr. Clark said that the move had been considered by him as necessary because of what he considered damaged done to the school lawns and the trees by the children. On a pleasant afternoon it was not unusual to see about a score of roller skaters on the school grounds. Mr. Clark says that there was no objection to the use of the walks by the skaters, but that the signs were posted to prevent damage to the lawns and trees.

Some of the councilmen, who were unable to understand the why and wherefore of these signs, will be glad to know that they have served as fuel in the high school furnace.

MRS. HAMLIN PRESIDENT OF MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

At the annual meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club held yesterday at the Hartridge auditorium, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Eugene Hamlin; vice-presidents, Mrs. Leighton Calkins, Miss Susan Hubbell, Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich; recording secretary, Mrs. Harold Pender; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William E. Hoyt; treasurer, Miss Ethel Titsworth.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, detained at home by illness, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Orton G. Dale, a vice-president.

John Leary Will Recover.

John Leary, the tramp, who was struck by a westbound freight train at South Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, necessitating the amputation of the right arm at the elbow at Muhlenberg Hospital, was reported today as doing well. He will recover. The man has thus far given no history of himself.

DRIVING ASSOCIATION PLANS INCORPORATION

The Plainfield Driving Association, recently formed, held a meeting at the Hotel Iroquois, last night, to further discuss matters pertaining to incorporation. The season tickets were also placed in the hands of the members. These tickets, which will be sold for $5 each, will entitle the holders to all events at the driving park throughout the season.

Plans for the race meet to be held at the driving park on the afternoon of July 5 were also discussed and the members are assured of a strong entry list from different parts of the State. As soon as the association becomes incorporated other plans will be perfected. The association will hold another meeting Monday night, May 17, at the Hotel Iroquois.

SWEET LITTLE GIRLS WORKING FOR CHARITY

The entertainment of the King's Daughters' Circle, "Little Helpers for Little People," which is composed of sixteen little girls, varying in age from three to twelve years, will be held, regardless of weather, at the home of George A. Beaton, 427 West Seventh street, tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. Excellent musical talent, including Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Lovell and Joseph McIntyre, will be heard, and in addition the little people have arranged an entertainment of their own, which will be unique in Plainfield.

The Circle is in charge of Mrs. J. M. Shelabarger. Contributions are voluntary. Refreshments and toys will be sold. The proceeds will go to the summer fund for poor children. A large attendance is anticipated.

MRS. BEEKEN DEAD AT THREE SCORE AND TEN

Mrs. Cornelia Beeken, mother of Alfred D. Beeken, aged about seventy years, died yesterday afternoon at the home of the latter in Fanwood from a stroke of apoplexy. She had been in ill health during the past five months and suffered a stroke early Sunday morning. She was a native of Brooklyn, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clark, of that city. With the exception of frequent visits she made to her son's home, she spent her entire life in Brooklyn and for forty-five years was a member of the Old First Baptist church there, now known as the Temple. She possessed rare Christian virtues and was beloved by all who knew her.

Mrs. Beeken is survived by one son, Alfred D. Beeken, from whose home at Fanwood the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, will officiate. The burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

MRS. ANNA S. BURGESS DEAD AT A RIPE AGE

Mrs. Anna Scott Burgess, widow of George H. Burgess, aged 75 years, died last night at her home on Central avenue, following an illness of nearly one year with a complication of diseases. Mrs. Burgess was born in Albany, N. Y., and was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. George Scott, her father being a Methodist minister. She was married in Jersey City to Mr. Burgess and moved to this city in 1837, where she resided ever since. She was a member of the First M. E. church and greatly interested in its activities for thirty-seven years; also contributing liberally to the various objects. Her husband died fourteen years ago.

Mrs. Burgess is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Joseph B. Yerkes, and one son, George H. Burgess, with whom she lived. The funeral services will be held from the late home, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea a former pastor of the First M. E. church, and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, the present pastor, will be in charge.

Roasted Duck.

A chicken house belonging to Dr. J. H. Cooley, of Westervelt avenue, was destroyed by fire last night. In the house at the time were about fifty young ducks which were roasted alive. The fire department was called out. The cause of the fire is not known.

CHARGE TO GRAND JURY

Justice Bergen Impresses Grand Inquest as to Importance of Excise Cases.

ALL MUST BE LICENSED.

Special Reference to Sales of Liquor Made by Wagon—Cock Fight Investigation.

The May term of the Union County Courts opened today at Elizabeth with Justice James J. Bergen on the bench and a large number of lawyers and other interested spectators from all parts of the county in attendance. Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of this city, is foreman of the Grand Jury and the other Plainfield members are John H. Cose and A. D. Ayres.

In his charge to the Grand Jury, Justice Bergen called its attention to two or three matters of great importance, the first of which was the recent cock fight at Scotch Plains. He impressed upon the jury that it was reported that there had been a serious breech of the law and if it should be shown, as charged that those arrested were connected with the management of the affair, were present to witness or aided the fight in any way they were guilty of a violation of the law and should be indicted.

Justice Bergen also called the attention of the jury to allaged violations of the sale of intoxicating liquors from wagons, without a license or authority of any kind, and said that if a person was licensed in one county to sell liquor he could not do business in an adjoining county, without a license there. He held that the license is limited to the county in which it is granted.

Another class of sale complained of and referred to by Justice Bergen was that of orders taken by grocery and department stores from another State and his instructions to the jury on that point were that the whole transaction took place in this State, the orders being taken here, the goods delivered and payment made here, and it constituted a violation of the law. The Justice spoke very plainly on this subject, leaving no doubt in the minds of the jury as to what they should do if conditions were found to be as reported.

The present indications are that the term will be a light one, the list of causes being rather light.

AWARDS MADE FOR NEW SCHOOL FURNITURE

Awards for school furniture for the Darrow Avenue school were made at the May meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education at the Plainfield High School last night and the successful bidders, who tendered figures at the special meeting held April 19, being announced. Kinney Brothers & Wolkins were successful for the school desks and chairs; Hammacher, Schlemmer & Company for manual training tables; The American Seating Company for the auditorium seats. Teachers' desks will be furnished by John Wanamaker; some tables and stands by the Siegel-Cooper Company and kindergarten chairs by Heywood Bros. The Consumers' Coal Company was awarded the contract for supplying coal for the city schools for next year.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, Howard H. Williams and Van Wyck Brooks were named at last night's meeting as judges in the annual prize composition contest of High School pupils, for which prizes are awarded at the commencement exercises. The building committee was authorized to replace damaged desks in the various schools at an expense not to exceed $1,000.

The board attended to a batch of routine business with dispatch, ordering the payment of bills to the amount of about $1,550. The school custodian's report showed a balance of $76,933.57 for April. The school physician's report showed that thirty-six at the Franklin School had been vaccinated during the month. This practically completes the work of vaccination in the city schols.

P. H. S. Win Easy Game.

Plainfield High School easily defeated the Westfield team yesterday afternoon by a score of 16 to 7. Both nines made many errors, Westfield making thirteen and the P. H. S. six.

FIRE WORKS DISPLAY TO COST $1,500, MAYBE

Planning to spend about $1,500 for fireworks to be displayed on the first and last days of the Charter Day celebration, the fireworks committee discussed arrangements for display at its meeting held at the office of L. B. Woolston, the chairman, last night. The matter of a suitable location for the display of the pyrotechnics was discussed at length and the entire committee will visit the place most favorably considered in a body this evening.

The fireworks are to be "the best ever," according to the plans now under way for the exhibitions, and will be held in connection with the band concerts given under the supervision of Bandmaster Benjamin LaVere, chairman of the committee on music. Stands will be erected at the exhibition grounds, which will be convenient of access to residents of both city and borough, and the displays will be under the supervision of a fireworks expert. It is planned to have several elaborate set pieces, and if the displays are carried out according to the plans now formulating by the committee, the pyrotechnics will be the best ever seen in this city.

MRS. GEORGE, AGED 76, GOES TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Ann E. George, widow of John H. George, aged 76 years, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William C. Kinney, on Arlington avenue, following an attack of pneumonia. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Montgomery, of East Hardwick, Vermont, where she spent practically her entire life. She came to Plainfield last fall to make her home with her daughter.

Mrs. George and her husband celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at East Hardwick about two years ago and the latter died about a year later. She was a life-long member of the Congregational church of East Hardwick and a devoted and sincere Christian woman. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. William C. Kinney, of this city, and one son, James H. George, of Page, N. Y. The funeral and interment will be at East Hardwick, on Thursday.

MINNIE PALMER AT THE NEW PLAINFIELD

A show that one would willingly "cough up" one dollar to see on Broadway was presented for one-tenth that price before a crowded house at the New Plainfield theatre last night. Minnie Palmer, who has delighted theatre-goers on two continents for many a season, headed the bill, Palmer & Company presenting her laughable sketch, "A Woman's Curiosity." The old time favorite is as fun-provoking as ever.

Billy Court, a Scotch comedian, gives rich impersonations of Harry Lauder and his singing of the Scottish songs, which have made Lauder famous, is capital. Garmely & Adubato, comedy acrobats, give a performance that equals that of Rice & Provost, which delight Hammerstein's Victoria audiences, while "The Todays" in their singing and dancing act are just as immense. Others on the bill include Desmond & Bailey, pleasing entertainers, and Tweedy & Roberts, singers and dancers. The moving pictures are an additional attraction. All in all, it's a great show from start to finish.

Second Annual Institute.

A meeting of unusual interest has been arranged for Monday night, May 17, at Trinity Reformed church, when the second annual institute of the Plainfield Sunday-school Teachers' Union will be held. Rev. Forrest E. Dager, of Philadelphia, has been secured as the speaker for the occasion. His topic will be "My Best as a Teacher." Mr. Dager will also teach the Sunday-school lesson for the following Sunday.

Will Tell of Japanese Trip.

John M. Whiton, superintendent of the Sunday-school of the Congregational church, will address the school and its friends at the church Friday night, telling of his recent trip to Japan. Many beautiful views brought from Japan will be displayed.

Exempts to Parade.

The Exempt Firemen of North Plainfield met last night and arranged to take part in the parade at Newark on June 14. They will also go to Phillipsburg to take part in the Exempt Firemen's celebration to be held there on June 19.

CITY TO OWN JOINT SEWER

After Thorough Investigation, Committee Makes Recommendation to Council.

ORIGINAL SCHEME UNWISE.

Suggestion that Plainfield Contract With Other Places to Dispose of Their Sewage.

The special committee on sewage and sewage disposal presented its complete report to the Common Council at its May meeting, last night. No action was taken, however, aside from the fact that the clerk was instructed to see that each member receives a copy. The report is a lengthy one and goes into detail regarding the question of future sewage disposal, reviewing the history of the work thus far accomplished. The committee comprises President R. I. Tolles and Councilmen F. E. Mygatt, Duncan W. Taylor and C. C. Randolph.

The report recites the fact that similar committees were appointed from North Plainfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Fanwood and Scotch Plains and various meetings were held by the combined committees. At the suggestion of Mayor Fisk, the committee tries to get the co-operation of New Brunswick in establishing a joint sewage disposal plant, but was unsuccessful.

The committee then states that it first considered the advisability of a joint arrangement with North Plainfield and Plainfield, but this plan was found impracticable. Then all the above-named municipalities joined in employing Hering & Fuller to make a preliminary survey looking toward a trunk sewer to care for all the municipalities. The total cost of such plan was estimated to be between $690,750 and $806,000, and if the entire plan should be adopted including New Brunswick, the cost would approximately be $1,000,000 for present requirements. This was abandoned for the cost was prohibitive.

The committee then states that since that report was made another plan was considered, whereby the municipalities of Fanwood, Scotch Plains, Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen could unite in a trunk line project, with sewage disposal works at a point in North Plainfield township, at a smaller cost, and it is the understanding of the committee that this would be acceptable if found practical and not too expensive. Then the committee consulted with Hering & Fuller and obtained estimates, which were found to be $400,000, with an estimated average annual cost of operating the works and district sewer of $3,800.

The system proposed for the works is the "sprinkling system," considered to be satisfactory. The points to be considered are the cost to Plainfield for construction, the cost to Plainfield for maintenance and whether or not it is best for the city to join in such a plan. The committee expresses the opinion that the method of distribution of cost can more properly be taken up as part of later negotiations.

As to the question whether it would be best for Plainfield to abandon its present works, it is stated that the present works have been in operation upwards of thirteen years and have been sufficient for the needs of the city.

Engineers have informed the committee that it will be necessary to expend from $5,000 to $6,000 during the current year, in order to make the beds fully effective and that in the next year or two, it will be necessary to expend approximately $50,000 additional in the construction of extensions to the plant.

The committee suggests that the increased value in ratables should be considered if the plant should be removed. It is believed that as the western end of the borough is developing so rapidly that the time will come when the land whereon the plant is now located will become so valuable as to make it impracticable the retention of it for city purposes.

It is further set forth in the report that should the city join in a trunk project, it is probable that the sewer problem will be settled for all time and the city would not again be confronted with the possibility of ultimately having to abandon its disposal works after having expended further large amounts in extensions thereof and at a time when co-operation from other municipalities might not be obtained.

Attention is also called to the fact that if the Plainfield plant is continued as at present, other plants may be erected on its borders and then there is the all-important question of protecting the water supply from contamination.

The total cost of the present sew-

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

The annual meeting of the Somerville Board of Trade was held at the engine-house on Friday evening, and was attended by a large number of the business men of the town. A. A. Cortelyou was chosen to preside and Robert S. Brunt as secretary. Philip Case, president of the association, made a plea for new members. Treasurer John Enk read his report, which showed receipts and balance of last year to be $91.42; disbursements, $35.75; balance, $35.69. He also stated that during the existence of the association, a little over five years, the Board of Trade has succeeded in raising the sum of $10,000, which has been used in inducing business enterprises to locate here. These enterprises now have a weekly payroll of $35,000 in wages. William J. Kirby, Philip Case, John Enk, C. P. Hoagland and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen were elected trustees for two years.

A special meeting of the Board of Commissioners was held on Friday evening in the engine-house for the purpose of appointing persons to serve as judge and clerk of the borough election today. Henry J. Brokaw was selected as judge and William R. Sutphen as clerk. The election will take place at the engine-house from 4 to 7 p. m.

Naraticong Tribe, I. O. R. M., was visited on Friday night by Tonaluka Tribe of Cranford. District Deputy Winans accompanied the delegation.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Woods, pastor of the Baptist church, preached Sunday evening on the subject, "The Empty House."

George D. Ehni, who has been confined to his home in Middaugh street, for three weeks, is able to be out again.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

At a meeting of the Piscataway Township School Committee, to be held at New Market tonight, the proposition to purchase a tract of land adjoining the South Plainfield school-house from Marie Harlow will be considered. The plot is needed for a school play-ground. The price is $2,500. At the same meeting a proposition to build a two-room brick addition to the East Bound Brook school will be considered. The amount required for this improvement is $5,000.

This will be a busy week at the First M. E. church. On Wednesday night a Brotherhood of the church will be formed. Thursday will be the first quarterly conference, at which District Superintendent Randolph will preside, and Friday night the regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League will take place with an election of officers.

For Third Time New York Merchant Is to Represent Us at the Porte.

Washington, May 4.—Oscar S. Straus, formerly Secretary of Commerce and Labor, has been selected for Ambassador to Turkey and W. W. Rockhill for Ambassador to Russia. Mr. Rockhill was formerly Assistant Secretary of State and latterly Minister to China.

Mr. Straus was twice before Minister to Turkey. He succeeds Ambassador Lleshman, who goes to Rome in place of Lloyd S. Griscom, who has expressed a deire to come home. Mr. Rockhill succeeds Ambassador Riddle at St. Petersburg.

Mr. Straus first went to Turkey in 1887 as Minister during the Cleveland administration. Ten years later he was reappointed to that position by a Republican President, Mr. McKinley. His appointment as Secretary of Commerce and Labor followed in 1906, during the Roosevelt administration.

EXONERATE POLICEMAN.

Mrs. Ida Bruggy Had Charged Him with Assault.

The police committee of City Council of Elizabeth, at the Council meeting last night, submitted a report stating that they had investigated the circumstances attending the alleged assault of Policeman William McCracken on Mrs. Ida F. Bruggy and found that the officer had not exceeded his authority. He went to the Bruggy home to serve a warrant on Mrs. Bruggy's son. She claimed later that he assaulted her and started a court action, which is scheduled for trial soon.

McCracken has been on the police force many years and has an excellent record.

A "HURRY UP" SALE.

Hurry! Hurry!! Hurry Up!!!—If You Would Profit by Cut-Price Hurry-Out of Good Merchandise.

You must hurry—that's the one condition of this sale with which we wish to impress you at the outset. It's not always pleasant to be hurried, but when the purpose is profit the inconvenience is insignificant.

To hurry out large quantities of just the merchandise you need now we've lessened prices right and left. Goods effected are broken lots and accumulations of odds and ends which are in our way. Also surpluses in certain lines of which we bought too enthusiastically. Rather than sell them little by little at slightly lowered prices, we've decided to give them short shrift and hustle them out at the littlest prices such goods have ever borne at this season.

You must hurry—because we've limited the sale to just four days, and because many of the choicest lots are small and will melt away under the first rush of eager buyers. For a brief space the chance is yours to supply scores of seasonable needs at savings which will total up handsomely in the aggregate—BUT YOU MUST HURRY!

Sale Begins Wednesday Morning and Lasts to Saturday Night

GOLF.

The American Golf Association of Advertising Interests will this year hold its annual tournament over the course of the Bretton Woods Golf Club at Bretton Woods, N. H., on July 13, 14, 15 and 16. This will be the fifth annual meeting of the association and as it is the first time that a New England links has been decided upon, it is expected that a record entry will be received from Boston and the New England States. In the past four years the tournaments of the advertising men have been held at Cleveland, Atlantic City, Chicago and Toronto, and there is little reason to doubt that the selection of Bretton Woods will meet with general approval.

The course is beautifully situated in the heart of the White Mountains. The Ammonoosue River winds in and out throughout the course, and while it lends itself admirably to the creation of an attractive scheme of water hazards, it also makes the course both sporty and pleasing to the eye. At present, it is of about 6,000 yards' length, but is being lengthened by about 400 additional yards, so that when the advertising men gather they will play over a well laid out stretch of turf and will not be subjected to the annoyances of congestion and waiting. The putting greens are reported to be in excellent condition and about the finest to be seen at any resort course.

The advertising men's association has a membership of nearly 300 and in its ranks are several prominent golfers. The remarkable exhibition of golf given by the one-armed players, J. Scott, of Selloh and G. Haskins, of Hoylake, over the latter's home course, recently, is almost sufficient to cause those players who use two hands and still cannot get away a decent shot, to give the game up in despair or at best to hasten to a surgeon and have an arm amputated. Scott, who won, created quite a sensation by his wonderful swiping.

The average distance he covered from the tee was 170 yards and on one occasion, against a slight breeze, he drove a distance of 172 yards. The weak point of both men's game was in the shot approach, but with the iron and on the green both were remarkably reliable. Strange to say, bunker work did not worry either man, two of Scott's recoveries being exceptionally fine and worthy of any golfer living.

The Y. W. C. A. will hold a lawn fete at 212 East Front street, Tuesday night, May 25, at 8 o'clock.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will meet Friday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the official board of the First M. E. church will be held tomorrow night following the prayer meeting.

The eighteenth anniversary of the Baptist Home for the Aged at Newark will be observed at the institution on Tuesday, May 11.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a consecration service Friday night and the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, will be the leader.

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church will be held in Vincent chapel, Friday night. All officers and members are urged to attend.

There will be a district rally of the Epworth League in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, Thursday night. Rev. Dorr F. Diefendorf, of Roseville, will be the speaker.

On account of the annual convention of the McAll Association to be held here tomorrow and Thursday, most of the local churches will omit the weekly prayer meetings held on Wednesday night.

William Holmes, baritone, has completed sixteen years as soloist at the First Baptist church. He has a voice of exceptional quality and his singing has been greatly enjoyed throughout his long service.

BAKER BICYCLE FIVE.

The prettiest quintette performance ever seen in an arena is the one given by the famous English Baker Quintette of expert fancy and trick bicycle riders. There are three men, two ladies and two little tots, who, while they ride, form beautiful tableaux, in which exquisitely handsome and costly costumes add to the general attractiveness, and appeal especially to the ladies and children in the audience. In contradistinction to the Bakers they are immediately followed by the Tramp Awheel. With a comic disdain for all the conventionalities he carries it into his riding as well as in his unshaven face and tattered habiliments. He rides up and down stairs, jumps from his wheel and while astride it from high places and rides away, and he is also the only rider of the Giraffe bicycle with his saddle fifteen feet higher than his wheel. The Baker Quintetts are also skateorial artists of wonderful ability. With the Frank A. Robbins Shows. Will exhibit in this city on Friday, afternoon and evening.

TARIFF FEVER ON HERE; $2.50 TO CITY FOR FIDO

Prior to passing the new dog ordinance on its third and final reading, which it did without a dissenting vote, the Common Council, at its May meeting, last night, granted a public hearing. Among those who spoke were A. Clinton Wilmerding and Abraham G. Hooley, representing the Plainfield Kennel Club. They took some exceptions to certain features of the ordinance, but their suggestions were not incorporated in the measure, the members being apparently satisfied with it as drafted.

Mr. Wilmerding objected to the license fee of $2.50, believing that $1.50 or $2 would be much better and would meet every requirement. Another suggestion offered by Mr. Wilmerding was that the dog-catcher and poundkeeper should be amendable to the law, which the ordinance had failed to provide. Still one more objection to the ordinance by the speaker was that the section covering dogs for bench show purposes does not cover a long enough period, fifteen days. He said that there were many instances when it would be necessary to keep a dog here a month or longer to get it in condition for show purposes and the time should be lengthened.

In speaking on the ordinance, Mr. Hooley said that he did not want the members to think that he or Mr Wilmerding represented the kennel club only. They were present in the interest of all owners of dogs. He thought the $2.50 license fee too high, however, he had understood that the fee might be reduced next year and the present one might serve its purpose by ridding the city of many worthless curs. In the main both representatives of the club thought the ordinance a good one.

Horologio.

An artist named James Dondi constructed in the fourteenth century a clock for the city of Padua which was long considered as the wonder of the period. Besides indicating the hours, it represented the motion of the sun, moon and planets and also pointed out the different festivals of the year. On this account Dondi obtained the surname of Horologio.

ROUTINE MATTERS AT CITY FATHERS' MEETING

Among the many matters of more or less importance that came before the Common Council at its May meeting, last night, was a petition from the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church, asking the city to remove a quantity of dirt from a point near Leland avenue, upon which thoroughfare the Reformed church has purchased one hundred feet of land upon which it proposes to erect a chapel. It was also requested that Midway avenue, adjacent to the tract purchased, be put to grade and in proper condition. The matter was referred.

The petition of residents of Park avenue, in the vicinity of Belleview avenue, for a fire hydrant, was granted on motion of Mr. Taylor. Assistant Health Officer John O'Brien informed the Council that the complaint regarding a "dump" at Hill street and Johnston avenue, would be given prompt attention. William Palmer Smith asked that the city repair Belvidere avenue and put that thoroughfare in good condition. He said that the street was originally macadamized by the property-owners and thought it time the city did some work there. The petition was referred to the street committee.

Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayers reported expenditures for April aggregating $174.35, and Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that he had granted twenty-six permits during April. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts of $172.61 and disbursements of $40.01 for the month of April. Street Commissioner Gavett reported the granting of thirty-six sewer permits during the past month.

Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh presented a brief report, telling of the appointment of commissioners to assess benefits and damages for street improvements, that the report is completed and will be open for inspection on Wednesday, May 12; also that the case of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the City of Plainfield remains in statuo quo. These matters were referred to the finance committee.

Regarding the petition of the proprietor of the Park theatre for a return of a portion of the $150 paid as a license fee, because he had retired from business, an opinion was given by Corporation Counsel Marsh that the city had no right to refund any part of the money, and the petition was denied.

In this connection Mr. Marsh quoted a section of the State law showing that the Council has the right to appropriate money to the G. A. R. for observance of Memorial Day and the usual $100 was appropriated to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., according to its petition.

A resolution offered by Councilman Frank Randolph and adopted, authorized the transfer of $1,000 from the general to the fire fund.

A resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, authorized the street committee to lay sidewalks where notices have been ignored and place a lien on the property for the payment. Another resolution by Mr. Gloak and adopted, fixed Monday night, May 24, as the time when bids will be received for macadamizing certain streets. Other resolutions by the same member requested the New York & New Jersey Telephone Company to install extension 'phones in the Mayor's office and at Muhlenberg's Hospital, in accordance with the contract between the city and the company.

Mr. Taylor, chairman of the fire committee, explained that it had been found impossible to purchase a suitable fire horse for $300 and in accordance with his resolution, an additional $25 was appropriated for the purpose.

Through a resolution offered by Mr. Taylor and adopted, the city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for furnishing the city 100 tons of stove and nut coal for the fire department. They will be received Monday night, May 24.

The city clerk was instructed through a resolution by Mr. Clay to promptly furnish the corporation counsel with copies of all ordinances passed by the Council. On motion by Mr. Clay the amendment to the hack ordinance to cover automobiles and the amendment to the ordinance to license inns and taverns, making it possible to arraign violators before the city judge, were adopted on third and final reading.

age system and disposal works is $363,000; outstanding sewer bonds and notes aggregating $252,700. The cost of works, including land, distinct from the system, is $143,500 and $4,032 was spent in 1908 for maintenance. Then must be considered the offsets, in order to reach a valuation of the plant abandoned.

It is stated that when the plant was first constructed filters were built at a total cost of $27,900. The city owns fifty-one acres of land conservatively valued at $30,000, and if the trunk line project went through there would be a saving to the city, based on cost of pipes, estimated, at $8,000, making a total of $55,900, and leaving an apparent present value of the property to be abandoned, of $87,600. As against this, however, there should be considered the increased value of ratables; also the value of the use of the property, over the amount of interest on the bonds, for the past ten years and the value of the security afforded to the water supply. The committee estimates a saving on maintenance of $1,372 per annum, which capitalized at 4 per cent. equals $34,300. If, however, the value of the property to be abandoned at $87,000 and it is estimated that that sum, together with the share of the cost which Plainfield shall pay, would represent the tangible cost to the city of the trunk project.

The committee gives its conclusion as follows:

"Your committee, therefore, reports that in its opinion, the advantages to Plainfield of a trunk sewer and disposal works, as suggested, which should serve Plainfield, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Scotch Plains and Fanwood, of a capacity sufficient for the needs of double the present population of those communities, at a total cost to all the communities of approximately $400,000, are sufficient to warrant the city in negotiating for the carrying out of the project, provided, however, that all of those communities join in the project, and that all install sewage systems to be connected with the trunk line.

"Your committee suggests, for the consideration of the Council, but without expressing any opinion in regard thereto, the advisability of having Plainfield alone construct the trunk line and disposal works, and the making of proper contracts with the other communities for the disposal of their sewage. And they further suggest that if the general project commends itself to the Council, the entire subject be considered by the Council in committee of the whole."

MAKE EFFORT TO HAVE A STREET CLOSED UP

The proposed action of the Common Council at its May meeting, last night, to vacate Raymond avenue, as urged by the Highland Park Realty Company, received a set-back and the ordinance was not passed. Harvey Linbarger, who said that he was the secretary of the company, was present and spoke in favor of vacating the avenue, because he said that his company proposed to open up a new thoroughfare in that section to be known as "Hillcrest avenue," and this would be about one hundred feet west of the new street. Mr. Linbarger also said that Albert I. Drayton, owner of considerable land on the avenue, favored the improvement and believed it would be a good thing.

John K. Van Nest, who owns property in the vicinity of and adjacent to Raymond avenue, protested against closing up that thoroughfare. He declared that Albert I. Drayton does not own as much land in that section as a person could scrape from beneath his flinger nails and furthermore does not claim ownership.

"I have occupied and used Raymond avenue for twenty years," continued Mr. Van Nest, "and if the assessors were 'on their job' they would know that lots there have been sold to George Reeves, of New York. Mr. Reeves has rights there and it is not within the power of this body to vacate the avenue. Under the present procedure the action would be void. The proper course would be to have the avenue accepted by the city and then petition to have it vacated. It is foolish to try and put this thing through in this fashion.

"You might as well try to vacate a seat in the kingdom of heaven, something you have never occupied and probably never will. The taxing officers here have never discovered the change in ownership, but four years ago the assessors cut the tract up into four parcels. My chief objections to the closing of Raymond avenue, are that in the first place the city would be interferring with vested rights and secondly because the avenue has been used as a highway since 1877. I don't want to see the Council stultify itself and ask that the matter be laid over. If necessary I will furnish all the records for the information of this body."

The proposed ordinance was not taken up during the evening and it will probably be left on the table until a complete investigation can be made.

EAST END FIRE HOUSE HAS A SWIMMING POOL

There being four feet of water in the cellar of the new East End fire-house and no provision having been made previously to obviate this trouble, Mr. Taylor, chairman of the fire and building committee, offered a resolution, last night, which was adopted, accepting Alex. Milne's bid of $361 to make the cellar water-proof.

Mr. Taylor explained that the plan is to water-proof the sides of the cellar wall from top to bottom. He said that this should have been included in the specifications of the architect, Harold Hall, but for some reason was not. Something had to be done at once he declared.

Mr. Montgomery offered an amendment to the resolution to provide that Mr. Milne guarantee the cellar to be water-proof when completed. This was accepted, as was also another motion offered by Mr. Holt that the matter be referred back to the committee with power. Mr. Holt said that he believed more definite specifications should be submitted by the contractor.

Mr. Taylor said that he was satisfied with the specifications, and voted against the motion to refer back. It was then explained that the committee could get together within a day or two and arrange for the work.

An investigation shows that there is four feet of water in the nine foot cellar, and that the street sewer is four feet above the cellar wall. It is the opinion of those interested that a blind drain should have been built, as in the case of other construction work in that part of the city. The city will not permit the running of surface water into the sewer and this necessitates the adoption of another method. Harold Hall was the architect employed to construct the building and no special provision was made to overcome the present difficulty.

It is the purpose of the fire committee to require a guarantee from Mr. Milne that when his work is completed the cellar will be water-proof.

In accordance with another resolution offered by Mr. Taylor the contract for installing gas and electric light fixtures in the new fire-house was awarded to A. B. Laing, his bid of $151.05 for the work, being considered the most advantageous.

MRS. C. H. PARKHURST PRESIDES AT CONVENTION

Mrs. Charles H. Parkhurst, of New York, president of the American McAll Association, and wife of the famous metropolitan clergyman, will preside at the annual convention of the association which will convene in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, and continue until Thursday afternoon. These meetings will be open to the public and all will be welcome.

Tomorrow night a popular meeting will be held in the church to be addressed by Rev. Dr. Harmon Potter, of Hartford, Conn., who will give an interesting history of the McAll Association. Among others who will take part are Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich and Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring. Mrs. George A. Strong has prepared an attractive program of music.

An interesting feature of the meeting on Thursday will be an address by Rev. Charles Merle D'Aubigne, of Paris, son of the famous historian, who will arrive today. He will give a complete account of the work being done in Paris by the McAll Association. The Plainfield branch of the association will entertain the one hundred or more delegates that will be here and luncheon will also be served Thursday noon at the church.

PRESERVE THE BOOKSTORES!

An injury to the small bookstores of the country is in reality an injury to one of the sources of national culture. The old-fashioned bookstore, conducted by a bookish man who loves his stock-in-trade, always has about it the cloister atmosphere of the library. A capable director of such a shop always insists that his clerks shall have some familiarity with the commodities which they handle; that they shall have read the more important of the new publications, and shall have "read at" the books of lesser reputation sufficiently to be able to describe the character of their contents. The greatest foe to these old-fashioned bookshops exists chiefly in the large cities; it is the great department store. There the book counter is used chiefly for advertising purposes. The institution is satisfied often to make no profits on its books, but to announce them at cost for the purpose of drawing people to the building.—Leslie's Weekly.

FISH CHOWDER.

To make fish chowder, skin a four-pound haddock, wash thoroughly and cut the flesh from the bones in pieces about two inches square. Cover the head and bones with cold water and boil one-half hour. Slice two small white onions in a pan with four slices of thin, fat salt pork. When tender skim out the pork and onions and add the strained bone liquor and one quart of sliced raw potato. Cook for ten minutes, then add the fish, one tablespoonful of salt and one-half tablespoonful of white pepper. When the potatoes are tender add one quart of hot milk which has been thickened with two ounces of butter and flour mixed together. Do not break the fish by needless stirring. Butter six slices pilot bread, arrange in a tureen and pour the fish chowder over them.

Man to Man.

After the last wagon had rattled up and left its precious package on Christmas Eve, Dolly's mother thought the occasion a suitable one for impressing something of the religious significance of the festive season upon her small consciousness.

So while she undressed her she pointed out the window to where Mars burned in the heavens and said:

"That beautiful star is your heavenly father wishing you a happy Christmas. Now what should you do to show him how grateful you are?"

Small Dolly looked perfunctorily at the glowing planet, then between yarns she said:

"Wish the same to him, I 'spose."—Lippincott's.

The Silent H.

An American traveling in the underground of London between Hammersmith and Islington heard the guard call: "Ammersmith, Ammersmith!"

Whereupon, being of a humorous turn of mind, he said to the guard:

"You have dropped something."

"What?" said the guard.

"An h," answered the American.

"Oh, never mind," retorted the guard. "I'll pick it up at Hislington."—Travel Magazine.

Demonstration.

It was afternoon, and thus spoke the teacher of the village school:

"Now, boys, the word 'stand' at the end of a word means 'place of.' Thus we have Afghanistan, the place of the Afghans, also Hindustan, the place of the Hindus. Now, can any one give me another instance?"

"Yes, sir," said the smallest boy, proudly, "I can—umbrellastan, the place for umbrellas."—Newsbook.

A Housewife Hint.

Take time to put the blacking pot out of the way in its accustomed place, for thereby will a probable smutting be avoided.

LITERARY

A "fairly presentable hat," to use the phrase of a Fifth avenue modiste, when made in the prevailing style, measures anywhere from sixty to seventy inches in circumference around the brim. This goes to show that the hat-ridden sex will continue to pad its hair and torture its head and its nerves in the manner intimated, while in the interval, the "nerve specialists," the modistes and the other who live by the follies, the fancies and the foibles of the fashionable, will wax prosperous.—Physical Culture for May.

Inauguration is over, the tariff is being attended to, business is getting better and better, and the weather is behaving itself beautifully. Therefore let Melancholy take to the woods. We'll have none of her. Even in our reading matter let us demand that which is pleasurable and optimistic. Both of these adjectives, by the way, aptly describe the May Lippincott's, which is filled from cover to cover with an assortment of stories and special articles, jokes and poetry, as varied as they are entertaining.

An indictment of the richest church in America—but an indictment which does not disturb one's faith in religion is Ray Stannard Baker's theme in his article, "The Case Against Trinity," which is the leading feature of the May American Magazine. It is a scathing arraignment before the bar of public opinion. "The Indecent Stage" by Samuel Hopkins Adams is a comment on the present tendency of the theatre. The number of leud and immoral theatrical offerings today before the public is appalling.

The burden of our changing social order falls upon our daughters, claims the Woman's Home Companion for May, and this magazine shows by striking examples and figures how topsturvy is our way of training girls. In this same issue is a charming article by Margaret Sangster, showing that the millionaire mother is by no means as black as she is painted. Mary Heaton Vorse, in her own inimitable style proves that if we are fat it is our own fault.

The May Century has fiction a plenty—the last chapters of Alice Hegan Rice's novel," Mr. Opp," and stories in which humor is the dominant note by Mary Heaton Vorse, Adeline Knapp, and W. Albert Hickman—but leading place is given to Thomas Nelson Page's story, "The Old Planters," a tale of a quaint old hostelry in Virginia, and of the quaint old aristocrats who played host, and of the guests who came and went. A wide range of matters in the public mind is covered in the number: William M. Ivins, chairman of the New York charter commission, in a paper on "Public Service Commissions," comments on Frederic W. Whitridge's paper on "Public Mortality and Street Railways" in the March Century; Christian Brinton gives critical estimate of the two great Spanish painters whose work is being shown in this country, Sorolla and Zuloaga; "The New Basis of Work for the Blind" is discussed by Samuel H. Bishop.

The recent fight to amend the Rules of the House of Representatives is described in detail in the opening article in the May Success Magazine. In the same number the wife of a country preacher discusses her financial problems under the title "Five Hundred a Year." Will Payne describes grain speculation in an article, "The Pit and the Grower," and Walter Prichard Eaton contributes a paper called "The Right Kind of Stage Censorship." The stories of the month are "The Sky Man," a new serial by Henry Kitchell Webster; "Her Husband's People," by Charlotte Wilson; "The Woman in the Dark," by Katherine Cecil Thurston.

Mrs. Leslie Carter, America's foremost emotional actress, contributes to The Red Book Magazine for May an article that for frankness rather sets a new pace for magazine literture. The title is "Morality in Relation to the Drama and the Press," and in the article Mrs. Carter gives, with a bravery as admirable as it is unusual, her opinion of so-called "dramatic criticism."

REMOVING TARNISH.

With the present rage for metallic fabrics, gold and silver laces, gilt threads and tassels, tinsels, braids and galoons there comes, necessarily, the tarnish, as a sort of plague to be wrestled with.

Says one dressmaker, referring to the bronze coating that had over spread some magnificent gold fabric buttons: "You can take the garment in its present condition for $120, or we will renew the buttons and part with it for $130."

Silver braids all tarnish more rapidly, and with less provocation, than gold. There is one home remedy for this defect which will be found well worth a trial. A mixture of three parts powdered alum and one part powdered boracic should be dusted on the gilt fabric and allowed to remain there in a thin layer for several days. This should be whisked off, and may be repeated if the cure has not been effected.

New Blow to the Sex.

By a recent decree women toreadors are prohibited from taking part in bull fights in Spain.

FAME.

Beloved of all the earth, woo'd of all men,
She smiles and frowns, favors and spurns again;
Mistress of wide-eyed nights, or visions fair;
Maid-o'-the-Mist upon the marsh of care—
Fame—so like a woman!

I send her all the sweetness of my lands;
I send her all the labors of my hands;
And all my pride of youth before her lay.
She curtseys low, but, then—she turns away.
Fame—so like a woman!

I rose up with the sun and wove a chain
Of blossoms, jewel'd with the leaf-born rain.
She paid no heed to me or mine, the while
She smiled on one who had not sought her smile.
Fame—so like a woman!

He came. He conquered! For he met her eyes,
With no abatement—nay, nor pleading sighs.
Definately, despite her frown, he stood.
Strange! But she fell to loving in that mood.
Fame—so like a woman!

—Stephen Chalmers in the People's for May.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Columbus Day.

The Assembly passed the Senate bill making Columbus Day—October 12—a legal holiday in New Jersey. The act is as follows:

A supplement to an act entitled "An act in relation to legal holidays" (Revision of 1876), approved April third, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. In addition to the legal holidays now created and provided for by law, the twelfth day of October in each year shall be held and kept as a legal holiday in accordance with the provisions of the act entitled "An act in relation to legal holidays," approved April third, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto.

2. The said day shall be kept as a legal holiday in commemoration of the discovery of this continent, and shall be known as "Columbus Day."

3. This act shall take effect immediately.

The State Legislature is certainly generous with its holidays. Without any apparent demand for it that of two years ago gave us Good Friday, and now without the agitation on the part of anybody, except perhaps a few promoters of the bill, it has decided to set apart Columbus Day. If the Governor signs this bill New Jersey will be in the front ranks of those States enjoying the largest number of legal holidays. They are ten all told, Columbus Day making the eleventh. New Year's Day, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, Good Friday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, General Election Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas Day are all on the list in this State. As far as is known no State has any more. With fifty-two Sundays, and with Saturday a half holiday for banking purposes, and enjoyed very largely by most toilers, there are about ninety rest days, or about one-fourth of the year. This puts us in the class with Pennsylvania, whose Legislature has also approved of Columbus Day as a holiday, which State, it has been figured, gives up about three-quarters of the year to sleep, idleness and unproductive labor.

We have holidays enough without Columbus Day, and Governor Fort would do well to veto the bill. We have Labor Day in the fall immediately after the summer vacation, and by October it is time we got down to business. With the constant reduction of the hours of labor (agitation is already heard in labor circles for the five-hour day) and the continued increase of the number of holidays we shall soon be on the unproductive level of the Middle Ages.—Elizabeth Journal.

The Man Himself.

A lady employing a colored man asked him his name.

"Mah name is Poe, ma'am."

"Poe? Perhaps some of your family worked for Edgar Allan Poe."

The darkey's eyes opened with great surprise.

"Why," he grasped, pointing a dusky forefinger at himself, "why, Ah am Edward Allan Poe!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Japanese Egotism.

Japanese children have too great a tendency to be egotists, to distrust all other beings—and the man remains what the child was. It is time Japanese manners should be modified in that respect.—Kyoku Kai, Tokio.

Woman In Italy.

A recent inquiry in Italy in regard to women workers shows that out of 224,717 registered laborers more than 45,000 were women, while out of a total of 35,629 employers, 1,182 were women.

SOME SIMPLE AIDS TO BEAUTY AND HEALTH.

A glass of rich, creamy milk should conclude each of the thin woman's meals.

A fine-tooth comb, valuable for certain purposes, is capable of injuring the scalp if used unwisely, for the tiny points, close together, irritate the skin, and, far from removing the dandruff, as many persons think, will increase it.

Though you may think so, your face is not entirely clean after even the most vigorous scrubbing with soap and water. Put a little cold cream on, rub in well and then rub off with a dry towel. You will be surprised at the amount of dirt on the towel.

This is pre-eminently the time when fresh green vegetables should be eaten, even if it is necessary to give up some other article of diet for them. The system craves just the properties they contain and the blood and complexion will be much better if spinach, greens of any other kind, string beans and the like, are eaten once, and preferably twice, a day. Fresh salads should be considered a daily necessity. Lettuce, with oil and vinegar, is wholesome, but not more than other fresh leaves. Apples, both baked and raw, will be effective, as well as tomatoes, the system requiring acid to an unusual degree for several months now.

There is nothing so indispensable to beauty of form as the proper exercise of all the muscles. It is rarely, if ever, the case in this nation that any care is taken in this respect. Children, in their sports, do not fail—especially if they have full run in the country—to accomplish this; but grown persons generally confine their exercise to a small portion of the body. In this way the perfect and rounded form of childhood is rarely preserved to mature life as it might be with proper care. This shows the need of the rule: Let special care be directed to the general development of all the muscles during the period of childhood and youth, and take care that, all through life, the muscles of the whole body be duly exercised.

FEMININE SPIRIT OF '76.

One summer afternoon in 1176, Jemima Boone and two sisters, named Callaway, while boating on the Kentucky, allowed their canoe to drift close to the opposite bank. Here, behind a bush, five Shawnee warriors were in hiding, and although the spot was not more than a quarter of a mile from Boonesborough, one of the Shawnees struck boldly out into the water, seized the canoe, and dragged it to shore with its screaming occupants.

Once in the power of the Indians, however, these youthful daughters of the wilderness betrayed a wonderful self-possession and resourcefulness. They knew enough of the Indian customs to realize that if their strength failed them, and they should prove unequal to the long march to the Shawnee towns on the Ohio, they would be slaughtered mercilessly. So they stifled their sobs, and calmly accompanied their captors without protest or struggle. At every opportunity, though, they secretly tore little pieces from their clothing and attached them to bushes on the trail. Nothing more was needed to inform Boone and his fellow settlers, who had quickly started in pursuit, that they were on the right track, and on the second day of the captivity they caught up with the Indians. A volley laid two Shawnees low, the rest fled, and by the close of another day the girls were safe in the arms of their thankful mothers."—H. Addington Bruce in an article on "Woman in the Making of America," in the May Smith's.

Egg Cutlets.

Remove the shells from six hard-boiled eggs and chop eggs in small pieces. Make a thick white sauce with two tablespoonfuls of butter, rubbed smooth with four tablespoonfuls of flour and stirred into one and a half cupfuls of boiling milk. Season with one-half teaspoonful of salt, a saltspoonful of paprika and a few drops of onion juice. Take from the fire, add one tablespoonful of minced parsley and the chopped eggs. When cold form into cutlets, roll in crackercrumbs and fry in smoking hot fat. Nice served with cream sauce.

Lady Baltimore Cake Filling.

Dissolve three cups of sugar in a cup of boiling water and boil until it threads. Have ready beaten the whites of two eggs, and pour the syrup gradually upon these, whipping them steadily. To this mixture add a cup of seeded and chopped raisins, a cupful of chopped pecan nuts and five large figs cut into thin strips. Cover the layers and top of the cake with this mixture.

Skirts Are Full.

Skirts incline to greater fullness. For the street they are instep length, with a few plaits sometimes set in about the bottom. For the evening costume they are much fuller than the extremely narrow models of the winter, but these still cling about the figure owing to the soft fabrics employed. Trained skirts are correct for costumes intended for formal afternoon occasions.

KITCHEN INFORMATION FOR THRIFTY HOUSEWIFE.

Discolored china baking dishes can be made as clean as when new by rubbing them with whiting.

Roasted chestnuts are said to be very delicious when salted the same as peanuts.

Mud stains will disappear from cloth by the following method of cleansing: After brushing the dry mud away, sponge the remaining stain with a weak solution of ammonia and water. This is absolutely safe to apply to black cloth. Colored goods, however, should be sponged with a solution of bicarbonte of soda, as the latter does not affect coloring matter.

The care of drippings in the kitchen with the price of food so high should receive more attention. In cooking all meats, poultry and in making soup the grease should be carefully skimmed off and saved. Render it out once a week and after a good boiling strain through cheesecloth. When cool skim the fat off and use in place of lard except for pie and biscuit.

Care of Patent Leathers.

Every time patent leather shoes are removed they should be wiped off with a soft piece of old linen or cheesecloth. Then dip the fingers into sweet oil and rub thoroughly over the shoes, using just a few drops each time. This keeps the leather soft and prevents the cracking so usual in patent leather.

TILT IN SENATE OVER INCOME TAX.

Borah Attacks the Corporations and Root Defends Them as Paying Their Share.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—The Senate jumped promptly yesterday from the consideration of the lumber duties to a discussion of the proposed income tax. Senator Borah, of Idaho, one of the ablest of the "progressive" Republicans, devoted two hours to discussing the question. He defended that form of taxation, and raised a question not only as to the soundness of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Pollock case, holding the income tax law of 1894 unconstitutional, but characterized the case as "moot" and questioned the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

In the course of his speech Senator Borah was questioned by Senator Root, of New York; Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Senator Beveridge, of Indiana. Senator Root interrupted to offer an explanation of the apparent disparity between the estimated corporate wealth of the State and the amount actually returned from taxation. He said that corporations paid taxes on all their property as corporations, and that it would hardly be fair to subject the shareholders in such corporations to taxation again upon the shares held in the aforesaid corporations. To do so would be to impose double taxation, Senator Root explained.

"I think that as a rule the property of corporations does not escape taxation," observed Mr. Root.

Senator Borah retorted that the argument against an income tax based in the suggestion of "double taxation" upon corporations was ancient.

NOT ANXIOUS TO RUN, SAYS MARK M. FAGAN.

But Declares He Would Like to See Politics Free From Corruption.

Jersey City, May 4.—"I am not anxious to be the candidate again for Mayor of this city, but I am anxious to have wiped out all debauchery and corruption in politics."

This was one of the statements made by ex-Mayor Mark M. Fagan in a talk to the members of the Fifth Ward New Idea Republican Club meeting held in a hall at Brunswick and Third streets, this city, last night.

The meeting was attended by a hundred or more followers of the New Idea movement, and included twenty or thirty of the eighty-three members elected to the club last night. Ex-Mayor Fagan, who is the president of the club, presided. Before he spoke he introduced ex-Police Commissioner Theodore Bierck and Philip Greece. Mr. Bierck made a speech in which he criticised Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn and his administration.

KILLED MAN IDENTIFIED.

Michael Schenk's Parents Are Wealthy Germans.

Fellow countrymen last night identified the body of the man who was killed in the Central Railroad freight yard at Elizabeth Saturday night as that of Michael Schenk. They told John J. BOWLING RESULTS AT JOHNNY CAMPBELL'S Cutter and McNaughton carried off the bowling honors at Campbell's alleys last night. The scores showed a big come down when compared with those made last week. The highest last night was 357, made by Snyder and Minnick in their last game. Snyder also made the highest individual score, 203. The score:

Cutter	171	174	181
McNaughton	145	147	147
	316	321	328
Snyder	125	135	203
Minnick	123	162	154

Y. W. C. A.'S ATHLETES PERFORM CLEVER FEATS.

The informal closing exercises of the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium classes took place in their own "gym" last night. Twenty members participated. Miss Lizzie Joos was the one who carried off three first prizes. Her best feat was the standing high jump. She cleared the bar at three feet three inches. In the running high, she cleared the bar at a height of four feet 3 inches. Miss Gertrude Mair was second with three feet eleven inches.

In the potato race, Mrs. Harry Runyon and Miss Joos divided the honors. The running board jump was captured by Miss Eva Snedicker, who jumped nine feet three inches. Miss Snedicker also took the standing broad, making five feet eleven inches. Another event of the meet was the shot put which was won by Miss Olive DeLany, who hurled it a distance of nineteen feet ten inches.

Employment for Girls.

If seventy-five girls can be secured as workers on net and lace waists in this city, it is probable that Levi & Julius, a firm of New York waist manufactuers, will locate a waist factory here in the near future. Negotiations are already under way for the rental of a loft in a West Front street building, and the company is advertising today for the waist makers. The Board of Trade is active in the effort to have the firm locate here. Levi & Julius have a main factory on East Tenth street, New York.

BURGLARS AMONG SUMMER COTTAGERS.

Suspect Arrested May Also Have to Face a Charge of Bigamy.

Morristown, May 4.—County Detective Brennan brought Thomas Dixon, of Rockway Township, to the county jail yesterday on a charge of burglary. He was found living in a cabin in the woods, near Fox Hill, and the specific charge against him is that of robbing a bungalow belonging to Roy Troxell, of this city, and located at Cedar Lake. Some chairs and crockery that had been in Mr. Troxell's family 100 years, fishing tackle, etc., are said to have been found in Dixon's shack.

The cottages of William Lamar and Professor McDonald at Cedar Lake have also been robbed, and it is believed that they will be able to identify some of the things found in Dixon'c cabin.

Besides the charge of burglary, Dixon will doubtless have to face a charge of bigamy. A wife and two children lived with him in the Fox Hill cabin, but when charged by the detective with having another wife living on the mountain near Dover, Dixon is said to have acknowledged it.

Ale In England.

Queen Elizabeth of English is reputed to have drunk a quart of ale every day with her breakfast. Within fifty years of her death the practice of ale drinking appears to have become practically universal in that country.

ELKS ARRANGE FLAG DAY PLANS.

Elaborate Preparations Made for the Celebration to Be Held on June 14.

Jersey City, May 4.—Elaborate preparations have been made and are being made for the Jersey City Elks' Flag Day observance, on June 14. The monthly meeting of the lodge will be held on that day and at its conclusion the members will gather in the large hall, where the ritualistic work arranged by the Grand Lodge will be exemplified.

An appropriate address will be given by Myron C. Ernst, and there will be patriotic songs and readings on the birth of the American flag. Tickets of admission will be sent to the members of the lodge. An orchestra will contribute patriotic airs and everybody will join in singing the national anthem.

The Elks' Flag Day committee is composed of Frank L. Milliman, chairman; Police Commissioner Mortimer J. Gleeson, secretary; Thomas F. Larkins, treasurer; Past Exalted Ruler William H. Cassidy and William La Due.

THE WHEEL OF FORTUNE

By CLINTON DANGERFIELD.

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The alarmed echoes caught up the crack of Carshalton's rifle, flinging the sound from rock to rock in the ravine below. A second shot followed the first so quickly that they might have been deemed one, but the effect was twofold, for with the first John Rexford reeled in his saddle, with the second his startled horse came crashing to the ground.

The bursting of a rotten girth saved Rexford from being crushed to death, the horse rolling clear of him in its last struggles. As it was, his case was bad enough for his right leg was broken and over him stood Carshalton, seller of all properly unsalable things, who was just now about to close a deal on his well-salted "Lady Lu" silver mine which would make him some fifty thousand dollars richer, and the purchaser so much the poorer for the rest of his life.

To be sure, Col. Wayne, the would-be buyer, had sent Rexford to give an expert opinion on the mine. And just here had arisen a serious difference of opinion between Rexford and Carshalton.

Experience had so far justified Carshalton in the belief that experts were of two kinds; either they were fools who knew nothing about the customary mine ruses, and therefore were easily handled, or else they were wise men who, on the receipt of a due consideration, saw everything through rose-colored glasses. Rexford had disconcerted him by belonging to neither class, and had outraged Carshalton by his outspoken remarks concerning the worthlessness of the "Lady Lu" and by contemptuously refusing the heavy bribe delicately offered him.

The victor now coolly proceeded to help himself to the fallen man's papers, especially a written message of warning which Rexford expected to send by wire the instant he reached the foot of the mountain. By a little work this message could be altered to satisfactory wording, and yet appear to be written in Rexford's hand all the way through, this copy being held for proof later.

Rexford, despite his agony, drew his revolver on the vultured-faced sharper approaching him, but a snap was the only result. Carshalton laughed.

"Didn't reckon I'd leave your pistol in fix to spoil the whole thing, did you?" he asked. "Come now—quiet with your hands. You can't stop me. All this is your own fault, anyway, you blamed fool!"

Without more ado he went whistling down the steep mountain road to his horse, fastened 50 yards below. Once mounted, he made all speed possible, though the ground was villainously rocky, set with sharp limestone fragments.

For a few seconds Rexford lay still, in exceeding bitterness of soul. Ordinarily the matter would have been bad enough, but to stand well in Col. Wayne's eyes was more than life to Rexford, since the colonel's pretty daughter idolized her father, and the best passport to her favor was the good will of the father and daughter onel. Now both father and daughter would despise him, for on the strength of the telegram he knew Carshalton would send at once, in the expert's own name, the deal would be closed and the colonel practically ruined.

He looked around him in frantic desperation. To the right lay his dead horse, to the left the fragments of an old ox-wagon abandoned by some disgusted bark hauler, who had in vain endeavored to use the discarded mountain road.

The wreckage seemed significant of how little hope he might have of passers-by. Rexford groaned aloud, his wound reminding him that he might die there, so far as Carshalton's mercy went.

He shouted at the top of his voice, again and again, but only the echoes or the shrill cry of frightened woodpeckers answered him. His head dropped on his arms; he abandoned himself to despair for what seemed a century.

Then suddenly the stillness of the mountain woods was broken. Plaintive, sweet, tuned to a monotone, came the voice of a woman.

The melody, dropping like honey of strange sweetness from her lips, was only a wild camp-meeting hymn, but Ellen McArthur's thoughts were not on the church. Wrapped in a maiden dream of her own, not less potently glamourous for its primeval qualities, she came on swift, bare feet around the corner, and found herself shocked from her visions of love to a comprehension of tragedy.

"Was that you a-hollerin'?" she cried in quick repentance. "I never 'lowed there wuz anybody in trouble—jest thought 'twas one o' them valley hunters yellin' to his mates. The idgits air allers gettin' losted. What's the matter?"

"My leg is broken," said Rexford feverishly. "Look here, girl, there's a man gone ahead of me. He wants to send a message by wire at the station below. Mine must get in first. Take it there before him, and you shall have $500 of your own."

Her eyes flashed fire, not with lust of the money, but with the thought of how easily it would solve the problem of extreme poverty which had so delayed her wedding.

"That feller who's tryin' to git his in fust," she returned rapidly, "was he in er gray suit, carryin' er rifle, ridin' a bay?"

"Yes, yes!"

"Too late," said the girl bitterly. "I seed him from the p'int up yonder 15 minutes ago. He'd git thar afore me best I could do!" Then a rich color flooded her face—she laughed out, mellowly, triumphantly. "No, he won't, neither! I'll head him off yet! Quick stranger, gimme your piece er writing."

"I must write it first," gasped Rexford. "But how are you—"

"Don't waste no time talkin'—do it!"

Fired, in spite of his disbelief, with new hope, Rexford, in painful haste, managed to scribble his warning on the back of a torn envelope in pencil.

That finished, he found the girl supporting one of the substantial old wheels of the ox-wagon. She had snatched a long, faded ribbon from her hair, letting down the tumbled masses of black, and now she bound the message firmly to the hub of the wheel and then dictated another to the astounded Rexford:

"Mister Agent, send this soon's you clap eyes on it, er don't you never show yourself near Ellen."

She tied this command securely to Rexford's message, observing sagely that he would understand, meaning the operator.

"But surely," cried Rexford, "you are not so mad as to think you can roll that wheel down the side, blocked as it is by a thousand obstacles?"

"Mad?" said the girl. "I don't git mad very often, stranger."

She vanished behind a huge rock, which on the lower side partially cut off the view of the valley.

Tormented beyond words by an agony of mind worse than that of his body, Rexford actually rose. He was near the boulder. By clinging to its rough surface he managed to attain the other side.

Then he understood her idea. Fifty feet below them began an almost perpendicular tie-chute, or slide, once used for sending white-oak ties to the railroad below. It ran sheer to the track. As far as Rexford could see nothing stood in the way.

The girl having struggled to a good starting point, now stood poising the great wheel. Her long hair blew backward in the wind, her wide eyes were fixed eagerly on the course. Never helmsman looked more anxiously to his ship than she to her wheel of fortune. Her small, bare feet, seeming the smaller for her lithe and graceful height, were dug desperately into the leaf-mould, for the weight of the wheel was pulling to be free.

At last, after what seemed to Rexford an age, she loosed it. It bounded wildly forward, while she, glancing upward to her companion, clapped her hands joyously.

"It's gwine!" she cried. "It's gwine! It'll go plum to the very kyar-track, plum into Seth's door! Thar it goes—thar! Thar!"

In anguished suspense, Rexford clung to the bowlder, while his companion called out the progress his eyes were too dim to follow.

"See how small it's gittin'—no bigger than mammy's ole platter! You'll hatter go pretty fast, mister man down thar, if you git in fust. Hard work ketchin' up with a woman an' a wheel! Thar, clip! hit's on the track. Hooray! Seth's seed hit—he's on ther kyar-line hisself. I'd know that red shirt of hisn in a thousan'. He's bendin' over hit!"

She turned and climbed back toward Rexford, tossing the wind-tangled hair from her forehead with satisfaction as she talked. "Don't ye fret, stranger, hit's all right. I reckon I might ez well tell ye—Seth will do anything fer me. He's to be my man. I don't allers run ez wild-lookin' ez you ketched me, fer I had jest slipped down here ter peep at ther office from that big rock. You bet he'll send it. You warn't foolin' me 'bout that money—was you?"

This query was not answered until later, when she met full assurance of her prize. Rexford had fainted.

Below, the astounded agent had barely secured and promptly dispatched the message so cavalierly hurled at him (he happened to be lounging on the platform as the impromptu wheel struck the track) when a horseman galloped up and swung into the narrow office.

"Send that message, instantly!" he said imperatively, flinging a piece of paper on the table. "Mark it 'rush.'"

The operator read it slowly aloud, to make sure he had deciphered it correctly, then as he sat down he said dryly, with the freedom of the provincial:

"Sort of a contrairy-minded fellow! Air you his agent?"

Carshalton nodded. "Why?"

"Oh, nothin'; only I jest sent one from him to the same party sayin' the Lady Lu' wuz the biggest swindle out."

Carshalton went purple.

"You lie! He could not. I left him—that is, I know I got here first."

"I ain't disputin' that," returned the agent coolly, his shrewd mind suddenly grasping an inkling of the truth. "He ain't been here, but his message has. Thar's the copy ef you un don't believe me."

Carshalton snatched up the shakily scrawled message. "How did it get here?" he asked, burning with suppressed rage.

"How'd it come? It—say, do you want me to send this er not?"

"Damn you—no! How did this come?"

"By the partic'lar post," said the operator, grinning. "See that ole wheel out thar? Smartes' woman in the state sent it down the tie-chute! Come like greased lightnin,' just afore you turned up, and—say, stranger, but you can swear!"

NEVER A MAN TO BE ENVIED.

Philadelphia Writer's Idea of Status to Be Accorded Bachelor in Society.

The bachelor is punished already, not only in losing the joys of a home, but being an object of contumely. So long as bachelors are willing to put up with all the losses they sustain in celibacy far be it from the majesty of the law to impose further penalties. It was Cicero or a man of his day who remarked that it was onerous for a man to get along with a wife, but impossible to get along without one. The bachelor is not a man—only a more or less imitation of one—sometimes a very poor one. He thinks he has a good time in escaping all the major responsibilities of life, but he is deceiving no one but himself. As an example and a warning he has his uses in society. As an individual he is apt to find that he is eating only apples of Sodom. The man who deliberately remains a bachelor is already punished enough. Let him alone in his misery until some nice girl comes along and carries him off. And we may remark that no man is a bachelor of his own initiative—no matter how much he may think so. He is simply a human derelict whom the women have examined and passed by. The bachelors are the disjecta membra of society whom no woman will have. That is awful and it is enough. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

MUSIC APPEALS TO ESKIMOS.

Voices Good and They Sing in Tune, According to Traveler in Regions of the North.

Music is one of the chief pleasures and accomplishments of the Eskimos. At the Labrador missions violins are used by them in the church choir, and brass bands are organized. In "Along the Labrador Coast" Dr. Townsend tells of an evening's entertainment with the Eskimos at Nain.

"For over an hour these natives sing to us," he says, "familiar music with Eskimo words—'Rock of Ages,' 'Holy Night,' interspersed with what I take to be secular songs. Their voices are harmonious and the singing is of a superior order. We return the compliment in the only way we can with a graphophone. It is indeed a terrible come-down to 'The Old Apple Tree' and 'Everybody Works But Father,' but the Eskimos seem to enjoy it, and greet the songs and their explanation by the interpreter with peals of laughter.

"A song in which a man beats his wife seems especially to amuse them. A Moravian brother told me that they had been unable to win the Eskimo from the wife-beating habit. Even the wives resent any interference on this score.

"An Irish jig makes them shake with joy, and I am sure they would dance were there room to stir."

Terms for Inebriety.

According to Hotten, some of the terms denoting inebriety are as follows: Beery, bemused, boozy, bosky, corned, foggy, fou, fresh, hazy, elevated, kisky, lushy, moony, muggy, muzzy, on, screwed, stewed, tight and winy. In an intermediate class stand podgy, beargered, blued, cut, primed, lumpy, plowed, muddled, obfuscated, swipey, three sheets in the wind and topheavy. "But the acme," says the same authority, "is only obtained when the disguised individual 'can't see a hole in the ladder,' or when he is 'all mops and brooms,' or 'off his nut,' or 'with his main-brace well spliced,' or 'with the sun in his eyes,' or when he has 'lapped the gutter' and 'got the gravel rash,' or 'on the rantan,' or 'on the re-raw,' or when he is 'sewed up,' or 'regularly scammered.'"

Getting Into Practice.

It is often pleasanter to theorize than to perform. A young law student, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, was making a study of certain processes of his future profession. He showed an inclination to sit in the house and speculate idly, instead of doing some of the domestic tasks which stood waiting.

"Deduction is an interesting process," declared the youth to his father. "For example, there is a heap of ashes in the yard. That is evidence that the family has recently had fires."

"Well, John," interrupted his father, "suppose you pursue your studies a little farther by going out and sifting that pile of ashes. —Youth's Companion.

Dickens' Method of Speaking.

Before making a speech Charles Dickens would decide on his various heads and then in his mind's eye liken the whole subject to the tire of a cart wheel—he being the hub. From the hub to the tire he would run as many spokes as there were subjects to be treated and during the progress of the speech he would deal with each spoke separately, elaborating them as he went round the wheel; and when all the spokes dropped out one by one and nothing but the tire and space remained he would know that he had accomplished his task and that his speech was at an end.

American Girls Responsible.

Probably the American woman is answerable for a good deal of the unrest among the daughters of France for she comes among them with all sorts of daring projects and perfectly lovely clothes. She marries their brothers, she studies art, music and literature in their country and she walks serenely on along the path of liberty, to the amazement of men, angels and the Parisian.—The Queen.

GOOD DRIED FRUITS

THEIR POSSIBILITIES IN THE WAY OF DESSERTS.

Are Most Delicious and Wholesome When Properly Cooked—How to Retain Sweetness and Flavor of Fresh Fruit.

At this season, as the preserve closet stores are dwindling on the shelves, the housewife naturally turns to dried and evaporated fruits. Properly cooked, the dried fruits are delicious and wholesome. The only reason that their popularity has ever waned has been due to bad cooking. All dried fruits require long soaking to restore the lost juices, then slow cooking to develop the latent sweetness and fruit flavor. Prunes cooked in this way need no sugar at all, unless one has a phenomenally sweet tooth. Currants and raisins lend themselves to a great variety of wholesome dishes, the currant particularly being now recognized as a real health food. Carefully dried apples make a sauce almost as good as the fresh apples, to say nothing of delicious pies and cakes. Cherries, plums and pears properly treated may be used satisfactorily almost any way that fresh fruits are cooked.

Few housekeepers realize the possibilities of dried apricots as the basis of delicious desserts. Added to mincemeat or combined with other dried fruit their delicate acid flavor serves to bring out the rich flavor of other ingredients. They require long soaking—from ten to twenty hours—using plenty of sugar in the water in which they are soaked; if they are ripe and appetizing they are then ready for use, without any cooking whatever. Simply drain, boil the sirup down one-half and pour over the fruit. If the fruit was put up a little green they may need some cooking; but it must be a gentle simmer, not a rapid boil, which toughens.

A nice combination of flavors is found by using equal quantities of prunes and apricots. Wash thoroughly and soak over night in water to cover. The next morning simmer until tender, then press through a colander. Sweeten to taste and cook a little longer. Serve as sauce or allow a tablespoonful gelatin to each pint of the cooked fruit. Soak the gelatin in cold water for half an hour, then dissolve in boiling water or over the tea kettle. Stir thoroughly in with the fruit, turn into a mold and set in a cool place to harden. Serve with cream.

Cherry Salad.

Two cups of canned cherries, one cup canned pineapple cut in small pieces, one cup white grapes, from which the seeds are removed, cut in quarter, and one-half cup English walnut kernels. Mix fruit and nuts together. Add mayonnaise dressing mixed with cream. Do not mix until before serving. This serves six or seven people.

Tapioca Salad.

Cook one cup of tapioca until transparent. Remove seeds from half a pound of large white grapes and cut in halves; three large bananas, two oranges, one cup of pineapple, all cut in small pieces, and one cup of cherries. Add to this the cooked tapioca, mix thoroughly, spread with shredded cocoanut and serve with whipped cream.

Dainty Orange Baskets.

Use large, well-formed oranges. Cut out two corners to make a handle to the basket, scoop out inside. Make a filling of tapioca cream flavored with the orange juice; let cream cool, fill the orange basket with the cream and top with whipped cream. Add either a maraschino cherry or a dot of red jelly to either side of handle.

Winter Chili Sauce.

One can of tomatoes, two large onions, one tablespoon of salt, one teaspoon of pepper or a pinch of cayenne, one cup of sugar, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half teaspoon each of the different spices. Let cook slowly about two hours. It is nice on beans or cold meats and can hardly be told from fresh tomatoes.

Apple Sauce Pie.

Line a plate with plain paste. Cover bottom with pieces of bread spread with butter. Over this pour custard made of one egg, one tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoonful cornstarch and one cup milk. Upon this spread apple sauce thickly and sprinkle with cinnamon, then bake until custard is thick.

Sardine Appetizer.

Have bread toasted crisp, hard crust removed. Beat together one teaspoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of mustard, a little cayenne pepper, one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and a little lemon juice. Spread on toast, lay on sardines and set in oven a few minutes before serving.

Sandwich Ham.

After boiling a piece of ham the short, shank end is generally stringy and often wasted. If this is passed twice through a meat chopper and then mixed with a little sweet cream it makes ham which is excellent for sandwiches.

Time Savers.

When ready to core apples, if you do not own a corer, use a common wooden clothes pin—does the work just as well.

Pirates of the Air

"They come like thieves in the night, dropping hundreds of feet from high up in the sky, catch themselves, circle once or twice, then come at the owl like a thunderbolt."

A quotation from the unusual and interesting story of decoying hawks, which is but one of the many splendidly illustrated articles which appear in the big March issue of

KICK OR BE GENTLE

PROBLEM EACH MAN MUST SETTLE FOR HIMSELF.

Mr. MacQuilltinbee Somewhat Puzzled Over the Proper Course to Pursue—Much in Selecting the Right Time.

"Do we," said Mr. MacQuilltinbee, "get more by kicking for what we want or in the long run do we get more by being patient and waiting?

"This is a question that each of us must settle for himself and it is, I suppose, largely a matter of individuality of temperament. Some men are natural, hardy, able kickers, who kick for what they want and get it, and some of us are timid and non-aggressive, no kickers at all, and so it might seem that really this is a question not worth discussing, that will settle itself automatically in each case according to the man.

"Still there are many men not natural fighters, but who have in them a spark of fight, to whom this question of whether to fight or not must often recur. Shall I kick against this injustice or these cold plates at the boarding house or this poor pay? Shall I kick against any of the many things that may afflict us or shall I be patient and wait for this thing to right itself? This to many a man who may be gentle but who takes life hard may often be a very grave question and very hard to settle.

"People do respect us more if we don't lay down and let people walk on us, and we know that if we are content to be sat on we shall continue to be sat on; but what are we going to do about it? Are we going to kick or be patient?

"There is much in knowing when and how to kick, for there are men who kick blunderingly and futilely, and then there are men who kick gently and kindly and yet with an evidence of reserve power and resolution behind the kick that brings respect and results.

"I am speaking now, you understand, not of the natural hardy kickers who with abundant ability to back them stride in and kick with vigor and power, getting what they want because they can make good, but of the multitude of men to whom, as I have said, whether to kick or not may be a grave question. These men must consider, and it may be that they do spend many trying days and nights in considering, whether they shall stand up and fight or let things go.

"These must have a clear cause, and they must know when to kick and how. If they succeed they take a step up, and then with broader resolution and greater strength, if they have got the stuff in them, they keep on. If they fail their case may be worse than before. It is a grave question for many people.

"As to many things that may not be purely personal we commonly leave the kicking to be done by other people; and in their kicking we may find much relief, but as to whether we ourselves shall kick or be patient, whether we shall try taking the bull by the horns and take the chance of being tossed, or sit down and wait, why, that still remains a question that each man must settle for himself."

Old Custom Under the Ban.

The custom of rewarding success on the dramatic stage with calls before the curtain has long been a thing of the past in some of the European theaters, says a Frankfort paper, and this has caused much heartache among those footlight heroes and heroines to whom it was a joy and a delight. This ancient mark of appreciation was a recompense for many tribulations, and in the houses where the rules now preclude it one great incentive to best effort is missing. At the Lessing theater in Berlin the actor now has a fellow sufferer because of restrictive rules as to the popular author. Formerly, when a new play was put on for the first time and well received, the author would be called before the curtain between the acts, and these calls were frequently prolonged. The new rule forbids this, and the audience may cry "Author" ever so vigorously, but he dare not show himself until the final curtain has fallen.

Need for More Playgrounds.

Twelve vacant lots have been secured by a number of New York women for playgrounds in the upper West side of the city, the Riverside branch of the New York Municipal league being the petitioning party to the city aldermen. Mrs. Clarence Burns is also asking for the playground in the name of the Little Mothers' Aid society. Mrs. Burns is a well-known clubwoman. It is reported that most of the arrests among the children of New York are for playing on the streets or in forbidden places.

Praises American Woman.

Mlle. Claire Ducreux, traveler, lecturer and writer, in a talk recently before a branch of the Alliance Francaise, said that the American woman, with her type yet unformed, is one of the greatest factors in the new civilization that America is giving the world, and upon her appreciation of her opportunities as an independent factor and as a helper of man depends the strength and weakness of that civilization.

DISCUSS "MEN'S CHURCH"

Bishop Scarborough at Episcopal Convention Speaks on Novel Idea.

LOCAL DELEGATES PRESENT.

The Diocese of New Jersey Is In Session at Burlington—Results of the Election.

Bishop Scarborough, who is presiding over the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey, which includes the parishes in Plainfield and North Plainfield, at St. Mary's church, Burlington, said yesterday that no action had been or would be taken on the "men's church" in Atlantic City. He added:

"I have never heard of any smoking or drinking of non-intoxicating beverages in the church in order to attract men to the services. All of the outside discussion is pure sensationalism, humbuggery and nonsense."

Among the delegates are Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church; Rev. Morgan Ashley, rector of St. Stephen's church; Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, and Rev. Charles Townsend, rector of Heavenly Rest church, all of Plainfield. There are also lay delegates from these parishes.

The "men's church" is an institution organized by Rev. Sidney Goodman, second assistant rector of Ascension church, Atlantic City, and has become widely known through its successful work in bringing under the influence of the church men who could not otherwise be reached. Rectors attending the convention denied that they had any criticism to make of Mr. Goodman's work, or that it had been referred to in convention as a "circus."

It was reported that the men's church had been bitterly assailed yesterday, and that in reply Mr. Goodman had declared that those who opposed his work were "mossbacks" and reactionaries. Mr. Goodman was not present yesterday, but William Rich, lay reader at Ascension church, was. He said:

"Excepting from a few extreme conservatices, I have never heard a word of criticism against the men's church. It does not hold sessions in the church proper, as some people seem to think, but in the guild house. The fact that cigars and soft drinks are passed around among those present is no crime. The late George C. Thomas, than whom no member of the Episcopalian church is more revered, once provided the same sort of refreshment in the guild house of the Church of the Apostles, in Philadelphia.

"These are not regular church meetings Mr. Goodman holds. He tries to get at his auditors as best he can, sometimes entertaining them with instructive steroptican exhibitions. One day six weeks ago we had an overflow meeting of 2,000 persons and were obliged to use the Morris Guard Armory.

"On his return from England Mr. Goodman will endeavor to build up a men's church at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., at the request of my brother, Rev. Ernest A. Rich, who has a charge there."

At yesterday's session of the convention an amendment to the canons which provided for a method of raising the bishop's salary from $4,000 a year by assessments on rectors' salaries instead of on churches, as heretofore, was defeated.

From sixteen names voted on the following eight were elected as a standing committee:

Rev. Alfred B. Baker, Princeton; Rev. Charles M. Perkins, Vineland; Rev. F. Olmsted, Burlington; Rev. H. M. Pearse, South Amboy; laymen, J. B. Woodward, Bordentown; Francis Collingwood, Elizabeth; David S. Baird, Beverly, and Charles Townsend, Elizabeth.

The trustees of the General Theological Seminary and all the other officers of the diocese were reelected.

In his report as chairman of the cathedral committee, Mr. Baker suggested the establishment of a cathedral system to consider all things pertaining to a complete cathedral organization. This aroused prolonged discussion, but it is thought the diocese has not sufficient funds to carry out a plan.

Court Adminsters Rebuke.

The first case of where Judge William Newcorn has been obliged to administer a public rebuke in the District court, for contempt, occurred this morning, Elmer Shattle being the victim. Shattle failed to obey an order of the court to appear in supplementary proceedings, and it was necessary to bring him to court. Judge Newcorn did not mince words. Shattle partially alleged that he was under the impression that the notice to appear came from a lawyer and not from the court.

HOPE ENDEAVORERS HAVE A BUSY SESSION

The postponed April business meeting of Hope chapel's Christian Endeavor Society was held last night at the close of the regular devotional meeting. President Snyder called for reports of officers and committees which were read and adopted. The society received an invitation to attend the county convention to be held on Tuesday night, May 18, at Summit, and after some discussion it was decided to accept. Frank Rimmer and Miss Bertha A. Jones were appointed a committee of two to complete arrangements.

The Warren chapel Endeavorers sent an invitation to its anniversary exercises to be held on Tuesday, May 25, and the secretary was instructed to send a letter of acceptance. A congress meeting of the local Christian Endeavor Union will be held in Hope chapel on Monday night. The social committee was authorized to make all arrangements for the entertainment of the members of the union for the occasion. Walter Firstbrook was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate the advisability of establishing a junior society at Hope chapel. He was authorized to select two others to assist him in the matter.

It was decided to take charge of the Sunday evening services on July 4, that day being "Christian Endeavor Sunday" throughout the world. The subject will be "Patriotism that Counts." The matter was referred to the prayer-meeting committee.

These committees were announced for the year: Missionary, Mary N. Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Clark, Jessie Duncan and Frank Rimmer; prayer-meeting, Bertha A. Jones, Clara Hunter, Peter C. Sweeney, Walter Firstbrook and Mary N. Mortimer; social, Mrs. Harry Keen, William Baker, Elizabeth Slorah, James Roberson and Harry Kenny; Becker, W. Morris Hunter and Peter lookout, Edna Eckert, Elizabeth C. Sweeny; flower committee, Eunice Eckart, Elsie Rimmer, Mrs. William Baker and May Ardern.

SOMERVILLE'S ELKS ARE TWO YEARS OLD.

Somerville Lodge, No. 1068, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, is celebrating its second anniversary with a two day minstrel show in Somerset hall, its first performance last night being attended by a throng that crowded the hall. Every seat is sold for the performance tonight. The lodge was assisted by the Dixie chorus from the Plainfield lodge. The exalted ruler, A. W. Mack, was interlocutor. End men were B. T. Conkling and J. Edgar Griggs.

The committee in charge included Dr. Wallace F. Naylor, chairman; Chester A. Cawley, treasurer; William D. Nolan, Clarence E. Case and J. Edgar Griggs. Music committee, H. Dayton Hoagland and Edward A. Myers. The ushers last night were Joseph F. Lake, John A. Maxwell, John G. Gaston, Alan Driscall and S. Judson Galpin. For tonight they are William D. Nolan, William E. Maxwell, Joseph V. Woodruff, Howard Stryker and A. M. Beekman.

The lodge was organized at Somerville with twenty-three charter members, mainly through the efforts of Frederick Wink, who was its first exalted ruler. This is the only lodge of Elks in Somerset county.

The lodge intends soon to own its own building, arrangements to purchase property in Main street having been under way for some time. Present officers of the lodge are: Exalted ruler, A. W. Mack; esteemed leading knight, F. A. Pope; esteemed loyal knight, B. T. Conkling; esteemed lecturing knight, C. A. Cawley; secretary, J. V. Woodruff, and treasurer, C. D. McMurtry.

It Never Fails.

A child's Irish lace collar was advertised in The Daily Press as lost by Mrs. I. N. Van Sickle, of this city. The collar was found by Mrs. W. W. Coriell, of 1200 Denmark road, a reader of this newspaper, and returned to the owner. Another instance showing how advertising in The Daily Press pays is found in the way H. Hanson, of 322 West Front street, secured her gold watch which was lost. She inserted a small adv. in The Daily Press, and Charles Emmons, of Steiner place, the borough, a subscriber, found it and returned it to the owner, refusing a reward.

Mrs. Beeken's Funeral Today.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, will be in charge of the funeral of Mrs. Cornelia Beeken, to be held this afternoon at the home of her son, Alfred D. Beeken, of North avenue, Fanwood. The interment will be at Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn. Mrs. Beeken was for forty-five years a member of the old First Baptist church, Brooklyn, now known as the Temple.

UNION CO. GETS $6,000 FROM THE AUTO FUND

Assurance was practically given the members of the County Road Committee of the Board of Freeholders by State Road Commissioner Frederick Gilkyson, at a conference which was held yesterday afternoon in his office in Trenton, that Union county would receive from the State automobile money between $6,000 and $8,000 for repair work on the county roads.

In view of this assurance, and as Mr. Gilkyson expressed his approval of the repair work the members of the Road Committee have decided upon as the result of their annual inspection, the work of repairing will be begun at once. Contractors will begin on St. George avenue this week. Just what sum the county will get from the automobile fund will not be known until July 1, when the money will be awarded.

While the conference was being held in Trenton yesterday, Mr. Gilkyson approved of the plans and specifications for the four new roads to be built in the county this year. His approval will be reported at the meeting of the Freeholders tomorrow and the roads will be formally adopted. Contracts will be awarded separately and an effort will be made to have the work on all the roads started at the same time. It will probably be June, however, before, the construction work is begun. Like the repair work, the new roads will be constructed with the new method of using plastic binders.

These four new roads are: Terrill road, from Fanwood to Two Bridges; Jefferson avenue, in Plainfield; Edgar road, from Elizabeth to Rahway, and Walnut avenue, from Cranford to Clark township.

Several other matters of importance will come before the meeting tomorrow. The members of the Road Committee and others who were at Trenton yesterday were Director King, Freeholders Krouse and Wilbur, and County Engineers Bauer and Hubbard.

ALLEGED FIRE-BUG IS PLACED ON TRIAL

Leonard Martine, a former employe of William E. VanCourt, of Oak Tree, was arraigned in the Middlesex County Court, yesterday, before Judge Lyons, on two indictments, one for arson and the other for attempted incendiarism, being accused of setting fire to Mr. VanCourt's barn on September 17, 1908, and attempting to set fire to his house.

There was an unusual termination to this trial, which proved to be a mis-trial. A drag-net was thrown out for a jury, and the available men all disappeared, making it impossible to proceed. This morning another attempt was made to proceed and another mis-trial was narrowly averted. The court had excused sixteen jurors and the panel of thirty had been exhausted. At first it looked as though the trial would be held up, but Prosecutor Booraem got the permission of the court to select jurors from the court room. In this way the box was filled.

William VanCourt was the only witness examined today, an adjournment being taken at 1 o'clock until Monday. Mr. VanCourt testified that Martine had been in his employ five years, that he was discharged on September 12, and he alleged that Martine made threats that he would "get even." On September 17 he said his barn was destroyed by fire and an attempt was made to set fire to his house. He did not see Martine again until he was arrested in this city on September 23 last.

Attorney Harry B. Cook, of New Brunswick, is counsel for the defendant, and is said to have prepared a strong line of defense.

New Stationery Store.

James C. Field, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Field, of West Sixth street, has leased the store on Park avenue, formerly occupied by Harper, the stationery, and after making a complete renovation, will stock the place with a fine line of fresh stationery of all kinds. He will also sell the daily newspapers. Mr. Field will begin business next week.

She Gets Forty Days.

Mrs. Elizabeth Vardon, whose love of booze has got her into police court almost as often as James McCauley, got a forty day sentence from City Judge Runyon this morning. She was found helplessly drunk on East Second street early last evening and was taken to the police station in the patrol wagon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Overland is seriously ill at her home on West Third street, having been stricken with paralysis.

SEARCHING FOR BROKAW

His Victim, Rafferty, Made Important Statement Before He Died.

ASSAILANT WEAK MENTALLY.

Middlesex's Prosecutor Views Body and Dunellen Undertaker Takes Charge of the Remains.

No trace of Clifford Brokaw, the young Lincoln man who is wanted by the Middlesex county authorities for the murder of John Rafferty at Lincoln, has yet been found, although the police have instituted a careful search. It is reported that he was seen yesterday morning at Bound Brook. At the time he fled, Brokaw, who is but twenty years old, wore blue overalls over heavy corduroy trousers and a corduroy cap.

Rafferty's body was held at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday until the arrival of County Prosecutor Booraem, who came to this city from New Brunswick. Undertaker Walter G. Runyon, of Dunellen, then took charge of it, but the arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

Although no ante-mortem statement was made by Rafferty, who died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at Muhlenberg Hospital, Assistant County Prosecutor Hetfield talked with the man before the operation which resulted in his death. Rafferty acknowledged that he had been drinking, but declared that he was not intoxicated. He said he came home from work at about noon Saturday, and after eating dinner, worked in the garden, repairing chicken runs. About the middle of the afternoon, he started out to secure some eggs for setting. While on his way, he met Brokaw, who taunted him without provocation, according to his story, and then ran home. Rafferty followed slowly, and told Mr. Hetfield that he went to Brokaw's home to tell his mother that the young man must stop plaguing him or he would make a complaint against him. Brokaw was inside when he reached the house, and Rafferty declared that the young man fired at him from the house, without provocation. Rafferty's wife and one of his daughters saw the shooting, and there were three other witnesses.

People up at Lincoln believe that Brokaw is mentally deficient, for the young man has a reputation for doing queer things around the town. He is an enthusiastic hunter, and for some time during the hunting season lived alone in a hut. He is a great tree climber, and Lincolnites believe that he did not leave town on a freight train as was first thought, but went off into the woods and concealed himself in a tree somewhere. He is an expert shot with revolver or shot-gun.

Some time ago Brokaw was brought before a justice of the peace at Lincoln and put under bonds to keep the peace. This was brought about by a prank of marksmanship, which badly frightened several Lincoln men. These men were talking together near the road, and stood leaning on a wire fence. Brokaw, according to the story, came up behind them with a shot-gun and fired. His shot cut the wire and the line of men fell over into the road.

Executor's Sale of Real Estate.

John H. Van Winkle, executor of the last will and testament of Catharine R. Webster, deceased, will expose for sale at public vendue on Monday, the 10th day of May, A. D. 1909, at 2 p. m., on the premises, all that certain tract of vacant land of which Catharine R. Webster died seized, situated on the southwesterly side of Watchung avenue, between East Fourth street and East Fifth street, in the City of Plainfield, N. J. This property adjoins the new laundry property of Harry W. Marshall, and has a frontage of about 202 feet and is especially desirable for building purposes. All persons interested in the sale of real estate in this city should take notice of the time and place of sale.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES BY HIS OWN HAND

Married two weeks ago to Mrs. Mary Wiley, of New York, Captain A. P. S. Armstrong, of East Rutherford, is dead today at Rutherford, a suicide. A few days ago Captain and Mrs. Armstrong had a disagreement, and she left him. Armstrong was about fifty-four years old. He committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas at his home, 24 Boiling Spring avenue, in Rutherford. He had apparently planned his death carefully. Upon the chiffonier of the bedroom, where his body was found, was discovered a card, on which was written "God bless the United States solitude. Rev. W. A. Long, of Arlington, will open my desk." The first sentence of the note is thought to be an ironic reference to the departure of his wife.

He mailed a letter Tuesday night at 7 o'clock to Cornelius Collins, of Rutherford. The letter asked Mr. Collins to call at the house yesterday morning. In it was enclosed a note to a Mr. Calulow, of the firm of Cook & Co., directing him to pay to Rev. Mr. Long the proceeds of a draft.

Mr. Collins called at 9 o'clock yesterday. As the outside door was locked, and he could get no response he broke the door open. Upon entering a strong odor of gas came from the captain's bedroom. The door was broken open by Chief of Police George McClelland. Armstrong was in bed. The body was cold. Dr. W. E. Ogden, a neighbor, said he had been dead some time.

He was seen at a moving picture show at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, and seemed then in good spirits. When he was married the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Long. The captain told Mr. Collins six weeks ago he would not live long.

Coroner C. A. Demund, of Ridgewood, ordered the body removed to the morgue. Mr. Armstrong was a retired English army officer. He had lived at Rutherford four years, coming from this city. He is survived, besides his widow, by one son, George H. Armstrong, of Rutherford.

MRS. PHEBE H. VAIL DEAD IN EIGHTY-SEVENTH YEAR

Mrs. Phebe H. Vail, widow of Theodore Vail, aged eighty-six years, and one of the oldest members of the Religious Society of Friends in this city, whose place of meeting is on Watchung avenue, died this morning, at her home on Orange place, from troubles incident a severe attack of acute indigestion and old age.

Mrs. Vail's maiden name was Phebe Harned and she was born near Rahway. She spent the greater part of her life here, although at brief intervals her residence was elsewhere, one time being in Indianapolis. Her husband died about twenty years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Harry C. Vail and Mrs. Harry C. Adams, of this city, and Mrs. Thomas A. Field, of Port Chester, N. Y. The funeral service will be held from the Friends' Meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the burial will be in the cemetery in the rear of the meeting-house.

FINGERS CRUSHED IN PULLEY ON HOISTING MACHINERY.

While playing about some hoisting machinery on Washington avenue near the glove factory yesterday afternoon, eight-year-old Henry Dreier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dreier, of West Front street, had the fingers of his right hand crushed in a pulley. The thumb has been amputated, but it is believed the other crushed fingers can be saved.

Dreier was with his playmates in the street when the accident happened. He had seized a rope used in the hoisting and his hand was caught in the pulley before he could let go. Dr. C. B. Lufburrow was summoned, and the child is now under his care.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Pfanstiehl.

Mrs. Pfanstiehl, wife of Rev. Dr. A. A. Pfanstiehl, pastor of the Second Reformed church, Somerville, was stricken with apoplexy at 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, following a meeting of the missionary society, where she made a strong address, and died at her home at 8 o'clock last night. Her sudden death was a great shock to her many friends in Somerville, where she was loved and esteemed. Dr. Pfanstiehl was but recently installed as pastor of the Second Reformed church, Somerville. Mrs. Pfanstiehl leaves, besides a husband, a son, an electrician, who resides at Lake Forest, Illinois.

SUES FOR EXPENSES TO FIREMEN'S MEETING

The first case to determine whether delegates from local firemen's relief associations to the State association convention shall have their expenses paid by the association they represent or be obliged to pay them out of their own pockets, was begun in the District Court, this morning, before Judge Newcorn. The action was brought by Daniel W. Littell, of this city, against the Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association, which he represented at the last State convention as delegate, to recover $11.30 incurred as expenses. V. W. Nash, Jr., and Winfield S. Angleman represented the complainant, and W. A. Cotter, of Newark, State counsel for the State Exempt Firemen's Association, represented the defendant.

The suit, which is in the nature of a friendly one, is brought chiefly for the purpose of obtaining the proper construction of the law governing the two bodies, and the decision to be obtained from the higher courts, to which the case will be referred, will affect every local association in the State.

Mr. Cotter was not ready this moning, as John Gibson, chairman of the legislative committee from the association, and a material witness, was detained by illness. The court, however, consented to proceed and hear the plaintiff's side and then adjourn for a week to complete the case. Mr. Littell, the complainant, and G. Thorn, secretary of the local association, were called as witnesses simply to prove that the former was the recognized delegate from the association to the State convention and to prove his bill of $11.30.

It was claimed that inasmuch as the officers of the Exempt Firemen's Association are members of the relief association, that they are entitled to the same privileges as granted under the law to the Exempt Firemen's association, which permits the payment of delegate's expenses to the State convention. This action has been delayed for a long time, but haste is now urged because the State association will meet on May 19.

LITTLE GIRLS RAISED $90 TO HELP POOR CHILDREN.

More than $90 was realized for summer work among poor children by a sale and entertainment held under the auspices of the King's Daughters' Circle, "Little Helpers for Little People," at the home of Mrs. George A. Beaton, of West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon. There was excellent vocal music by Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Lovell, and Joseph McIntyre played several selections. In addition to this, a unique entertainment was presented by the sixteen little girls who are members of the organization.

Refreshments were served and there was a sale of toys. The tea table was in charge of Mrs. Edward Van Buren and Mrs. Henry Irons, and Miss Louise Andrews presided at the punch bowl. The affair was largely attended.

CAR JUMPS THE TRACK. DAMAGES MARSHALL'S AUTO.

Jumping the track at Fourth street and Watchung avenue, eastbound main line trolley cars No. 1924 crashed into Harry Marshall's automobile last night at shortly after 7 o'clock and the machine was badly damaged. Mr. Marshall had just left the machine and entered the store. The big car lurched into the automobile, smashing the lamps and bending up the radiator.

The rear trucks of the car left the rails entirely and it was fifty minutes before it was able to proceed. No passengers were injured. The car was in charge of Conductor W. Brassfield and Motorman L. A. Mayer, both of Elizabeth.

Celebrates Birthday Anniversary.

Master John Mehlenbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Mehlenbeck, of East Sixth street, celebrated the fifth anniversary of his birthday this afternoon. A number of his young playmates were present and enjoyed the occasion with him. The usual birthday cake with five lighted candles, was a feature of the event.

Rev. Samuel Herivitz to Speak.

Rev. Samuel Herivitz, missionary among the Jews of Newark, will speak about his work at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Dayton, 237 East Sixth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Herivitz is an interesting speaker and has had many remarkable experiences which he will relate.

Christian Endeavor Musicale.

The music committee of the Seventh-Day Baptist Christian Endeavor Society will give a musical evening in the church parlors tonight, assisted by W. K. Flannigan, of Newark, as reader. A silver offering will be received.

MRS. PARKHURST AGAIN HEADS M'ALL WORKERS

Widows of Three Former Presidents of the United States are Among the New Vice-Presidents.

CONVENTION'S FINAL SESSIONS.

Rev. Dr. Charles Merle d'Aubigne, of Paris, to Address Delegates This Afternoon.

The widows of three former presidents of the United States were chosen as vice presidents of the McAll Association of America at the closing sessions of the twenty-sixth annual convention today at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. They are Mrs. Grover Cleveland, of New Jersey; Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, asd Mrs. James A. Garfield, of North Ohio. Mrs. Charles H. Parkhurst, the wife of the noted New York divine, was again elected president.

After the devotional services, which were led by Mrs. G. W. B. Cushing, and the reading of the minutes the election was held. These were chosen: President, Mrs. Charles H. Parkhurst, New York city; vice presidents, Mrs. James A. Garfield, of Northern Ohio; Mrs. J. V. Farwell, of Illinois; Mrs. Henry A. Laughlin, of Western Pennsylvania; Mrs. A. F. Beard, of Eastern New York; Mrs. W. H. Fenn, of Maine; Mrs. C. VanR. Berry, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. A. L. Crocker and C. A. Severance, of Minnesota; Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana; Mrs. John S. Newberry, of Michigan; Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Mrs. F. P. Dwight, of New Jersey; Mrs. Edward H. Semple, of Missouri, Mrs. Samuel M. Vail, of Northern New York; Mrs. J. S. Berry, Maryland; Mrs. H. N. Paul, of Eastern Pennsylvania; Mrs. W. W. Seely, of Southern Ohio; Mrs. Lawrence Myers, of Central New Jersey; Mrs. J. W. Warren, of New York city; Miss McVickars, of Rhode Island, and Miss Anna L. Daws, of Massachusetts; secretary, Mrs. John H. Scribner, of Philadelphia; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. L. Wayland, of Philadelphia; general secretary, Miss Harriet Harvey, of Philadelphia; treasurer, Mrs. A. R. Perkins. On the Board of Directors are: Mrs. W. R. Nicholson, of Philadelphia; Mrs. J. F. Keator, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Robert La Boutillier, of Wayne, and Miss Ida Simpson.

After the election of officers Miss Mary Jordan Dimock, of Elizabeth, who has recently returned from Paris, brought a greeting from Salle Rivoli, where is established one of the most prosperous auxiliaries. Mrs. James M. Speers, the next speaker, told of the work that was actually going on in the hall and school rooms of the McAll Association.

The last speaker at the morning session was Miss Florence St. J. Baldwin, who spoke briefly concerning some individual workers. Mrs. Frank B. Kelly proposed that during January the Sunday-schools set aside one Sunday as "McAll Day." Two hundred dollars more was raised this morning for the publicity fund.

Rev. Charles Merle d'Aubigne, of Paris, France, representing the French Reformed church, who arrived from that country yesterday, was the principal speaker at the closing session this afternoon. He is a brother of Henri d'Aubigne, the head of the McAll Auxiliary in France and is a son of the noted historian. The clergyman himself represents the home mission department of the Presbyterian church's work in France and while in this country will attend a Pan-Presbyterian Conference in New York. His subject this afternoon was "The Reformation of France to the Protestant Faith." He dwelt at length on the causes that led up to the separation of Church and State in his country.

Last night's session at the church was largely attended. The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn, after which there was the Scripture reading by the Rev. Chas. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, and a prayer by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. The address of the evening was made by the Rev. Dr. Rockwell H. Potter, pastor of the Congregational church, Hart-

$500,000 a Year for Trolley Franchises

This is another talk by PUBLIC SERVICE about what the company pays for the privilege of operating trolley cars over its tracks on the public streets and highways.

As PUBLIC SERVICE said last week, some folk seem to have the impression that this privilege was secured without compensation; that the right to do business in the streets costs the company "practically nothing."

As a piece of important information PUBLIC SERVICE told in its previous talk how it had expended, in round figures, $2,250,000 for street paving, during the six years of its existence, every dollar of which directly benefited the municipalities in which the work was done.

A WORD ABOUT FRANCHISE TAXES.

This talk is about another item of expenditure, a large and constantly growing one, which the company has to meet, solely for the privilege of doing business. It is about the franchise taxes which the company pays yearly.

PUBLIC SERVICE, be it understood, pays taxes on its real and personal property in the same manner and at the same rates as every other taxpayer.

In addition to this, PUBLIC SERVICE pays a franchise tax based on its gross receipts. The percentage assessed is fixed by law, and the tax is apportioned according to the value of the company's property located in the streets of the various municipalities. Every penny of the tax is paid to the municipalities and helps, by just so much, to reduce the tax bills of the individual taxpayers.

HOW FRANCHISE TAXES GROW.

What these taxes have amounted to since PUBLIC SERVICE was organized is shown by the following figures:

Year.	Amount.
1903	$131,344.82
1904	152,628.97
1905	158,088.55
1906	168,655.89
1907	228,734.27
1908	293,045.38
Total for six years	$1,132,490.88

You will observe that the increase for 1907 over 1906 was $60,078 and the gain for 1908 over 1907 was $64,311. Previous years showed no such growth.

FRANCHISE TAX RATE INCREASED.

The reason for this is that prior to 1906 the franchise tax was two per cent. of the company's gross receipts, and in that year the Legislature changed the law and provided for an increase of one-half of one per cent. each year until 1911, when the rate will have reached five per cent., at which figure, the statute says, it shall thereafter remain.

This means that within three or four years PUBLIC SERVICE will be paying the people, in franchise taxes and exclusive of other taxes, more than $500,000 a year from its street railway receipts alone. And the amount will keep growing larger and larger as the company's business expands.

LET THESE FACTS SINK IN

If you knew all this before, PUBLIC SERVICE believes it will do no harm to call the facts to your attention.

If you didn't know it perhaps it will give you something to think about.

In either case it will show that PUBLIC SERVICE is giving the people something more than trolley rides for the nickels the people pay.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Within the past three months nearly three hundred deeds for property on Five Mile Beach have been recorded in the Cape May County clerk's office.

Struck in the head with a cobblestone at Riverside, Peter Barry, forty years old, sustained a fracture of the skull and was taken to Cooper Hospital, Camden. He was injured during a quarrel.

A mass-meeting of Millville citizens has been called for Monday evening next by the Board of Trade, to discuss the raising of $20,000 to erect a building for the registry company, which wishes to locate there.

Officials of the recorder's court in Atlantic City were shocked when truant officers, who arrested half a dozen youngsters, informed Recorder Keffer that the wholesale truancy could be blamed on the attractions of crap and poker games.

Alighting from a trolley car in Trenton, yesterday, James Frost was struck by a carriage and tossed back against the car. The second blow threw him back against the carriage and knocked him down. One of the carriage wheels passed over him, but when a physician made an examination he could find only a few bruises.

Demurring against the report of Special Master in Chancery H. H. Voorhees, in which the latter advises a decree of divorce to Benton Gray, of Hammonton, counsel for the wife will ask to have the case reopened. It is claimed that the woman, a vaudeville actress, has a defense, which was not admitted before the special master.

After long-continued litigation, the Citizens' Gas Company, which draws its supply from the Millville gas plant, obtained a franchise from the Landis Township Committee by the vote of 3 to 2 Monday night, and at daylight a large force of men commenced to dig trenches to give the farmers of Clayville and South Vineland a chance to connect with the mains.

Preliminary steps have been taken by the Finance Committee of the Camden Council and the Board of Education for the erection of a new High School building. After several meetings behind closed doors a resolution was adopted providing for the issuance of $380,000 bonds. It is planned to use the present High School building as a manual training school as soon as the new building is erected.

Crooks who are believed to have a sense of humor are credited with having passed off bogus half-dollars on former City Recorder James H. Hayes, of Atlantic City, who had been out of office but three days when he discovered the bad coins in a bag of cash which he dumped on the counters of his bank. The irate young official, who is now assistant city solicitor, reported the matter at once to the police.

CIRCUS IN TOWN.

Frank A. Robbins All Feature Shows Will Exhibit in This City Tomorrow.

The famous circus will arrive during the small hours of the day and the experienced workmen will erect the big tents with the rapidity with which the mushroom springs from a pasture lot. The layman invariably marvels at the ease and quickness with which the circus men build the huge canvases from a comparatively chaotic intricacy of ropes, pulleys and poles. If one believed in the power of magicians, one would almost declare that every big circus must employ a wonderful magician to wave his wand over the men when they erect the tents. However, the combined efforts of all the magicians on the face of the earth would not prove efficacious in the matter of building the white tops; for there isn't a bit of magic connected with the work at all. It is simply system that does the trick—a splendid system which is carefully adhered to by every working man, from the superintendent down to the humblest canvasman. And to the careful observer, this system is truly admirable.

The ticket wagon and main entrance will open at one o'clock and the big show begins at two. The performance proper is one of the very best that has ever been given under canvas in this city.

The doors will be opened at seven o'clock for the evening performance at eight.

For National G. A. R. Meet.

A committee of 100 citizens of Atlantic City will meet Saturday to plan the invitation to the national encampment of the G. A. R., which is to be asked to hold its next meeting in Atlantic City. The State has appropriated $25,000 to defray the expense of the entertainment and the resort expects to raise from $40,000 to $50,000. The encampment is planned for September, 1910, and it is anticipated that more than 75,000 veterans will be in attendance.

George Miller is visiting relatives at Scotch Plains.

SON WILL REPRESENT GOVERNOR AT SEATTLE.

Governor Fort has announced the appointment of his son and secretary, Leslie R. Fort, to represent him at the Alaska-Yukon Pacific Exposition, at Seattle, in June. Young Mr. Fort declared that he would pay his own expenses on the trip and would be accompanied by his wife. He will act with Isaac H. Hall, of Paterson, and George B. Muchmore, of Summit, who have been named to represent the State.

Handed Down.

"Father," said the minister's little daughter, "the paper says you 'officiated at the wedding clad in the traditional garb of the clergy.' What does 'traditional' mean?"

"'Traditional,' my dear," answered the good man as he looked at his cheap suit of black with a sigh, "refers to something that has been handed down."—Chicago News.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend An Ordinance Entitled, "An Ordinance to License Inns and Taverns and to Regulate and Prohibit the Sale of Spirituous and Fermented Liquors," approved February 10, 1892, (As Amended).

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 7 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment be and is hereby further amended as follows: By striking out the following words where they occur in said section, that is to say, "and no person not licensed under this section shall sell, furnish or supply any spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors to persons or families in dwellings, under a penalty of a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding sixty days, either or both, for each and every offense," and inserting in lieu there of the following words, that is to say, "and no person or corporation licensed under any other section of this ordinance but not licensed under this section shall sell, or offer or expose for sale, any of the liquors aforesaid in any quantity to persons or families in dwellings, or any of the liquors aforesaid in quantities from one quart to five gallons to any persons or corporations, under a penalty of a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense."

Sec. 2. That Section 11 of said ordinance be and is hereby amended as follows: By striking out the following words where they occur in said section, that is to say, "one hundred dollars, or imprisonment for any term not exceeding sixty days, either or both, at the discretion of the court," and inserting in lieu thereof the following words, that is to say, "twenty dollars for each offense."

Adopted by the Common Council May 3, 1909; approved by the Mayor May 3, 1909.

CHARLES J. FISK, Mayor.
Attest: J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Corporation Notice.

PROPOSALS FOR MACADAMIZING.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Common Council at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at 8 o'clock p. m. on Monday, the twenty-fourth day of May, 1909, for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the macadamizing contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council April 12, 1909, and approved by the Mayor April 12, 1909, and as provided for in the specifications entitled "Proposal, Specifications, Contract and Bond for Macadamizing Streets, 1909," filed in the office of the Street Commissioner April 29, 1909.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announced the contents thereof in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of said prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

A separate price must be named for each street, and proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Macadamizing."

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The Englewood Golf Club committee has established these special rules, some indorsing the regular rules and others to fill up gaps overlooked by the revisers:

A two ball match has precedence or right of way through three or four ball matches, which must give way on request, except on Sunday afternoon and holidays when four ball matches are scheduled.

No three or four ball match shall be allowed to start on Saturdays after noon or on Sundays before noon or holidays (except when scheduled), except they may start from the tenth tee before 10 o'clock a. m. on Sundays, but must give any two ball match coming up the absolute right of way.

No three or four ball match shall start from the first tee while a two ball match is waiting to play, except Sundays after noon and holidays, when four ball matches are scheduled.

In the case of a match with a clear field ahead of it that plays so slowly as to hold up the match following on three successive tees, it must give way on request.

Players looking for a lost ball must allow other matches coming up to pass them; they must signal to the players following them to pass, and having given such a signal must not continue their play until these players have passed and are out of reach.

Out of consideration for those following, it is the duty of players to play through under the above rule rather than be held back and hold back the entire field that is following.

In all match play rounds of club competitions stymies must be played.

A ball on a putting green other than that of the hole which is being played may be lifted and dropped on the fair green, but not nearer to the hole.

It is considered probable in Boston that a group of the leading women golfers of the British Isles will visit the United States this season. A letter received by one of the leading players of the Boston Women's Golf Association from Miss May Hezlet, a three times winner of the British championship, made mention of the matter and seemed to indicate that such a plan is contemplated by the British golfers. Miss Hezlet will not be of the party, however, granted the visit is made. She was married on Saturday and started on her honeymoon.

Pictures for Gifts

We invite the attention of these seeking appropriate and beautiful gifts for May and June brides to see the magnificent collection of now hung in our Picture Galleries. It is a treat to see these pictures whether you are a prospective buyer or not. But if you are easily tempted we would advise you not to see them, for you are sure to covet them once you lay eyes on them.

We have just added a fine collection of Wallace Nutting Pictures which are made on the unique Nuttinghame Photographic Farm. On this farm a mansion that long antedates the Revolution is furnished throughout with individual antiques of the Georgian Period. These are being constantly used in the production of dainty old-fashioned themes which have appealed to the country as colonial platinum prints, colored and in sepia.

The farm itself has been planned to provide far vistas of road, meadow and stream, and the animals have been selected to pose for portraits in the charming setting of rich field and hills; noble drives are set for art effects as well as for grateful shade, and the prints that are made there are colored at windows before which these soft curves and purple lights stretch away to the north. Mr. Nutting has established an Art Colony in the country where beauty may be fostered amid surroundings that encourage noble sentiment and serenity.

Come in and see these beautiful pictures—we are sure you will be delighted with them.

YOUR LIBRARY

If you are going to have a library in your home or office, you may as well have one worth while, and to do this you must build the foundation with works that will remain forever and a day, the basis of the world's literature.

Such books are these here listed—books compiled under the direction of a most distinguished group of literary authorities—books on which the mechanical work is of the very best, and which will grace the shelves of any library.

The text in these volumes is authentic and complete, yet notwithstanding all this we are going to sell them at about one-third the former price.

$1 A VOLUME

Do us the honor and yourself the justice to come in and see these splendid books.

DESCRIPTION

This series includes sixty Imperial 8vo. volumes, complete, unaltered, unabridged; no extracts or abridgments.

Paper—The deckle-edge, velvet-finish paper used in these volumes has been made especially to order.

Type—the type is large, readable, new, clear, and artistic. The type page is 6⅝x3⅞ inches; the margins are liberal.

Presswork—Every volumes has been printed by expert pressmen, the presses having been run at reduced speed to secure ideal results and perfect register.

Binding—The books are handsomely and substantially bound in dark blue buckram, gilt tops, uncut, with a heavy gold line around the borders, and containing the title on the sides as wel as on the back of each volume.

Mechanical Perfection—These sixty volumes are as nearly perfect mechanically as they can be made by the latest improvements in printing, engraving, photogravure, color lithography, paper manufacture, and binding, at the beginning of the twentieth century.

The Art Features comprise photogravures from famous paintings and classic sculpture, portraits of authors, mediaeval illuminations, and palaographic manuscripts, choice examples of early printing and engraving, and various other illustrations.

MISS MAUDE ADAMS TO MAKE A TOUR OF EUROPE.

Charles Frohman, who recently left Berlin for London, accompanied by J. M. Barrie, announces that a year from now Miss Maude Adams will make a continental tour in a cycle of Barrie's plays; also in "L'Aiglon," "Twelfth Night" and "Romeo and Juliet." She will bring her entire American company to Europe for the purpose of this tour, which will be the first American theatrical enterprise of such magnitude ever undertaken on the other side of the Atlantic.

Mr. Frohman has also arranged for his London "Peter Pan" company, numbering one hundred persons, to appear in Berlin, Vienna, and other continental centres next season, while arrangements are also under way for both English and American companies to appear over a Continental circuit.

The latter will include the appearance of Mr. Frohman's London repertory company in Berlin after it has given a sufficient number of performances in London to make up its repertory of English plays. The engagement will be limited to ten days.

Bridegrooms Must Qualify.

"Dou you believe in trial marriages?"

"No, but I think it would be a good thing if a young man could be called on to button his sweetheart's waist down the back a few times before the wedding, so that she might be able to decide whether he was really the man for her or not."

Plainfield, N. J., May 6, 1909.

When the new police headquarters was "completed" it was "discovered" that some "extras" were needed and the Common Council appropriated about $600 for the purpose. Now that the East End fire house is about finished it is "discovered" that through an "oversight" of the architect, or some one else, the basement of the building is transformed into a swimming pool. And Mr. Taxpayer must pay for this "oversight," too.

That scheme to abolish the position of "roundsman" and substitute the title "sergeant" is all tommyrot. If the powers that be are so anxious to make this change in order to give one man a raise in pay, why not be "on the square" and let all the city fathers know just what the game is. High sounding titles may be all right. In the Republic of Hayti's army there is one "general" to every 100 privates, and so there are in many other weaking governments, but really we need more men than officers in our police department. Gold braid and brass buttons, with some extra coin thrown in, may be desirable in some places—but not in Plainfield.

RAHWAY REFORMATORY FUGITIVES STILL FREE.

No trace has been found as yet of Frank White, of Paterson, and John H. Williams, of Newark, who escaped from the State Reformatory hospital at Rahway Tuesday night, although the police throughout this section of the State have been notified to watch for the appearance of the fugitives.

White was a nurse in the hospital and Williams was a patient, ill with scarlet fever. The hospital was formerly a barn, reconstructed sufficiently to receive patients from the main institution. The men had only to await a favorite opportunity, which came about 9 o'clock Tuesday night, and then scale a fence and make for the woods. Within ten minutes, acting on the alarm given by another patient, a party of guards set out to search for the fleeing men, but in the darkness there was little chance of finding them.

It was found upon investigation that the coat and shoes of one of the physicians had been taken by the missing couple.

White is thirty years old and the son of wealthy parents in Paterson, and was sent to the institution after being convicted of forging worthless checks. Had he been sentenced on each charge proved against him, his term would aggregate twenty-eight years. He had been an inmate at the reformatory since 1903. Williams is twenty years old and has a scar on his left wrist. White has brown hair and blues eyes. Both are about five and one-half feet in height.

ford, Conn. He spoke of the work of the McAll missions and what good they are doing.

"To many the slaughter in Asia Minor and the famines in India have no appeal whatver," said the speaker. "They put nothing in the missionary work, therefore, they get nothing out of it. They simply live for self and never think of those who suffer because they are far away and can't hear their cries for relief. Look at the enlightment of China and Japan within the twenty-five years. Is there any one who is jealous over the progress those two countries have made? Of course many will tell us that France is able to take care of her religious matters and can provide for her people, but Frenchmen have appealed to both England and the United States to help that country and it is our duty to go to her aid." In conclusion Dr. Potter praised the women for the work they are doing and the manner in which they were carring it on.

During the offering Arthur Chamberlain sang the "Pilgrim Song." The meeting closed with a prayer by Rev. J. O. McKelvey and the benediction by Dr. J. S. Zelie.

The session yesterday afternoon was opened with devotional services led by Mrs. William R. Nicholson, of Philadelphia. After the minutes of the morning meeting had been read, the treasurer, Mrs. A. R. Perkins, made her report. During the past year there had been paid into the association by the different auxiliaries the amount of $25,063.11, (Plainfield's donation being $1,050). Recipts from other sources and a balance from last year made a grand total of $46,859.30. There is now left in the treasury from last year a balance of $6,081.30. After the report had been read and approved, there was a plea made for the increasing of the publicity fund which is greatly needed and during the session $390 was raised in cash and $401 pledged.

There was also an appointing of the different committees. On the committee of resolutions are Miss Laura Maxwell, Mrs. M. Louise Stewart and Miss Miriam Walker; on nominations, Mrs. H. O. Noble, Miss Florence Baldwin and Mrs. H. B. F. McFarland; on annual meeting, Mrs. Frank Kelly, Mrs. Robert L. Boutillier and Mrs. George Dimock.

An interesting address was made by the Rev. Sylvester Beech, of Princeton, who for a long time was a member of the Paris Board. He spoke of the work that was going on in Princeton University and the interest that was being taken among the students.

The report of the Rev. George T. Berry, of Englewood, who is the representative secretary, was the longest made by any member of the Association. Mr. Berry, during the past year, had made a visit to every auxiliary in the United States besides going to France to see what was being done in the field of operations. From his report it was seen that the work was prospering all along.

"Much interest is being manifested in all parts of the country," said Mr. Berry. "As the years come and go the work is rapidly progressing. Many outside of the organization are now taking a peculiar interest, one man has donated $2,000 for a New York office and to pay a stenographer to help get out the work. Next year I expect to see even greater results than ever and with the help of all the auxiliaries, together with the new ones that are being formed, the work will no doubt exceed that which is expected." Mr. Berry soon leaves for France, where he will be gone until the fall. During his trip abroad he will witness the unveiling of the monument of John Calvin, the religious reformer, at Geneva, Switzerland, June 14.

Miss Elsie Goddard, just before the closing of the meeting, sang a solo. At the conclusion of the session the delegates and their friends were entertained by Mrs. Lawrence Myers and Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead, of East Front street.

BOY DIES IN HOSPITAL OF BURNS FROM BONFIRE.

Ernest Smith, six years old, son of Ernest A. Smith, a gardener in East Side Park, died in the General Hospital at Paterson yesterday morning as a result of burns received while playing about a bonfire in the rear of his home on Belmont avenue Tuesday night.

The boy, with his two younger brothers, built a bonfire in the yard, and they were swinging tin cans, in which was some burning wood, through the air. A spark ignited Ernest's waist and he ran to his home, where Mrs. Nellie Smith, his mother, extinguished the flames with a pail of water, but not before Ernest was badly burned.

A wagon was procured and the burned youth was taken to a hotel and later transferred to the hospital, where he died. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

Prayed For Shower; Got Deluge.

Little Johnnie, who had been praying for some months for God to send him a baby brother, finally became discouraged. "I don't believe God has any more little boys to send," he told his mother, "and I'm going to quit it."

Early one morning not long after this he was taken into his mother's room to see twin boys who had arrived in the night. Johnnie regarded them thoughtfully for some minutes.

"Ge!" he remarked finally, "it's a good thing I stopped praying when I did."

Dissatisfied With Her Apartments.

"I tell you I won't have this room," protested the old lady to the bellboy who was conducting her. "I ain't a-goin' to pay my good money for a pigsty with a measly little foldin' bed in it. If you think that just because I'm from the country—"

Profoundly disgusted, the boy cut her short.

"Get in, mum. Get in," he ordered. "This ain't yer room. This is the elevator."—Everybody's Magazine.

Swedish Iron Ore for America.

An attempt is to be made to ship Swedish iron ore to the United States, and a few days ago the first cargo of 5,000 tons left Narvik for Philadelphia. If the results of the first shipment are satisfactory, regular shipments will be made, and in the opinion of the Swedish iron producers the sale of the ore in the United States will compensate them for the present stagnation in the markets of Europe.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

Sheriff Valpert has just liberated at Peru, Ind., a man believed to be the largest tramp in the country. He has no name except "Doc," weighs 275 pounds, is always hungry, and, strange to say, prefers walking to riding.

It has been reported to the guardians at Taum, County Galway, Ireland, that a man named Hasty, whose age is alleged to be 120 years, is living at Gallew in a cabin which has become unsafe, and an effort is to be made to induce the hermit to go into the work-house.

Joseph Anderson, aged 60 years, of St. Louis, formerly a workman in a quarry where the lime dust affected his eyes, has been compelled to sleep for twenty years with his eyes open. Physicians say that neglected inflammation has caused the eyelids to grow fast to the eyeballs, making it impossible for the man to close his eyes.

Accumulating evidence shows that lightning flashes may have a much more varied structure than was formerly supposed. Photographs by A. Larsen, a Danish photographer, indicate that flashes may be made up of small eletric discharges, or rushes of which forty may follow along nearly the same path in half a minute.

There has been secured by a New York State pulp company an option on 500,000 cords of sunken pine now lying submerged in the Rideau river and lakes back of Kingston, Ont. The piling was sunk about 80 years ago when the Rideau river was a centre of commercial activity. The piling will be converted by mechanical process into the finest grade of stationery.

During the excavations on the Janiculum hill in Rome some interesting discoveries have been made. A chamber with an altar has been brought to light, and on the walls was a tablet commemorating the Emperors Antonius and Commodus. There were also discovered a small statue of Jupiter, the shaft of a column, a statue of acchus in marble, three skeletons placed in a line before the chamber, and a little figure representing Chronos.

WHAT NEW JERSEY COULD DO IN IRELAND

The Irish home going movement, which is expected to culminate in 1910 with the emigration of 50,000 Irish Americans back to the "ould sod," is a matter of much interest to New Jersey, as well as to the rest of this great country, says the Newark Evening News. It is a movement that has its natural springs in the heart of every man who has true Irish blood in his veins, and it is a movement that apepals to the patriotic of every nationality on the globe.

The object is to promote an industrial revival in that beautiful but long misgoverned island, to develop its natural resources, to build up its agriculture, its manufacturers, its commerce; to inspire new life, new interest, new hope, new enthusiasm in the people who have not left the evergreen isle but have struggled hard and inceasingly to better their conditions, happily with measurable success in the past decade or two.

The idea is that Irishmen who have attained success in the United States can go back to Ireland and tell the people there how it is done; how they can make the best of their opportunities; how they can secure legislation; how they can make Ireland great, even if they cannot make it free and independent.

It is worth while to think what New Jersey could contribute to this army of 50,000 successful men; men who were either born in Ireland or who are proud of their Irish parentage. There's David Baird for example. He could tell how to beat the government and how to control members of Parliament. And next might come Congressman Hughes, of Paterson, and Kinkead, of Jersey City, both natives of Ireland, who could tell what laws should be made and how to make them. And at this work Assemblyman Davidson, of Jersey City, a native Irishman, could give valuable points.

Going a little wider afield, William McAdoo, a somewhat interesting personage in New Jersey, would no doubt undertake to tunnel from Dublin to Hollyhead. Mayor McBride, of Paterson, might govern Sligo for a while, the two cities being about of a size, and Brigadier General Meany might put the whole Irish army on a war footing.

This by no means exhausts the list, for there is yet "Tom" Hillery, who was born at Hibernia, and "Jimmy" Kerney and "Bob" Bremmer, who could show the newspaper fraternity in Ireland many tricks they never yet dreamed of. New Jersey could in a word, supply a very large proportion of the 50,000 visitors to Erin in 1910, and Kilkenny, their meeting place would not be able to hold them. A very few of them, perhaps, Ireland might keep if it wanted to, but New Jersey would insist all the rest return when their mission is accomplished.

WOMAN 82 BURNED TO DEATH.

Mrs. Hattie Tillou, Oldest Woman in South Orange, the Victim.

While at work in her back yard Tuesday cleaning it up and burning rubbish, Mrs. Hattie Tillou, wife of Job Tillou, the oldest woman resident of South Orange, brushed her dress into the fire and was so badly burned that she died before the ambulance could convey her to the hospital.

Mrs. Tolliu was 82 years old and quite feeble, though she took delight in working around the yard of her home. Miss Ethel Smith, a domestic employed next door, leaped a fence and threw a couch cover over the victim and extinguished the flames. She was quite badly burned herself. The help came too late, however, as Mrs. Tillou was terribly burned when she reached the hospital.

Mrs. Tillou had lived in South Orange more than fifty years. Mr. and Mrs. Tillou celebrated their golden wedding a few years ago. He belongs to the oldest family in the village. He is 94 years old.

MANNING FOR PRESIDENT.

Friends Believe He Will Head Exempt Firemen.

Friends of James J. Manning, of Elizabeth, are confident that he will be elected president of the State Association of Exempt Firemen at Burlington, May 19. In fact, they go so far as to predict that he will be named by acclamation.

By a vote of thirty-seven to sixteen, Mr. Manning has been pledged the support of the Hudson County Exempt Firemen's League. This league embraces more exempt firemen than any other body of "exempts", in the State, and the fact that it has pledged its support means his election. The league embraces the exempt firemen of Jersey City, Hoboken, Arlington, Harrison, Kearny, West New York, West Hoboken and several smaller places in Hudson county.

GOOSE LONG VICTIM OF LIBEL.

Instead of Being Silly This Fowl Is a Wise Old Bird and Braver Than a Gobbler.

You must not say "As silly as a goose" any more, for naturalists have been studying this animal of late years, and they have come to the conclusion that she is the wisest old bird going, says the Montreal Standard.

She never quarrels without cause; she sees danger before any other fowl; she has more courage than the rooster; she is far braver than the gobbler, and, if given a fair show, she can beat off the fox.

Gruel.

Gruel, when properly prepared, should be but little thicker than cream and should be absolutely free from lumps.

A Tonic For The Whole Family

This splendid tonic will keep every member of your family in good health. Adults suffering from dyspepsia, or indigestion, general exhaustion or breakdown will find in this natural tonic renewed health and strength. Delicate, rapidly growing children will find in this tonic the assistance their digestive organs need to get the proper nourishment and strength from their food.

DR. D. JAYNE'S TONIC VERMIFUGE

acts directly on the stomach and other digestive organs, toning them up and enabling them to do their work properly. In this way it brings about permanent health and strength. On the other hand, ordinary tonics, which give artificial strength by stimulation and by supplying food material, are only effective as long as they are taken.

Sold by All Druggists—2 sizes, 50c. and 35c.

Take Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant if you want to get rid of your Cough or Cold.

AN ORDINANCE

to Amend an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to Provide for the Licensing and Regulation of Peddlers, Hawkers, Cartmen, Hack, Omnibus, Stage and Truck Owners and Drivers," approved March 14, 1892, (as amended).

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the title of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"An Ordinance to Provide for the Licensing and Regulation of Peddlers, Hawkers, Cartmen, Motor Vehicle Hack, Omnibus, Stage and Truck Owners, and Drivers."

Sec. 2. That Section 1 of said Ordinance (as amended) be and the same is hereby further amended by inserting in said section after the words, "to drive or keep for use for hire a hack, omnibus, stage, truck," the words "motor vehicle."

Sec. 3. That Section 4 of said Ordinance be and the same is hereby amended as follows: By inserting after the words "used for hire or wages, any cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage," the words, "motor vehicle;" and that said Section be and the same is hereby further amended by striking out the last sentence of said Section beginning with the words "One license and only one shall be required," and substituting in the place of said sentence so stricken out, the following words, that is to say: "One license and only one shall be required for each cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, and such license shall suffice for the owner of such cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, but for each driver other than the owner of such licensed cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, a separate license shall be required.

Sec. 4. That Section 6 of said Ordinance be and the same is hereby amended as follows, that is to say, by interlining in said Section after the words, "pay therefor the sum of five dollars for each license," the following words, that is to say, "except that in the case of motor vehicles the license fee shall be the sum of ten dollars for each license, and except that in case of each Driver other than the owner of such licensed cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, the license fee shall be the sum of one dollar for each license. Every application for such driver's license shall be in writing, and the applicant shall endorse thereon the names of three reputable citizens to whom reference is made as to the character of the applicant, and the granting of any such driver's license shall be in the discretion of the Mayor. In every application for a license for a motor vehicle the applicant shall be required to set forth that his motor vehicle has seating capacity for at least four passengers and that he has equipped his said motor vehicle with a taximeter of standard make, affixed to the front axle of said motor vehicle, and so construeted and adjusted as to indicate automatically on the dial of said taximeter the charges for distance in accordance with the charges fixed by the Ordinances of this City.

Sec. 5. That Section 8 of said ordinance as amended be and the same is hereby amended by inserting the words "or corporation" after the word "person" in the first line of said Section 8, and the words "or corporation" after the word "person" in the last sentence of said Section 8.

Sec. 6. That Section 9 of said Ordinance be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 9. That any license granted under this Ordinance may be suspended or revoked by the Mayor or City Judge upon proof to the satisfaction of either that any such licensed person has been guilty of fraud with respect to making charges against any passenger or passengers, or that the owner or driver of any motor vehicle has practiced fraud with respect to the recording by his taximeter of the distance travelled, or the charges for distance, or for other satisfactory cause not included in the offenses elsewhere specially provided for in this Ordinance; provided, that no license shall be so suspended or revoked without reasonable opportunity first afforded to the licensed person or corporation to be heard on his or its own behalf; and every person or corporation who or which shall during the suspension or after the revocation of his or its license, carry on the business for which such license was granted, shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Sec. 7. That Section 10 of the said Ordinance (as amended) be and the same is hereby further amended as follows: By inserting after the words "use for hire or wages, any hack, omnibus, stage," the words, "motor vehicle;" also by inserting after the words "may charge therefor the following rates, but no more, that is to say: where they occur in said section, the following, namely:

"(a) As to all vehicles except 'motor vehicles' as defined in Chapter 113 of the Laws of New Jersey for the year 1906;"

and that said section be and is hereby further amended by adding at the end of said section hereby amended, the following, namely:

"(b) As to all 'motor vehicles' as defined in Chapter 113 of the Laws of New Jersey for the year 1906: For any number of passengers from one to four inclusive, for the first half mile or fraction thereof, thirty cents; and for each quarter mile thereafter, ten cents; and for each six minutes waiting, ten cents; and for ordering such motor vehicle within one mile and a half from any stand or station to the point ordered at which the passenger or passengers enter said motor vehicle no charge shall be made; and for ordering such motor vehicle more than a mile and a half from any stand or station to the point at which the passenger or passengers enter said motor vehicle a charge may be made at the rate of twenty cents for each mile or fraction thereof in excess of one mile and a half; provided, that children under ten years of age shall not be counted as passengers if accompanied by older persons."

Adopted by the Common Council May 3, 1909; approved by the Mayor May 3, 1909.

CHARLES J. FISK, Mayor.
Attest: J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Marshall & Ball Announce a GIGANTIC SHOE SALE
One Car Load--3,528 Pairs of
Men's $4 and $5 Summer Shoes at $2.85

Sale Starts Friday Morning

Think of it! 3,528 pairs of Shoes. That means 98 cases of 36 pairs each, or one carload.

This is the largest and most important shoe sale for men we've ever inaugurated during the 13 years' history of our Shoe Store—even more so than our record-breaking sale of a year ago.

This is an extraordinary offer, indeed, and presents unusual possibilities for men who appreciate exceptionally high-grade, stylish footwear at a saving.

This splendid opportunity to purchase actual $4 and $5 Summer Shoes at $2.85 is made possible by the failure of two large New York houses handling Men's High-Grade Shoes. The manufacturer withheld shipment of their orders and we snapped up the two lots at a big price concession.

The Leathers:
Russet Calf, Velour Calf, Gun Metal Calf, Patent Colt, Tan Vici Kid, Black Vici Kid and Wine Russia Calf. Oak tanned soles and solid leather boxes and counters.

The Styles:
Button, Blucher and Buckle Oxfords, High Shoes, in button lace and blucher. All toe widths, from the new narrow high to the wide orthopedic toe.

During our Shoe Sale of a year ago we were unable to wait on our patrons as promptly as we would have liked. We have profited by that experience and have provided an extra salesforce so as to promptly meet the great demand which this big offering is sure to create.

However, we suggest that you come as early in the day as possible.

AN ORDINANCE

CONCERNING DOGS.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That hereafter no person shall keep, harbor or maintain any dog, or suffer one to be kept, harbored or maintained within the City of Plainfield, unless a license to keep such dog has first been obtained from the City of Plainfield in the manner hereinafter provided, and any person keeping, harboring or maintaining, or suffering to be kept, harbored or maintained any dog within the City of Plainfield without having obtained such license shall be guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 2. The City Clerk of the City of Plainfield is hereby authorized to issue such license in the name of the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield to any person applying therefor in writing and paying a license fee of two dollars and fifty cents, which license when so issued shall be valid and remain in force only until the 20th day of May next following the issuing thereof.

Sec. 3. The written application for a license as hereinbefore provided, shall be signed by the owner or person having the custody of such dog, shall set forth the place of residence of the applicant and the owner shall state the place where such dog is to be kept, and shall contain a description of such dog, including its name, color, breed and sex. All licenses issued pursuant to such application shall be consecutively numbered, and shall among other things contain a brief description of the dog to keep which such license is issued, including its name, color, breed and sex, the name of the owner, and shall state the place at which such dog is to be kept.

Sec. 4. Any person or association in the City of Plainfield owning five or more dogs which are kept for breeding, show or sporting purposes may obtain a kennel license, which shall entitle the holder thereof to establish and maintain within said City a kennel for the purpose of keeping dogs for breeding, show and sporting purposes. Such license shall be issued by the City Clerk upon a written application signed by such person or association which shall set forth the place of residence of the applicant, the place where such dogs are to be kept and the breed of such dogs. All licenses issued pursuant to such applications shall have plainly written or printed upon them the words "Kennel License" and shall set forth the facts stated in the application. Kennel licenses shall be valid and remain in force only until the 20th day of May next following the issuing thereof. There shall be attached to the collar of each dog kept pursuant to a kennel license, the tag required by this ordinance, each of which tags shall bear the number of such license. Such license shall be issued upon the payment of a license fee of ten dollars and in addition thereto there shall be paid to the City Clerk for each tag provided by him the sum of twenty-five cents. All provisions of other sections of this ordinance not in conflict with the provisions of this section shall apply to any and all dogs kept pursuant to a kennel license. The license fee of ten dollars required by this section shall be in lieu of any license fee otherwise provided for by this ordinance.

Sec. 5. Every dog to keep which a license is issued shall wear a collar to which shall be attached a metal tag bearing the number of such license; such tag to be furnished by the City Clerk at the expense of the City. The tags used for each year shall be different in size, shape or color from the tags used the preceding year that the appearance of the tag will differentiate with sufficient certainty the year for which the tag is issued, and three full years shall elapse before a tag of the same size, shape or color is again provided. If a tag is lost a new one may be obtained from the City Clerk upon satisfactory proof being furnished that a license to keep the dog for which tag is desired had been previously issued for the then current year and upon payment therefor of the sum of fifty cents.

Sec. 6. Any person who shall substitute or use any tag in place of the one furnished by the City, or shall allow any dog owned, kept, harbored or maintained by him to leave the premises occupied by such person without having a proper tag attached to the collar of such dog shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 7. The City Clerk shall on or before the 1st day of June in each year transmit to the chief of police a statement showing all licenses to keep dogs issued as aforesaid. The chief of police upon receipt of such statement shall ascertain by the officers upon their respective beats, what persons have failed to comply with this ordinance, and all such persons shall thereupon be proceeded against before the City Judge of the City of Plainfield.

Sec. 8. The Mayor of the City of Plainfield may at any time when in his judgment the public safety demands it, order and direct by public notice that no dog shall be allowed to leave the premises of the person owning or entitled to the custody of such dog unless securely confined upon a leash and accompanied by a person over the age of twelve years. Such notice shall be published at least three consecutive times in the official newspapers of the City, and shall state how long the said order is to remain in force. Any person who shall, after the issuing of such order, and during the time same shall remain in force, suffer, allow or permit any dog owned, kept or harbored by him to go upon any of the streets or public places of the City of Plainfield, or upon any premises other than those owned or occupied by him unless securely confined upon a leash and accompanied by a person over the age of twelve years, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 9. The Common Council at its first regular meeting in May of each year, shall establish a pound and the Mayor shall prior to such meeting appoint a pound-keeper, subject to confirmation of the Common Council, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the Common Council. The said pound-keeper, any police officer, or any person specially appointed by the Mayor for that purpose, may seize and convey to the pound any dog found upon any of the streets or public places of the City of Plainfield without the tag provided for by this ordinance, as well as any dog found upon any of the streets or public places of said city not confined upon a leash as provided for by this ordinance, during the time that any order issued by the Mayor, as hereinbefore provided, shall remain in force. The owner, if known, of any dog so seized and impounded shall be notified thereof by the City Clerk as soon as possible thereafter. The said pound-keeper and any person specially appointed by the Mayor as aforesaid, shall wear a suitable badge to be provided by the City Clerk indicating his authority. Any person authorized to seize any such dog shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of fifty cents for each dog delivered by him at the pound, to be paid to him by the pound-keeper who shall be re-imbursed by the City. Should any person appointed as aforesaid seize any dog other than such as is without a tag, or during the period within which dogs are required to be confined upon a leash, any dog other than such as is not so confined he shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 10. Every dog so seized and impounded, shall be kept, fed and kindly treated by the said pound-keeper for a period of not less than seventy-two hours from the time of impounding, and the owner or person entitled to the custody of any dog so seized and impounded may within said period redeem said dog upon paying the sum of three dollars to the said pound-keeper, one-half of which shall be for the use of the said pound-keeper and the other half for the use of the City. No dog so seized and impounded shall be redeemed by the owner thereof or released by the pound-keeper unless a proper license and a tag are procured for said dog previous to such release.

Sec. 11. After the expiration of such period of seventy-two hours any dog remaining in the pound and not redeemed shall be killed in a humane manner by the said pound-keeper. For every dog received by the pound-keeper at the pound and subsequently killed, the pound-keeper shall receive the sum of fifty cents to be paid by the City. The pound-keeper shall also receive the sum of twenty-five cents per day for each unredeemed dog during the said period of seventy-two hours.

Sec. 12. The expense of furnishing the licenses and tags herein provided for, the fees paid for seizing and impounding any dog, the expense of keeping all dogs while in the pound and the fee paid to the pound-keeper for each dog killed shall be borne and paid by the City and shall be paid out of its general fund. All sums received for licenses and tags, and one-half of the amount received for the redemption of any dog, shall belong to the City and shall be paid into its general fund. Out of the license fees received as aforesaid the City Clerk shall be paid the sum of twenty-five cents for each license issued by him. The amounts so paid and received by the pound-keeper shall be reported by him in writing to the City Clerk on the last Friday of each month, which said report shall be presented to the Common Council at its next regular meeting.

Sec. 13. The word "dog" whenever used in this ordinance, shall include all dogs, male and female.

Sec. 14. Any person found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense. Conviction for any violation of this ordinance shall not be a bar to prosecution for any other or further violation thereof, and a failure to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance after such conviction shall constitute a new violation thereof and shall be punishable as herein provided.

Sec. 15. No license shall be required for any dog brought into the City of Plainfield for the purpose of being exhibited at a bench, kennel or dog show, provided such dog is not allowed to leave the building or enclosure where exhibited unless in the custody of an adult person and confined by a leash and does not remain within the City limits for a period exceeding fifteen days.

Sec. 16. An ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Dogs," approved July 6, 1887, and the various amendments thereof approved respectively June 1, 1891, May 4, 1892, January 3, 1895, and September 1, 1898, and all other ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance, are hereby repealed.

Adopted by the Common Council May 3, 1909; approved by the Mayor May 3, 1909.

WANTS NEW LAW FOR THE AUTOISTS

Trenton, May 6.—There will be no more arrests of out-of-State violators of the automobile law unless there is some revision of the law, Justice of the Peace Abram D. A. Naar, of Trenton, declared yesterday in speaking of the refusal of Commissioner of Motor Vehicles J. B. R. Smith to accept complaints against such violators unless accompanied by $2. Mr. Naar said that the constables, rather than take a chance of losing the $2 on the refusal of law-breakers to come to this State, will not make complaints against them.

The justice of the peace sent twenty-eight complaints to the commissioner, together with fourteen against residents of New Jersey. These latter were also refused because they were not accompanied by a deposit of thirty cents.

Mr. Naar claims that the law requires the commissioner to proceed for prosecutions where summons are tendered him for service. Commissioner Smith has referred the whole matter to the attorney-general for an opinion. He claims that it would be too expensive for him to serve the papers in these cases, and will do nothing until the attorney-general has been heard from.

NEW STRUCTURES FOR ELIZABETH.

Another of Elizabeth's landmarks will soon be demolished. Harris Reibel, who for years has been located at 951 Elizabeth avenue, in a structure crumbling with age, has had plans drawn for a brick store and dwelling house to cost in the neighborhood of $12,000 and will soon tear down the old building to make way for the structure.

Another addition to the city's commercial buildings will be the contemplated three-story shop for the Elizabeth Sash and Door Company, at Broadway and Seventh street. This will cost, it is said, about $10,000.

TO MARRY TEACHERS FREE.

East Orange Justice, Once an Instructor, Seeks to Enliven Present Practice.

T. J. Bissell, a justice of the peace of East Orange, has had little practice since elected last fall. He seeks to enliven the times by offering to marry couples free, providing either bride or bridegroom has at any time been a school teacher.

Justice Bissell was at one time principal of the Charlton Street School in Newark. It is because of this that he makes the offer and not because he desires to embarass the Boards of Education in this section.

About the time the summer vacations begin, six or seven weeks hence, the justice expects to have plenty of business.

CITY TROUNCES BOROUGH

Plainfield High School Defeats North Plainfield by a Score of 13 to 3.

BOROUGH PITCHERS WEAK.

Heavy Hitting By Doane and Conroy Features of First Game For Championship.

The Plainfield High School baseball nine overwhelmingly defeated the team from the boroguh High School at Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon, when the first game for the local scholastic championship between the nines resulted in a victory for the city school boys by a score of 13 to 3. Particularly weak in pitchers, the borough boys played an unsteady game in the field as well, for eight errors are scored up against them. The city boys had to shift their players considerably for the game, because Frank Clark, the third baseman, is sick. Dodwell was stationed at the left-hand corner in his place. Lidgate went behind the bat, Doane was put on first, Riffert moved over to centre field and Lyness, the reserve pitcher, let loose in the right garden. This juggling of players made a strong nine, but the team's three errors were made at first base.

The boroughites started scoring in the first inning, when Doane juggled a grounder for Smith. Stealing around, Smith came in on "Russ" Conroy's clean single to short centre. The lead didn't last long, however, because in the second inning the P. H. S. run-making began. It was Doane who brought in the tallies at this time, for there were two on when he came to bat and in the third the bases were full. In each case his single brought two runners home. During the third, Day was taken out of the box and Smith was sent to the slab, while Adams went in at first. Smith was steadier, but the team wasn't, and the city schoolboys scored one in the fifth and four in the sixth. With two on in the eighth, Conroy connected with one of Van Zand'ts curves and landed on second base, with two runs in. Conroy excelled with the stick and in the field, making three hits and accepting six chances without an error. His line catch in the first was a feature.

Van Zandt was in his best form, fanning eight and keeping the seven hits well scattered. He gave no passes. Day and Smith each struck out three and Day gave a pass. Doane and Lyness each made a two-bagger.

P. H. S. vs. Holy Cross.

The Plainfield High School will meet the Holy Cross Club in baseball Saturday afternoon on the Cricket Field, North Plainfield. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

THIRTEEN INNING GAME IS ENDED BY DARKNESS

The Holy Cross Club baseballists held the strong Rutgers Prep. School team to seven runs in a thirteen inning tie game played at New Brunswick yesterday afternoon. The game was called on account of darkness, and the teams have arranged to meet Wednesday afternoon, May 19, on the Cricket Field diamond over in the borough.

Harriman, who was on the slab for the church club nine, was unsteady in the two opening innings and the Prep. boys scored six runs. In the fifth they got another, and this looked like victory until the boroughites' final session with the bat, when the score was tied. Darkness came after four more innings without a tally.

SAYS DUNNE'S BIPLANE HAS ECLIPSED WRIGHTS'.

London, May 6.—The Times yesterday printed a statement denying the government's alleged apathy toward aviation. It says that Captain J. W. Dunne, of the Royal Engineers, after several years' experiments, made an aeroplane which was superior to the Wrights machine, and in secret experiments in Scotland, two years ago, succeeded in making a flight of twelve miles in a circular course, in which he proved beyond a doubt, according to the statement, that in efficiency and ease of control the Wrights had been outdone.

That was the reason, says The Times, that the War Office has made no attempt to engage the Wright brothers' services or secure their machine. A new machine has recently been built under Dunne's supervision at Farnborough and everything was prepared for flights on a large scale, when, a few days ago, Dunne suddenly severed his connection with the balloon factory.

The Times adds: "It is not known what reasons forced Dunne to adopt this serious step, which may be fraught with the gravest consequences to this country."

Dunne's invention is a biplane. In principle and construction it differs widely from the aeroplanes already known.

SEEKS HER MISSING CHILD.

Paterson, May 6.—Annie Laurburger, ten years old, of 20 Elm street, has been missing from her home since last Sunday morning. Yesterday the police were asked to locate the child. Mrs. Annie Laurburger, the girl's mother, said that she feared that harm had come to her.

Mrs. Laurburger, who is a widow, also said yesterday afternoon an Italian had come to her and asked if she had received a letter from the "Black Hand" Society. She said she did not know the Italian, but furnished the police a description of him.

The police are of the opinion that the child is dead. A few years ago Mrs. Laurburger was wealthy, but met with reverses in business and is now compelled to work in a silk mill for a living.

Leaves Alexian Hospital.

Brother Peter, who has been in charge of the surgical department of the Alexian Brothers' Hospital at Elizabeth for the past five years, will leave Elizabeth next week for Chicago, where he will take charge of the big hospital of the order in that city as its superior. Before he quits Elizabeth he will be tendered a reception at the Alexian Hospital by all those connected with the institution. Brother Ignatius Schneider, who has been the druggist in charge of the dispensary at the hospital, left the institution on Monday for Chicago, where he will take the same position in the hospital there.

Owing to the meeting of the McAll Auxiliary during this week in the Crescent Avenue church, the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of that church will be postponed until Friday afternoon, May 14, at 3:30 o'clock.

JERSEY VETERANS ERECT MONUMENTS

Governor Fort, accompanied by the Adjutant-General, his personal staff, several members of his family and Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Mrs. Frelinghuysen, will leave Newark next Tuesday on a special train provided by the Fifteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteer Veteran Association, for Fredericksburg, Va., arriving there at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Immediately after dining the party will attend the campfire to be given by the Confederate Veterans.

The next morning at 8 o'clock the party will leave in carriages for Spottsylvania Courthouse, where they will dedicate a small monument at the "Bloody Angle." After lunch at Spottssylvania they will drive to Salem Church and dedicate a large monument.

These monuments have been erected by the survivors of the Fifteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, with the assistance of the State. At both of these exercises Governor Fort will speak, and at Salem Church Mr. Frelinghuysen, chairman of the committee appointed by the Senate to look after the erection of the monuments, will also deliver an address. The party expects to depart for Washington at 8 p. m., and will spend Wednesday night and all day Thursday there. The entire party will call upon President Taft on Thursday, and on that evening a reception will be given the Governor by the Veteran Association at the New Willard Hotel.

On Friday morning the party will depart for Gettysburg, and spend Friday afternoon and all day Saturday going over the battlefield, in charge of Captain Long, who will explain all the points of interest to the party. More than 300 are expected to accompany the veterans on their special train.

PLAN AFFILIATION OF UNDERTAKERS IN STATE.

Arrangements to entertain undertakers from all parts of the State, May 10, were made at a meeting of the Funeral Directors' Association of Essex and Union counties Tuesday night. The visiting undertakers will be at Newark to confer regarding the affiliation of all local undertakers' associations in the State with the New Jersey Funeral Directors' Association. In the notice of the meeting the committee in charge refers to the men in the business as "burialists" and "mortuarians."

The meeting of May 10 has been called by the executive committee of the State organization. The committee, after getting expressions of opinion regarding the proposed affiliation, will report to the State association's annual convention at Asbury Park in September. There are eleven local associations. Officers of each are expected to attend. They will meet at the office of W. C. and F. S. Bolles, 516 Broad street, and will hold the conference in a nearby hall.

Talks On Non-Christian Religions.

The Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, gave an informal talk on "The Five Great Non-Christian Religions" last night at the weekly meeting of the Trinity Mission Study Class. The address was made prior to a lesson series on foreign missions, which the organization will take up. The five great religions, he said, are Buddhism, Brahminism, Confucianism, Mohammedanism and Feteshism. The first ranks as the leading one in strength, having 500,000,000 members. One feature of all is the number of their gods, Brahminism alone has 333,000,000.

Boys' Brigade Minstrels.

The Boys' Brigade of Warren chapel will give a minstrel entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow at 8 o'clock, under the direction of DeWitt Brokaw. The brigade has a membership of twenty with a waiting list, and all are equipped with handsome uniforms. Last week the brigade witnessed a drill at the Seventh Regiment Armory, New York, and the boys were delighted.

Automobile Kills $125 Dog.

F. J. Drescher, of No. 60 Park street, Montclair, purchased a thoroughbred bull pup for $125 a few days ago. Yesterday Miss Anna Scannell, a local school teacher, who lives with the Drescher family, took the dog out. As W. O. Hencke passed in his automobile the pup jumped directly in front of the moving touring car and was killed.

Entertains Church Society.

Mrs. W. S. Terry entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel at her home, 148 West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon. After a brief business session, a social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. Terry poured tea and Mrs. W. Baker, Mrs. Charles Vincent and Mrs. Harry Keen assisted in serving refreshments.

Circus Parade Kills Horse.

While Frank A. Robbins' circus was parading through the streets of Elizabeth, this morning, a horse owned by Flynn Brothers, grocers of that city, became frightened and dropped dead in the street.

Mrs. James Foster, who has been very ill at her home on Chatham street, is improving.

Dogs Must Be in Before Dark.

Under a new order dogs are arrested in Middlesex if they are found roaming after dark. The first case was heard at Highgate yesterday, when Stanley Smeeton, of High street, Whetstone, was fined two shillings sixpence for allowing his dog to stray at night. The object of the rule which provides for a maximum penalty of £20, is to prevent sheep and cattle from being worried.—London Express.

EPWORTH LEAGUE RALLY

D. F. Diefendorf, of Newark, Addresses Big District Meeting.

PRESIDENT MARSH IN CHAIR.

Westfield, Somerville, Dunellen and Mount Horeb Sends Delegates.

Attended by delegates from eight of the eleven Epworth Leagues of this district, a highly successful rally was held at the Monroe Avenue church last night, when the members of the local church society acted as the hosts. The Monroe Avenue leaguers turned out ninety-five strong, a delegation of sixty-four came from the Somerville M. E. church, forty-five from the First M. E., thirty-three from Grace M. E., thirty-two from the Westfield M. E., twenty from the Somerville M. E., twelve from the Dunellen M. E., and one from Mount Horeb.

N. Mansfield Smith, president of the local church league, welcomed the delegates in a brief address at the commencement of the service and J. J. Marsh, of Elizabeth, who is president of the district, spoke in response. Following prayer by Rev. C. S. Kemble, pastor of the church, and the singing of a hymn, Mr. Marsh introduced Rev. D. F. Diefendorf, of the Roseville Avenue M. E. church, of Newark, who delivered the address of the evening. Mr. Diefendorf spoke on the topic, "The Heroism of Gideon," and proved to be an interesting speaker.

At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. C. K. Shreve rendered a soprano solo and was forced to respond with an encore. Miss Charlotte Aldrich was at the piano. At the conclusion of the meeting, a delightful social hour was spent, and refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served.

The church was tastefully decorated with red and white bunting and a large Epworth League emblem hung directly over the pulpit. The various committees in charge of the rally comprised these persons: John McCormick, decorating; Miss Olive Bodine, Mrs. H. Gardiner, Mrs. C. S. Kemble, Mrs. H. W. Gilmour, Miss Edna Garretson, Miss Lillian Harris and Miss Phoebe Shaw, reception committee; Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith and the Misses Josephine Peterson, Minnie Gunzelman, Stella Rink, Minnie Matthews, Flora Kirch, Irene Sawyer, Louise McCormack, Harriet Marsh, Anna Matthews, Anna Lee, Bessie Gunzelman, Miss E. Decker, Miss H. Le Poidevin and George Weber, George Romaine, Lloyd Van Middlesworth, W. F. Beltz, H. L. Cox and John McCormack, refreshments. The ushers were George H. Fisher, Jr., H. W. Gilmour, L. Mulford, C. K. David, Elmer Morrison and George Weber.

The executives committees of the Leagues of the district, with the League officers, will hold a meeting at Grace M. E. church Thursday evening, May 20. Wallace B. Flemming, of Maplewood, will make an address at that time. Group rallies, similar to last night's affair are held every six weeks and at the meeting May 20 the place of the next meeting will be decided upon.

Miss Carrie VanArsdale Entertains.

Miss Carrie VanArsdale, of Somerset street, entertained a number of her friends at her home, last night. The evening was spent in enjoying a musical program, several selections being rendered by Miss Edith Meyers and vocal solos by Robert Lowrie, of Dunellen. A feature was the unwinding of cobwebs by the guests. Refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harden, Mrs. Helen Grant, the Misses Cora Hand, Blanche Sherwood, Emma Voorhees, Nellie Dodwell, Bertha Wilcox, Edith Meyers, Carrie VanArsdale and Mildren Harden and Messrs. George Apgar, Robert Lowrie, Robert Runyon, William Hand, Walter Hand, Robert Mettler and Lloyd VanMiddlesworth.

Garret T. Dunham Resigns.

Garret T. Dunham, who has been organist at the Church of the Heavenly Rest for nine years, has resigned his position, to take effect at once. There are also some changes contemplated in the choir. Miss Laura Long, of Grove street, has been engaged as the successor to Mr. Dunham and will assume her new position on Sunday.

To Study Medicine.

R. F. Kieffer, instructor in mathematics and science at the North Plainfield High School, will enter the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., next fall, where he will take up the study of medicine. Mr. Kieffer has been an instructor in the borough schools since his graduation from Franklin and Marshall College two years ago.

SAYS DUNELLEN WOMAN CONDUCTS SPEAK-EASY

Thomas Gannon, a New Market man, told tales on an alleged "speak-easy" in Dunellen at the city court this morning, following his arrest for drunkenness, and City Judge Runyon suspended sentence. The prisoner, who confessed that he started his jag last Saturday night, was found on West Front street last night by Patrolman Vanderweg in a helpless condition.

On Sunday, according to Gannon, his appetite was not at all abated, and he informed the court that he bought all he wanted at the home of Mrs. McFadden in Dunellen, where he was served with bottled beer during the day. He said that Mrs. McFadden runs a "speak-easy." The house is just across the railroad track on Chestnut street, near the trolley loop.

Mrs. McFadden got in trouble with the Middlesex police authorities more than a year ago, when she was taken to New Brunswick to answer a charge of illegal selling. Since that time, the place is supposed to have been merely a private residence.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. GEORGE H. BURGESS

The funeral service of Mrs. George H. Burgess was held from the late home on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including many from the First M. E. church, of which Mrs. Burgess was a prominent member for thirt-seven years. There was a large number of floral tributes.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, was in charge of the service, and there were impressive eulogistic remarks by two former pastors of the church, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, both speaking words of tribute concerning the exemplary Christian life of Mrs. Burgess, referring to her great devotion to the church and all its interests as well as the strong home ties. Appropriate scripture selections and fervent prayers and the committal service by Dr. Anderson concluded the service. There were four selections sung by a quartet, comprising Miss S. Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Elmer D. Cutting, tenor, and William Holmes, baritone. They sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Abide With Me," "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Shall We Gather at the River?"

The remains were taken today to Albany, N. Y., where the burial will be in the Rural cemetery.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST ENDEAVORERS' MUSICALE

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church gave another one of its enjoyable musicales last night. It was largely attended. The program consisted of both vocal and instrumental music, and some monologues by W. K. Flannigan, of Newark. The violin selections of Mrs. Violet Truell Johnson were especially well received. The duet "Calm Is the Night," as sung by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Davis, was particularly fine. There were also two vocal solos that were well rendered, the first being the "Spring Song," sung by Mrs. John Cottrell, and the other, "O Dry Those Tears," sung by Mrs. Theodore Davis. The quartet, consisting of Roy Titsworth, Dr. O. B. Whitford, Theodore and Arthur Titsworth, rendered a number of selections. Mr. Flannigan in his monologues made a decided hit.

At the conclusion of the entertainment a silver offering was taken.

Building Fund Euchre.

The Rosary Society of St. Joseph's church will give a building fund euchre in Debele's Hall, Chatham street, in the near future. Mrs. A. E. Kenney is chairman of the affair and she will be assisted by Mrs. A. A. Cannon and Mrs. J. E. Bailey and other women of the church.

Miss Lillie White Hooper.

Miss Lillie White Hooper, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. L. Hooper, of Oak Tree, died yesterday, following a short illness. The funeral will be held from the late home tomorrow morning and the burial will be in Evergreen cemetery, Brooklyn.

CHARTER DAY REPORTS

Considerable Progress Made by Committees Board of Trade Hears.

WANT THE CITY TO GIVE $1,000.

Trade Board Appropriates $300—Some Members Contributu $300 More.

Encouraging reports from the heads of the various committees in charge of the arrangements for the Charter-Day celebration, July 5, 6 and 7, were received at the monthly meeting of the Board of Trade last night, and incidentally there was some straight talk right from the shoulder, which made the members sit up and listen. Among those who spoke their mind were Newton B. Smalley and F. A. Duttenhofer.

The former Mayor of the borough said that he was glad to learn that the celebration was to include not only the fortieth anniversary of the granting of the city charter, but also the twenty-fifth anniversary of the borough. He believed that the affair should be a first-class one in every respect and that the city and borough governments together should appropriate not less than $2,500 and an equal sum should be raised outside. "It should be $5,000 or nothing," said Mr. Smalley. "This Board of Trade is not a financial institution. Judging by the past the members are looking for 'the long green' to conduct their business and the most satisfactory way of raising funds for such a celebration is through the governing bodies."

F. A. Duttenhofer referred to the fact that there had been some dissention because of an impression that the Board wanted to "run the whole thing." This he declared was a mistake. He urged that the Board be made not too prominent, but that it do all that is possible to bring about the united co-operation of all the civic organizations, lodges, etc., which in his opinion is the only way to insure success. He declared that this is no one-man affair and the quicker this was understood the better it would be for everybody.

L. B. Woolston, who presided in the absence of President H. W. Marshall, as chairman of the grounds and fireworks' committee, stated that efforts are being made to secure the Hyde property, back of the Children's Home on Franklin street, the borough.

As to the music, Chairman B. Frank Coriell said that nothing had been done except to get options on bands. It was found that at least $100 and expenses would be needed for each band, but further plans would be delayed until some idea of the amount of money to be available is learned.

Reporting for the finance committee, E. M. Laing stated that the work is progressing and that he had received assurances of receiving several good sized subscriptions. The committee had decided that at least $5,000 would be needed to celebrate properly.

Speaking for the borough, Mayor Samuel Townsend said that he was glad to know that it was to be a joint affair, although Mr. Laing explained that this had been merely a suggestion to be incorporated if it met with the approval of the borough. Mr. Townsend said that the matter would be considered at the meeting of the Borough Council tonight. He was pleased to note that there is no difference in the enthusiasm shown by Plainfield and North Plainfield members of the Board; all seem to be working toward one common end.

Captain W. C. Smith, general chairman of all committees, presented a brief report, showing that progress is being made by each committee and he said that there is no doubt but that the first day of the celebration will be a great success. As to the other two days, it is up to the merchants of the city to see that the program is carried out sucessfully.

It being the opinion of the Board that as a body it should make an appropriation, it was decided to contribute $300 toward the general fund. William R. Townsend, secretary to Mayor Charles Joel Fisk, was introduced, and he explained that at the request of Mr. Fisk he had come to the meeting to learn exactly what the Board desired of Mr. Fisk and how much money would be required from the city. He was given to understand that $1,000 from the city would be acceptable.

The Board decided to present a regular request to both the Common Council of Plainfield and the Borough Council for appropriations, it having been understood that under the law these bodies are at liberty to contribute toward such affairs.

After the meeting all were invited to subscribe to the general fund and in this way about $300 was pledged toward the celebration.

A. C. STEBBINS DIVORCED

After Hearing Sensational Testimony Against Wife, Decree is Quickly Given.

CASE OF BASE DECEPTION.

Chief Kiely Does Good Work in Collecting Abundant Evidence Against Woman.

Following testimony of a highly sensational character at a hearing in the Chancery Court, at Newark, yesterday, Vice Chancellor Howell granted a decree of absolute divorce against Anna Marie Stebbins, on statutory charges brought by her husband, Albert C. Stebbins, vice president of the Niles-Bement-Pond Tool Company, whose home is on West Seventh street. The couple were married at Warren chapel June 10, 1908, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the church, officiating. The couple lived together at Mr. Stebbins' home on West Seventh street for about a month last summer.

The story revealed in the testimony is that of a woman who took advantage of the wealth and position of an honorable man and sought to deceive him as her husband by tales of a sick mother in Staten Island, while she really traveled from place to place with a race track bookmaker, whom she was found living with at a hotel at Sheepshead Bay, Coney Island.

Mr. Stebbins met his wife in New York city in December, 1906, when she claimed she was Mrs. Hammerstadt, a widow. Her maiden name is Nelson and she lives at New Dorp, Staten Island. The couple were married at Warren chapel in June, 1908, and spent their honeymoon at Pittsfield, Mass. Upon their return to this city they made their home on West Seventh street, but Mrs. Stebbins soon left her husband for a time, declaring that her mother was seriously ill at her Staten Island home. She made three or four trips "to her mother," according to the testimony, and on one occasion sent for $150 for "physician's and nurse's expenses" for the "sick woman."

On July 18, when Mrs. Stebbins had been away for several days on one of these trips, her husband telegraphed to her and, receiving no reply, went to New Dorp, and saw the mother, Mrs. Nelson. The woman, it was shown, said she had not seen her daughter in months, and did not know that she had been married. She said that she had not been ill. This statement aroused the husband's suspicions. He consulted Reed & Coddington as his counsel and an investigation started.

Chief Kiely secured several Newark detectives and worked on the case for several months, and it is through his efforts that the case was made most complete. In company with James T. MacMurray, and two men and a woman detective, Chief Kiely located the woman in the Sheepshead Bay hotel the latter part of July. She was located with Tony Girard, a race-track book-maker, with whom she had been living for two years previous. She had registered as "Mrs. Girard," according to the testimony.

Although certain admissions were made at the hotel, and other things were definitely learned, the woman secured counsel and prepared to fight the application for divorce. Her attorneys were Doremus and Lecour, of Rutherford, and she also had New York counsel. Mrs. Stebbins was not at the trial yesterday at Newark, but her counsel fought the case with rigid cross-examinations. There were eight witnesses for Mr. Stebbins, including City Clerk MacMurray and Rev. J. O. McKelvey. Mrs. Hammerstadt is a strikingly handsome woman of about twenty-nine years of age. Although the final divorce decree will not be issued until six months have elapsed, it is said that the woman will make no further contest.

Thimble Club Entertained.

The Thimble Club held its last meeting until fall at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mehl, Madison avenue and Fourth street, last night. Twenty-five people were present, the evening was devoted to progressive euchre. Mrs. Caspar Waglow scored the greatest number of points. Edward O. Clark rendered a medley of popular airs on the piano. G. W. White, of Newark, a professional entertainer, did some of his tricks. Mrs. Jacob Blimm, Sr., is president of the organization, which meets fortnightly.

AUTO BUS SERVICE PLAN

The Board af Trade Hears of Scheme for Bringing More Trade to This City.

LAUDS THE "CITY BEAUTIFUL."

New Resident Writes Board How Pleased He is Here—Another Industry.

The proposition to establish an auto bus line between this city and Metuchen was reported upon at the Board of Trade meeting, last night, by Milton Mendel, who arranged a "personally conducted tour" with reporters on Tuesday. He gave a description of this trip in the auto, explaining that it required forty-five minutes to cover the nine miles, allowing for usual stops.

The plan is to operate these autos hourly, charge a five cent fare to the Plainfield Country Club, another five cents to Oak Tree and a third nickel to Metuchen and fix a rate of twenty-five cents for the round trip. There will be a meeting of interested citizens tonight for the purpose of organizing a company. It was explained that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company had decided that if the line is established, it would advertise the fact and sell tickets to Plainfield by this route.

A letter was read from G. M. Christian, of a New York dry milk concern, who has purchased a property at 65 Westervelt avenue. He said that he was led to come here through an advertisement of "The City Beautiful" in a Sunday edition of the New York Herald, and in his letter to the Board he was enthusiastic over the city, adding that he is now trying to get a number of his friends to locate in the "banner town of the country." Mr. Christian said that he spent months in trying to find a suitable place to live and it was not until he came to Plainfield did he see "the desire of his heart." He offered his services toward making the Charter-Day celebration a success. Mr. Christian also said that he had prepared a printed circular which he is sending to his friends, advertising "The City Beautiful," a copy of which was sent to the Board.

F. A. Duttenhofer explained that Levy & Julius, manufactuurers of lace waists, had leased quarters on West Front street and the plant would soon be in operation. The Central Park Realty Company was given a vote of thanks for the handsome illustrated booklet published by it under the endorsement of the Board, advertising "The City Beautiful."

During the evening Harry S. Sanderson, Dr. R. S. Stevens and H. R. Palmer were elected members of the Board.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MRS. OBADIAH CRANE.

A birthday surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Obadiah Crane, of Westervelt avenue, last night, by about thirty of her friends, who called to help her celebrate the occasion. Mrs. Crane was presented with a large mission chair and a bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Crane have just purchased the house in which they live and the affair last night was in the nature of a "housewarming" as well as a surprise on Mrs. Crane. Progressive euchre was the feature of the evening. Piano and violin music was furnished for dancing and during the playing of cards.

At the conclusion of the euchre it was learned that Mrs. H. D. Templin had scored the greatest number of points for the women, Mrs. William N. Tier second and Mrs. Corra Reno third. For the men, H. D. Templin scored the greatest number of points, William N. Tier was second and P. A. Van Fleet third. Refreshments were then served and the party broke up at an early hour this morning.

New Road Preparation.

"Dustoline," a patent road preparation, represented by J. H. Lamson, formerly of this city, but now of Summit, was spread on North avenue, yesterday, the purpose being to give it a trial as a dust layer. It is claimed that with one sprinkling the dust nuisance will be oviated for from six to eight weeks. One gallon will cover about eight or nine square yards. The preparation, a secret one, was put on the avenue, under the direction of Street Sommissioner Gavett. If satisfactory it may be used on other streets of the city.

N. P. H. S. Honors.

Miss Hazel Rose has been chosen valedictorian, and Miss Frances La Porte salutatorian, of the graduating class of the North Plainfield High School this year, while Miss Jennie Nelson has been awarded third honors.

HENRY HAURAND WINS IN DOUBLE RENT SUIT

Judge Vail in the Union County Court, today granted a non-suit in the action of Mrs. Josephine Mason, one of the heirs of the Schorb estate, against Henry Haurand, of North Plainfield, to recover double rental on the property at 115 East Front street, formerly occupied by the defendant. The plaintiff sued to recover double rental from January 1, 1907, to March 1, 1908, because the defendant remained on the premises after the time when notice was given to move.

Mr. Haurand was in a peculiar position at the time, having been granted his license and the Schorb estate was striving to get possession of the property. It is understood that the defendant stood ready to pay the regular rental, $125 a month, but refused to pay twice the sum.

Judge Vail, in granting a nonsuit, stated that the plaintiff had failed to show under the statutes that any relation of landlord and tenant existed between the parties and could not collect double rent. Francis J. Blatz represented the defendant and Melosh & Morten, of Jersey City, the plaintiff.

CHILDREN'S HOME ASS'N HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Reports for the past year and the election of officers comprised the chief business at the annual meeting of the Children's Home Association, yesterday. The resignations of Miss Lucy Everitt, as corresponding secretary, and Miss Ruth Leonard, as recording secretary, were accepted with regret. Both have served the association for a great many years, but a pressure of other duties compelled them to give up their offices.

These officers were chosen for the year: President, Mrs. Martin I. Cooley; first vice-president, Mrs. Laura S. Gilbert; second vice president, Mrs. James C. Peck; third vice-president, Mrs. Andrew N. Selter; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Rowley; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. E. Parvin; treasurer, Miss Ella Serrell.

The report of the treasurer showed that about $3,000 was raised during the year and the expenses averaged between $250 and $300 a month. An urgent appeal has been made for more regular subscribers to the association work, owing to constantly increasing needs. The association is glad to accept any amount from $1 upwards and it hopes that during the coming year many new friends will be added to the list of subscribers.

EXPECT DISAGREEMENT ON ACCUSATION CHARGE

The case of the State against Leonard Martine, in which the latter was tried on two indictments by the Middlesex County Grand Jury, was continued in New Brunswick, yesterday afternoon, when the State concluded its side of the case. Some surprise was occasioned this morning, when Layer Harry Cook of counsel for Martine, announunced that he would introduce no witnesses in defense. Instead, he occupied about an hour and a half in summing up. Prosecutor taking about the same time. The case was given to the jury at 11:30 o'clock and it is the general opinion that there will be a disagreement.

Martine was indicted on charges of arson and attempted incendiarism, it being alleged that he set fire to William E. Van Court's barn at Oak Tree and attempted to set fire to his house. The barn and contents were destroyed. The move of Lawyer Cook in making no defense was considered a clever one by disinterested parties.

Mr. Phelps Engaged.

The current issue of the Yale Alumni Weekly contains the following item, which will be of interest to the people of Plainfield: "Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Halladay, of Suffield, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Clarissa J. Halladay, to Benjamin J. Phelps, of North Plainfield." Mr. Phelps is the principal of the North Plainfield High School. He is a graduate of Yale and he has many friends in both city and borough.

Miss Hazel Rose, of Belmont avenue, leaves next week to visit relatives in Brooklyn.

IN TOM MUIR'S HONOR

Friends of Popular Young Man to Give Monster Testimonial for Him.

WM. RUNYON HEADS MOVEMENT

Counihan Tenders His Fine Playhouse for Big Minstrel Show—Many Are Interested.

Friends of Thomas M. Muair, of The Daily Press staff, one of the brightest and most popular young men in the city, are anxious to show their esteem for him at this time when he is suffering from temporary blindness and with that end in view plan a monster testimonial. "Tommie" Muir, who probably has as wide an acquaintance as any single individual in the community, in times past has been among the hardest workers in every enterprise for the benefit of those in sickness or in sorrow and has always given his time and services willingly for all benefits for Muhlenberg Hospital and similar worthy causes.

Fourteen weeks ago, Mr. Muir suddenly lost the sight of his right eye, having been blind in his left eye for some years. The most eminent eye specialists are doing all in their power to restore the sight of his right eye as speedily as possible but as such cases take a long time before decided improvement is shown, Mr. Muir's friends wish to demonstrate in a fitting manner at this time their high regard for him.

City Judge William N. Runyon has taken the initiative in the matter and announces that a minstrel show will be given in his honor at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, June 18. Manager William J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, has come forward with the offer of the house free for that occasion. The orchestra and the attaches of the playhouse have also volunteered their services. Mayor Charles J. Fisk and dozens of representative citizens in public and private life have notified Judge Runyon of their desire to co-operate with him in the undertaking.

This public letter is addressed to the hundreds of loyal friends of the popular young man:

To the Friends of Tom Muir, Greeting:

Tom has been confined in Muhlenberg Hospital since January last, grievously afflicted. An affection of the eyes has rendered him entirely sightless at present, and many a long weary day must elapse ere any return of vision may be expected.

By numerous of his friends a testimonial benefit has been urged as a means of accomplishing a two-fold purpose; first, that he may know, in his long hours of darkness that his companions of brighter days are anxious and eager to give of their time and talents to cheer him; second, that some substantial provision may be made against the future.

A minstrel show has been determined upon to meet these requirements, and it is in order to make up the chorus that this letter is written.

We aim to make this the greatest amateur minstrel show ever given in this city, with a chorus of at least one hundred voices. Already we have between sixty and seventy volunteers, and an invitation is hereby extended to every young man in Plainfield who can sing, to join with us. Tom has always been glad to help others. Now comes our chance to help him.

Please come to the Elks' lodge room in the Theatre Building next Tuesday evening, May 11, 1909, at 8 o'clock, without fail, for the first rehearsal.

WILLIAM N. RUNYON.

Plainfield, May 7, 1909.

As soon as Judge Runyon's plans became known today, the Dixie minstrels, the Franklin minstrels and the Hope minstrels quickly volunteered their services, which were accepted. Much other local talent has shown a desire to help make the affair a great big success. An amateur perform-

A MINUTE FROM MARKET STREET

BLUE SERGE SUITS

$12.00 $15.00 $18.00 $20.00

Beautiful self stripes, honey-comb weaves, shadow stripes, the latest "silver thread" stripe also plain twills in wonderous variety.

Over a year ago we predicted that the Spring of 1909 would be the biggest season ever known in the selling of fancy blue serges ---we bought our serges accordingly, and the demand today proves that we hit the nail on the head good and hard.

Are you looking for a fancy blue suit? Come here---Come have the pleasure of seeing more blue serge suits than any three stores in this city can show. Variety like that is worth traveling some distance to see. That important matter "price" we treat in a way to tickle you. We sell every Suit from $3.00 to $5.00 less than you could duplicate them for (if such a thing were possible.)

Boys' Serge Suits

Boys' Knickerbocker Suits, Coats either derby or plaited styles, pants full lined, sizes 8 to 17 years. Special at $6.50

Boys' Long Pants Suits, (Coats and Pants,) a beautiful display of fancy weave serges, also plain twills, sizes 14 to 18. $11.50

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The weather of yesterday made people forget the weather of the past. Overcoats were laid away and furnace fires allowed to die out.

But few of the smaller children have escaped the epidemic of measles which has been prevalent in town for the past month.

Alex. Muir, Jr., who has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer, has returned to his home in Newark.

The local ball team will play the Highlanders of Plainfield on the new diamond on Forest road tomorrow.

The weekly prayer meeting of the Baptist church will be held in the church parlors tonight.

William Jamison has returned from a visit with friends in Newark.

The weekly Bible study class will meet for reading and study tonight.

The Township Committee meet tonight in the township rooms.

SOMERVILLE.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Second Reformed church held its May meeting Wednesday afternoon in the chapel. Miss Ida Fleming gave a map talk on Japan. Mrs. E. C. Wise read a paper on "Religious Conditions in Japan," and Miss Emma Porter also read a paper on "Our Dutch Mission for the Japanese in New York City." The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Charles Kenyon, Mrs. Dayton Heagland and Miss Mame Klotz.

Former Senator and Mrs. William J. Keys, who have been spending the winter in New York, returned to their home in East High street, on Tuesday.

Miss Mary C. Butler returned on Tuesday from Trenton, where she had been visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Vickery.

Miss Ellen Stevens, of Morristown, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. John Anderson, of Grove street.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The South Plainfield Shammers defeated the Laurels by a score of 68 to 67. The Laurels made 27 home runs and the Slammers 22.

The local branch of the P. O. S. of A. will give up Washington Hall as their headquarters on the first of June.

Rufus Delafield, of Sunswick Farm, is enjoying a visit from his brother from Tuxedo, Mass.

Mrs. John Maguire and her daughter, Nora, visited friends in New Brunswick yesterday.

Mrs. John Lyons, of Plainfield, visited her sister, Mrs. John Horan, yesterday.

John Sikovi has rented apartments in the Washington hall building.

Adolph Steengraffe has purchased a 1909 modal Oldsmobile.

Mrs. Melvin Shrope is visiting out of town relatives.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold a business meeting in Vincent chapel tonight.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a consecration service tonight.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church meets this afternoon to enjoy an interesting program.

Miss Rollinson, of Elizabeth, and Miss Petrie, of this city, will speak at the Young People's Society meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight.

The Girls' Mission Club of the Congregational church enjoyed an informal social yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Winant, 820 Carlton avenue. The members attended the affair either masked in fancy dress or in sheet and pillowcase array. Some of the costumes were exceedingly amusing and caused a hearty laugh. Later in the afternoon refreshments were served.

Arthur Brisbane Buys a Farm.

William Shattuck, of Indianapolis, has sold the Winsor stock farm at Farmingdale to Arthur Brisbane, of New York. The farm contains 650 acres and the price was $5,000. It will be managed by Charles Cook, of Marlboro, and will be annexed to Mr. Brisbane's country seat of 5,000 acres.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. F. C. Burner, of Jackson avenue, who sprained her ankle two weeks ago, is improving.

Mrs. Charles Birch, of Fairview avenue, is detained at home with an attack of appendicitis.

Mrs. John Torney, of New York, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Jackson avenue.

Charles Beckman, of Fairview avenue, has returned home after a few days visit with relatives in New York.

Herman Berkham, of Watchung avenue, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, is improving slowly.

Miss Mary McCullough, of Steiner place, leaves Monday for Trenton, where she will become a pupil nurse in a hospital.

Mrs. Charles Berkham, of New York, has returned home after a visit with her brother-in-law, Herman Berkham, of Watchung avenue.

LIQUOR DEALERS WARN ICE MEN AS TO PRICES.

Trenton, May 7.—All the ice dealers in this city will be asked by the Mercer County Liquor Dealers' Association to fix the price of ice at forty cents per 100 pounds for all summer. Resolutions to that effect were adopted at the monthly meeting. The resolutions state that should the ice dealers ignore the request, the dealers will take measures to secure a supply next season elsewhere than from local dealers.

It was also decided to ask the Excise Board to issue no more saloon licenses for this city, as the needs of thirsty citizens are well supplied by the existing number of saloons. It was agreed to hold all annual conventions in Turner Hall, this city.

Governor Accepts Invitation.

Governor John Franklin Fort has accepted an invitation to attend the first annual banquet of the Westfield Board of Trade. The banquet will be held on the evening of Tuesday, May 25. The date was held open, so as to be arranged in conformity with the Governor's engagements. William G. McAdoo has also been invited to attend.

—Theodore S. Whalen has sold his residence, 61 Westervelt avenue, through J. F. Meaney, to George M. Christian, of Jersey City.

—J. Stanley Voorhees, formerly of Plainfield and now of New York, has purchased four desirable building lots at Cranford, where he will have erected a modern house from plans prepared by Architect Austin, Jr.

VOORHEES' INTERCHANGEABLE LOCKING-BORDER DEVICE.

A United States patent has been granted to J. Stanley Voorhees, of New York, on an interchangeable locking-border. The invention relates to printing and its object is to provide a new and improved interchangeable locking-border, arranged to readily connect the border pieces with each other and to securely hold the same in place. This practical and useful invention will fill a long felt want in the use of borders and cuts. It is a strong, simple device and very materially reduces the cost in the manufacture of dispal borders for advertisements, A description of this invention was recently printed in the Scientific American.

Mr. Voorhees is a member of the firm of Voorhees & Company, specialists in bank advertising, 116 Nassau street, New York city. Two advertising firms have already applied for rights to use this patent.

Pearl Oysters.

Pearl oysters are of two varieties, the large white shell and a smaller black species, but which produces the best pearls is an undecided question. Probably there is little choice. One rule that does seem to hold good, however, is that the deeper the water from which the shell is taken the larger and finer will be the pearl.

Rahway Hose Co.'s Horse Shot.

Because of injuries received by breaking through an insecure floor three weeks ago, the favorite horse of Rahway Protection Hose Company was ordered shot Wednesday night. The horse was very intelligent and cost $300.

The Simple Life.

Passerby—See here, you are the man who struck me for a dime three days ago.

Beggar—es, sir, but, do me best, I can't keep me expenses any lower than 3 1-3 cents a day.—Baltimore American.

Use of Bread Crumbs.

Bread crumbs are much better than cracker crumbs for covering things to be fried, since they do not absorb the grease.

Monster Ant Hills.

Ant hills in west Africa sometimes reach the enormous height of fifteen feet.

In the African Jungle.

The Monk—What's that big lion sitting in the front of the booboo tree for?

The Hippo—Poor old chap! He's been sitting there for a week. Don't you see what he's got hanging on the tree?

The Monk—No. What is it?

The Hippo—It's a calendar. The old chap is counting the days.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Bargain Lady.

When a thing is marked down unto one ninety-eight
I can see that it lessens expense,
But won't some one rise and explicitly state
What she does with the other two cents? —Judge.

Sheet Music.

Mrs. Nagfer—The noise you make at night is very unpleasant music.

Mr. Nagger—Do you call snoring music?

Mrs. Nagger—I should say so. Sheet music arranged for the bugle. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Very Like Himself.

Old lady (rather deaf)—Are you any relation to Mr. Green?

Green—I am Mr. Green.

Old Lady—Ah! Then that explains the extraordinary resemblance.—Pittsburg Observer.

Music.

The Chinese claim music was invented by Emperor Fuhsi some 3,000 years before the Christian era.

Village Postmaster All Het Up...

Postmaster—That feller's a mean skunk an' a liar.

Villager—Gee! What makes ye think so?

Postmaster—Sent a card through th' mail an' writ on it: "That rubberneckin' postmaster 'll read this, so I can't say all I want ter." An' I make it a rule not ter read 'em!—Cleveland Leader.

Shore Lots.

Citteman—Oh, these are the shore lots you advertised? Well, there doesn't seem to be much to them.

Boomley—Say, you want to come up and have a look at them when the tide's out!—New York Life.

COLLEGE BASEBALL TODAY.

Yale vs. Virginia, at New Haven.
Syracuse vs. Indians, at Syracuse.
Vermont vs. Tufts, at Burlington.
Dickinson vs. Pennsylvania State, at State College.

The Clinton Avennes will cross bats with McNulty Bros.' team of New York, on Crescent Oval, tomorrow afternoon. The latter aggregation is made up of strong players and will make the locals play hard to win. The New Yorkers have a California wonder as a pitcher, and he has not lost a game this season.

The Y. M. C. A. team will play a practice game tomorrow with a "pick-up" aggregation from the Park Club. The contest will be played on Hope Common.

A local wag inserted an item in the sporting columns of the New York Evening Mail Wednesday night seeking to get a strong Metropolitan team for a game of baseball in this city on May 31, with the Crescent A. C., and offering $100 guarantee. The manager of the Brooklyn Grays saw the item and came to Plainfield post-haste Wednesday night, looking for the manager of the Crescent A. C. After spending half the night here, he returned home without accomplishing his purpose and being convinced that he had been "handed a lemon."

Clifford Randolph is certainly making good with the Williamsport Tri-State League team. On Tuesday he pitched against Trenton, at the latter place, and shut out the home team. He allowed but five hits and received the best of support, while his delusive twists and curves worked to perfection.

GOLF.

The program for the eleventh annual championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association, embracing territory within approximately one hundred miles of New York, was announced yesterday. The tournament will be held on the links of the Apawamis Club at Rye, N. Y., on May 26 to 29 inclusive.

The qualifying round will be at thirty-six holes, medal play, the sixty-four lowest scores carrying eligibility for match play, which will be at eighteen holes, except the final round. The first thirty-two men will qualify for the championship and the third and fourth sixteens for special prizes, while the defeated sixteen of the first thirty-two will contest for the president's cup.

Entries close on Saturday, May 22. On Friday, May 28, there will be a club four-ball match at eighteen holes, medal play, and on Saturday the usual eighteen holes medal play handicap.

Programs are out for the tenth annual championship tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, to be held over the Nassau Country Club links on May 25, 26, 27 and 28. There will be an eighteen-hole testing round on the first day, the first eight to qualify for the championship trophy and second, third and fourth eights for other prizes. As usual, a prize will be awarded to the woman making the best score in the qualifying round.

The first of the extra attractions will consist of a nine-hole putting competition on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The following afternoon there will be a medal play handicap and at 11 o'clock on the last day a mixed foursomes will claim attention. One of the conditions of the tournament is that no competitor may use caddies other than those supplied by the club, or over sixteen years old. Entries will close with Miss Marie L. Harrison, No. 109 East 71st street, on Saturday night, May 22.

SPLENDID PICTURE OFFER TO READERS.

Quite the handsomest articles for home decoration that have yet been offered by a newspaper as inducements to its readers are the series of color art gravures now being distributed by The North American in exchange for a coupon from the Sunday paper and 5 cents. Counting the cost of the newspaper, the entire price of these color types is 10 cents. Similar reproductions are sold every day in the art stores at $1 or more. The reduced price is due to the fact that The North American in disposing of these works of art is associated with several other large newspapers in the printing of them, and the enormous cost is greatly reduced. The subject of the first painting issued was "The Forest Fire," a thrilling picture, and most realistic. The next subject will be a reproduction of a handsome landscape at sunset, reproduced with the utmost fidelity to nature's colorings. Agents for The North American will furnish one of these pictures in exchange for a coupon from Sunday issues and 5 cents in cash.

SENATOR BRIGGS IS A M'ADOO TUBE DIRECTOR.

New York, May 7.—Two new directors, increasing the board from nine to eleven, have been chosen by the stockholders of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, commonly known as the McAdoo Tunnel, according to announcement made Tuesday night. The new directors are Richard W. Meirs, a lawyer of Philadelphia, and United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, of New Jersey. There is still one vacancy on the board. At a meeting of the board today W. G. McAdoo was re-elected president.

The company has formally accepted the terms of the franchise as agreed upon by the Public Service Commission, for the extension of its tubes up Sixth avenue, from the present terminus at Thirty-fourth street, to the Grand Central Station.

Arrested on a Tugboat.

Hackensack, May 7.—Alexander Horn, until April 27 last a dog catcher for the Society for the Prevention to Cruelty to Animals, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Policeman Charles Blaber, charged with the larceny of a watch from Walter Ely, secretary of the society. Horn formerly boarded at Ely's house. Horn was arrested on a tugboat that arrived here from Elizabeth. In his pocket was found a pawn check for a watch left at the shop of Philip Cohen, 37 Broad street, Elizabeth. He was held in default of $500 bail.

JERSEY FORESTERS GOING TO BAYONNE.

The annual State convention of the Grand Court of New Jersey, Foresters of America, will be held in Bayonne this year for the first time during the existence of the order. The date set for the meeting is Tuesday of next week, and the sessions will take place at the opera house hall. For the event and attending festivities elaborate preparations have been made by the order's two organizations, Bayonne Court Winfield No. 19 and Court Pamrapo No. 50.

About three hundred and twenty-five delegates representing the various courts in New Jersey will be in attendance. Grand Chief Ranger Thompson will preside after Mayor Garven has called the convention to order for the forenoon session.

Among the more important business to be transacted will be the election of Grand Court officers to serve during the coming year, and for representatives to attend the Supreme Court session to be held at Atlantic City in August.

After the morning session the visiting Foresters will be entertained at a banquet to be held at one of the shore houses along the Kill von Kull shore front.

WANTS HIS JOB BACK.

Alfred Crane Says He Was Unjustly Removed.

Alfred Crane, of Rahway, petitioned the Union County Board of Freeholders at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon for reappointment as bridge tender of the Milton avenue span in Rahway. He stated in his communication to the board that he had been treated unjustly in not receiving the appointment before, saying that he was a Civil War veteran and had held the bridge position years ago, but was ousted when the Democrats had a majority in the board.

His communication was backed by petitions from Barry Post, G. A. R., and several other societies and individuals of Rahway. The letter was referred to the bridge committee.

Another State Road Improvement.

The contract and plans for the improvement of the road between Hackettstown and Washington, a distance of nine miles, have been approved by State Road Commissioner Gilkyson, and this will complete an improved line of roads extending from Jersey City to Washington. In constructing the section between Hackettstown and Washington, asphaltum binder will be used with the stone. The road between Washington and Phillipsburg is already improved. The improved roads in this particular section will cover a distance of about seventy-three miles.

FOR CATHEDRAL IDEA; NO BISHOP CO-ADJUTOR

Advocates of a cathedral system in the New Jersey Diocese of the Episcopal church gained a victory at the closing session of the diocesan convention at Burlington. Rev. Albert B. Baker presented the report of the cathedral committee. By a very close majority resolutions were adopted which stated that, in the opinion of the convention, it is desirable to establish a cathedral system when it seems probable that it can be properly supported. The bishop was authorized to appoint a provisional cathedral chapter of ten laymen and ten presbyters to present a cathedral plan at the next convention.

Plans to appoint a bishop coadjutor, which have been in the minds of church leaders for three years, were quashed by Bishop Scarborough. In his annual address he expressed his opposition to the scheme, asserting that he desired to serve unaided as long as his health permitted.

John B. Dumont, of Grace church, this city, was again chosen as trustee of church property. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, was chosen a member of the missionary council.

Next year's convention will be held at Trenton.

ance, such as never before seen in this city, will be put on the boards. The first rehearsal will be held at the Elks' lodge room on Tuesday night and as soon as possible the program and the various committees will be announced.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Preparatory services were held at Hope chapel, last night, and the regular communion service will be held Sunday night.

Plans are complete for an entertainment and festival to be given in the parish house of St. Stephen's church, Tuesday night, May 25.

The Church Attendance Band of Hope chapel will hold a banquet at the chapel tonght at 7:30 o'clock. The members are asked to be present promptly at the appointed hour, wearing their pins and bringing their cards.

HEN LAYS HERSELF TO DEATH.

Breaks All Records and Then Her Heart Because There Is No Competition.

The hen owned by Mrs. William Applegate, of Red Bank, which was made famous by ability to produce a hundred eggs a month died yesterday.

A week ago the fowl stopped laying and it is believed her failure to keep up her marvellous egg laying record resulted in a broken heart.

The hen commenced laying last November and frequently laid as many as seven eggs a day.

One day, when Mrs. Applegate discovered eight eggs in the nest, she promptly became hysterical, believing the fowl to be bewitched, and she had to have medical attention.

Three Hurt in Runaway.

As the result of a runaway accident yesterday at Passaic three men are in the General Hospital in that city. One is in a critical condition. A truck loaded with steel ties was coming down the Bloomfield avenue hill, when the weight of the wagon caused it to move faster than the horse. The animal became frightened at the pressure and ran away. The five men in the truck were thrown off. Two escaped injury Antonio De Viti received injuuries from which he may die.

Minister's Wife Smallpox Victim.

Mrs. Charles H. Elder, wife of the Rev. Charles H. Elder, of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Trenton, died at the Municipal Hospital this afternoon from smallpox. Mrs. Elder contracted the disease while visiting her husband in the South, where he had gone for his health, and upon returning to Trenton she was stricken. Mr. Elder got back to Trenton before his wife's death.

Ocean Grove Services Open June 27.

For the coming summer the devotional committee of the Ocean Grove Association, headed by Bishop Luther Wilson, of Philadelphia, has about completed the schedule of the religious exercises. Sunday, June 27, will be opening day, when the first sermon will be preached by Bishop Wilson in the morning, and from then until the closing service, September 26, there will be something every day to attract the regular transient visitor.

Newark City Engineer Shot.

While waiting for a trolley car at Market and Broad streets, Newark, last night, City Engineer Morris R. Sherrerd was shot in the thigh by a stray bullet from a Flobert rifle. He did not know he had been wounded until he felt blood trickling down his leg. The wound was dressed at police headquarters. Although the corner is the busiest in Newark, no one saw anybody with a rifle.

Queer Justice.

OBSERVE ARBOR DAY IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Arbor Day was observed in the public schools today.

North Plainfield.

Appropriate exercises were held at the North Plainfield High School this morning consisting of songs and an address on the care of shade trees by Henry Crofut White, a member of the North Plainfield shade tree commission.

In the primary department there was a regular program consisting of songs and recitations, the featuure being a dialogue on the "Origin of Arbor Day," by three little pupils, Grace Wakefield, Bertha Martin and Walter Debele.

The program follows:

Song, "Welcome Lovely May," by the school; recitation, "The Oak Leaves," William Kelley; recitation, "Arbor Day," Peter Meyers; recitation, "Choosing a Tree," Margaret Smith; recitation, "Robin Red Breast," Dorothy Seader; song, "Robin," by the school; recitation, "A Riddle," Edward Clay; recitation, "How Raindrops Come," Seaman Higgins; recitation, "Three Trees," Raymond Giles; recitation, "Origin of Arbor Day," Grace Wakefield, Walter Debele, Bertha Martin, Joyclin Mead; song, "Out Among the Daffodils," by the school; exercise by six girls of the Third A Grade; recitation, "Choice of a Tree," Josephine Hanlon; recitation, "The Apple Tree," Ralph Mechelson; recitation, "The Maple," Russel Coddington; piano solo, Everett Case; recitation, on Arbor Day, by six pupils of the A Grade; recitation, "The Trees," by Marguerite Johnson; recitation, "Preserving Time," Cora Hale; recitation, "Miss Apple," Florence Hoagland; singing, "If I Were You," by the school.

Irving School.

These exercises were held in the assembly hall of the Irving School this morning: Song, "Arbor Day," school; recitation, "Welcome to Spring," Ethel Rosenson; song, "May," school; recitation, "The Gladness of Nature," Elizabeth Seals; song, "Pussy Willow," pupils of 4 B class; recitation, "What We Plant," Ella Kline; song, "The Old Oak Tree," school; recitation, "A Popular Tree," Marion Lynn; song, "An Open Secret," school; recitation, "The Useful Trees," Hazel Fields, Mabel Haring, William Egel, Ernest Stillman; recitation, "The Popular Tree," John Bolsterle; recitation, "Daffy Down Dilly," Lillian Handleman; song, "The Four Leaf Clover," school; recitation, "The Crow's Children," Miriam Smith and Edna Mowen; poem, pupils 4 A grade; recitation, "My Tree," Helen McAfee; song, "The Ivy Green," school; recitation, "The Elm," Erma G. Dobbins; song, "Spring," school; recitation, "Spring Flowers," Gertrude Slorah; song, "The Spring Has Come," school.

Franklin School.

The exercises at the Franklin School consisted of songs and an address by the principal, Miss N. J. Bullock, on the origin of the day, the uses of trees and what President Roosevelt had done towards the preservation of the forest. The eighth grade of the Stillman School entertained the other grades with songs and recitations.

PERSONAL.

Rev. G. W. Bailey, of the Calvery Baptist church, has returned from Boston where he conducted evangelistic services for a week.

Rev. and Mrs. Albertus Broek and son, Howard, of Newark, spent yesterday in Plainfield with Mr. Broek's brother, Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and enjoyed a drive about "The City Beautiful."

Former State Senator Charles A. Reed, who is on a trip around the world with his family, sailed from San Francisco on Wednesday for Yokohomo, where he will land about June 1. The party is aboard the Pacific mail steamer "Mongolia." The party will remain at Yokohomo for a month and will spend the first two weeks of July at Shanghai. From Shanghai they will cross the continent by rail to St. Petersburg.

Three Acts at Proctor's.

"The Campbells," musical artists, one of the funniest teams in vaudeville, is an added attraction at Proctor's theatre today and tomorrow, making three acts in all. There will be an entire change of bill today and every life motion picture will be the latest subject, offering an especially strong bill.

King's Daughters' Annual.

The annual meting of the City Union of The King's Daughters, will be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Friday afternoon, May 21, at 3:30 oclock, at which time officers will be elected and reports presented. The public is invited to this meeting.

Minstrels Tonight at Y. M. C. A.

The Warren Chapel Signal Corps will hold its minstrel show at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium tonight. The proceeds will go towards the purchasing of uniforms and guns with which to drill. There are now eighteen members in the corps and ten more on the waiting list.

REV. MR. D'AUBIGNE'S TALK ON M'ALL WORK

The feature of the closing session of the twenty-six annual convention of the American McAll Association in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday, was the address by Rev. Charles Merle d'Aubigne, of Paris, who spoke on the great work being accomplished by the association throughout France. Of all the mission work in France, said the speaker, none had progressed so rapidly and none had accomplished more real good for the poor than the McAll Association.

"Since the separation of the church and State," said the speaker, "the number of free thinkers has grown rapidly. There is no less infidelism among the middle classes than ever before. There is now a crusade going on among those of the poor class and it will not be long before the strength of the Protestant religion will be felt throughout France."

Mr. d'Aubigne's address was listened to with the greatest interest and at the close he was heartily applauded. With the reading of the minutes the convention closed after the benediction was pronounced by Rev. George T. Berry. The one hundred or more delegates attending the convention had nothing but words of praise for the hospitable entertainment provided by the local branch of the association.

JOURNAL LIBEL SUIT IS ON AT ELIZABETH

For the next few days the greatest interest in the Union County Courts will be centered in the libel suit insituauted by General Dennis F. Collins against the Elizabeth Daily Journal. The trial began this morning before Judge Vail and a jury, members of which are Edward A. Laing and J. Fred MacDonald, of this city, the latter being foreman. City Attorney J. C. Connolly, of Elizabeth, and R. V. Lindaberry represent the complainant, while Robert McCarter, John K. English and Charles Wagner, represent the defendant, Mr. Wagner being engaged to look after the interests of David Nichols, the reporter, who wrote the story for the Journal, containing the alleged libel.

There are fully one hundred witnesses to be called during the progress of the trial, including James E. Martine, of this city, who was one of the speakers at the Democratic meeting in Elizabeth, on October 15 last, a report of which in the Journal caused the trouble. General Collins demands $15,000 for what he claims was a false report of a speech made at the Lyceum, Elizabeth, on the above date, upon the occasion of the visit of John Worth Kern, the Democratic candidate for Vice President.

The Journal refused to retract its statements, though Collins appealed to it time and again and sent "band wagons" through the city, bearing a printed demand for a retraction. Nichols, the reporter, made an affidavit that it was true. Collins, at the conclusion of the campaign, in which he lost the mayoralty fight, started suit against the Journal. Nichols left the Journal several months ago and is now working on the Hartford Courant. He has been summoned as a witness.

In the story printed in the Journal Collins was made to apear as ridiculing the church in his speech and referring to the editor of the Journal as a "prayer-meeting editor," all of which was denied by General Collins. The trial is expected to go over until next week.

INSTALL A NEW PASTOR AT DUNELLEN CHURCH.

The installation of the Rev. Ernest R. Brown, the new pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Dunellen, took place last night. There was a large congregation present to witness the impressive services.

The installation was in charge of the Rev. Charles Shaw, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Rahway, who acted as moderator and preached the sermon. The charge to the pastor was given by the Rev. William T. Stuchell, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, of Rahway. The charge to the people was given by the Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, Plainfield.

ROBBINS' BIG CIRCUS IN PLAINFIELD TODAY

The first circus of the season is in town today and everyone from the small boy to the oldest inhabitant is happy. The Frank A. Robbins show arrived here about 5 o'clock this morning and the big tents were pitched at West Front street and Grant avenue, where an afternoon and evening performance will be given.

One of the interesting features of the big show was the parade which took place this morning through the principal streets of the city. It was viewed by thousands of people. The calibre of the Robbins show is well-known here, for it has for nearly thirty years been an almost annual visitor in this vicinity.

Jumbo, the giant camel, is still with the show, but is at least a foot taller than two years ago. J. H. Hughes, the press agent, declares that the camel is one of the largest in captivity, and it is necessary for its keeper to climb a big tent pole every morning to brush its neck and clean its teeth. There are some great riding acts with the circus and excellent tumblers. The feature act is the "leap to the moon," the performance of Dare Devil Herr. He leaps from a bicycle, while going down an incline and catches a trapeze.

Old Age and Late Hours.

A statistician affirms that the majority of people who attain old age have kept late hours. Eight out of ten who reach the age of eighty have never gone to bed till after 12 at night.

Japanese Children.

Japanese children are not allowed to attend school until after six years of age, as the Japanese believe that school education before six is physically and mentally detrimental.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Whatever "Going Some" does, it never belies its name. The action and the laughs are so rapid—or, rather, constant, for there are no intervals of inaction or rest from laughter—that one does not wonder that it took two scintillating brains to produce it. Both Paul Armstrong and Rex E. Beach are spontaneous humorists, and this rattling Western farce, which is playing at the Belasco theatre, plainly shows the originality of the former and the rugged strength of the latter. It abounds in youth and beauty, and who does not enjoy these two factors in a play? Belasco perfection as to atmosphere, costuming and accuracy of detail seems to be a part of the house, for though this is a Shubert and not a Belasco production, it is there as apparently as in any of the Belasco handiwork. This is a play which is so breezy and refreshing that even the humid breath of a New York summer cannot wither the crisp bloom of its vivacity.—Philip Mindil, N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

Eva Tanguay is at the head of an excellent bill at the Colonial for the week ensuing where she begins her second and last week. Several new songs are in the cyclonic comedienne's repertoire and she interprets them in her own inimitable style. "At The Waldorf," Jesse L. Lasky's latest success is among the topliners. This is a musical comedy with twenty-five people, included in which are several pretty girls in handsome costumes and plenty of tuneful musical numbers. Stuart Barnes, the clever monologist, will be on hand to entertain with his funny stories and songs. Among the other attractions are: Linton & Lawrence in a singing and talking act; Jean Clermont's Circus; Griff, the English comedy juggler; The Carbrey Brothers, dancers, and several minor features. On Sunday, concerts will be given as usual.

Ten thousand persons will have an opportunity of witnessing Maude Adams' first appearance as "Joan of Arc"—in The Stadium at Harvard; on the evening of June 22. The "bowl" of The Stadium will be used for seating purposes and will give the capacity mentioned above. At this rate Miss Adams will more than maintain her record for playing to large audiences. All that portion of the field and a large section of the Gridiron that faces the "bowl" will be used for the "stage." The actors will tread upon the turf. A special scenic setting, adaptable to the Stadium, is being built under the direction of Ernest Gros. In the matter of costumes Miss Adams has the co-operation of John Alexander, the artist. One thousand supernumeraries will be employed by Miss Adams. These will be in charge of fifty super captains, and to dress them there will be a small host of armorers, costume masters, wardrobe masters, etc. Every essential, down to a pin, necessary for the costuming of this horde, will be transplanted to The Stadium. In addition Miss Adams' master electrician will install a complete electrical plant in The Stadium, sufficient to furnish every requisite of lighting, etc., known to the modern theatre, only on a scale vastly larger than any hitherto contemplated in America.

The ninth week of Mr. Mantell's season in New York and the fourth week of his engagement at the Academy of Music will be ushered in Monday with "Richard III," a role in which Mr. Mantell stands pre-eminent. The concensus of opinion of the best critics of the English speaking stage voices the noble authority and splendid conception with which the tragedian invests the role of the crooked limbed king. This great and striking play, always a favorite with theatregoers, should arouse interest in this revival next week. "Richard III" will be repeated Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights. The first romantic play of Mr. Mantell's season is announced in the production of "The Lady of Lyons" at the Wednesday matinee in which Mr. Mantell will appear as the sentimental hero, Claude Melnotte, in Bulwer Lytton's play. Thursday, Friday and Saturday matinee Mr. Mantell will reappear in Richeliey in which he scored such a triumph last month on Broadway. This striking and picturesque drama is always a prime favorite in the classic repertoire and its announcement has already stimulated a large seat sale for its presentation. Later on Mr. Mantell will make a digression into the romantic field, reappearing as Raphael, the sculptor, in the classic romance, "The Marble Heart" or "The Sculptor's Dream."

LITERARY

Jack London is represented in the May issue of the Smart Set by one of the most charming stories he has ever written. "Aloha Oe" is a tale of Hawaii, full of the romance and perfume of that sun-bathed island empire. In the development of the story is shown the basic idea of race-difference that introduces an interesting problem apropos of this country and its island dependencies.

A score of unusual articles of timely interest to all people who love the outdoors are to be found in the May number of Recreation which is now on news-stands. Recreation makes one claim for distinction, which is certainly warranted by the current issue. Its articles and pictures—there are 128 fine reproductions from photographs in the May number—are from the pens and cameras of men who have "been there."

VALUE OF EDUCATING CHILDREN AT THE TABLE.

To borrow from the slang dictionary: the child needs the ten or twelve hours' sleep in his business of growing tall and robust, steady of nerve and sane of mind. Furthermore, he needs food adapted to his needs; plenty of cereals, plenty of milk, plenty of ripe fruit in the season thereof, meat once a day, nourishing broths and a few green vegetables; no fried things whatsoever; neither tea nor coffee; no pastry, no mince pie or plum pudding or highly seasoned entrees. Time enough for these delicacies when the inches (and feet) are all in, the muscles in splendid working order, the gray matter of the brain "all there" and ready to do the duties of a man's brain for fifty years to come.

One branch of the child's education, surely neglected in tens and thousands of homes, is mastication. As soon as he cuts his teeth teach him why they were given him. Make his chew everything he takes into his mouth. Able dietitians are proclaiming bodily that milk should be chewed, a mouthful at a time, if one would not have it change to cure about the diaphragh. The child's meat should be finely minced for him until he can cut it up for himself, and bolting should be reckoned as a breach of decent behavior.

He may forget the trium that "gentlemen eat slowly" after he join in the great American rush for fortune. Obedience to it for a term of years will lay the foundation of sound digestion. He will have a better chance of long life and no dyspepsia than if he had been allowed to gulp down milk by the glassful without drawing breath, and to gobble steaks and chops in two-inch chunks.

Insist that the child shall behave decorously at the table, as well as eat properly, from the time he can comprehend an order conveyed in the simplest language. Do not let him make a porridge of his soup by crumbling bread into it, or churn crackers into cocoa, or work vegetables and gravy into a mound, using the knife as a trowel. He should be reproved for sipping soup and othed liquids audibly, and for loud inspirations after drinking. Line upon line and precept upon precept, gently but regularly enforced, will make a well-bred boy of him. And right habits learned in childhood last a lifetime.

There is common sense in each of the conventions at which vulgarians scoff.

Way of the World.

"I understand the Neweds are having trouble," remarked the spinster boarder. "Some people take her part and some others side with him."

"And I suppose," growled the scanty-haired bachelor at the pedal extremity of the mahogany, "there are a few eccentric people who mind their own business."—Chicago Daily News.

Carrot Pudding.

One cup, each, of chopped raisins, grated carrots and grated potatoes; one-half cup of butter, one cup of flour, three teaspoonfuls of nutmeg, one teaspoonful, each, of cinnamon and sodo; one beaten egg. Steam for three hours. Serve with hard sance.

Why the Baby Cried.

Mrs. Newpop—What's the baby crying for, I wonder?

Mr. Newpop—Oh, he tried to swallow my cuff buttons.

Mrs. Newpop—What did you do?

Mr. Newpop—Gave him a couple of cuffs."—Chicago News.

A Matter of Training.

"Yes, she certainly is an economical dresser."

"Who was she before he married her?"

"Don't you know? She was in the ballet."—Cleveland Plain Dealer

4,750 Yards ROUGH SHANTUNG PONGEE 63c

It is Pure Silk, Satin Finish, 26 ins. wide, worth 1.25

There has not been in many moons a more astonishing silk proposition than this one, and we anticipate the most generous response on the part of our patrons that has been made to any offering of gown fabrics this season.

These Rough Shantung Pongees, you know, are immensely popular this season—that makes the offering all the more important. If they were passe goods, undesirable, imperfect or in off colors, it would be different. But these are choice pure silk, satin finished goods in full rolls, in no less than 46 new, staple and fashionable colorings, of a make known the world over for its excellence, but we are required to omit the name of the maker from our ads. It has the well-known patent detachable selvage, and you will know then what a wonderful bargain we are offering you, for these goods are universally sold at $1.25 a yard.

Perhaps you will better appreciate this extraordinary offering if you will come, buy a dress length, compare it with others and see what you'll have to pay for an equal quality of pongee elsewhere.

Some of the colors are limited, so we advise you to come as early as possible if you want the very best choice, though the lot is so large that there should be a goodly variety of shades throughout the day. Dont fail to get your share of this $1.25 Pure Silk Rough Shantung Pongee for only ..... .63

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

FOR THE MASTER.

Two ships set out on a summ'ry sea,
And each was a gallant sight;
With hulls so trim and with masts so slim,
With sails of a shining white;
And one was as sturdy as bark can be,
While the other was small and slight.

Two ships rest still with their journeys o'er,
But with logs of a different sort;
For the big and brave fought wind and wave,
While the other did but sport;
And the stronger lies wrecked on a foreign shore,
While the weaker is safe in port.

Two records there are of two ships that sailed,
And the pages are side by side;
Is there master who dare claim the tale more fair
For the craft of the kindly tide?
Is there shame in the record "battled and failed,"
And none in "unconquered—untried?"

—Channing Pollock, in The People's for May.

CLEVELAND'S ESTIMATE OF JUDGE GRAY.

"I do not believe," said Mr. Cleveland, "that I have ever come across a man better fitted for high responsibility than George Gray, of Delaware. If he had lived in any State with sufficient population and area to give it political influence, nothing could have kept him from becoming the candidate of his party for President, and a strong one he would have been. Well trained, of perfect temper and poise, conciliatory and yet firm both in opinion and purpose, fair to all, but especially true to his friends and his principles, he would represent the ideas and traditions of the republic at their best."

When I saw Mr. Cleveland once, on a visit home, during the critical period following the Spanish War, he expressed the belief that the only thing which had kept the country from discarding the Philippines, and thus abandoning our new colonial system, was the fact that the experiment still had the support of Judge Gray.

"It would be impossible," he continued, "to estimate the dominating influence of such a man in a crisis like that through which we are passing."

During later years, when he was greatly concerned about the paralysis of his own party, his exclamation made to me perhaps fifty times, always was:

"Oh, if we could only have George Gray as our candidate!"—George F. Parker, in McClure's Magazine.

NEWARK The Reliable Store—Established Over 51 Years

Our Great $15 Men's Suits Not $15 Suits at All---They are $25 Suits.

Cannot get away from facts—most exacting comparison with $25 suits generally proves our $15 suits worth $25—material for material, stitch for stitch, trimmings for trimmings—and as for style and fit! few stores have suits at any price that equal ours point for point. Come, see and try on these wonder suits, and you will no longer marvel why men who have been paying higher prices, and men who have been wearing to-order clothes buy here. Many a man who has paid from $25 to $35 for clothing has bought two suits on the spot—a blue or black, and a neat colored suit. Every one of these $15 suits receives more expert attention before it leaves the tailor than any suit ever sold before at the price. You will be enthusiastic as we when you see the suits.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

In a household in Mantua rice pudding has been the dessert at dinner every Sunday for eighteen years.

The Landis Township Committee has granted the Citizens' Gas Company a fifty-year franchise to pipe gas from Millville through the township.

Pleading guilty to conducting a disorderly house at her hotel on Mill street, Mt. Holly, Mrs. Mary J. Davis was fined $200 by Judge Horner.

The twenty-fifth annual session of the woman's missionary societies of the West New Jersey Baptist Association will convene at Newport on Tuesday.

Convicted in the Camden Criminal Court yesterday of selling liquor to minors, Michael Monahan, a saloonkeeper of Gloucester City, will be sentenced today.

Edward Peterson, a drug clerk formerly employed by John H. Burchill, of Bayonne, was held for examination yesterday by Recorder Mara charged by Burchill with having embezzled $200.

Jumping into the Rancocas Creek in front of his office on Washington street, Mt. Holly, late yesterday afternoon, Stacy B. Lippincott saved nine-year-old Samuel Goldy, of Water street, from drowning.

From injuries sustained when struck on the head with a cobblestone at Riverside several days ago, Peter Berry, a bricklayer, who gave his home as Massachusetts, died at Cooper Hospital, Camden, yesterday.

Announcement was made by Prosecutor Scovel, in Camden, that the drivers of bottlers' wagons who recently were indicted for selling liquor in prohibition territory will be sentenced by Judge Joline today.

An ordinance has been introduced at the meeting of the Bayonne Council providing for a tax of $100 a year on bottlers of beer. It also provides that all out-of-town dealers who deliver in Bayonne must take out a license.

After three years at Fort Wayne, Captain John J. Toffey, Jr., with his regiment, the Seventh Infantry, U. S. A., has gone to Manila for two years. Captain Toffey is a native of Jersey City, the son of Colonel and Mrs. John J. Toffey, of Jewett avenue.

School Trustee Frank Dobson was appointed tax assessor by Mayor Pierre Garven, of Bayonne, to succeed Aries P. Brooke. The latter opposed a bill introduced at the suggestion of the Mayor providing for a board of three assessors. The bill passed.

The Paterson police authorities have learned that Marie Luetenberger, the ten-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Luetenberger, of 20 Elm street, who had been missing from her home since last Sunday, is staying with a relative in New York, where she had gone because she was not satisfied with her treatment at home.

Thieves, who evidently were acquainted with the value of silk, yesterday removed six bundles of the fibre from a bale which had just been delivered by an expressman at the door of the Holmes Silk Company, Paterson. The stolen goods are valued at $396, there being eighty-eight pounds of silk in the six bundles taken.

The Burlington County Freeholders have adopted the resolution providing that no roads should be constructed in Burlington county during 1909. This was directed against a recent proposition for $50,000 bond issue. Freeholder Donally, of Florence, who wants a new road in his section, declared that the anti-road measure was "wrong and rotten."

Openly violating the New Jersey law prohibiting the driving of cattle through the streets of a city in the daytime, William Gilbert, of Penn's Manor, Pa., escorted a drove of fifteen cattle in silent procession directly past the front door of the Second Precinct Police Station, Trenton, yesterday. Gilbert said he never heard of the law, but he will have to pay a fine before he can get his cows out of the back yard of the station house.

A big double-barred gate, built to keep out tramps, proved an effectual barrier to the Trenton Fire Department when it was summoned yesterday to extinguish a fire in the rear of the stables of L. B. Risdon, in Montgomery street. The gate kept the firemen busy for some minutes before they devised a battering ram and broke it down, enabling them to get at the flames, which were in an incubator near the stables. Forty chicks were burned to death while the firemen were breaking down the barrier.

Declaring that he was the victim of a political plot, which had made his tenure of office too unpleasant to continue, County Road Supervisor William Burgess handed in his resignation to the Atlantic County Board of Freeholders yesterday. In his resignation speech the official asserted his belief that much of the opposition to him had come from men who were angry because he had blocked schemes for making money out of the building of county roads. Japhet Price, of Pleasantville, was selected to fill the place after the resignation of Burgess had been accepted.

CLINTON AVENUE NINE TO PLAY M'NULTY BROS.

The Clinton Avenue nine will play the strong McNulty Brothers' team, of New York, at Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, and the game will be called at 3:30 o'clock. It is probable that "Al" Ortleb will be used in the box by the local team, and Seerey will catch. Barnes will be at first, "Brit" Martin at second, Emery at third and "Jack" Martin at short. The outfielders are to be selected after the preliminary practise from Shott, Scott, Snyder, O'Loughlin and Gilman.

The visitors will put a strong team in the field, according to the report of their manager, but it is not known yet whether Hayden or Morris will go in to pitch. This is the provisional lineup for the other positions: Farnecker, 1b; Whelan, ss; Deroiser, 3b; McGrath, 2b; Clark, lf; Collins, rf; Earle, cf, and Seaman, c.

The Clinton Avenues will appear in their new suits at tomorrow's game for the first, and the new, garnet coat-sweaters have been distributed. A hard game is expected although last year, with "Cliff" Randolph in the box, the Clinton Avenues won out by a score of 3 to 2.

—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leask, of Jackson avenue, are the parents of a girl, born this morning.

—Lovers of choice Jersey asparagus will find a choice assortment at Neuman Bros.' This is the pick of the market.

ORTLEB TEAM SPRING SURPRISE ON BOWLERS.

Ortleb and Ortleb sprung a surprise on the bowlers at Campbell's alleys last night, by making their two last games count for winners. For a while it looked as if Radin and Schaub would prove the winners as they started their last set by running up a total of 419. Radin was the high man in the first game of the last series, running up 224. G. Ortleb was second with 218.

TEMPLE BAPTIST WOMEN HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Temple Baptist church at its annual meeting, yesterday, elected these officers: President, Mrs. J. W. Musson; vice-president, Mrs. John Mackey; secretary, Mrs. Frank Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Valentine Utzinger; chairman missionary committee, Mrs. Clarence Murphy; secretary-treasurer missionary committee, Mrs. David Patterson; visiting committee, Mrs. William Staats, Mrs. Charles Jeter, Mrs. William Peck, Mrs. Edward Baker, Sr.

The treasurer reported a balance of over $100 in the treasury and there is a membership of forty-four. Fourteen new members were added during the year, and there are eighteen men on the roll as honorary members. Plans for the coming year were discussed and the outlook is particularly promising.

EXPECT BIG AUDIENCE AT CARLTON SONG RECITAL.

The indications all point to a large and representative audience at the Hartridge auditorium next Tuesday evening, when W. T. Carleton, the well-known operatic baritone, will give a song recital for the benefit of the King's Daughters' baby camp. The program will include selections from "Carmen," "Faust" and other favorite operas, and a number of folk songs of different nationalties, with, by special request, some of the Barrack Room Ballads of Rudyard Kipling.

Tickets may be procured from Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, 530 Stelle avenue, and at the Hartridge auditorium on the occasion of the recital.

Trying Oil on Road.

The Standard Oil Company is placing ten barrels of oil on Union avenue, Cranford, in the business section of the town, for experimental purposes. The oil will cover 40 feet of road 16 feet wide. One-half the roadway is now closed for 24 hours in order to let the oil set, then the other half is to be treated. The street is a good one to test the merits of the oil on account of heavy traffic.

FOR WALL STREET SUCCESS.

Just a Few of the Qualifications Necessary if One Is to "Beat the Game."

The clergyman who says that he can take "a $100 bill, a pencil and a pad" and make a fortune in Wall street recommends the process only to those who possess one important qualification. They must know the game. Given that, the rest is easy. To know the game thoroughly it is necessary to be in the confidence of the board when ten per cent. dividends are to be declared; to learn ahead of the crowd what stock is next to be marked up on the strength of rumors of dividend guarantees; what bankrupt road is to be sold to a system; what manipulation the bull pool is about to undertake, and to have other advance information equally helpful. It is given to few to possess this knowledge, no doubt by a wise provision of nature which permits the many to be sacrificed that the most fit may survive. If it were possible for any one with a $100 bill to become a Wall street millionaire the aggregation of swollen fortunes would menace the republic. Doubtless in the case of the clergyman in question the gain to the ministry involved the loss of a magnate to the financial world. But for the ordinary run of speculators there is no place where a little learning is so dangerous a thing as in Wall street.

MULES NOT HARD TO HANDLE.

Whole Secret Is in Knowing How to Do It, According to Army Officer.

Horse and mule men at the stock yards stood in admiration the other afternoon while the soldiers of Battery A, and B, Second United States artillery, loaded 13 cars of mules in 25 minutes. It was a new record on the loading docks, and it wasn't accomplished by any unusual methods either. Nor was the mule driver's vocabulary resorted to. How did they do it? The lieutenant simply called the roll and the mules responded to their names.

"Nigger," called an officer, and a little black gun mule ambled up.

"Now, Mollie, you're next; now Cyclone," and Cyclone came like a cyclone.

If a mule was refractory a few men in khaki took hold of him and pushed and shoved him into place.

"No wonder," said an envious mule driver, "they know their mules; they couldn't do them all that way."

"That so?" said a non-commissioned officer. "I guess we could. It's all in knowing how. You never want to flinch around a mule. Never look back when you leave him. After you know how, mules are easier to handle than horses."—Kansas City Times.

How the Baby Bird Flew.

J. M. Barrie has a little fable in one of his works about a baby lark asking its mother to teach it to fly. The mother thought hard about how she herself had learned to fly long ago last year, but all she could recall was that you suddenly do it.

"Wait till the sun comes out after the rain," she said, half remembering. The rain came and glued the bird's wings together.

"I shall never be able to fly nor to sing," it wailed. Then of a sudden it had to blink its eyes for a glorious light had spread over the world. The baby bird's breast swelled, it did not know why, and it fluttered from the ground, it did not know how. "The sun has come out after the rain," it trilled. "Thank you, sun, thank you," and it floated up crying: "Thank you."

An Optical Illusion.

Did you ever try to see through your hand? By following these directions you may at least make yourself believe you are looking right through the palm. Out of a piece of pasteboard about five inches square roll a tube. Have one end just large enough to fit around the eye, and the other a little smaller. Take the tube between the thumb and fingers of the right hand; put the larger end to your eye, and press your left hand against the smaller end. Keep both eyes open. Objects beyond the left hand will be plainly visible, and there will appear to be a hole through the center of the palm. It is the uncovered left eye which is actually doing all the seeing, but so far as appearances go, it will seem as if the right eye were seeing, right straight through the left hand.

Well Answered.

During the encampment of several regiments of British soldiers in a certain district the wood and turf used for cooking purposes were carted by the neighboring farmers. One day a donkey-cart full of turf was brought in, the driver being a country lad. As a regimental band was playing, he stood in front of the donkey and held the animal tightly by the head. Some of the "smart ones" gathered round, highly pleased, and the wit of the party asked why he "held his brother so tightly." The reply was crushing: "I'm afraid he might enlist."

Well-Stocked.

Last summer a typical down-easter furnished a New York author, who had a cottage in a Maine village, with farm produce.

One day when the man called with a wagon-load of vegetables, the author, wishing to make himself agreeable, asked how much stock he kept on his farm.

"Five cows an' a bull," enumerated the farmer, "'nd two yokes of oxen, a calf, a hoss, an' three shares of Maine Central."—Youth's Companion.

WILD DOGS HUNT IN PACKS.

Outlaws in North Carolina Will Attack People and Cattle—Cannot Be Exterminated.

For 30 years there have been wild dogs in a great tract of woods known as the Grimes lands, west of Raleigh, part of which recently bought by the state embraces 1,300 acres. These dogs 20 years ago attacked a herd of milk cattle and the latter had to be killed, some of the dogs having rabies.

From time to time the wild dogs have been shot, but they cannot be exterminated. On two occasions they have attacked people passing through the woods and had to be beaten off. On the last day of February, which marked the close of the hunting season, with a number of boys I was rabbit hunting in these woods. A rabbit was jumped and made a wide sweep in his run.

Most of us stood on the watch for him to "return to his bed," as the darkies say, and presently the music of the dogs bringing him back was heard in the distance. The rabbit was seen coming down a hill where the trees stood rather wide apart, and suddenly two very large dogs, mottled in color and looking remarkably like hyenas, dashed at him and rabbit and dogs went over.

At this instant a colored man came up with his gun and rushed at the dogs, which fled, leaving the rabbit kicking but bearing on the rump the deep marks of the dogs' fangs. The dogs had appeared like ghosts and they disappeared in the same manner. It was a remarkable incident. When the pack arrived the owner was holding up the rabbit. The dogs appeared to take no notice of the tracks of the wild dogs.—Raleigh Correspondent Forest and Stream.

Anonymous Letters.

The anonymous letter-writer seems to be one of the inevitable waste products of an age of discussion.

In a day when the public schools make almost universal the knowledge of reading and writing, when yellow journalism supplies the vitriolic phrase and the United States mail carries any respectably covered missive, then does the cowardly soul find rare sport in flicking judges, editors, legislators and other public men with irresponsible taunts. The president of the United States gets a basketful of anonymous letters daily. Judges who are trying cases that bulk large in the public eye find themselves the targets for dire warnings and filthy abuse. The evil is probably more widespread than the public appreciates.

There is no absolute remedy, though the post office inspectors sometimes succeed in catching offenders and effecting their punishment. The sheer cowardice of the practice makes for its increasing discredit, and this is probably the only cure.—Chicago Post.

Not Much Public Land Left.

Of the public land, some 375,000,000 acres, or one-sixth of the original territory, remain—but nearly every acre is too arid for settlement on the original plan. Of state land the amount is limited, save swamp and overflow tracts that can hardly be settled by individual effort.

Over 75,000,000 acres of wet lands might be reclaimed to form homes for 10,000,000 people, while 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 acres of arid lands might be irrigated to sustain as many more, but this cannot be done by individual or family pioneering, and must be done, if at all, either at collective cost in the public interest or by corporate enterprise for personal interest. No longer is Uncle Sam "rich enough to give us all a farm;" his princely possession of a century past is already given.—American Review of Reviews.

Hard Working French Schoolboys.

French children are often on their way to school a little after seven o'clock in the morning. If they have concluded their lessons by nine o'clock in the evening it is only by dint of great application.

Young men studying for the higher professions have appointments at five o'clock in the morning in summer time; otherwise they cannot accomplish the mountain of work that lies before them. In all branches of art the labor of the tyro is immense. At the Conservatoire the strenuous life is carried to a point which provokes the astonishment even of laborious German students.

Use for 16-Inch Gun.

It is suggested that the 16-inch gun now lying unmounted at Sandy Hook be sent to the Philippines and mounted on the fortifications now under construction at Corregidor island for the defense of Manila. This gun would command the channel there, which the 12-inch gun will not do, and it can deliver a blow at a distance of 10,000 to 12,000 feet which would sink any ship afloat, racking the steel frame and armor bearing of the ship and starting a leak.

Sees Increased Armaments.

Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, is quoted from Bristol, England, as expressing the belief that President Taft in his inaugural address, pronounced the doom of the hope for the disarmament of nations. There is a universal feeling abroad in which the United States now joins, Mr. Birrell said, for increased armaments.

Two Good Mottoes.

Lieut. Gen. Baden Powell has two favorite mottoes. One is, "Don't flurry; patience wins the day," and the other, "A smile and a stick will carry a man through almost any difficulty."

SERVED AS HIS LADY'S MAID.

Romantic Manner of Wooing That Won Love of Young Russian Widow for Her Admirer.

A St. Petersburg paper publishes details of a Russian romance in which figures the wealthy and beautiful young Baroness Urusoff, the widow of a distinguished Russian government official.

All the young cavaliers of Moscow were hopelessly in love with her. The baroness, however, rejected all attempts to obtain an introduction to her and lived in perfect seclusion, attended only by an elderly relative. Some months ago a young peasant girl began to visit the residence of the baroness, offering the servants cheap articles for sale. Subsequently the baroness used to buy different articles from the peasant, who was intelligent, had good manners and considerable conversational talents.

The baroness eventually asked the girl whether she would enter her service as a lady's maid. She agreed and discharged her duties to perfection for a fortnight and then revealed "herself" as a young Russian nobleman named Maximoff, who, taking advantage of his fair hair and complexion, had masqueraded as a domestic servant to break down the barriers with which the beautiful baroness had surrounded herself.

The baroness was so much impressed by his extraordinary perseverance that she became engaged to him, and the marriage took place a few days ago.

ORIGIN OF FOOLSCAP PAPER.

Emblem First Made Use Of by Cromwell to Show His Contempt for All Things Royal.

Everyone who has handled paper recognizes foolscap as a sheet 13 by 16 inches. This is used as a standard size all the world over, officially and commercially. It will therefore be interesting to know where and how this word originated. After the execution of Charles I. Cromwell and his staff, in organizing the commonwealth, made all possible effort to remove everything which had anything to do with the old monarchy. The paper in official use up to the time had as a watermark the king's crown; and, when Cromwell was asked what should be put in the place of the crown, to show his overwhelming dislike for anything concerning royalty, he directed a fool's cap to be put in place of the crown. This was done, and when Charles II. ascended the throne of England, it was at first forgotten to replace the cap by something else, and then, too late, the king was afraid to do anything to recall things dangerous to touch, and so it was neglected and the fool's cap may be seen as a water-mark on nearly all British official papers.

Hot Water Cure for Insomnia.

To insure the benefit of the hot water, it must be taken off the fire the moment it boils—not just before or after—and poured at once into a cup or glass. Then it should be taken while very hot. A little practice will enable one to swallow it at little less than the boiling point, and in addition to the proper temperature, the proper time must be observed. It is most efficacious in curing indigestion and improving the general tone of the system if taken immediately on waking in the morning, again an hour before lunch and an hour before dinner also, and to drink two glassfuls on retiring will almost positively insure sound sleep. It may require two or three days' trial before the desired result is effected, but once gained it can be held without interruption by faithfully pursuing this method.

No, Dog!

Reared in the strict school of "Yes, sir!" and "No, ma'am!" addressed without thought of servility to all elders and betters, I find this a season of rare courtesy and scant civility.

Well do I remember that awesome scene at my father's table when a stout and rebellious little sister, seething with disappointment over some denied dainty, answered "No!" to a well meant proffer of a less desirable dish.

"No, dog? or No, cat?" my father inquired with ominous calm. "No, dog!" the sturdy lass recklessly replied.

I quake even now at the thought of the breathless pause which followed, and draw a veil over the painful aftermath.—Appleton's.

Cure for Headache.

One of the very best remedies for a sick or nervous headache was suggested to me recently by a Finnish servant girl. She took raw potatoes without either washing or paring and cut them into thick slices. These were laid close together on the forehead and temples and kept in place by covering with a large handkerchief folded cornerwise and tied in the back.

In a short time the pain disappeared. As the pieces of potato get hot replace with cold fresh ones.

They give all the coolness of ice without the incidental dampness, and there is not the burning sensation ice often causes.

Unsympathetic.

Mrs. Malaprop—Young Sharp will have to apologize before I'll speak to him again.

Miss Interest—Did he insult you?

Mrs. Malaprop—Did he? The last time I met him I told him that my uncle, Lord de Style, had locomotive ataxia, and he had the impudence to ask if he "whistled at crossings." He's an unsympathetic brute.

WANTED TIME FOR THOUGHT.

Arduous Duties Before the Head of the House Required His Entire Attention.

The baby was ill, and the doctor ordered that he be taken to the sea. This involved the closing of the house until the little one should be well enough to return. After the wife had secured hotel accommodations by the long-distance telephone, the man of the house went to his room and slowly and thoughtfully spread the entire contents of his wardrobe upon his bed, that they might be convenient for his wife to pack.

He stood surveying them, deep in meditation, when his wife came into the room and began to speak to him.

He raised his hand rebukingly. "Don't talk to me now, Susie, don't talk to me! I have a great deal on my mind. If we are going to the seashore day after to-morrow there are many things to be done, and I must plan."

His wife, who had already telephoned the butcher, milkman, baker, grocer, expressman and ticket office, and given the maid a month's vacation and arranged with a relative for the care of the dog, gazed at him in silence.

"A great deal on my mind," he repeated. Then the interrogative nature of his wife's silence forced him to explain.

"You see," he said, "I have got to put a nail in the cellar window and stop the newspaper."—Youth's Companion.

PECULIAR IDEAS OF AUTHORS.

Varying Conditions Under Which the World's Great Writers Did Their Best Work.

Alexander Pope, who was the literary pontiff of his time, thought best when in bed. Whenever a thought came to him he would jot it down on a scrap of paper. His servant often found bedclothes and floor covered with white bits containing aphorisms which have now become hackneyed quotations.

Victor Hugo wrote "Les Miserables" standing up, an attitude which Hawthorne also assumed when he wrote many of his romances.

One leg thrown over the arm of a chair or sitting on the arm of his secretary's chair were Napoleon's favorite positions while dictating to Bourrienne, a position which he varied now and then by patting that scribe on the head or pulling his ears.

Sir Walter Scott could while reclining on a lounge dictate to two amanuenses, who frequently had to stop writing, so funny the dictated passages seemed to them.

William Morris made one of his famous translations from the Greek while riding on the steam cars. Walt Whitman and Horace Traubel, original in all things, were most original in the position they took while thinking. They were wont, so Mr. Traubel says, to climb upon a pile of lumber and lie down upon their backs. In that way each found out what the other's best thoughts were.

Coming Down Easy.

Inquiries after the welfare of Patrick Conroy were answered by his devoted friend, Terence Dolan, who was at the Conroy's in the double capacity of nurse and cook. "No, he's not dangerously hurt at all," was Mr. Dolan's reply to a solemnly whispered question at the door.

"We heard he had a bad fall and was all broke to pieces," whispered the neighbor.

"'Tis a big story you've heard," said Mr. Dolan, in his cheerful roar. "Thrue, he fell off'n the roof o' the Brady stables, where he was shingling and he broke his lift leg, knocked out a couple of teeth and broke his collarbone.

"Mind ye, if he'd have fell clear to the ground it might have hurted him bad, but sure there was a big pile of shtones and old lumber that broke his fall."—Youth's Companion.

Be Amiable and Retain Youth.

As a charming woman once said: "To remain always young one must be always amiable." A melancholy face, a sullen, an evil look, is like coming in contact with winter; whereas a serene face, a gracious air, a kind and good expression, is like a spring day, and a smile on the lips like its sunshine. Sulky people, you may have remarked, always appear to be ten years older than they are. The face grows wrinkled from contracting the brows; the mouth projects disagreeably when sulking. Behold beside the portrait of the sullen woman the picture of the sweet and gracious woman; all her features are in repose, her lips form an adorable Cupid's bow, kindness softens her glance and goodness illuminates her brow. Perhaps she is the elder, but she will always appear young and charming.

The Ill-Natured Man.

The ill-natured man, though but of equal parts with the good-natured man, gives himself a larger field to expatiate in. He exposes those failings in human nature which the other would cast a veil over; laughs at vices which the other either excuses or conceals; falls indifferently upon friends or enemies; exposes the person who has obliged him; and, in short, sticks at nothing that may establish his character of a wit.

Back to Earth.

"Every cloud has a silver lining," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "The clouds are all right. But how about pocketbooks?"

THREE DISHES FOR DESSERT

Walnut Custard Pie One of the Daintiest That Can Be Made—For Apple Pie de Luxe.

Walnut Custard Pie.—This is a favorite dish at one of the New York hotels. Beat two eggs slightly, and a scant half-cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt, pour over this two cupfuls of hot milk; mix well, strain and add half a teaspoonful of vanilla and half a cupful of finely-ground English walnuts. The nuts will rise to the top and form a tender crust to the custard. Pecans and almonds may be used in the same way.

Silver Custard.—Whites of three eggs slightly beaten; two tablespoonfuls cold milk and two tablespoonfuls of sugar, a few grains of salt, and half a teaspoonful essence of lemn; mix well and pour on one pint of hot milk; bake in a small, deep pudding dish set in a pan of hot water till firm (20 to 30 minutes). Serve with a soft custard made of one pint of milk, yolks of three eggs, half a cupful of sugar, a few grains of salt and one teaspoonful of vanilla, or it may be served with a chocolate sauce for a change, made by adding two squares of dissolved, unsweetened chocolate to the above soft custard. Serve both ice cold.

Apple Pie De Luxe.—Into a deep pie plate without undercrust slice five apples, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, a little cinnamon and bits of butter. Bake with a rich top crust. In serving, turn each piece upside down and lay on whipped cream sweetened and flavored.

Potato Sweets.

Boil and mash a large potato, place while hot in large bowl, stir in as much sugar as will make a dough of the consistency of biscuit, flavor with vanilla or any preferred flavoring, and knead into it a cup of chopped nuts, English walnuts or mixed. Mold into a loaf and place in cool place. When ready to serve slice down in squares, cut into small blocks, and serve. This candy may be varied endlessly by different modes of treatment after the "dough" or fondant is made; it may be molded by the hands into bonbons with or without the addition of chopped nuts, dates, figs, etc. Bonbons may be ornamented with whole walnuts and dates are delicious stuffed with the candy. If colored candy is desired the fondant may be separated into parts and each colored with fruit or vegetable colorings. In this case of variety of flavors should also be used.

Escalloped Fish.

One pint of milk or cream, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one cup bread crumbs moistened with melted butter, three pounds of any kind of white fish (I prefer the center of a fair-sized cod), a few sprigs of parsley, a little red pepper and a small onion. Boil fish one-half hour in salted water, remove skin and bones, break apart with a silver fork. Boil milk in double boiler ten minutes with onion, put flour and butter in a saucepan, cook up smooth, adding the salt and pepper, then add to boiling milk. Put into baking dish a layer of sauce, then one of fish, and lastly the bread crumbs. Bake one-half hour.

Casserole of Potatoes.

Pare thin and wash 12 potatoes; cover with water, add salt and boil until tender. Drain and set on back of range for about ten minutes and add piece of butter size of an egg. When butter is melted mash them and stir in a little at a time one-half cup hot cream, then beat until light with a fork. Arrange on a hot dish, forming an oblong, high mound, hollowed in the middle. Brush inside and out with beaten yolk of egg and set in oven to brown. When done fill with a ragout of mutton or duck or macaroni and oysters in cream sauce and serve hot.

Fricasseed Potatoes.

One of the Hungarian ways of transforming white potatoes is to fricassee them. A small onion is sliced, placed in a sauce pan with one dessertspoonful of butter, a dash of paprika and salt, and fried a light brown. The potatoes, cut in small squares, are then poured into the sauce pan, and covered with boiling water. When the water has boiled away, the potatoes are soft and mealy and tinted a golden red from the butter and paprika. They are just as good as they look.—Woman's Home Companion.

Stuffed Sirloin.

Procure a pork loin roast. Do not remove the tenderloin, but slit it and stuff with dry dressing made of stale crumbs highly seasoned with salt, pepper and sage. Roast in usual manner and serve with potatoes roasted in pan with same meat, brown gravy and apple sauce.

Graham Cake.

One and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup lard, one cup raisins, one teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups sour milk, one teaspoon soda, and three cups graham flour sifted twice. Bake in a slow oven.

Bread Sauce for Fowl.

Boil half an onion and a half cup of fine white bread crumbs in one pint of milk until the desired consistency. Remove the onion without breaking it, add one tablespoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of white pepper.

Nut Pick to Remove Covers.

A nut pick will be found a great convenience in the kitchen for removing the tops from milk bottles, removing broken corks from bottles and various other little jobs.

Union County Court of Common Pleas.

Notice of Hearing Objections to Assessments For Street Improvements in the City of Plainfield.

Thomas J. Hughes, Harry B. MacDonald and Andrew J. Gavett, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas, by order entered on the ninth day of December, 1908, to estimate and assess benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinances of said city specified in said order, (said ordinances being also hereinafter specified) and the character of the work and improvements for which said assessments have been made and a description of the sections of the particular streets and avenues thereof which are included in said assessment, being as follows: viz.: (1) The paving with permanent and durable vitrified brick pavement of:

East and West Front Streets, respectively, from the westerly side line of Madison Avenue to the easterly side line of Watchung Avenue;

Somerset Street, from the northerly side line of Front Street to the bridge over Green Brook;

Watchung Avenue, from the southerly side line of East Front Street to the southerly side line of East Fourth Street, exclusive of the portion of said Watchung Avenue already provided with brick pavement;

Park Avenue, from the southerly side line of Front Street to the southerly side line of Fourth Street;

East Fourth Street, from the westerly side line of Sycamore Street to the easterly side line thereof;

Arlington Avenue, from the northerly side line of West Seventh Street to the southerly side line thereof; also from the northerly side line of West Eighth Street to the southerly side line thereof; and (2) the macadamizing with durable macadam pavement of:

North Avenue, from the northeasterly curb line of Berckman Street to the southwesterly curb line of Terrill Road;

Leland Avenue, from the present macadam on East Front Street to the present macadam on South Avenue;

Netherwood Avenue, from the present macadam on East Front Street to the northwesterly curb line of East Second Street;

Monroe Avenue, from the present macadam on West Seventh Street to the present macadam on West Eighth Street;

West Eighth Street, from the present macadam on Monroe Avenue to the City Line;

West Third Street, from the present macadam at Monroe Avenue to the present macadam at Clinton Avenue;

Clinton Avenue, from the present macadam at West Third Street to the City Line;

under the ordinances of said City entitled: "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," approved July 1, 1907, "An Ordinance to amend an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits,' adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907 and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907," approved July 13, 1908, and "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable Macadam Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council May 4, 1908; re-adopted by the Common Council June 8, 1908, notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor, which ordinances were adopted under and by virtue of the act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to authorize the improvements of streets and highways in cities of this State and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same," approved June 13, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the clerk of said court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by surveys and maps prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, respectively, the total cost of the whole work upon each of the sections of said streets or avenues improved as aforesaid, under the aforesaid ordinances; the portions assessed upon the City at large, and the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate for the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax, and the other matters required by said acts of the Legislature, as by reference to said report and maps will more fully and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given, that the said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the twelfth day of May, 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the Court can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

JAMES C. CALVERT,
Clerk of the Union County Court of Common Pleas.
Dated April 20th, 1909.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 9, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—"Pilgrim's Progress" series.—IV. The house of the Interpreter.—Eccl. xii, 9-14; Jas. i, 19-23.

When Christian left Goodwill and started again upon his journey he soon came to the house of Interpreter, to which he had been directed. Interpreter welcomed him and took him into a private room, and there by various methods he pointed out to him the things necessary for him to know upon his journey and also interpreted them for him. Knowledge is absolutely necessary to advancement in the Christian life. Peter, the apostle, not only commanded us to "grow in grace," but also "in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ." Increased grace often adds to our knowledge, and knowledge assists us in growing in grace.

1. Interpreter showed Christian in another room the picture "of a very grave person hung up against the wall. He had eyes lifted up to heaven, the best books in his hands. * * * He stood as if he pleaded with men, and a crown of gold did hang over his head." This picture represented the Holy Ghost, and Interpreter explained to Christian that his work was to know and guide the Master's people through life and was their only true guide. And we may ask, Is the Holy Spirit in our hearts, and does He lead us, or are we following false teachers?

2. Interpreter led Christian into a very large, dusty parlor. A man swept it, and the dust almost choked Christian. Then Interpreter had water sprinkled on the floor, and the dust was absent. The parlor signified the heart of a sinful man. The dust represented original sin and other defilements. The law swept first and then the gospel. The law made man to see sin, but could not remove sin from him. But the gospel cleanseth from sin and makes the heart sweet and pure. Many hearts are still dusty. Men trust in personal righteousness, and the heart is not cleansed by divine grace. But this is a false way of seeking salvation and sanctification. Only God's Spirit can cleanse and purify the human heart.

3. Interpreter introduced Christian into a little room, where sat two children, named Passion and Patience. Passion could not wait; Patience could. Passion symbolizes the man who ignores eternity and lives only for time, Patience the man who serves God in this life and lays up treasures in heaven. He is able and willing to wait until God crowns him.

4. Interpreter led Christian to a place where a fire burned fiercely against a wall. One stood by pouring water upon it, but the more water the higher the flame became. The fire, explained Interpreter, is the grace of God in the heart. Satan poured on the water, but his efforts to decrease or destroy divine grace only increased it, which is true, as God is superior to Satan.

5. Interpreter showed Christian a man in an iron cage. This man had once been on the road to heaven, had thought that he was a Christian, but had fallen back, proving that he had never been truly converted, and had so frequently repelled the invitations of the Spirit that he had grieved the Spirit away and was hopeless! "Grieve not the Spirit of God," for "the Spirit will not always strive with men."

These are not all of the things which Interpreter explained to Christian, but they are sufficient to teach us the great importance of knowledge in our religious life. Nor has God neglected the possibility of our Christian education. He has given us His own word as our text book. The Holy Spirit will unfold its meaning if we study it faithfully. God has also given us human teachers—ministers, Sabbath school teachers, Christian parents. The supreme place to learn is in the church of Christ. Here are trained men, educated men, whose life business is to study the word. Be faithful in the house of God, "be swift to hear," and you will gain in grace and knowledge.

Develop; Don't Dynamite.

Christian Endeavor is not the cause of religious indifference, public or private. These conditions exist among the young people not because of, but in spite of, Christian Endeavor. It has lifted up its standard of loyalty to Christ and His church. It has rallied and is rallying a great host of earnest young hearts to this standard. But it needs for its largest success more enthusiastic public support from the pastors, more sympathetic oversight and leadership from the official boards of the church, more active co-operation with the superintendent and teachers in the Sunday school and more personal interest on the part of parents in the religious training of their children. Let religious training be taken out of the "elective" courses and put into the required list, and we shall soon see a marked improvement in the quantity and quality of our work. If for one year Christian people would pledge themselves to stop "knocking" and give themselves to enthusiastic co-operation in place of destructive criticism, I believe that we should see such results in all departments of Christian work as would make glad the hearts of all who pray and work for the coming of the kingdom of God upon the earth.

Don't dynamite!

Do develop!—General Secretary William Shaw in Christian Endeavor World.

CHAPTER I.

A Telegram from Paul Stoddard.

Stoddard's telegram was brought to me on the Glenarm pier at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the 5th of June. I am thus explicit, for all the matters hereinafter described turn upon the receipt of Stoddard's message, which was, to be sure, harmless enough in itself, but, like many other scraps of paper that blow about the world, the forerunner of confusion and trouble.

My friend, Mr. John Glenarm, had gone abroad for the summer with his family and had turned over to me his house at Annandale that I might enjoy its seclusion and comfort while writing my book on "Russian Rivers."

If John Glenarm had not taken his family abroad with him when he went to Turkey to give the sultan's engineers lessons in bridge building; if I had not accepted his kind offer of the house at Annandale for the summer; and if Paul Stoddard had not sent me that telegram, I should never have written this narrative. But such was the predestined way of it. I rose from the boat I was caulking, and, with the waves from the receding steamer slapping the pier, read this message:

Stamford, Conn., June 5.

Meet Miss Patricia Holbrook Annandale station, five twenty Chicago express and conduct her to St. Agatha's school, where she is expected. She will explain difficulties. I have assured her of your sympathy and aid. Will join you later if necessary. Imperative engagements call me elsewhere. STODDARD.

To say that I was angry when I read this message is to belittle the truth. I read and re-read it with growing heat. I had accepted Glenarm's offer of the house at Annandale because it promised peace, and now I was ordered by telegraph to meet a strange person of whom I had never heard, listen to her story, and tender my sympathy and aid. I glanced at my watch. It was already after four. "Delayed in transmission" was stamped across the telegraph form—I learned later that it had lain half the day in Annandale, New York—so that I was now face to face with the situation, and without opportunity to fling his orders back to Stoddard if I wanted to. Nor did I even know Stamford from Stamboul, and I am not yet clear in my mind—being an Irishman with rather vague notions of American geography—whether Connecticut is north or south of Massachusetts.

"Ijima!"

I called my Japanese boy from the boathouse, and he appeared, paint brush in hand.

"Order the double trap, and tell them to hurry."

I reflected, as I picked up my coat and walked toward the house, that if any one but Paul Stoddard had sent me such a message I should most certainly have ignored it; but I knew him as a man who did not make demands or impose obligations lightly. As the founder and superior of the Protestant religious Order of the Brothers of Bethlehem he was, I knew, an exceedingly busy man. His religious house was in the Virginia mountains; but he spent much time in quiet, humble service in city slums, in lumber camps, in the mines of Pennsylvania; and occasionally he appeared like a prophet from the wilderness in some great church of New York, and preached with a marvelous eloquence to wondering throngs.

The trap swung into the arched driveway and I bade the coachman make haste to the Annandale station. The handsome bays were soon trotting swiftly toward the village, while I drew on my gloves and considered the situation. A certain Miss Holbrook, of whose existence I had been utterly ignorant an hour before, was about to arrive at Annandale. A clergyman, whom I had not seen for two years, had telegraphed me from a town in Connecticut to meet this person, conduct her to St. Agatha's school—just closed for the summer, as I knew—and to volunteer my services in difficulties that were darkly indicated in a telegram of 45 words. The sender of the message I knew to be a serious character, and a gentleman of distinguished social connections. The name of the lady signified nothing except that she was unmarried; and as Stoddard's acquaintance was among all sorts and conditions of men I could assume nothing more than that the unknown had appealed to him as a priest and that he had sent her to Lake Annandale to shake off the burdens of the world in the conventual air of St. Agatha's.

The Chicago express whistled for Annandale just as we gained the edge of the village. It paused a grudging moment and was gone before we reached the station. I jumped out and ran through the waiting room to the platform, where the agent was gathering up the mail bags, while an assistant loaded a truck with trunks. I glanced about, and the moment was an important one in my life. Standing quite alone beside several pieces of hand baggage was a lady—unmistakably a lady—leaning lightly upon an umbrella, and holding under her arm a magazine. She was clad in brown, from bonnet to shoes; the umbrella and magazine cover were of like tint, and even the suitcase nearest her struck the same note of color. There was no doubt whatever as to her identity; I did not hesitate a moment; the lady in brown was Miss Holbrook, and she was an old lady, a dear, bewitching old lady, and as I stepped toward her, her eyes brightened—they, too, were brown!—and she put out her brown-gloved hand with a gesture so frank and cordial that I was won at once.

"Mr. Donovan—Mr. Laurance Donovan—I am sure of it!"

"Miss Holbrook—I am equally confident!" I said. "I am sorry to be late, but Father Stoddard's message was delayed."

"You are kind to respond at all," she said, her wonderful eyes upon me; "but Father Stoddard said you would not fail me."

"He is a man of great faith! But I have a trap waiting. We can talk more comfortably at St. Agatha's."

"Yes; we are to go to the school. Father Stoddard kindly arranged it. It is quite secluded, he assured me."

"You will not be disappointed, Miss Holbrook, if seclusion is what you seek."

I picked up the brown bag and turned away, but she waited and glanced about. Her "we" had puzzled me; perhaps she had brought a maid, and I followed her glance toward the window of the telegraph office.

"Oh, Helen; my niece, Helen Holbrook, is with me. I wished to wire some instructions to my housekeeper at home. Father Stoddard may not have explained—that it is partly on Helen's account that I am coming here."

"No; he explained nothing—merely gave me my instructions," I laughed. "He gives orders in a most militant fashion."

In a moment I had been presented to the niece, and had noted that she was considerably above her aunt's height; that she was dark, with eyes that seemed quite black in certain lights, and that she bowed, as her aunt presented me, without offering her hand, and murmured my name in a voice musical, deep and full, and agreeable to hear.

She took their checks from her purse, and I called the porter and arranged for the transfer of their baggage to St. Agatha's. We were soon in the trap with the bays carrying us at a lively clip along the lake road.

"There's a summer resort somewhere on the lake; how far is that from the school?" asked the girl.

"That's Port Annandale. It's two or three miles from St. Agatha's," I replied. "On this side and all the way to the school there are farms. Port Annandale lies yonder."

"Of course we shall see nothing of it," said the younger Miss Holbrook with finality.

I sought in vain for any resemblance between the two women; they were utterly unlike. The little brown lady was interested and responsive enough; she turned toward her niece with undisguised affection as we talked, but I caught several times a look of unhappiness in her face, and the brow that Time had not touched gathered in lines of anxiety and care. The girl's manner toward her aunt was wholly kind and sympathetic.

"I'm sure it will be delightful here, Aunt Pat. Wild roses and blue water! I'm quite in love with the pretty lake already."

This was my first introduction to the diminutive of Patricia, and it seemed very fitting, and as delightful as the dear little woman herself. She must have caught my smile as the niece so addressed her for the first time and she smiled back at me in her charming fashion.

"You are an Irishman, Mr. Donovan, and Pat must sound natural."

"Oh, all who love Aunt Patricia call her Aunt Pat!" exclaimed the girl.

"Then Miss Holbrook undoubtedly hears it often," said I, and was at once sorry for my bit of blarney, for the tears shone suddenly in the dear brown eyes, and the niece recurred to the summer landscape as a topic, and talked of the Glenarm place, whose stone wall we were now passing, until we drove into the grounds of St. Agatha's and up to the main entrance of the school, where a sister in the brown garb of her order stood waiting.

I first introduced myself to Sister Margaret, who was in charge, and then presented the two ladies who were to be her guests. Sister Margaret said just the right thing to every one, and I was glad to find her so capable a person, fully able to care for these exiles without aid from my side of the wall.

"Helen, if you will see our things disposed of I will detain Mr. Donovan a few minutes," said Miss Holbrook.

"Or I can come again in an hour—I am your near neighbor," I remarked, thinking she might wish to rest from her journey.

"I am quite ready," she replied, and I bowed to Helen Holbrook and to Sister Margaret, who went out, followed by the maid. Miss Pat—you will pardon me if I begin at once to call her by this name, but it fits her so capitally, it is so much a part of her, that I cannot resist—Miss Pat put off her bonnet without fuss, placed it on the table and sat down in a window seat whence the nearer shore of the lake was visible across the strip of smooth lawn.

"Will you please close the door?" she said, and when I came back to the window she began at once.

"It is not pleasant, as you must understand, to explain to a stranger an intimate and painful family trouble. But Father Stoddard advised me to be quite frank with you."

"That is the best way, if there is a possibility that I may be of service," I said in the gentlest tone I could command. "But tell me no more than you wish. I am wholly at your service without explanations."

"It is in reference to my brother; he has caused me a great deal of trouble. When my father died nearly ten years ago—he lived to a great age—he left a considerable estate, a large fortune. A part of it was divided at once among my two brothers and myself. The remainder, amounting to $1,000,000, was left to me, with the stipulation that I was to make a further division between my brothers at the end of ten years, or at my discretion. I was older than my brothers, much older, and my father left me with this responsibility, not knowing what it would lead to. Henry and Arthur succeeded to my father's business, the banking firm of Holbrook Brothers, in New York. The bank continued to prosper for a time; then it collapsed suddenly. The debts were all paid, but Arthur disappeared—there were unpleasant rumors—"

She paused a moment, and looked out of the window toward the lake, and I saw her clasped hands tighten; but she went on bravely.

"That was seven years ago. Since then Henry has insisted on the final division of the property. My father had a high sense of honor and he stipulated that if either of his sons should be guilty of any dishonorable act he should forfeit his half of the $1,000,000. Henry insists that Arthur has forfeited his rights and that the amount withheld should be paid to him now; but his conduct has been such that I feel I should serve him ill to pay him so large a sum of money. Moreover, I owe something to his daughter—to Helen. Owing to her father's reckless life I have had her make her home with me for several years. She is a noble girl, and very beautiful—you must have seen, Mr. Donovan, that she is an unusually beautiful girl."

"Yes," I assented.

"And better than that," she said, with feeling, "she is a lovely character."

I nodded, touched to see how completely Helen Holbrook filled and satisfied her aunt's life. Miss Pat continued her story.

"My brother first sought to frighten me into a settlement by menacing my own peace; and now he includes Helen in his animosity. My house at Stamford was set on fire a month ago; then thieves entered it and I was obliged to leave. We arranged to go abroad, but when we got to the steamer we found Henry waiting with a threat to follow us if I did not accede to his demands. It was Father Stoddard who suggested this place, and we came by a circuitous route, pausing here and there to see whether we were followed. You can imagine how distressing—how wretched all this has been."

"Yes; it is a sad story, Miss Holbrook. But you are not likely to be molested here. You have a lake on one side, a high wall shuts off the road, and I beg you to accept me as your near neighbor and protector. The servants at Mr. Glenarm's house have been with him for several years and are undoubtedly trustworthy. It is not likely that your brother will find you here, but if he should—we will deal with that situation when the time comes!"

"You are very reassuring, no doubt we shall not need to call on you. And I hope you understand," she continued, "that it is not to keep the money that I wish to avoid my brother; that if it were wise to make this further division at this time and it were for his good, I should be glad to give him all—every penny of it."

"Pardon me, but the other brother—he has not made similar demands—you do not fear him?" I inquired, with some hesitation.

"No—no!" And a tremulous smile played about her lips. "Poor Arthur! He must be dead. He ran away after the bank failure and I have never heard from him since. He and Henry were very unlike, and I always felt more closely attached to Arthur. He was not brilliant, like Henry; he was gentle and quiet in his ways, and father was often impatient with him. Henry has been very bitter toward Arthur and has appealed to me on the score of Arthur's ill-doing. It took all his own fortune, he says, to save Arthur and the family name from dishonor."

She was remarkably composed throughout this recital, and I marveled at her more and more. Now, after a moment's silence, she turned to me with a smile.

"We have been annoyed in another way. It is so ridiculous that I hesitate to tell you of it—"

"Pray do not—you need tell me nothing more, Miss Holbrook."

"It is best for you to know. My niece has been annoyed the past year by the attentions of a young man whom she greatly dislikes and whose persistence distresses her very much indeed."

"Well, he can hardly find her here; and if he should—"

Miss Holbrook folded her arms upon her knees and smiled, bending toward me.

"Oh!" she exclaimed; "he isn't a violent person, Mr. Donovan. He's silly, absurd, idiotic! You need fear no violence from him."

"And of course your niece is not interested—he's not a fellow to appeal to her imagination."

"That is quite true; and then in present unhappy circumstances, with her father hanging over her like a menace, marriage is far from her thoughts. She feels that even if she were attached to a man and wished to marry, she could not. I wish she did not feel so; I should be glad to see her married and settled in her own home. It's a very dreadful thing, as you can understand, for brother and sister and father and child to be arrayed against one another."

I wished to guide the talk into cheerfuller channels before leaving. Miss Pat seemed amused by the thought of the unwelcome suitor, and I determined to leave her with some word in reference to him.

"If a strange knight in quest of a lady comes riding through the wood, how shall I know him? What valorous words are written on his shield, and does he carry a lance or a suit-case?"

"He is the Knight of the Sorrowful Countenance," said Miss Holbrook in my own key, as she rose. "You would know him anywhere by his clothes and the remarkable language he uses. He is not to be taken very seriously—that's the trouble with him! But I have been afraid that he and my brother might join hands in the pursuit of us."

"But the Sorrowful Knight would not advance his interests by that—he could only injure his cause!" I exclaimed.

"Oh, he has no subtelty; he's a very foolish person; he blunders at windmills with quixotic ardor."

"Won't you please say good-night to Miss Holbrook for me?" I said, my hand on the door.

And then an odd thing happened. I was about to take my departure through the front hall when I remembered a short cut to the Glenarm gate from the rear of the school. I walked the length of the parlor to a door that would, I knew, give ready exit to the open. I bowed to Miss Pat, who stood erect, serene, adorable, in the room that was now touched with the first shadows of waning day, and her slight figure was so eloquent of pathos, her smile so brave, that I bowed again, with a reverence I already felt for her.

Then as I flung the door open and stepped into the hall I heard the soft swish of skirts, a light furtive step, and caught a glimpse—or could I have sworn I did—of white. There was only one sister in the house and a few servants; it seemed incredible that they could be eavesdropping upon this guest of the house. I crossed a narrow hall, found the rear door, and passed out into the park. Something prompted me to turn when I had taken a dozen steps toward the Glenarm gate. The vines on the gray stone buildings were cool to the eye with their green that hung like a tapestry from eaves to earth. And suddenly, as though she came out of the ivied wall itself, Helen Holbrook appeared on the little balcony opening from one of the first-floor rooms, rested the tips of her fingers on the green vine-clasped rail, and, seeing me, bowed and smiled.

She was gowned in white, with a scarlet ribbon at her throat, and the green wall vividly accented and heightened her outline. I stood, staring like a fool for what seemed a century of heart-beats as she flashed forth there, out of what seemed a sheer depth of masonry; then she turned her head slightly, as though in disdain of me, and looked off toward the lake. I had uncovered at sight of her, and found, when I gained the broad hall at Glenarm House, that I still carried my hat.

An hour later, as I dined in solitary state, that white figure was still present before me; and I could not help wondering, though the thought angered me, whether that graceful head had not been bent against the closed door of the parlor at St. Agatha's, and (if such were the fact) why Helen Holbrook, who clearly enjoyed the full confidence of her aunt, should have stooped to such a trick to learn what Miss Patricia said to me.

How Placide Won the Capital Prize

By FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

In the Rue Royale—not of Paris, but of New Orleans—there is, in a neighborhood so quiet as to seem almost uninhabited, a quaint old street-door with a tarnished plate high between its panels bearing the legend—

M. PLACIDE REYNES, ARTIST.

The building is of the flamboyant type of the Louis Seize period, with a barber's shop on the ground floor and ornate iron balconies to screen the upper windows and what lies beyond them. I saw it first on the earliest of many rambles through the old French quarter, and was moved to wonder why an artist should choose such an environment.

Later, when mature curiosity finally turned the knob of the high-plated door and entered, the mystery resolved itself—farcically, I was going to say, though that is scarcely the word. The street door gave directly into the barber's shop, and a brisk little man in immaculate white jacket and snowy spats olicked his heels together and bowed me to the waiting chair.

"Pardon," said I. "I am looking for M. Placide Reynes, the artist. Can you direct me?"

He bowed again, tapping the middle fold of his shirt front with the index finger of a hand as delicate and shapely as a woman's.

"C'est moi, M'sieu'. Shall I mek the trim of the beard, or the cut of the hair? I do my utmos' possib' to pliz M'sieu'," was the rejoinder; and I was made to remember that one twig of the many-branched tree of arts is the tonsorial.

As it chanced, I was only an hour or two out of the barber's chair at my hotel, but there was no resisting the gentle appeal in voice and gesture. So I put myself under the deft, womanish hands, and thereupon our acquaintance began.

It was an idler's interest in trivial things that prompted other visits to the neglected little shop in Royal street.

No hermit of the cloisters ever lived a life less eventful than that of the little barber of the French quarter. Twice a day, for the 11-o'clock breakfast, and again for the six-o'clock dinner, he would close and lock his door and patter soberly around the corner to a low-browed cafe with Bismarck at his heels. At all other hours he was to be found in the parlor-like little shop, waiting with the serene patience of a polite and good-tempered spider for the infrequent fly of custom.

But one day the plummet of espial found bottom unexpectedly. Returning from a morning's sketching in the dim old cathedral, I had a glimpse of Placide walking briskly cityward. I followed. The chase ended before a subtreasury-like building in the purlieus beyond the St. Charles hotel, and the secret was out. When I came up behind him, Placide was eagerly conning the double columns of printed figures on a freshly pasted bulletin.

"So you play the lottery, do you, Placide?" said I that afternoon, when the son of hope had creamed my head for the weekly shampoo.

"Oui, M'sieu'; h—every month."

"Have you ever drawn anything?"

"One time, yes; h-I'll tek fifty dollar."

"Would you mind telling me what you did with it?"

"Pourquoi non? h-I'll pay him back to M'sieu' Dauphin h-every month till he is all gone, me."

"I should think you would have kept it to set over against the losings," said I.

Placide's laugh was decorously contemptuous.

"What for I'll gone kip fifty dollar, M'sieu'? h-I'll t'ink 'bout what the big Englishman say one time to my fadder: Eet is the sprat for catching the whale, n'est ce pas?"

"Oh, so you are after the big fish—the capital prize! Tell me what you would do with it, Placide."

"A-h-h-h!" the exclamation was a long-drawn sigh of anticipative triumph; "h-I'll jus' put on my 'at and go and buy the ver' bigges' t'ing what I can find, me, M'sieu'. Oui!"

Jotting it down after the fact, I sighed to think that one might never know what Placide's "biggest thing" would be. But fate was kinder to me than I dared hope. Three months later I planned to take the steamer at Natchez for a river trip to New Orleans. It was after nightfall when the downriver boat came to the landing. I hurried aboard with my sketching traps, secured a stateroom, and made my way to the hurricane deck to look down upon a stirring scene that never loses its fascination for the river-born—the loading and unloading of a steamer at night.

There was a silent figure standing beside the great bell—a figure in a caped topcoat and a broad brimmed silk hat of the '70's. Something about the statuesque pose struck me as being oddly familiar. I looked again. It was Placide.

A moment later he was bowing to me across the great bell, hand on heart.

"This is ver' great 'appiness, M'sieu' is mos' welcome to the Belle of N'Orle'n'—mos' welcome. They 'ave treated you well in the saloon, M'sieu'?"

I explained that I had just come aboard, and that there were no grievances, present or prospective. But the captain of the Belle was an old acquaintance, and I had hoped to find him on the upper deck.

He bowed again, more profoundly than before, spreading his hands and lifting his narrow shoulders.

"M'sieu' will mek hisself at 'ome—h-altogether at 'ome. Moi, h-I'll been the captain of the Belle of N' Orle'n'. Oui, M'sieu'."

After that there was nothing for it but to get away as quickly as possible, to go below and find some one who could staunch the flow of daggered curiosity. Kinney, the steamer's clerk, answered indifferently well.

"Capt. Placide? Oh, yes; he's captain fast enough, and owner too, for that matter. Haven't you heard?"

I had not heard; I had only seen.

"Well, we don't know much more about him than he knows about steamboating, which is nit. All I can tell you is that he came along on the levee one day at New Orleans and offered to buy the boat—offered two prices and got her. And since he's been persuading himself that he is running her, though Johnson, the mate, does that. Queer little guy; though I'm bound to say he treats us all well enough."

I turned away, quite speechless. There was only one explanation. M. Placide had won the capital prize at last, and the Belle was his conception of the biggest thing he could find to buy.

It was less than a month later when Placide met his fate. She was a sweet-faced young woman with soulful eyes and a girlish air, and she came aboard at Natchez-under-the-Hill one night with an elderly Mephisto who introduced her as his daughter.

As once before, I chanced to be one of the Belle's passengers; and when they met at the dinner table in the grand saloon, these two and the little captain, I saw the end from the beginning. The elderly man was a bird of prey; and Mlle. Carinthe, despite her angelic face and convent manner, was too evidently his confederate.

With good weather, and few landings to hinder, it is no more than a swift night's run from Natchez to the city. For the first half of the night Placide sat at a table in the forward saloon opposite the elderly gambler, playing steadily, with mademoiselle's hand on the back of his chair. How much of the capital prize there was left when the young woman proposed an adjournment to the saloon deck aft I know not, nor ever shall know.

But of the denouement I write as an unwilling witness. My stateroom opened upon the after guard, and the head of my berth was within a foot of the closed venetians. A half-hour after the adjournment from the card table I heard low voices and slow steps on the guard, as of lovers promenading.

"You are a man of honor and a gentleman, Capt. Reynes," were the first words of my overhearing. "I can trust you—I am sure I can trust you."

"To the death, mam'zelle." I could picture Placide's low bow with his hand on his heart.

"My father is in great trouble; it is not like him to play as he did to-night, but he is desperate. You are listening?"

"To h-every word, mam'zelle. You do me ver' great honair."

"It is about—about money, this trouble. My father owes a great debt to a man who has no mercy. He is rich, this man; and if I—if I will marry him—oh, Capt. Reynes! I can't say any more, not even to you!"

Twice they passed and repassed the latticed door in silence, and at the risk of having a duel on my hands I was trying to nerve myself to cry out: "Gardez vous, mon ami!" But at the third time of passing Placide was speaking and it was too late.

"To-morrow morning, mam'zelle; there is no notaire on the Belle. Mais, we s'all go and tell your good fadder. You 'ave the word of honair, mam'zelle; the word of a French zhentleman—"

When I was leaving the boat the following morning Capt. Placide was seated at the gaming table of the night before. His vis-a-vis was the elderly rook, and there were papers between them. At his right sat a lawyer-like person, a stranger; and mademoiselle was standing with her hand on the back of his chair.

A fortnight later chance led me once again through Royal street. Passing the flamboyant house with the high-plated door, a sudden desire to see Placide's successor in the little barber's shop made me stop and enter.

Nothing was changed within. The hot-water copper was hissing cheerfully on the tiny heater; a frowsy Scotch terrier, the exact counterpart of Bismarck, rose lazily and yawned at me. Then the door opened from the bedroom beyond, and a trim little man, in spotless jacket and spats, stood on the threshold, bowing and waving me to the chair.

"Eh bien, m'sieu'; h-I'll t'ink, every day, you will come. The chair, s'il vous plait. S'all I mek for m'sieu' the cut of the hair or the trim of the beard?"

"You, Placide!" I gasped. "But the grand prize—the Belle—what have you done with it all?"

His reply was pointed by a graceful wave of the scissors.

"It is not'ing, m'sieu'; mam'zelle 'ave my word of honair—the word of a French zhentleman; 'h-I'll been give them all to her."

"But, Placide, it was the baldest plot to rob you! That man was a common blackleg, and she was his—"

"Pardon, m'sieu'; h-I'll know dat, me; h-I'll been sober dat nex' morning. But she had the word of a French zhentleman. Will m'sieu' 'ave the neck shave'? We do our ver' h-utmos' possib' to pliz—eh, Bismarck?"

UNITARIANS CELEBRATE TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Reception and Special Services Mark the Anniversary of All Souls' Parish.

PASTOR REVIEWS HISTORY.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson Delivers Instructive Sermon—Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Slicer, of New York, Takes Part.

Marking the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the First Unitarian Society of Plainfield, past and present members gathered at All Souls' church Saturday and yesterday, when a reception and special services were held. The first service was held twenty years ago on Wednesday. The church now has a membership of about a hundred families.

The anniversary reception was held at the church Saturday night, when many former members of the congregation came from out of town to celebrate the occasion. A notable feature was the presence of five of the church members who had attended the first Unitarian services held here. These were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Osgood, Mrs. Ruth Leonard, Miss Caroline Barber and Miss Edith Leonard. Other former members present were Mrs. William P. Tildon, wife of the first pastor, of Milton, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Gaston, of Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Mumford, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Edwin W. Conklin, of New York. The reception committee comprised Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nickerson, Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Ruth Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Osgood, Rev. Hobart Clark, the second pastor, and his wife, and Mrs. W. P. Tildon. The church parlors were tastefully decorated with spring flowers and blossoms, and music was furnished by Suhr's orchestra. Refreshments were served.

The anniversary observation yesterday was marked by a historical sermon, delivered by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, the pastor. At the service, he read a letter of congratulation from the venerable Rev. Robert Collyer, former pastor of the Church of the Messiah, New York, who preached at the first Unitarian service held in this city. Rev. Mr. Collyer is now 86 years old. A commemoration ode, written by Mrs. Warren B. Travell, was sung to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne." In the evening, Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, of All Souls' church, New York, preached. The committee in charge of the celebration comprised Warren B. Travell, Stephen R. Krom, Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nickerson, Mrs. P. K. White and Miss Laura Osgood.

Rev. Mr. Nickerson's sermon follows:

Of the nine Unitarian societies in Northern New Jersey ours is the oldest parish. Could the faithful who were here at its birth have known that their initative would be followed in two decades by eight groups of people as near them they would have been greatly encouraged. Could they have foreseen all the local difficulties which would beset the coming years they would have been greatly discouraged. Happily for us the spirit of the Most High, which is a spirit of righteousness and peace, is making such gains in our day as compensate for all the difficulties which beset those who are in its service. The good spirit has been the Maker and Preserver of this church. We have not been a mighty folk in any way; we have not had social influence and power in the community, but we have had here the spirit which Paul commends in his wonderful 13th chapter of First Corinthians and which is the heart of the Beautitudes of Jesus. I think the people of this church have lived their religion.

I have been in the ministry long enough to know when the prevailing spirit of a parish is one of kindness and forbearance (always interpreting intentions kindly), considerate, hopeful, generous, appreciative of every good. You make less and less profession, as you go on, either theologically or socially, but I think you "make good" today, and that you will, in the future, grow to better and best.

It is told of the beloved disciple of Jesus, St. John, that, in his old age and feebleness, he was carried by his followers in their arms from place to place, and that his one sermon or text everywhere, was "Little children, love one another!" You were most fortunate in your earliest years to have as your first pastor one in face and tone, a child of the Holy Spirit, who, having served long in larger fields, came in his old age, a most gracious personage, to bless your start with his benediction. I think that the spirit of William P. Tilden, whose name honors our walls today, has been a spirit interfused here, a sacred spirit—

"The fountain light of all our day."

A master light of all our seeing. And when I note here the general absence of that irritating spirit, born of the world and of selfishness, which is at least occasionally transiently present in too many Christians and which you, too, must have striven to avaid. I thank God that the spirit of Jesus Christ, so early come to you in Mr. Tilden, is today here "full of grace and truth."

The first service of Unitarian Christians was held in Plainfield May 12, 1889, and by the courtesy of that parish, in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, the now venerable Dr. Robert Collyer, of New York, preaching the sermon. Before that, however, Mrs. David W. Pond had written on the back of her visiting card an invitation to any sufficiently interested in the formation of a Unitarian society to asemble at the Public Library. She left this card wherever it seemed wise to do so, and the first meeting of Unitarians here was at the library April 10, 1889.

The Rev. Daniel W. Morehouse was at that time our secretary of the Middle States Conference, and he continued the preaching here, begun by Dr. Collyer. Back of Mr. Morehouse were the first trustees of the new church. Mr. Job Male, the first Mayor of Plainfield, was one of these trustees. Rev. Hobart Clark, a former pastor, writes me that Mr. Morehouse, Mr. Male and Mr. Tilden were the real founders of the church. Neither Mr. Tilden nor Mr. Male lived to see the church building dedicated. Of Mr. Male, Mr. Clark writes, "He was an octogenarian, a man widely known and highly respected by every one; English born, self-made, large hearted, broad minded and practical. He might well be called the Father of the city of Plainfield." The other members of that first board of trustees were Henry Bartlett Wells, our first president, whose name we have memorialized here; George D. Patten, Charles W. Opdyke (deceased), I. W. Nicholls, Mrs. D. W. Pond and Mrs. Ruth C. Leonard. Mr. Morehouse preached at first in a shop on Front street, but the society soon availed itself of an offer made by Mr. Male of a house of his on Second place, where Mr. Tilden found ond plac. Mr. George V. George V. Pierce occupied the second story with his family and his daughter, Eva, was the organist at the services in the house. Many of us remember well the Pierces (all now gone), their devotion to and interest in the church, later the devotion of the church to their necessities, both before and after their self-sacrificing daughter broke under the strain of her parents age and misfortunes, dying quite suddenly.

The society seems to have had a very happy time when it was "the church in the house," Mr. Tilden's invaluable service was rendered there. Mrs. Julia Ward Howe there gave a lecture, the receipts from which were given (the first money so given) to start a building fund—a "nest egg" Mr. Tilden called it; and, it is of this time of early growth that Mr. Tilden wrote, "Our history is brief but our hopes are boundless. If our small tree does not bring forth much fruit we hope that it may prove a good quality. We value most not unity of belief but unity of spirit, a life filled and animated with love to God and love to man." About this time many lectures were given in Seminary hall for the benefit of the new society. Prof. John Fiske gave the proceeds of his lecture to our treasury. Mr. Tilden, who came to be the apostolic pastor December 1, 1889, was obliged by ill-health to withdraw March 1, and died at his home in Milton in October. Mr. Clark says that "the influence of

LIFE OF JOHN MILTON THEME OF DR. LOOMIS

Rev. Dr. S. L. Loomis, formerly of Boston, made an address on the life of John Milton at the Congregational church last night in connection with the evening service. The speaker particularly emphasized the religious life of the great author and poet, declaring that his religious writings show him to be one of the deepest thinkers of his time, and that as a composer of hymns, his work is at least on a par with that of any church music.

Mr. Loomis said that of all the men of letters there is none who can or will compare with the great poet, except, perhaps, Carlisle, and he spoke at length upon the religious influences which acted upon the young Milton. He was the grandson of a staunch Catholic, he said, and his father was a Protestant by conviction. The son was a prominent factor in the era of the Reformation, and spent years of his life in earnest work and writing upon the movement.

SEVEN COURSE DINNER; NO KNIFE, FORK OR SPOON

Perhaps the most novel dinner given in this city in years was a seven-course birthday repast, arranged by a Plainfielder for his wife, to which a dozen friends were invited on Saturday night. The remarkable feature of the dinner was that not a knife, fork or spoon of any kind was used, the guests partaking of the meal only with their fingers. The Plainfielder attempted the affair to prove that one can eat a dinner without such conveniences and at the same time not be put to any trouble.

The family silver was placed in a large bowl in the centre of the table to let the guests know that they owned such things, but the use of it was not permitted. The menu consisted of lettuce, soup, broiled mushrooms, lamb, asparagus, German fried potatoes, grape-fruit salad, strawberries and cream, coffee and cigars.

The experiment was greatly enjoyed by all the guests and they were quite surprised to find that they could eat such a meal without even soiling their fingers to any appreciable extent. When first the proposition was suggested by the man to his wife, she laughed, but he explained that he wanted to take her back to childhood days, and the scheme worked so well that it is said that it is likely to become a fad in Plainfield.

Dance at Fanwood.

Nearly a hudred young people from this city held a dance at the Fanwood Club Saturday night. The affair was an informal one, the women apeparing in shirt waist suits and the men in flannel suits. Included in the program of dances, the German proved a notable success. It consisted of various figures with many novel features. During an intermission refreshments were served. Music was furnished by Miss Mary Collier. The committee in charge comprised C. Brtram Leggett and Geoge Bentley.

A Welcome Visitor.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, of New Brunswick, who has a host of friends here. He was present at the morning service in Trinity Reformed church and listened to Rev. John Y. Broek's sermon on "A Christian and Not Ashamed of It." In the afternoon Dr. Johnson spoke a few words of congratulation to the Sunday- school and in the evening he was present at the twenty-eighth anniversary meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society and offered prayer previous to Rev. Mr. Broek's address.

Public Park Agitation.

The committees appointed jointly by Mayor Fisk and Mayor Townsend of the city and borough, respectively, to report on the desirability of accepting the offer of a land syndicate which is willing to donate some sixty-eight acres in the west end for park purposes, will meet at Mayor Fisk's office on Wednesday night. The syndicate's officers will be present and it is expected that a final decision will be reached.

A Concert That's Different.

A concert that is different from others will be given at the Plainfield High School on Monday night, May 17, by Dr. Carl Dufft, bass; Miss Ella Learned, contralto; Mrs. Edith Chapman Goold, soprano, and John Young, tenor; assisted by Miss Gertrude Ina Robinson, harpist. The popular price should attract a large audience.

THE WEATHER.

Showers and colder tonight; Tuesday fair.

OBSERVED ANNIVERSARY

Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed Church 28 Years Old.

PASTOR PRAISES MEMBERS

Splendid Reports Heard by Enthusiastic Organization at Special Service Last Night.

The twenty-eighth anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church was observed at the church last night. The platform and pulpit were tastefully decorated with cut flowers, apple blossoms, etc. There was special music by the quartet choir and Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, of New Brunswick, made the offertory prayer. The members of the society, wearing their badges, occupied pews in the front of the church reserved for them.

Before delivering his sermon the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, addressed the society in these words:

"I congratulate you upon this celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of your society. It is an inspiration to have you present and a privilege for me to address you. I have heard a great deal concering the Ladies' Christian Work Society before and after I came to Plainfield and find that all I have heard is true. The Consistory places utmost confidence in you, recognizing that your ingenuity in church work is unsurpassable. You are, therefore, an indispensable asset to the church's activities. Your record of the past year's achievement is perfectly splendid."

Mr. Broek's text was taken from Mark 14:9: "This also that she hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her." "The incident tells us plainly," continued Mr. Broek, "that there comes a time when the heart must liberate its affections. If the heart's affections were more liberated, how vastly happier this world would be. No words could express Mary's feelings. The fragrance of such diffused love and service did not end in that home, but it became fragrant to all within reach of its influence.

"The world often condemns love's effort. It considers service waste, as being so much effort expended without visible return, for all love from a commercial standpoint is waste. Although the world may often condemn our service, Christ will always command it. He always makes our deeds more than we intend them to mean, and consequently all our service should be made worthy of His love. A good deed for Christ does not end in its simple performance, but it lives on to stimulate others to similar action. Like Mary's ointment, it spreads its fragrance of diffused love."

During the service the secretary, Mrs. Mary G. Woodruff, read her report, which was an excellent one, and the annual report of Mrs. Mary E. M. Dunavan, the treasurer, was read by an elder of the church.

The secretary's report showed that the society was organized in 1881 and the growth has been very satisfactory and encouraging. During the past year there was a gain of ten new members, making the present enrollment seventy-three, of which fourteen are associate. The attendance at the meetings has been also encouraging, on two occasions there being over forty present, making an average of twenty-seven for the year. The annual missionary box was the largest and of greater value than the one sent last November to South Dakota. Fifty-eight articles were contributed to the Summer Sewing Guild, two barrels of clothing have been sent to the Schofield School and the Indian work; besides paying the expenses of a woman missionary on the field and at Easter a donation was made for the work among the Japanese in America. In addition $80 was given to the Missionary League.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas generous dinners were given to those poor in purse, and fruit to fourteen others, who were shut in by sickness. In many other ways the society has accomplished much for Christ and His church.

The report of the treasurer showed the total receipts to be $975.15, the disbursements $589.70, leaving a balance on hand at present of $385.45.

Runaway Alarms Congregation.

A runaway horse caused lots of excitement on West Fifth street yesterday morning at about the time the service at St. Mary's church concluded. The animal was running wildly without wagon or harness. It was finally captured and later claimed by a South Plainfield man.

BIG BIKE MEET HERE ON DECORATION DAY

Arrangements are about completed for the twenty-five mile road race to take place here on Decoration Day. Jack Horner, the local bicycle leader, announces that there will be at least 150 riders to compete in the meet. There will be riders from all the big clubs in the East. Among the entries are the Bayview Wheelmen, of Bayonne; the Amsterdam Wheelmen, of Harlem; Century Road Wheelmen of America; Lackerton A. C. and New Harlem Wheel Club, of New York. Among the New Jersey cycyers to enter are the Trenton Cycle Club.

There will be thirty prizes given, the first a Pierce Racer; second, Crawford Special; third, Queen City Roadster; fourth prize, pair of Hartford No. 80 tires. The other prizes will consist of lamps, tires, coaster brakes, bells, etc. The referees, judges, time-keepers and starters have yet to be chosen which will be sometime nxt week.

HE'S NO DAVID HARUM, WHO'S HALED TO COURT

Moses Bender's latest investment, —a horse for which he paid $22.50 at a New York auction sale last Thursday,—got him into trouble as soon as he brought it to this city. The animal, which looks like a felt mattress advertisement picture, according to reports, was "tired" after its jaunt to Bender's barn and was put out to pasture in a field near Muhlenberg Hospital. A four-fold pedal weakness, which is chronic, according to a veterinary, made it most comfortable lying down, and it chose vegetable gardens and lawns for its resting places. This caused all the trouble. Moses was brought to court to answer for its sins of desecration, complaints having come from several prominent residents in the vicinity of Park avenue and Randolph road.

Moses told the court that he knows nothing about horses, but said that a man had told him that the animal would be worth $75 if carefully taken care of for a few weeks. The investor assured Judge Runyon that the horse is a good runner. He acknowledged that the big blue roan was somewhat "groggy" when first stood up each morning. Dr. Carpenter, a veterinary, examined the animal, and told the court that it "hasn't a sound foot to stand on," marvelling in the fact that the S. P. C. A. allowed it to pass through the city streets.

The Judge appointed another veterinary as a consulting physician at the investor's request and tomorrow morning will hear his report and decide whether the animal is best fitted to recapitulate its purchaser as a horse or as glue and mattresses.

Funeral of Mrs. Phebe H. Vail.

The funeral services of Mrs. Phebe H. Vail were held from the Friends' meeting-house on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and were largely attended by relatives and friends. There were two addresses, one by W. D. Williams, of this city, and the other by James C. Adams, of Newark, both speaking words of eulogy concerning the devoted Christian life of the departed. The burial was in the cemetery back of the meeting-house, the pall-bearers being Charles E. Vail, Fowler W. Vail, E. M. Vail, C. B. Vail, W. H. Vail and R. W. Vail, all relatives of Mrs. Vail.

Received Many New Members.

The regular communion service was held at Hope chapel, last night, when eight new members were received into fellowship, seven on confession and one by letter. Those received on confession were Charles H. Hughes, Miss Josephine Snyder, Miss Helen Mabel Prince, Miss Maude Mundy, Miss Edith Nelson, Miss Viola K. Mundy, Miss Edith Nelson., Miss Viola K. Mundy, Russell Cratley and Mrs. Henry H. Hoffman was received by letter from the Lower Valley Presbyterian church, of Califon. Rev. L. R. Howard was assisted by John Leal and G. H. Condict as elders.

Fined for Misconduct.

Arrested last night upon complaint of his wife, who preferred a serious charge against him, John F. Sutton, colored, of West Third street, was given his choice of "$10 or twenty days" by City Judge Runyon at the session of court today. A similar penalty was imposed upon Mary Sutphen, colored, of Westervelt avenue.

A May Tea At Sunnyside.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. Frederick Koodhue Mead and her daughter, Miss Mead, for a tea in honor of Mrs. and Miss Buell on Tuesday, May 11, from 4 to 6 o'clock at Sunnyside, East Front street.

GRACE M. E.'S PASTOR ADDRESSES JR.O.U.A.M.

About one hundred members of the Jr. O. U. A. M., representing Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield Councils, attended divine services at Grace M. E. church, last night, and heard a sermon by Rev. Ora J. Shoop. The quartet choir of the church rendered special music, appropriate to the occasion.

The subject of the discourse was "Remember the Brotherhood," and he based his remarks on the three cardinal principles of the order: "Virtue, Liberty and Patriotism." He lauded these principles taking occasion to explain their true meaning. He said that any organization that would follow the essentials of virtue, liberty and patriotism would become a strong factor in the world and would exert a wide influence for good. The speaker sounded the praises of the order in a way that showed that he had a thorough knowledge of it. He urged the members to continue their good work and maintain their stand for the open Bible in the public schools, an American flag from every public school and the protection of the interests of all Americans. The discourse lasted for more than an hour and was listened to with much interest.

BUILT FIRE UNDER IT TO KEEP BABE WARM

Alberta Richardson, the nine-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson, colored, of 528 West Third street, was found this morning at that address in charge of a step-sister, Nora Randolph, aged seven years, and an investigation disclosed the fact that the mother was out to work somewhere. When the infant was found, the step-sister was trying to keep her warm by building a fire under her. The child was suffering from chicken-pox and the elder girl was instructed to keep her warm. As soon as possible the mother was located and both she and her infant were brought to court.

Mayor C. J. Fisk had the woman arraigned before him and after giving her a lecture sent her home, with instructions to take care of her child.

GOLF SEASON OPENS AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The Plainfield Country Club began its active season on Saturday with the initial play for the spring handicap cups. It was an ideal day for the event and with the course in perfect condition, there was nothing to mar the competition. There was a large field out to engage in play for the cups and everything started off under most favorable auspices. The clubhouse, while not just suited for the best of service at present, was the mecca for the members and their friends and it is hoped that when the improvements are completed, it will meet "a long felt want."

The Golf committee has divided the Classes A and B this year by placing all players with a handicap of 14 or under in Class A and those of 18 and over in Class B. This will make it a little harder for Class A contestants and serve to encourage those of the other class.

On Saturday the honors for Class A were won by Owen H. Fleming, W. Lester Glenney and Roger F. Murray, while in Class B the point-winners were E. P. Goodman, Hugh F. Fox and Howard Lapsley. The best scores for the day are as follows:

Class A—Owen H. Fleming, 88, 12-76; W. Lester Glenney, 83, 4-79; Roger F. Murray, 100, 13-87; Arthur Murphy, 97, 8-89; Arthur L. Wills, 99, 10-89.

Class B—E. P. Goodman, 92, 20-72; Hugh F. Fox, 100, 26-74; Howard Lapsley, 97, 20-77; G. F. Earl, 104, 25-79; A. E. Barclay, 104, 23-81; A. W. Kleinecke, 118, 36-82; W. F. Merrill, 108, 25-83; R. G. Morse, 99, 15-84; W. L. C. Glenney, 110, 26-84; D. H. Rowland, 103, 18-85; C. C. Burke, 104, 19-85; L. H. Gates, 11, 27-88.

Celebrated Anniversary.

Miss Mary Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Bennett, of Duer street, celebrated their thirteenth anniversary of her birthday, Saturday afternoon and evening, from 5 to 9 o'clock. There were eleven young girls present and all had a grand good time playing games. There was a birthday cake and refreshments were served. Miss Bennett received a number of gifts as reminders of the happy vent.

PREACHES ON SOCIALISM

Rev. C. S. Kemble Urges Socialists to Accept Christ as Their Leader.

ITS HOPE IS IN HIM ONLY.

Simon, the Zealot, a Socialist, Followed the Master, Says M. E. Pastor.

An instructive sermon on "The Social Reformer and Jesus" was preached by Rev. Charles A. Kemble before a large congregation at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church last night. His discourse follows:

The universality of the appeal of Christ's personality is one of the marvels of history. When fairly interpreted to any nationality, this Jewish Messiah never fails to win adherents. Prince and pauper, philosopher and peasant feel equally his charm. We need not be surprised therefore to find on investigation a decided variety of temperaments represented among his first disciples. The nineteenth century doubter was found had his prototype in Thomas; the materialistic business man in Philip; the impulsive, impetuous, frank blundering, lovable fellow in Peter; we are looking tonight to see if any revolutionary firebrand, any socialist, we will say, was drawn into that remarkable inner circle of intimate companions of Jesus. Strangely enough we find such a one, although there is no recorded act or word of his in the gospels to arouse our attention or to define his character. In the two lists given of the Twelve, afterward called Apostles, we have in Matthew X: 4, the name of Simon, the Kananite (not Canaanite), which scholars inform us is not a geographical but a political designation, and in Luke VI: 15, "Simon called Zeloter," that is Simon the Zealot, or revolutionary patriot of the party formed to revolt against Roman taxation, when Judea and Samaria some twenty years before had been brought under direct Roman rule. He was an ardent Jewish patriot, a believer in the prophecies of Jewish supremacy, looking for and willing to help on the coming kingdom of righteousness under the direct rule of God, even if need be by force of arms.

The Jewish monarchy had always been regarded by the prophets as a theocracy, an earthly government run upon a heavenly schedule unsuccessful only in so far as it departed from the direct commands of God, halting today, perhaps, because of a deobedient king but looking forward to a distant day when under a true king, the Messiah, the perfect will of God should be done on earth as it is done in heaven. The anathema of the prophet-patriots were hurled not at private but at national sins. During the captivity private delinquencies were denounced and personal piety cultivated, while a Messianic deliverer was fervidly expected. The New Testament times, like the captivity, presented a congregation in no way responsible for social condition, hence it is filled with advices as to personal relationship and responsibilities, but spiritualizing their materialistic pictures of the coming king—done he quietly inaugurated the kingdom which comes without observation, propagates itself like leaven, grown surely as the mustard seed.

The leaders of the Jews were filled with expectation of this kingdom but they failed to recognize in Christ the promised Messiah and in His kingdom of heaven their restored Jewish theocracy. Instead of accepting Him they exclaimed "we have no king but Caesar," although they hated Caesar. Simon, the Zealot, was filled with just such false notions as led these chief priests to reject and crucify Jesus but he accepted Jesus as his Master and let Him teach him the proper interpretation of the Messianic hope. The prophets had differed very radically in their pictures but their inspired hope was one. Their pictures are far from photographs of Christ—their maps most inaccurately portrayed the kingdom, yet Christ and His kingdom are now seen to be the essential fulfillment of them all.

So with Socialism, it too is an ideal and a program. Men criticize and perhaps with good reason this, that and the other program of Socialism for they differ radically from each other, the burning ideal of humanity living as a real brotherhood under laws seeming only justice and the universal welfare, that underlies all the conflicting programs, and that ideal is the Christian ideal of the kingdom of heaven, which is this earth transformed by Christ's spirit working in the hearts of men.

O, Socialist enthusiasts with hearts buring with enthusiasm for humanity don't make the mistake

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Last night's rain extinguished the forest fires which have been burning in South Jersey.

Rev. H. L. Walton has resigned as pastor of the Manahawkin Baptist church to accept a call to a Jersey City church.

Arrangements have been completed for the dedication of Pitman's new $35,000 schoolhouse Saturday, May 15, with elaborate ceremonies.

Angelo Giuffra, a wealthy candy manufacturer of Millville, underwent a surgical operation. The physicians give slight hope of his recovery.

Albert Batten, a farmer, who lives on the Swedesboro road, about four miles from Paulsboro, reports the disappearance of his son Ira, fourteen years old.

It cost Joseph Hyatt, twenty-nine years old, $3.75 in the Camden Police Court for quarreling on the street with his wife. He was arrested by Policeman Barnett on a charge of disorderly conduct.

For committing perjury and becoming too "fresh" while testifying in a criminal trial in the county court at Mt. Holly, James Jones, colored, of Stanwick, has been sentenced by Judge Horner to serve ten days in the county jail.

When the vault at the Collingswood National Bank was opened at the usual hour, a lock on an inner door failed to work. It was found necessary to send to Philadelphia for a safe expert before the business of the bank could proceed.

The increase in the trolley fare between Woodbury and Camden has resulted in a storm of protest. Attention of the Woodbury Board of Trade has been called to the matter and the subject will form the chief discussion at the next meeting.

Found guilty of selling liquor illegally, Michael J. Monahan, a saloon-keeper of Gloucester City, was fined $150 in the Camden Criminal Court. Prosecutor Scovel severely scored the defendant, and dwelt with particular severity on the offense of Monahan with respect to permitting girls to congregate in the place.

William McDivitt, a painter, who was working on the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank building, Woodbury, fell thirty-five feet Saturday by the breaking of a rung of the ladder, but was not badly hurt. In his descent he placed his paint can on a cornice so that it would not spill on him. John Ross, another painter, working below, was badly cut about the face.

Pleading guilty of selling liquor in prohibition territory, Frank Hanna, driver for the Camden Bottling Company; Frank Ross, driver for William O. Lusk; Frank Riseman, driver for the Union Bottling Company; Robert Watson, driver for Charles Rudolph, and Harry Kayser, who is himself a bottler, were fined $65 each in the Comden Criminal Court Saturday.

In the United States Court at Trenton Saturday, Mary J. Clement, of Atlantic City, recovered a verdict of $6,000 against the John L. Young Amusement Company for the value of a lease she held upon a stand in front of the Young Hotel, on the boardwalk. The lease was made in 1902, for ten years, but was broken by the company at the end of four years, and suit was brought for the value of the unexpired term.

"GREAT WHITE WAY" TO BE DARK IN PATERSON.

Paterson, May 10.—Some of the merchants along the three blocks from Broadway to Market street appear to have lost interest in the "Great White Way" and have not come forward with their subscription for the payment of the same. In fact, they have shown so little concern in the project that at a slimly attended meeting held in the Colt building Saturday night, a resolution was passed authorizing the discontinuance of the lights Sunday, tonight and Tuesday nights, in order to teach, if possible, the recreant merchant a lesson "light or darkness." It was also decided to hold a meeting on next Wednesday night, and if the indifferent merchants do not attend and settle up, the project will be abandoned for good.

It was said at the time the scheme was inaugurated that it would last until the electric light bills or assessments fell due, then it would fall by the wayside. This is evidently the outlook at the present time. Then, again, the early closing project seemed to be in danger, for it was argued that to illuminate brightly the business section of the city would serve to attract people until hours after the time set for closing the stores at night and that some merchants would take advantage of the crowds to keep their stores open until a late hour, thereby forcing the overworked saleswomen and salesmen back to their old hours of labor.

Moses' Feat.

"Now, Johnny," said the Sunday-school teacher, "can you tell me one of the most remarkable things Moses did?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the bright youth. "He broke all of the Commandments at the same time."—Chicago News.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Dixie Minstrels, Excelsior Hall, Thursday evening. 5 8 5

The sacred song service held at the Baptist church yesterday afternoon was attended by one of the largest vesper service audiences the pastor, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, has had since he began the afternoon services.. Mr. Wolf, of Plainfield, violinist, and Percy Mygrant, of Fanwood, cornetist, assisted in the program. The vocal selections by the church quartette as well as the baritone solos by Mr. Augris were enjoyed by all.

William Lee's application for a license was again laid over by Judge Atwater at Elizabeth Saturday morning until today. A number from town are in attendance as witnesses, beside a petition has been signed and will be presented to the court to show that Mr. Lee's hotel has always been conducted in an orderly manner and asking that the license be granted.

The local ball team defeated the Highlanders of Plainfield on the home grounds Saturday afternoon by the score of 10-6. The game was made a practice one, the locals after the game had been tucked safely away, tossing the ball over the plate so as to give the fielders a chance to limber up.

The ball team of the Baptist church Athletic Asociation defeated the team of the Wilson Military Academy of Neshanic Saturday afternoon by the score of 8-3. The contest was an interesting one, the Baptist boys playing like veterans.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh, of Prospect avenue, have been entertaining their nieces, the Misses Walsh, of Brooklyn.

The B. Y. P. U. held its regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the church.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the Methodist church.

A series of special Sunday evening services have been arranged at the Congregational church as follows: May 16, "Italian Americans," address by Rev. Antonio Arrighi; singing by Plainfield Italians; May 23, "Stereopticon Evening," views from the land of massacres; May 30, union meeting with the Swedish church, music by Swedish choir and musicians.

TOSSED BY TRAIN, MAN AND HORSE EVADE DEATH.

Garwood, May 10.—An express train going at high speed on the Central Railroad shortly before 9 o'clock Saturday morning struck a horse and wagon belonging to the Elizabeth Cornice Works at the crossing here, the rig being in charge of John Turner, colored, of 1136 Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth.

The locomotive struck the horse broadside and threw the animal, with wagon and driver, up against the side of the station. The harness was torn from the horse and the shafts of the wagon were broken off, but the animal regained its feet apparently uninjured, and Turner picked himself up and complained of no worse injury than a sprained back. The wagon, with the exception of the shafts, was not damaged. The train was stopped and the passengers ran to aid Turner, expecting to find him badly hurt.

FIDELITY MAKES ITS STATEMENT.

Great Growth of Newark's Big Trust Company in Past Few Years.

The statement of the business of the Fidelity Trust Company of Newark, published on page 7 of this issue and which was rendered to the Department of Banking and Insurance, will be read with great interest, not only by the thousands of depositors and others having business with the institution, but by the public who are looking either for good investments or for a safe depository for their money or securities.

The Fidelity Trust Company shows a splendid record of progress during the past few years. Its resources have increased over $27,000,000, and it holds a surplus fund of $7,000,000.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. Tilden was the best gift the society ever had." Verily, "the virtues of the just small sweet and blossom in the dust." Mr. Clark also tells me that three of the most faithful, diligent and useful men of the early years, all three now departed, were Mr. Wells, Mr. Broadway and Mr. Pond.

Mr. Clark, Mr. Tilden's immediate successor, was installed pastor of the society in Seminary hall, June 13, 1890. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, now (in his 87th year) chaplain of the United States Senate, preaching the sermon. On January 27, 1890, the society proceeded to raise funds for the erection of a stone church building. Mrs. Pond and Mr. Opdyke were requested to act as a committee and to their names that of Mr. Male was later added. The canvass proved very successful, and Mr. Male soon after gave the lot on which this building stands (worth then $5,000) with certain conditions, which are a matter of record. A building committee was appointed October 13, consisting of D. W. Pond, Joseph O. Osgood, H. B. Wells, L. B. Woolston and William T. Broadway. Plans were submitted May 28, 1891, and the committee was authorized to proceed with the building. Contracts were made soon after, and the cornerstone was laid by Rev. D. W. Morehouse, November 8, 1891. The church was dedicated, almost free from debt, (and the deficit was soon provided for) May 12, 1892, Dr. Minot J. Savage preaching the sermon. I think it well for us to hear again today the words of dedication which Mr. Clark and his people read responsively, that we may have them fully in mind as standing for the spirit of this church:

"To the reverent search for the truth that maketh free; to that religion of righteousnes which createth clean hearts and giveth the beauty of holiness; to the religion of love; to the memory of all saints; to the service of all people! To the spread of pure gospel of Jesus Christ, and to a growing tolerance and union of his followers. To the fellowship of hearts, to the gospel of universal brotherhood and to the bearing of one another's burdens. To the memory of dear ones, to the defenders of the nation's righteousness; to the prophet souls of all ages; to him who died upon the cross in love to God and man. To the sanctity of home ties; to the honoring of our country; to an ever broadening Christianity, and to the cause of universal religion. To worship, to reverence, to thanksgiving and praise. To the consecration of babes, the sanctification of marriage vows, the lifting of the shadow of death, the church of All Souls was dedicated." Dr. Collyer offered the praper of dedication.

In Mr. Clark's pastorate the society appears to have taken on much literary activity, not only in its Women's Branch Alliance, which was soon organized, and which now directs the women's work in the church, but also by lectures in the church by our own people and others. This work, I am told, was under the direction of a committee consisting of Mrs. Bret Harte, Mrs. E. W. Conklin, Miss Edith Leonard and others. "The meetings and lectures arranged by them were wonderfully successful for many years, the attendance steadily increasing from a handful in the Second place house to audiences that completely filled the church. It was during this pastorate that Mrs. Sarah Stout, Mr. Male's sister-in-law, became the largest financial benefactor the church has ever had, giving the parish $3,400, after rendering it other service. Mr. Clark would have recalled today the names of other women—not now with us, who were helpful in his work. Miss Mary B. Brown, Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Fiske, Mrs. Krom, and several men, Messrs. Nichols, Hodges and Lyons, men whom this ministry has not known. He also recalls gratefully the advent into the parish in his time of Mr. Edgar H. Mumford, wife and mother, the Riley family, Mr. Edgar B. Smith and the Hon. Roswell G. Horr and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Leonard, found an especially happy home here then, Mrs. Leonard welcoming in "All Souls" a church of her own faith and Mr. Leonard becoming a convert, and an enthusiastic one, from another Christian body. Mr. Leonard became later one of our ministers, going from the editorial chair to the pulpit. It was during this pastorate that some one dropped a quarter into the colection basket one Sunday with these lines:

"Should every one his quarter give,
This church, which now is small,
Will such capacious quarters have
So will provide for all
So herewith find the quarter, which
I freely give to thee.
And some day may the good Lord show
Some quarter unto me."

We now come to the present pastorate, which covers more than half the years of our existence as a society. It was begun on the first Sunday of January, 1897, although the installation services were not held until January 20, when Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, now president of the American Unitarian Association, preached the sermon. Rev. Stephen Camp (our St. Stephen, as John Chadwick called him), of Brooklyn Third church, gave the charge to the new pastor. Mr. Morehouse made the installation prayer, Mr. Badger gave the right hand of fellowship and Rev. Wm. I. Nichols the charge to the people. There has been nothing to talk about in this ministry. It has been very quietly pursued. Neither pastor nor people have favored any sensationalism. At its very beginning an advance in the Christian spirt of the community was noted, due perhaps to the influence of the preceding pastorate, for, whereas all the pastors of the city were invited to Mr. Clark's reception, and none of them same, four responded to the invitation to meet the present minister, showing a decided advance in Christian courtesy in six years. And there was very soon another indication of growth in the Christian spirit inside the society, where after the first cold plunge, our women so far forgot their differences in their duties and their argreements, that an harmonious, united "bearing and forbearing" society has been for all these years an especial joy of the pastor's heart.

How often disagreements arise simply from misunderstandings! How often there are positively lovable traits in those from whom we differ! Sometimes they will do humane and beneficient work which we neglect. How rarely is opposition to our personal opinion really malicious. How frequently it arises from intense zeal for a cause, or a mistaken notion of what is best, or sometimes sheer mental inability to comprehend more than one side! As we get older we positively sigh to get, at least for ourselves, that religious spirit which is more than Christian, which is godly, and which was exemplified by the Hindu Christ Gotoma Buddha, who said, "The more evil a man does to me the more good will I do to him." I would that men might say of me, when I am gone, "He could not hold a grudge against any. It was easy for him to forgive." I think there must be many of us who thoughtfully pray, "Remember not, O Lord, our offences, nor the offences of our forefathers. Spare us, Good Lord!" If we remember indictively offenders against our wish or judgment we cannot pray this, nor any prayer, for if the Christian's brother trespass against him he is to be forgiven seventy times seven times.

Sometimes it is said that Unitarians are conceited, and I have been known to assent to this accusation. Socially and historically we have had so much that is complimentary to us as a church, complimentary to the men and women in our fold, that our pride in the sort of character we stand for has been stimulated and we have stood a little straighter and looked a bit more confident, probably because of it. But our conceit is as Unitarians, not as Christians, conceit of the body, not of the spirit. It is an intellectual and moral satisfaction—not any personal pride of heart! I have never known more modest or self-distrustful Christians than some in our church, who, although learned and

The important banks of Chile are either Chilean, German or Spanish, and are naturally more interested in building up trade with Europe than helping American trade.

In the eight years, 1900-1908, Philippine purchases of American boots and shoes rose from $8,010 in valueu to $338,929, out of a total of $149,365 and $451,424. Such imports from other countries decreased.

Australia has had an abundant wheat crop this season. Owing to the high prices in the world's markets shipments of the grain are being hurried forward in steamships instead of, as usual, by sailing vessels.

Electric railway competition reduced the suburban traffic around London of the Great Eastern Railway by 3,292,817 passengers in the last half of 1908. In 1908 the Metropolitan (London) District Railway carried 91,000,000 passengers, the largest number of any year yet.

New Zealand's population December 31, 1908, was 1,012,000, consisting of 960,000 Europeans, 40,000 Maoris and 12,000 Cook Islanders. The excess of immigration over departures in 1908 was 14,000—a record—while the natural increase was 17,000, a total gain of 31,000.

During the year 1908 there were 99 (against 435 in 1907) seaging steamships, of an aggregate of 147,270 gross register tonnage, built in German shipyards; at the close of the year sixty-seven ocean steamships were in course of construction, representing 187,362 tonnage. Shipbuilding and the shipping trade have not been prosperous in the last year.

A hard blow at politeness on street cars in Massachusetts was struck by the Supreme Court of that State a few days ago. In a damage suit the court held that if a passenger on a crowded street car gets off momentarily to permit other passengers to alight and in getting on again is injured by the sudden starting of the car he cannot recover from the street railway company where there is a rule under which passengers ride on the platform at their own risk.

"C. Q. D."

By John Kendrick Bangs.

"C. Q. D! C. Q. D!"
Everywhere we look we see
Someone sounding "C. Q. D!"
If it happen on the sea,
Instantly
Comes the answer, ringing clear,
"'We are coming, never fear.
Keep your spirit full of cheer,
We are hastening o'er the wave,
And will save!
Hidden in the misty haze
Of the oceanic maze
We will find you and extend
Helping hand unto the end;
Hand to lift you safely o'er
Troubled waters to the shore.
Keep your spirit undismayed
Let your hearts rest unafraid.
We have heard your message clear
Flashing through the atmosphere
O'er the sea:
"C. Q. D!"

Sounding daily on our ears
From the haunts of human tears,
Human heart-strings wracked with fears
Echoing on every side
From the ever-rising tide,
Crying out for sympathy—
"C. Q. D!"
Grinding chance and human ills;
Shattered hopes that numbs and kills;
Human derelicts are there,
Sinking, sinking in despair,
Crying out imploringly,
"C. Q. D! C. Q. D!"
We are sinking 'neath the wave!
Come in charity to save!
Come in great humanity,
Rescue us in poverty—
"C. Q. D! C. Q. D!"

O the signals! O the calls
Flashing o'er these city walls!
From the Children of Despond
To the Helping Hands Beyond!
Pleading daily for release!
Pleading for one taste of peace!
Little ones that blindly grope
In the hopeless quest of Hope!
Pleading for a sure relief
From the waves of Sin and Grief!
Human vessels one and all
Sending out their piteous call—
Call to you and call to me,
"C. Q. D! C. Q. D!"

Elephants and Forests.

Elephants do a great deal of harm to the forests in British India, especially in the Teesta division. A conservator suggests that possibly the elephants are not worth the protection they receive from the government in view of these depredations. Most of the transplants in particular are destroyed by them.

widely loved, contenders, too, for the truth as they saw it—bold, when speaking for God and right, were personally retiring and often self-deprecatory. I sometimes think that the very fact that our beliefs are frowned upon, by the ignorant crowd, makes us desire to be the more sedueously careful in our daily walks and ways, broad minded, pure hearted, helpful to any in distress, believing good things of people, and even warming them sometimes to good things by assuming their probably disposition to ally themselves with whatever is excellent. Call a person bad and you have gone a long way to make him so. No, we are not conceited as to our private selves or blind to our many deficiencies.

And, in this discourse to day I am most forcibly reminded that ous is a Congregational church and, that in it we are "all kings and priests unto God." We all preach by our lives, and the pastor, over and over, sees, hears and heeds the excellent admonitions which his people's lives set before him. It his been so here! It has been most pleasant for one born in New England, where the liberal atmosphere so strongly prevails, to note the appreciation of the simple fact that here our cause has "a local habitation and a name."

I can seem to see today the serene satisfaction, smiling in the face of Miss Mary Brown, as she came on a Sunday morning through yonder doorway. It was impossible for her to conceal her heart's gratification at the establishment of this church, and well we all know, who knew her, that her many friends of other faiths here, were made aware of the location of her heart's religious treasure. And another I recall, with a man's strength and fervor, whose attitude, and word were ever as a clarion call to a rejoicing fidelity Mr. Henry Bartlett Wells was one to stand up and be counted even where his religious faith was much spoken against, to count it all joy in frankly saying to his neighbors, as St. Paul once said to his, that, "after the manner which men call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers." Mr. Wells stayed with us just long enough for me to know his loyal spirit, and to see what one, of the liberal faith all compact, could do, anywhere, for its upbuilding. I think in those early days, when the way before you must have often seemed doubtful, Mr. Wells's cherry optimism and thorough confidence must have proved over and over a tonic 'gainst despair. And Mr. Wells was in other ways an ideal layman. Superintendent of our Sunday-school, first president of the "New York Sunday-school Union," and a director, for some years, of the American Unitarian Association, he exemplified that enthusiasm for "the cause" when when limited to the ministers, becomes miserably inefficient. Perhaps no one among us in my day more fully illustrated the typical Unitarian layman from Dr. Hale's point of view, than Mr. Wm. H. Riley. With an extremely active mind, ever open to and searching for the truth, most appreciative of its religious presentation, as his faithful attendance here and generous co-operation with all our projects sufficiently evinced, very public spirit, really anxious to minister to the general good, feeling, with Dr. Hale, that the good Unitarian always means the good citizen, alert, cheerful and interested in all true reforms, political, social, religious, his life, so suddenly ended, (and to our great dismay, we think back upon as a living dynamo, electrifying us all into greater earnestness and more widely availing moral activity! We hailed him here one Sunday, and ere the next had said to him our last farewell.

A far more quiet man, and one of the old and conservative school, not much known, I take it, to many of you, was Mr. Horace Cunningham, a Boston Unitarian, with Harvard ah his Alma Mater, and very appreciative of his Sunday privileges here. He shunned publicity, did good by stealth, lived plainly, travelled far, read much, and although so well provided for that he never had to earn a dollar, was not spoiled by idleness, or morally undermined by freedom to do as he chose. He "kept his soul's great chamber free from wrong, when, in old age, he died, he left our church $500.

If, on an anniversary occasion like this, a Unitarian church is asked what it has done, our reply is usually a pointing to the sort of lives our Unitarian atmosphere is favorable to, in the spirit of these lives, to the marks they bear that are indicative of imperishable virtues. We have no enumerated conversions to exhibit today, although many conversions these years have seen, from the narrower to our more inclusive faith.

We are not working with our people for conversion, but for education and growth, the sort of evlution and growth, the sort of evlution in character which Jesus knew, but only a story of natural conservation and growth in wisdom and stature, in favor with God and man. We are reporting no church memberships, although such we have and greatly prize. The pastor brings today no statistics as to baptisms, marriages and funerals. These duties have been attended to as they befell. We point to what our epople love most and strive to exemplify; to sacred human lives, the fruit of righteousness, which grows untrellised by a creed, unsupported by a dogma, untended by ecclesiastical nurserymen, not recommended to the public by any traditional guarantees of apostolic succession, but, growing, in the open, common way, where daily the feet of traffic tread, and where secular occupation hedges its every hour and is yet wholesome and good to live by! Whittier says, for us, "The dear Lord,'s best interpretaters are humble, human souls!"

In outward service here, however, these souls advanced in ways of serving, and I may be pardoned for mentioning, merely as examples of new ways, in which we find we can do good, outside the parish, the comparatively recent taking on by us, of the support of a free bed at the Muhlenberg Hospital, its cost $200 a year; the adoption of the Service Pension Society, for aged ministers, into our list of annual collections, and the giving each year, by individuals in the socity, to the Calhoun Colored school in Alabama. May our giving continually expand as our resources increase! But, better yet, may we become more and more children of the good spirit, helpful wherever any good cause needs us giving our lives; peacemakers among our neighbors, strong for rightousness where evils corrupt and defile; peace lovers, where brutal war rears its horrid head; brothers of our fellow-men, of every creed and clime and just to them, if they be rich or poor; loyal to our country's democratic ideals, and to the religious democracy of our free faith!

A. C. NICKERSON.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA IN ANNUAL SESSION

The seventeenth annual convocation of the Grand Commandery of New Jersey, Ancient and Illustrious Order of Knights of Malta, met Friday at Asburk Park, with about 100 delegates from subordinate commanderies and officers of the Grand Commandery in attendance. The convocation elected Somerville for its annual meeting place after two ballots were taken, as Plainfield, Phillipsburg and Elizabeth were also after the honor. At the session yesterday afternoon there was an installation of the following officers:

Grand commander, Edward E. Sevill; grand generalissimo, Walter R. Swift; grand captain-general, Robert Smith; grand recorder, I. C. Bleam; grand treasurer, Charles L. Mohler.

The officers who presided over the session were: Grand Commander William Rolleston, of Paterson; Grand Generalissimo Edward E. Seville, of Trenton; Grand Captain-General Walter R. Swift, of Elizabeth; Grand Prelate James Chalmers, of Paterson; Grand Recorder I. C. Bleam, of Trenton; Grand Treasurer William Brindle, of Paterson; Grand Senior Warden William C. Smith, of Phillipsburg; Grand Junior Warden Charles F. Truscott, of Dover; Grand Warden Charles Steward, of Elizabeth; Grand Standard Bearer Samuel Pritchard, of Paterson; Grand Sword Bearer Paul Govett, of Phillipsburg; Grand First Guard Robert E. Wigley, of Trenton, and Grand Second Guard William Saunders, of Paterson.

Mr. Cochran, of Paterson, supreme representative, made his annual report, and there was a report of the committee on conditions of the order showing a light decrease in membership of the body since last year, but a growth in financial strength. While in Asbury Park the knights are making their headquarters at the Grand Avenue Hotel. The order was founded in 1048 in Jerusalem by Crusaders, and has a total membership of 30,000.

EXCHANGE TO GIVE DELEGATES DINNER

The Board of Governors of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange are planning a reception to the delegates of the New Jersey Development Federation, which meets for final organization at the rooms of the exchange on Tuesday. On that occasion the federation is to be permanently organized, and at the conclusion of the meeting the delegates are to be the guests of the exchange at a dinner to be tendered in their honor.

The following new members of the exchange were elected at the last meeting: Oliver H. Holt and H. R. Gillette, of New York city, and Charles B. Thomson, of New Monmouth, New Jersey. The board also elected four new governors in the persons of George B. Corsa, Eugene V. Magee, P. S. Parish and Edmund Rushmore. A special committee consisting of Meesrs. H. A. Rounds, E. H. Lambert and Wm. A. Lambert, was appointed to devise ways and means for listing the property of the members of the exchange and circulating among the members their real estate wants and offers, similar to the plan in use by the Real Estate Board of Brokers of New York city.

The report of the committed in charge of the annual dinner of the exchange was received, and it was the consensus of opinion that the second annual function of the exchange at the Plaza on April 21 was a signal success, and by unanimous vote the dinner committee received the thanks of the board of governors.

LONG UNBURIED SINCE NO ONE WANTED BODY.

Long Branch, May 10—After lying unclaimed in a local morgue for three weeks, the body of James Van Pelt, seventy-six years old, was buried in Greenlawn cemetery Saturday by funds raised by popular subscription. Van Pelt was admitted to the Monmouth Memorial Hospital last December suffering from an incurable disease. He has a wife and daughter living at Englishtown, who were informed of his death, but declined to bury the body, claiming they were financially unable to meet the expense.

Van Pelt was admitted as a resident of Burrsville, Ocean county, hence the officials of Monmouth county refused to meet the expense, claiming that the man was not a legal resident. Ocean county officials, too, refused to pay the expense, and as a last resort a subscription was started to bury the body.

Berkeley License Renewed.

After an all-day trial Friday before Judge Atwater, in Elizabeth, "Mayor" Joseph Kuntz, of Berkeley Heights, was granted a renewal of his license for the Pine Tree hotel. Judge Atwater stated that he had received letters favorable from O. J. Cammeyer and Dr. Walter Fletcher Johnson. These with the strong testimony given by William Jeffery, president of the Township Improvement Society, supplied the court with overwhelming testimony that the hotel has been conducted satisfactorily and that it is a public necessity, being the only place in the township able to accommodate the traveling public. Fifty men from the township accompanied Mr. Jeffery to the court.

New Mayor in Morristown.

Theodore Ayers was elected Mayor of Morristown Friday night by the Board of Aldermen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Thomas W. Cauldwell. Mr. Ayers is a Republican. The Democrats nominated Charlton A. Reed, formerly Mayor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Webb, of Westervelt avenue, left today for California, where they go for the benefit of Mr. Webb's health. They will be away several months.

GOVERNOR FORT WON'T EAT WITH DAVID BAIRD

Governor J. Franklin Fort has declined the invitation to attend the complimentary luncheon to be given by Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation, in honor of State Assessor David Baird, at the McCarter home, Rumson road, Saturday, May 15.

The Governor declined on account of a "previous engagement" to spend all of next week after Monday visiting a number of Civil War battlefields in Virginia, where he is to assist in the dedication of monuments erected by the Fifteenth New Jersey Regiment.

The Governor will be out of New Jersey from Tuesday to Saturday. As president of the Senate, Frelinghuysen will accompany the Governor on the trip. The acting Governor for five days will be Speaker of the House Prince, of Passaic.

NEGLIGEES NOW ARE IN BRIGHT COLORS.

Even negligees are falling in line with the fad for bright colors. Dainty pinks and baby blues are yielding to gay Oriental shades with bold embroideries in gilt and silver threads.

The inexpensive cotton handkerchiefs, called bandannas, make attractive kimono sacques for summer wear and many of these gay little negligees are being fashioned for spring gifts. Five of the handkerchiefs are needed, one for the back, two for the front, and two more to form the sleeve portions.

The point which hangs over the arms may be turned back and the sleeve tacked together under the arm; and of course the upper points of the kerchiefs which form the fronts and back will be turned down slightly to make a finish at the back and to afford a neck opening. Bright red and yellow bandannas make effective sacques, and the cool navy blue sort with white dotted borders are liked also. One need not be an expert to make such an acceptable gift.

ART DRESSES.

A gown of natty blue chiffon was made with white satin chiffon and trimmed with exquisite embroidery.

A robe of black crepe meteor over black silk was pretty.

Brown silk net is well liked for dress purposes and it combines splendidly with dull gold trimmings. It can be decorated with bright shades and is one of the most attractive nets of the day.

Dotted crepe is a favorite because it can be plainly fashioned. Naturally it calls for a very rich foundation of silk or satin. It is obtainable in all pastel tints.

Red satin frocks are found among early spring gowns, but the material is liberally covered with lace, the material being cut from beneath. Directoire gowns of this material are handosme.

French robes are much narrower than those of home manuufacture and much longer. Silver net, used for such robes, has been seen this season with bright green trimmings.

We see the usuaul consignment of sheer dresses with Valenciennes trimming.

Cotton Voile for Waists.

To the girl who finds her allowance for summer clothes somewhat limited, the cotton voiles are a boon, as compared with the better ginghams. The latter has its place, and is very pretty indeed this season, but is always a gingham and never dressy; while the voile, which is likewise cotton, often can not be distinguished from the wool voiles, and so is suitable to wear on many occasions where a gingham would not do. A bit of silk or messaline to finish helps on the deceptions.

Lysander Puts His Foot In It.

"Lysander," sweetly, "do you know what day this is?"

"Sure! Our anniversary, Margaret, dear," pretending to have remembered it all the time.

"No such thing," frigidly. "It's the day you promised to nail the leg on the old kitchen table!"

"Certainly they are," interrupted the second traveler. "I don't know how we should get along without them?"

"Ah, you're a family man, too?"

"No; a doctor."—Tit-Bits.

Fidelity Trust Company

NEWARK, N. J.

New Jersey's Great Popular Financial Institution, Through Its Many Carefully Managed Departments, Affords

THE HIGHEST USEFULNESS TO YOU

Banking Department
Affords Security and Convenience

Starting in 1890, this department has grown rapidly, its amount of deposits having increased more than 125 per cent. during the past eight years. Accounts are solicited upon favorable terms. Immediate and careful attention is given to all business.

Savings Department
Offers Services of a Great Institution to All

Opened for business in 1902, has advanced with rapid strides, the last six years showing advance in deposits of over 500 per cont., and in number of depositors of nearly 700 per cent.; over 6,000 depositors now using this department. 4 per cent. is paid on amounts of $1,000 or under, 3½ per cent. on amounts over $1,000. Accounts starting with even small amounts are urged.

Trust Department
Guarantees Right Administration of Your Estates

The original business of the Fidelity has not only advanced greatly in number of trusts, but in their value and importance. The facilities and resources of the Fidelity Trust Company make possible such profit and satisfaction to beneficiaries and heirs that this branch of the business is continually developing itself, each trust bringing others, as might well be expected.

The Fidelity service consists of trained, expert, individual attention, together with the benefits arising from the combined resources of the entire institution.

In this department, advice as to the laws of descent, the preparation of wills, the administration of estates, the exercise of guardianship for children and all the duties incident to the faithful execution of trusts is given with the best legal and expert service obtainable.

Title Department
Guarantees Title to Your Home Forever

In this branch Fidelity Trust Company is particularly strong. For years the company has been accumulating a mass of facts, information and records of the most intimate character regarding real estate throughout New Jersey, the value of which cannot even be estimated, so thoroughly have these researches been made.

This data is at hand constantly for use in connection with the searching and guaranteeing of titles to real estate in New Jersey, and taken as it is, in connection with the careful investigations made right on the ground, as well as the usual searches of records, it makes the work of this department of a most superior and important character.

That these facts are generally recognized is indicated by the growth in number of applications for searches. During the past five years, for example, nearly 9,000 such searches have been made—being more than double the number for the preceding period.

A Fidelity guaranty of title is something to rely upon. The holder need have no worry when he knows that the Fidelity is behind his deed. It protects against all possible undiscovered or even undiscoverable defects.

Mortgage Department
Loans Money on Real Estate

Includes the placing of loans on real estate and the sale of mortgages. Fidelity is always ready to make conservative loans on well-located real estate, and holds many first-class mortgages for sale, accompanied by guarantee of title, and making excellent investments for individuals, estates and saving institutions.

Safe Deposit Department
Secures Your Valuables

This department has made rapid strides, from 1,000 safe deposit boxes in 1901 to over 3,000 at the present date, showing conclusively that it has filled a needed place in the business requirements of New Jersey. Here can be stored your large, bulky valuables in burglar and fireproof storage vaults, while steel safe deposit boxes for securities and small valuables can be obtained from $5.00 up.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS OF SUCCESS

show how comprehensively the FIDELITY TRUST COMPANY enters into the business life of New Jersey. Its present financial condition is the best guarantee of dependability.

KEEPING NEGRO OUT OF HOME HE BOUGHT

With a negro clergyman unquestionably the legal owner of the handsome dwelling house at East Orange just sold by their mother, Floyd D. and Elmer V. Soverel, members of one of the original families of the Oranges, stand guard today and refuse to let the new purchaser take possession of his property. They assert that their mother, Mrs. Wallace M. Soverel, was tricked by a real estate dealer, and had no suspicion that the sale was to be made to a negro.

The rightful owner, the Rev. Solomon P. Hood, who is connected with the Board of Foreign Missions and formerly was pastor of a negro church in Orange, attempted to move in yesterday, and it was only then that the significance of the deal became known to Mrs. Soverel. She communicated with her sons and they took up the guard, summoning a policeman to help them out. Under representations made at the time by the Soverels the police induced the Hoods not to attempt to move in at that time, and the van carrying their household effects was hauled away again. Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. Soverel moved back into the house, and now the contest will be fought out in the courts.

The sale price as arranged between Mrs. Soverel and the agent was $10,000. Edward D. Berkholz, the agent, who purchased the property ostensibly for Benjamin F. Stasse, required a first payment of $100, it is said, and also demanded the posting of a forfeit of $500 in case the deal should not be consumated. The significance of the forfeit was not appreciated by the seller until she learned who in fact was the purchaser. No sooner had Stasse obtained the title than he transferred it to Hood. The house is in the centre of an undeveloped tract, and values will tumble if the negro holds possession.

WILL NOT QUALIFY AS EXECUTOR OF SUICIDE.

Rev. William A. Long, of Arlington, has declined to serve as executor of Captain A. P. S. Armstrong, who committed suicide two days ago at East Rutherford. Rev. Mr. Long went before Surrogate Earl L. D. Hester at Hackensack yesterday and turned over all the papers in connection with the case. He said that as no property could be found, there was nothing for an executor to do.

George H. Armstrong, adopted son of the dead man, was given possession of the home as caretaker by Charles Way, of New York, executor of the Collins estate. Young Armstrong will see that the wishes of his father are carried out today as to cremation and burial in Catskill, N. Y.

SAW TWO-TAILED CAT.

Lackawanna Employes at Montclair Have Story of Feline Phenomenon.

Employes of the Lackawanna Railroad terminal at Montclair, where abides the famous commuter cat that makes trips to and from New York, are excited over the presence of a new feline phenomenon.

The baggage master, John Colleary, and Policeman Dockery testify that a two-tailed kitten is a denizen of the terminal buildings. Both Colleary and Dockery made an effort to capture the two-tailed kitten, but the mother chased her small charge back into a lumber pile near the station and successfully covered their retreat.

PLAN TUNNEL CELEBRATION.

Jersey City Committee Names Men in Several Towns to Aid.

Jersey City is preparing to celebrate the opening of the McAdoo tunnels to Manhattan, which will be opened for traffic on or about July 1.

The Tunnel Finance Committee, appointed by Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, has appointed sub-committees as follows:

Lower Jersey City, William J. Field and William W. Cahill; Greenville, Benjamin L. Stowe and E. S. Pierson; Hudson City, G. H. Koven and J. H. Coyle; Bergen, Harry Louderbough, president of the Lincoln Trust Company, and George T. Smith.

Fate Cruel to Edmonds Family.

Blairstown, May 10.—John Edmonds and family, of Paulina, are afflicted more than their share, it would seem. Some time ago he lost one of his arms, and now he has frequent attacks of severe pains that the physicians say are either from appendicitis or gallstones and that he must undergo an operation. Mrs. Edmonds will be placed under an operation this week for the removal of a tumorous growth from her back, near one shoulder, and their nine-year-old daughter is nearly blind from an unknown cause. It came upon her suddenly a few months ago and her eyesight does not grow any better. Mr. Edmonds is now employed in running the pump for Hyde & MacFarlin, contractors of Section 5 on the Lackawanna cut-off.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Walker, of Somerset street, have returned home from a visit with Mrs. Walker's sister in Elizabeth.

John McKelvey, of New York, who has been visiting his cousin, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Grandview avenue, has returned home.

—Mr. and Mrs. Simon Mantz, of the borough, are occupying "Burnside Villa," Watchung, for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Serrell, of Mercer avenue, have returned from an extended trip through Yellowstone Park and the Pacific Coast.

Miss Lillian Nicholson, of Boston, has returned home after a visit with friends in the borough, her former place of residence.

Emil Dorflinger, of Providence, R. I., who has been visiting his brother, Ernest Dorflinger, of Clinton avenue, has returned home.

THE PARK CLUB BEATS Y. M. C. A. AGGREGATION

The newly organized Park Club nine defeated the Y. M. C. A. team by a score of 3 to 2 in a well-played game at Hope Common Saturday afternoon. The new team showed its strength both in the field and at the bat, and Van Zandt was effective in the box, fanning seven and keeping the six hits scattered.

CLINTON AVE. SHUT OUT BY THE M'NULTY BROS.

Because of a misplay in right field the McNulty Brothers nine, of New York, defeated the Clinton Avenue team at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, by a score of 2-0. The runs were made in the second inning. The contest was a pitchers' battle between Ortlieb and Morris; the Clinton Avenue twirler was touched for four hits and fanned eleven, while Morris allowed but three singles.

of the rulers of the Jews, don't turn your back on Jesus because of poor sketches of Him. Be like Simon, the Zealot, the revolutionist, with plans that may be impracticable, accept Christ as your leader for none else has ever proved capable of arousing this enthusiasm for humanity which alone can make Socialism possible. This passionate brother feeling even among agnostic, astheistic Socialists had its origin in the same source as among avowedly Christian Socialists; it sprang up spontaneously in an environment created by Christianity; Confucins and Buddha never inspired it; it is a constant product of heart contact with Christ. Follow Him; He only can lead us into this land of promise; He only can unify by a glorious realization the imperfect programs presented by the many who have sincerely "followed the gleam."

Two Arrests In Borough.

George Waldron was arrested in the borough Saturday night on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. When he appeared before Recorder Dolliver this morning he was fined $2. Jeremiah N. Boylan, of Regent street, was also arrested and brought before the Recorder on the charge of driving his horse on a sidewalk yesterday afternoon. After hearing the testimony sentence was suspended.

Testimonial Rehearsal.

Plans for the "Tom" Muir testimonial are progressing rapidly according to City Judge William N. Runyon, who originated the splendid idea. The first rehearsal for the monster minstrel show and entertainment to be given at the New Plainfield theatre on June 18, will take place tomorrow night at the Elks' lodge room. All of Tom's friends are invited to be present.

Libel Suit Still On.

The libel suit of Gen. Dennis F. Collins against the Elizabeth Journal is still on in the Union County Court today. This morning the defense rested and then a rebuttal was begun. It is believed that the case will go to the jury by tomorrow at the latest. Those who have watched the progress of this trial closely are of the opinion that there will be a disagreement.

Only Lost a Few Planks.

One of the early morning commuter trains to New York Saturday morning wrecked a wagon at Cranford, the horse escaping. The demolished wagon landed parallel with the train. Andrew McCardell was asked by Jabez Gilbert if the Republican party had gone to pieces. "No," replied Mr. McCardell, "we've only lost a few planks."

Rubbish Ablaze In Cellar.

Fire started among a lot of papers in the cellar of A. R. Parkhurst's home, 122 West Fifth street, yesterday afternoon at about 3:30 o'clock. An alarm was sounded from box 38 by David Parkhurst, and it was necessary to stretch a line of hose to kill the flames. The damage was trifling. The house is owned by J. P. Homan.

Excise License Held Up.

William Lee, who has conducted a licensed inn and tavern at Scotch Plains for many years, was allowed to withdraw his application for a renewal of his license in the Union County Court today. It is said that Mr. Lee may get his license at the October term of court.

Famous Composer Here.

"Ted" Snyder, the famous composer of popular songs, spent Saturday in town with friends, and in the evening he dropped into Proctor's theatre, where he played one of his own compositions, "Beautiful Eyes," while Mrs. E. N. Downs sang the words.

Dr. Bulkley to Speak.

Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley, of New York, will speak at the meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. He will tell of his recent trip to Siam.

Surprised Alexander Campbell, Sr.

A surprise party was tendered to Alexander Campbell, St., at his home on East Second street, Friday night, by the Plainfield Athletic Association. There was vocal and instrumental music, after which refreshments were served.

Occupied His Old Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. Edward G. Read, retired, of this city, preached in his old pulpit at the Second Reformed church, Somerville, yesterday, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, whose wife died suddenly on Wednesday.

PERSONAL.

Miss Viola Higgins, of Stone street, is visiting friends at Weston, Somerset county.

Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, of Washington avenue, is visiting relatives at Elmira, N. Y.

Clifford Ramsdale, of New York, has returned home after spending Sunday in town with friends.

Herman Berkham, of Watchung avenue, is detained at home by illness, having been stricken with paralysis.

Miss Katherine Embury, formerly of this city, but now of Summit, has been visiting Mrs. John Clapp, of the borough.

Jacob Blimm, Jr., of the New Madison, who has been detained at home by illness, has recovered and is able to go to business.

Miss Daisy M. Gilbert, of Garwood, formerly of Plainfield, spent Sunday at the home of Miss Edna Eckert, of Monroe avenue.

Dr. Frederick J. Hughes, of Somerset street, who is taking a rest from his work in the Adirondacks, is very much improved in health. He has gained ten pounds since leaving Plainfield. He has decided to remain in the mountains two or three months.

Mrs. C. M. Bennett and son, Ellsworth Bennett, of Vine street, will leave Saturday for Savannah, Ga., where they will reside in the future. Mr. Bennett has been in Savannah for over a year, being employed by the American Can Company, and his family will now join him.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis have removed from the New Madison to Summit avenue.

—Assistant Superintendent Merrill, of the New Jersey Central's Lehigh and Susquehanna Division, is the recipient of numerous congratulations, the reason being the arrival of a son and heir at his home in Mauch Chunk. Mr. Merrill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Merrill, of this city.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Miss Bertha Jones acted as organist at Hope chapel yesterday morning and evening, in place of Mrs. L. R. Howard, who was detained by illness.

Under the auspices of the Home department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, a sociable will be held in the lecture room Thursday night.

SWEARS OFF ON TIPPING.

John W. Gates Discovers That He Has Been "Stung."

John W. Gates has sworn off tipping hotel employes. He says, however, that he may give a tip to an extra good waiter on an extra good dinner. It happened this way:

A matter of a hundred or more letters and telegrams arrive every day at the Plaza for Mr. Gates. He has been in the habit of giving 25 cents per letter or telegram when delivered to his room or in any part of the hotel by a bellboy.

"I never gave much thought to what this habit cost me," said Mr. Gates, "but I guess I have been 'stung' to a very nice extent."

The bellboys at the Waldorf and Plaza, where Mr. Gates has made his headquarters, discovered this 25-cent habit. Perhaps several letters would arrive at one time. The bellboys would stamp them at intervals of one or two minutes apart, and a long line of boys would keep busy making their way to the room of Mr. Gates. Each arrival meant a new quarter.

That day Mr. Gates had an unusual number of telegrams. It so happened that one arriving at 11:55 did not reach him until 1:05. It was dated at noon.

Mr. Gates was just a bit provoked and started an investigation. Then he discovered that his letters and telegrams always arrived one at a time.

"Guess that is going some," said Mr. Gates—"going fast enough anyway to keep me from giving any more tips in a hotel. I go on record now and forever as swearing I will never give a tip in a hotel, no matter where I am."

Proved His Case.

Mr. Pinchpenny stepped aboard the car downtown and paid his fare but the conductor, who was very busy, forgot that he had received the nickel, and in a little while again held out his hand for the fare.

"I paid you a mile back," protested Mr. Pinchpenny.

"I think not," rejoined the conductor.

"I say I did."

"I say you didn't."

Mr. Pinchpenny hesitated a moment, and then said with the air of an injured citizen:

"Don't you remember a man that got on about five minutes ago and held on to his nickel as if he hated to give it up, and you almost had to pry it out of his hand?"

"Yes."

"Well, that was me," said Mr. Pinchpenny.

"All right," said the conductor with a grin, as he passed on.

A Truancy Hearing.

Peter Blume, of Race street, will have a hearing before Recorder Dolliver, tonight, on the charge of not sending his daughter to school.

SARCASTIC, BUT SENT MONEY.

How John Drew Replied to His Nephew's Touching Appeal for Financial Assistance.

Repeated efforts made by a seedy-looking individual a short time ago to "touch" a well-known actor, playing at one of the Broad street houses, recalled a lot of stories of how various actors have come to grief and how they appealed for assistance.

Some stories were serious, some funny, and among the latter was a yarn concerning Jack Barrymore and his uncle, John Drew. It was a good deal like adding insult to injury, but Jack got the money, anyway.

He was returning from a tour of Australia and stopped in San Francisco just in time to meet the earthquake. Jack lost everything but his clothes, and just as soon as he could get to a place where he could write a letter he directed one to John Drew, making it rather strong.

"Dear uncle," he wrote, "I am up against it in this fair city, and anything you can send me will be greatly appreciated. I was asleep when the earthquake arrived, and was thrown clear across the room into a bathtub filled with water. The chock aroused me, and, after dodging a few falling walls, I managed to reach the street, still clad in my pajamas. When I reached the street I was met by two soldiers, who immediately put me to work clearing the debris. You can see that I am up against it, and I shall await an early reply."

When Barrymore received his uncle's reply, he found it to be both short and sweet. It ran as follows: "Dear Jack: I always knew it would take an unnatural convulsion of the earth to make you take a bath, and I was also sure that it would take the United States army to put you to work." But the letter contained a money order.—Philadelphia Times.

He Was Under Oath.

The late Prof. Rowland of Johns Hopkins university was the most eminent physicist since the days of Joseph Henry. Among his notable achievements in the realm of pure science was the calculation of the mechanical equivalent of heat and the use of gratings in spectrum analysis, for which purpose he devised a machine that could cut 40,000 lines to the inch on a plate of polished metal. In the practical application of his knowledge he was noted as the inventor of the multiplex telegraph apparatus.

Some years ago, testifying in a case involving the Cararact Power Company, in answer to a question on cross-examination as to who, in his opinion, was the greatest American scientist, he replied: "I am."

After leaving the courtroom one of the lawyers ventured to criticise this answer for its effect upon the jury, whereupon Rowland exclaimed:

"Well, what else could I say? Wasn't I under oath?"

Poetic Justice.

A man whose soul has been tortured frequently by the remarks of his wife, who takes a fiendish delight in setting a price on the handsome clothes worn by other women, one day found sweet comfort in the incautious comment of a woman in a crowded car.

"Oh, yes," said the observing other woman, "the hat looks well enough, but it is cheap. It couldn't have cost a cent more than six dollars."

Thereupon said the man to his wife: "Why do you always pick out the most expensive clothes for especial notice? Why don't you look at something cheap once in a while? There are cheap things worn. There is a hat in this very car that cost only six dollars. The woman just behind us pointed it out a minute ago."

"Well," said his wife, "you are the last person on earth who ought to feel proud of it. It was me she was talking about."

Through with Chance.

They were seated on separate chairs, the young woman cheerful and smiling, the young man distrait and apparently struggling under some bitter disappointment—some well-nigh crushing blow from the pile-driver of Fate.

"So you care nothing for me and positively decline my offer, eh?" he hoarsely demanded, bending forward and staring moodily at the floor.

"Yes," was the frigid reply. "I am sorry for you, but you have utterly misconstrued my feelings. I can never be your wife."

"Stung again!" bitterly remarked the young man as soon as he could command his voice. "I was just foolish enough to bet Hank Perkins a week's salary that you would accept me, but I've got the throw-down, as usual, and am out 15 plunks in the bargain."

Aged British Statesman.

Lord Ripon, at the age of 81, recently resigned from the British cabinet. The long span of his political life is suggested by the fact that he also sat in Palmerton's cabinet. Entering parliament in 1852, he has since filled several of the great offices, having been at the head of the war office, the India office, the admiralty, besides serving five years as Viceroy of India. And in old age he has preserved not only vigor and sagacity, but an alert hopefulness of spirit.

An Alluring Prospect.

"So you think you would like to journey in Africa?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "I fancy it would be a sweet relief to travel in a country where there are no overworked railway ticket sellers, nor Pullman porters, nor hotel clerks, nor head waiters."

mility: I make it a life work to hide the fact that I was baptized Reginald."

"I've been expecting you, Mr. Gillespie, and now I want you to come over to my house and give an account of yourself. I will take charge of this man, Andy. I promise that he shan't set foot here again. And, Andy, you need mention this affair to no one."

"Very good, sir."

He touched his hat respectfully.

"I have business with this person. Say nothing to the ladies at St. Agatha's about him."

He saluted and departed; and with Gillespie walking beside me I started for the boat-landing.

He had wrapped a handkerchief about one arm and I gave him my own for the other. His right arm was bleeding freely below the elbow and I tied it up for him.

"That jump deserved better luck," I volunteered, as he accepted my aid in silence.

"I'm proud to have you like it. Will you kindly tell me who the devil you are?"

"My name is Donovan."

"I don't wholly care for it," he observed, mournfully. "Think it over and see if you can't do better. I'm not sure that I'm going to grow fond of you. What's your business with me, anyhow?"

"My business, Mr. Gillespie, is to see that you leave this lake by the first and fastest train."

"Is it possible?" he drawled, mockingly.

"More than that," I replied in his own key; "it is decidedly probable."

"Meanwhile, it would be diverting to know where you're taking me. I thought the other chap was the constable."

"I'm taking you to the house of a friend where I'm visiting. I'm going to row you in your boat. It's only a short distance; and when we get there I shall have something to say to you."

He made no reply, but got into the boat without ado. I turned over in my mind the few items of information that I had gained from Miss Pat and her niece touching the young man who was now my prisoner, and found that I knew little enough about him. He was the unwelcome and annoying suitor of Miss Helen Holbrook, and I had caught him prowling about St. Agatha's in a manner that was indefensible.

He sat huddled in the stern, nursing his swathed arms on his knees and whistling dolefully. The lake was a broad pool of silver. Save for the soft splash of Ijima's paddle behind me and the slight wash of water on the near shore, silence possessed the world. Gillespie looked about with some curiosity, but said nothing, and when I drove the boat to the Glenarm landing he crawled out and followed me through the wood without a word.

I flashed on the lights in the library and after a short inspection of his wounds we went to my room and found sponges, plasters and ointments in the family medicine chest and cared for his injuries.

"There's no honor in tumbling into a greenhouse, but such is R. Gillespie's luck. My shins look like scarlet fever, and without sound legs a man's better dead."

"Your legs seem to have got you into trouble; don't mourn the loss of them!" And I twisted a bandage under his left knee-cap where the glass had cut savagely.

"It's my poor wits, if we must fix the blame. It's an awful thing, sir, to be born with weak intellectuals. As man's legs carry him on orders from his head, there lies the seat of the difficulty. A weak mind, obedient legs, and there you go, plump into the bosom of a blooming asparagus bed, and the enemy lays violent hands on you. If you put any more of that stingy pudding on that cut I shall undoubtedly hit you, Mr. Donovan. Ah, thank you, thank you so much!"

As I finished with the vaseline he lay back on the couch and sighed deeply and I rose and sent Ijima away with the basin and towels.

"Will you drink? There are 12 kinds of whisky—"

"My dear Mr. Donovan, the thought of strong drink saddens me. Such poor wits as mine are not helped by alcoholic stimulants. I was drunk once—beautifully, marvelously, nobly drunk, so that antiquity came up to date with the thud of a motor car hitting an orphan asylum; and I saw Julius Caesar driving a chariot up Fifth avenue and Cromwell poised on one foot on the shorter spire of St. Patrick's cathedral. Are you aware, my dear sir, that one of those spires is shorter than the other?"

"I certainly am not," I replied, bluntly, wondering what species of madman I had on my hands.

"It's a fact, confided to me by a prominent engineer of New York, who has studied those spires daily since they were put up. He told me that when he had surrounded five highballs the north spire was higher; but that the sixth tumblerful always raised the south spire about 11 feet above it. Now, wouldn't that doddle you?"

"It would, Mr. Gillespie; but may I ask you to cut out this rot—"

"My dear Mr. Donovan, it's indelicate of you to speak of cutting anything—and me with my legs. But I'm at your service. You have tended my grievous wounds like a gentleman and now do you wish me to unfold my past, present and future?"

"I want you to get out of this and be quick about it. Your biography doesn't amuse me; I caught you prowling disgracefully about St. Agatha's. Two ladies are domiciled there who came here to escape your annoying attentions. Those ladies were put in my charge by an old friend, and I don't propose to stand any nonsense from you, Mr. Gillespie. You seem to be at least half sane—"

Reginald Gillespie raised himself on the couch and grinned joyously.

"Thank you—thank you for that word! That's just twice as high as anybody ever rated me before."

"I was trying to be generous," I said. "There's a point at which I begin to be bored, and when that's reached I'm likely to grow quarrelsome. Are there any moments of the day or night when you are less a fool than others?"

"Well, Donovan, I've often speculated about that, and my conclusion is that my mind is at its best when I'm asleep and enjoying a nightmare. Then, I have sometimes thought, my intellectual parts are most intelligently employed."

"I may well believe you," I declared with asperity. "Now I hope I can pound it into you in some way that your presence in this neighborhood is offensive—to me—personally."

He stared at the ceiling, silent, imperturbable.

"And I'm going to give you safe conduct through the lines—or if necessary I'll buy your ticket and start you for New York. And if there's an atom of honor in you, you'll go peaceably and not publish the fact that you know the whereabouts of these ladies."

He reflected gravely for a moment.

"I think," he said, "that on the whole that's a fair proposition. But you seem to have the impression that I wish to annoy these ladies."

"You don't for a moment imagine that you are likely to entertain them, do you? You haven't got the idea that you are necessary to their happiness, have you?"

He raised himself on his elbow with some difficulty; flinched as he tried to make himself comfortable and began:

"The trouble with Miss Pat is—"

"There is no trouble with Miss Pat," I snapped.

"The trouble between Miss Pat and me is the same old trouble of the buttons," he remarked, dolorously.

"Buttons, you idiot?"

"Quite so. Buttons, just plain, every-day buttons; buttons for buttoning purposes."

The fellow was undoubtedly mad. I looked about for a weapon; but he went on gravely:

"What does the name Gillespie mean? Of what is it the sign and symbol wherever man hides his nakedness? Button, button, who'll buy my buttons? It can't be possible that you never heard of the Gillespie buttons? Where have you lived, my dear sir?"

"Will you please stop talking rot and explain what you want here?" I demanded, with growing heat.

"That, my dear sir, is exactly what I'm doing. I'm a suitor for the hand of Miss Patricia's niece. Miss Patricia scorns me; she says I'm a mere child of the Philistine rich and declines an alliance without thanks, if you must know the truth. And it's all on account of the fact, shameful enough, I admit, that my father died and left me a large and prosperous button factory."

"Why don't you give the infernal thing away—sell it out to a trust—"

"Ah! ah!"—and he raised himself again and pointed a bandaged hand at me. "I see that you are a man of penetration! You have a keen notion of business! You anticipate me! I did sell the infernal thing to a trust, but there was no shaking it! They made me president of the combination, and I control more buttons than any other living man! My dear sir, I dictate the button prices of the world. I can tell you to a nicety how many buttons are swallowed annually by the babies of the universe. But I hope, sir, that I use my power wisely and without oppressing the people."

Gillespie lay on his back, wrapped in my dressing-gown, his knees raised, his bandaged arms folded across his chest. Since bringing him into the house I had studied him carefully and, I must confess, with increasing mystification. He was splendidly put up, the best-muscled man I had ever seen who was not a professional athlete. His forearms and clean-shaven face were brown from prolonged tanning by the sun, but otherwise his skin was the pink and white of a healthy baby. His short light hair was combed smoothly away from a broad forehead; his blue eyes were perfectly steady—they even invited and held scrutiny; when he was not speaking he closed his lips tightly.

I half believed the fellow to be amusing himself at my expense; but he met my eyes calmly. If I had not caught a lunatic I had certainly captured an odd specimen of humanity. He was the picture of wholesome living and sound health; but he talked like a fool. The idea of a young woman like Helen Holbrook giving two thoughts to a silly youngster like this was preposterous, and my heart hardened against him.

"You are flippant, Mr. Gillespie, and my errand with you is serious. There are places in this house where I could lock you up and you would never see your button factory again. You seem to have had some education—"

"The word does me great honor, Donovan. They chucked me from Yale in my junior year. Why, you may ask? Well, it happened this way: You know Rooney, the Bellefontaine Cyclone? He struck New Haven with a vaudeville outfit, giving exhibitions, poking the bag and that sort of fake. At every town they invited the local sports to dig up their brightest amateur middle-weight and put him against the Cyclone for five rounds. I brushed my hair the wrong way for a disguise and went against him."

"And got smashed for your trouble, I hope," I interrupted.

"No. The boys in the gallery cheered so that they fussed him, and he thought I was fruit. We shook hands, and he turned his head to snarl at the applause, and, seeing an opening, I smashed him a hot clip in the chin, and he tumbled backward and broke the ring rope. I vaulted the orchestra and bolted, and when the boys finally found me I was over near Waterbury under a barn. Eli wouldn't stand for it, and back I went to the button factory; and here I am, sir, by the grace of God, an ignorant man."

"How did you find your way here, Gillespie?" I demanded.

"I suppose I ought to explain that," he replied. I waited while he reflected for a moment. He seemed to be quite serious, and his brows wrinkled as he pondered.

"I guessed it about half and for the rest, I followed the heaven-kissing stack of trunks."

He glanced at me quickly, as though anxious to see how I received his words.

"Have you seen anything of Henry Holbrook in your travels? Be careful now; I want the truth."

"I certainly have not. I hope you don't think—" Gillespie hesitated.

"It's not a matter for thinking or guessing; I've got to know."

"On my honor I have not seen him, and I have no idea where he is."

I had thrown myself into a chair beside the couch and lighted my pipe. My captive troubled me. It seemed odd that he had found the abiding-place of the two women; and if he had succeeded so quickly, why might not Henry Holbrook have equal luck?

"You probably know this troublesome brother well," I ventured.

"Yes; as well as a man of my age can know an older man. My father's place at Stamford adjoined the Holbrook estate. Henry and Arthur Holbrook married sisters; both women died long ago, I believe; but the brothers had a business row and went to smash. Arthur embezzled, forged, and so on, and took to the altitudinous timber, and Henry has been busy ever since trying to pluck his sister. He's wild on the subject of his wrongs—ruined by his own brother, deprived of his inheritance by his sister and abandoned by his only child. There wasn't much to Arthur Holbrook; Henry was the genius, but after the bank went to the bad he sought the consolations of rum. He and Henry married the Hartridge twins who were the reigning Baltimore belles in the early '80's—so runneth the chronicle. But I gossip, my dear, sir; I gossip, which is against my principles. Even the humble button king of Strawberry Hill must draw the line."

"I Suppose I Ought to Explain That."

When Ijima brought in a plate of sandwiches he took one gingerly in his swathed hand, regarded it with cool inquiry, and as he munched it, remarked upon sandwiches in general as though they were botanical specimens that were usually discussed and analyzed in a scientific spirit.

"The sandwich," he began, "not unhappily expresses one of the saddest traits of our American life. I need hardly refer to our deplorable national habit of hiding our shame under a blithe and misleading exterior. Chicken sandwiches in some parts of the world are rather coarsely marked, for purposes of indentification, with pin-feathers. You may covet no nobler fame than that of creator of the Flying Sandwich of Annandale. Yet the feathered sandwich, though more picturesque, points rather too directly to the strutting lords of the barnyard. A sandwich that is decorated like a fall bonnet, that suggests, we will say, the milliner's window—or the plumed knights of sounding war—"

With a little sigh, a slow relaxation of muscles, Mr. Gillespie slept. I locked the doors, put out the lights, and tumbled into my own bed as the chapel clock chimed two.

In the disturbed affairs of the night the blinds had not been drawn, and I woke to find the room flooded with light and my prisoner gone. The doors were locked as I had left them. Mr. Gillespie had departed by the window, dropping from a little balcony to the terrace beneath. I rang for Ijima and sent him to the pier; and before I had finished shaving the boy was back, and reported Gillespie's boat still at the pier, but one of the canoes missing. It was clear that in the sorry plight of his arms Gillespie had preferred paddling to rowing. Beneath my watch on the writing table I found a sheet of note-paper on which was scrawled:

Dear Old Man: I am having one of those nightmares I mentioned in our delightful conversation. I feel that I am about to walk in my sleep. As my flannels are a trifle bluggy, pardon loss of your dressing-gown. Yours, R. G.

P. S.—I am willing to pay for the glass and medical attention; but I want a rebate for that third sandwich. It really tickled too harshly as it went down. Very likely this accounts for my somnambulism. G.

When I had dressed and had my coffee I locked my old portfolio and tossed it into the bottom of my trunk. Something told me that for a while, at least, I should have other occupation that contributing to the literature of Russian geography.

BASKING RIDGE TO HAVE A FIRE ALARM SYSTEM.

Basking Ridge, May 10.—As soon as the necessary right of way privilege can be obtained, work will be begun for the installation of a fire alarm system, the inventor of which is John Kelly, a member of the local fire company. Kelly, after months of work in a laboratory at his home, has perfected an arrangement whereby this place will be afforded alarm signals, which it is expected will be as beneficial as the standard systems in vogue in large cities.

Fire headquarters will be connected with the home of each member of the fire company and with the residences of as many citizens as wish to take advantage of the signal alarm. Kelly has so planned his system that while citizens may send in alarms to fire headquarters and to the firemen's homes, an alarm turned in from other points will not sound in the residences. There are to be signal boxes placed in different sections of the town. The saving in time of the firemen getting to a blaze, it is pointed out, will more than pay for the expense of installing the system. The cost of the system will be at the rate of about $1,300 a mile and an effort is to be made to string the necessary wires on poles that are already in position and the property of the electric light company.

ERIE SHOP FOR PATERSON.

Railroad to Buy Cooke Works from American Locomotive Company.

When the Erie railroad electrifies its main line between Paterson and Suffern, Paterson will be made a terminal. With this object in view the Erie has practically closed negotiations with the American Locomotive Company for the purchase of the Cooke works in Paterson. The plant has been closed during the depression in the locomitive building industry.

It is planned by the Erie to abandon its old repair shops in Jersey City and use the Cooke plant both as a repair shop and as an electric power house for the road.

Claims Part of Kinzey Estate.

Rahway, May 10—A woman claiming to be Miss H. Frances Kinzey, of New York, grand-daughter of Judge Kinzey, who died at his country seat, Kinzey Corners, adjacent to Rahway, nearly one hundred years ago, visited this place Thursday. The object of her visit here, the first in her life of seventy-five years, was to obtain a portion of the original 1,200-acre tract of land at Kinzey Corners, which, she says, belongs to her by reason of her being the only living representative of Judge Kinzey and of the Kinzey branch at Burlington. She claims that the property was an original grant to the owners for some great act of bravery or patriotism about three centuries ago. The property seeker interviewed several lawyers and promised to come again next week.

800 PRESBYTERIANS TO BE IN ASSEMBLY

Presbyterians all over the country have their eyes turned toward Denver, Col., where will be held the one hundred and twenty-first General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, beginning Thursday, May 20, and continuing a week or more. The business sessions will be held in the First Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Dr. Robert F. Cole, a former moderator of the assembly, is pastor, and the popular meetings each evening in an auditorium. The eight hundred clergymen and elders from all parts of the country who will be commissioners will be the guests of the Synod of Colorado, presbyteries of the State and several civic organizations.

This is the first time the assembly ever met in Denver, and in connection with the great gathering the semi-centenial of Presbyterianism in the West will be celebrated. Fifty years ago the first home mission effort was made in Colorado. Now, there are more than one thousand Presbyterian churches, with one hundred thousand members; seven synods and forty presbyteries among the Rockies and beyound to the coast.

The matter which is interesting the whole church is who will be the next moderator. The present incumbent is the Rev. Dr. Baxter P. Fullerton, of Nashville and Chicago. Never have more candidates appeared for this highest position which the Church has to give.

Men who have looked into the matter, are laughing at a story widely reported in the press that John Marshall Harlan, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court and an elder in a Presbyterian church in Washington, is a candidate and will be there in person to push his candidacy. Provided a layman was eligible for the office, Mr. Harlan could not be elected because he was not chosen a commissioner from the Presbytery of Washington. Those who have studied up the church government find that no layman can be a moderator.

No layman ever has been made moderator. The vice-moderator has often been a layman. The late Darwin R. James held this position when he died.

Candidates whose names have been widely mentioned are the Rev. Dr. Robert MacKenzie, retiring pastor of the Rutgers church, this city, and president elect of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, of the Third church, Pittsburg; the Rev. Dr. James M. Barkley, of the Forest Avenue church, Detroit; the Rev. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston, of Colorado Springs, and the Rev. Dr. Edgar P. Hill, of McCormack Theological Seminary, Chicago. The most prominent layman who is a commissioner is Rear Admiral Watson, of the Louisville Presbytery.

One of the important questions to come up will be that of the meeting only every four years, as does the Methodist Episcopal church, or once in three years, as does the Protestant Episcopal church, instead of each year. The Presbytery of West Jersey has sent up an overture asking for a meeting every three years. Advocates of this plan argue that thereby about $120,000 will be saved.

The Rev. Dr. William Henry Roberts, of Philadelphia, long stated clerk of the General Assembly, a former moderator, in an interview this week with a reporter said:

"This would be a failure both as to the letter and the spirit of Presbyterian government. A triennial assembly means the loss of stimulus for all church work for three years. The Presbyterian church does not have a board or a house of bishops that attends to all the administration between national assemblies. The Presbyterian General Assembly will cost about $60,000. The Methodist Board of Bishops last year cost the church $140,000. The cheapest governed body of the kind in the world is the Presbyterian church. The assembly, synods and presbyteries, including four millions of people, last year cost only $137,000."

Another question to come up will be the reduction of the size of the assembly. Since the obsorption of the Cumberland Assembly the body has become too large, many think. At present each presbytery is allowed a commissioner, clerical and lay, for every twenty-four ministers and moiety thereof. Now there is a proposition to make the representation from synods rather than presbyteries, and allow one delegate for every 10,000 communicants. A commission will ask for $3,000,000 for a uniform budget for benevolent and mission boards.

FIND HIDDEN GOLD.

Two men working in a clay pit in the Beattie brick yard at Paterson, that had not been pumped out in seventeen years, overturned an old stump and found a quantity of gold coins among the roots. The coins were French and American pieces. The American pieces were of the denomination of $5, $10 and $20. The total value of the gold pieces is believed to be about $300.

Bert Beattie, owner of the brickyard, bought one of the old coins for $20 and the workmen kept the rest.

Union County Court of Common Pleas.

Notice of Hearing Objections to Assessments For Street Improvements in the City of Plainfield.

Thomas J. Hughes, Harry B. MacDonald and Andrew J. Gavett, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas, by order entered on the ninth day of December, 1908, to estimate and assess benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinances of said city specified in said order, (said ordinances being also hereinafter specified) and the character of the work and improvements for which said assessments have been made and a description of the sections of the particular streets and avenues thereof which are included in said assessment, being as follows: viz.: (1) The paving with permanent and durable vitrified brick pavement of:

East and West Front Streets, respectively, from the westerly side line of Madison Avenue to the easterly side line of Watchung Avenue;

Somerset Street, from the northerly side line of Front Street to the bridge over Green Brook;

Watchung Avenue, from the southerly side line of East Front Street to the southerly side line of East Fourth Street, exclusive of the portion of said Watchung Avenue already provided with brick pavement;

Park Avenue, from the southerly side line of Front Street to the southerly side line of Fourth Street;

East Fourth Street, from the westerly side line of Sycamore Street to the easterly side line thereof;

Arlington Avenue, from the northerly side line of West Seventh Street to the southerly side line thereof; also from the northerly side line of West Eighth Street to the southerly side line thereof; and (2) the macadamizing with durable macadam pavement of:

North Avenue, from the northeasterly curb line of Berckman Street to the southwesterly curb line of Terrill Road;

Leland Avenue, from the present macadam on East Front Street to the present macadam on South Avenue;

Netherwood Avenue, from the present macadam on East Front Street to the northwesterly curb line of East Second Street;

Monroe Avenue, from the present macadam on West Seventh Street to the present macadam on West Eighth Street;

West Eighth Street, from the present macadam on Monroe Avenue to the City Line;

West Third Street, from the present macadam at Monroe Avenue to the present macadam at Clinton Avenue;

Clinton Avenue, from the present macadam at West Third Street to the City Line;

under the ordinances of said City entitled: "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," approved July 1, 1907, "An Ordinance to amend an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits,' adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907 and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907," approved July 13, 1908, and "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable Macadam Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council May 4, 1908; re-adopted by the Common Council June 8, 1908, notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor, which ordinances were adopted under and by virtue of the act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to authorize the improvements of streets and highways in cities of this State and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same," approved June 13, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the clerk of said court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by surveys and maps prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, respectively, the total cost of the whole work upon each of the sections of said streets or avenues improved as aforesaid, under the aforesaid ordinances; the portions assessed upon the City at large, and the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner—for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate for the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax, and the other matters required by said acts of the Legislature, as by reference to said report and maps will more fully and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given, that the said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the twelfth day of May, 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the Court can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

JAMES C. CALVERT,
Clerk of the Union County Court of Common Pleas.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Daniel H. Manning, complainant, and Elizabeth Meeker et al., defendants. Fl. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the southeasterly side line of Second street, now called East Second street, and a corner of lot No. 9, distant in a northeasterly course two hundred and five-tenths (200.5) feet from the line of Marsh's land; thence running along the line of East Second street in a northeasterly course forty-nine (49) feet to a stake and corner of lot number seven (7); thence running along the line of that lot in a southeasterly course one hundred and thirty-nine and forty-five one-hundredths (139.45) feet to a stake and corner of lot No. two (2); thence running in a southwesterly course along the line of lot number two (2) forty-nine (49) feet to a stake and corner of lot No. nine (9); thence running in a northwesterly course along the line of that lot one hundred and thirty-nine (139) feet, more or less, to the place of beginning. Being known and designated as lot No. eight (8), on a "Map of property of Magie," made in 1872.

Being a part of the premises conveyed to the party of the first part by deed of Vincent W. Nash, executor, dated October 14, 1895, recorded in book 298 of deeds for Union county, pages 230, etc.

SHE WAS IN DOUBT.

She—You will love me always?

He—Passionately, my darling.

She—And you will never cease to love me?

He—Never, my darling.

She—And you will save your money?

He—Every penny.

She—And you will never speak harshly to me?

He—Never.

She—And you will give up all your bad habits?

He—Every one of them.

She—And you will get along with mamma?

He—Yes.

She—And papa?

He—Yes.

She—And you will always do just what mamma wants you to do?

He—Yes.

She—And just what papa wants you to do?

He—Yes?

She—And just what I want you to do?

He—Of course.

She—Well, I will be yours; but I fear I am making an awful mistake.

THEIR RESERVATION.

Bronson—I tell you, a bald head is expensive.

Woodson—In what way?

Bronson—In many ways. For instance, when I used to go to the theater I could sit anywhere. Now I have to sit in the front row or attract attention.

Love's Fervor.

He held her close unto his heart
Upon the cold, bleak thoroughfare,
Nor felt the wind's relentless dart,
For whirling snow seemed not to care.
The children did not stop to play,
But, shiv'ring, home from school they ran;
While still in scanty, gay array
Stood the poster girl and the poster man.

—Jane O'Ryan, in New York Herald.

Domestic Economy.

Daughter—Pa, you remember you told me to save all the pieces of string from store packages and wind them into a ball.

Economical Pa—Yes, my dear. Did you?

Daughter—Every bit, and it makes the cutest little ball you ever saw. Now I'm going to knit a handy little bag to put it in. Give me a dollar and fifty cents for zephyr, please.—New York Weekly.

Prodigality.

The flowers that were born to blush unseen became tired, all at once, of wasting their sweetness on the desert air.

"We'll have to stop it," they sighed. "We are not conserving our natural resources!"

As for the desert air, lo, what did it care!—Chicago Tribune.

His Way.

Agent—Let me sell you one of these speedometers.

Chauffeur—What for?

Agent—To show how fast you're driving.

Chauffeur—Don't need it. The police can always tell me that.—Cleveland Leader.

In the Wrong Place.

"Do you administer free gas here?" asked the stranger as he entered the dental parlor.

"No, sir," answered the attendant. "You are in the wrong place. The barber shop is next door."—Chicago Daily News.

New Burglar-Alarm.

Wife (suddenly awakening)—Hark! Horrors! What's the matter? Fido is 'way downstairs, yelping as if he were hurt. What's happened to the little dear?

Husband—I threw him at a burglar.—New York Weekly.

Seemed Reasonable.

First Citizen (excitedly)—Can you tell me where the fire is?

TO MARK THEIR GRAVES

Freeholders to Place Stones Over Fallen Soldiers Resting Places.

MANY OF THEM AT HILLSIDE.

To General J. Madison Drake Is Due Credit for the Plan of the County Board.

The Board of Freeholders of Union county ordered the erection of monuments over the graves of the Spanish and Civil Wars, and the work will be begun at once. Since General J. Madison Drake assumed the position of Union county Supervisor of Soldiers' Monuments, he has labored asiduously to this end, and it was upon his recommendation that the board decided to mark the soldiers' resting places.

Those to be erected in Hillside cemetery, this city, are as follows: George N. Cortright, corporal, Company D, Third New Jersey Volunteers; John W. Van Horn, Company B, Sixth New Jersey Volunteers; Henry L. Mollison, Company I, Eleventh New Jersey Volunteers; Theodore Rutan, Company E, Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteers; Jacob M. Jennings, Company H, Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteers; Samuel Moore, Company I, Thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers; Tunis J. Carey, Company A, Thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers; John Bauman, Company F, Thirty-ninth New Jersey Volunteers; Joseph Duryee, Twenty-fourth New York Artillery; William Fechner, Company D, First New York Volunteer Engineers; Prime Carman Company, Forty-first U. S. Volunteer Infantry (colored); Sampel F. Randolph, seaman, U. S. Navy; Martin Herling, Company A, Forty-first U. S. Volunteer Infantry (colored); Robert S. Mundy, Company K, Forty-seventh N. Y. Volunteers.

Will Organize a Veterans' Camp.

Veterans of the Spanish-American War and Philippine Insurrection, Army or Navy, residing in Plainfield and vicinity are requested to attend a meeting to be held in the City National Bank building, top floor, Thursday night, for the purpose of forming a camp. There seems to be no doubt but that a strong organization can be formed for there are a great many in and near Plainfield who are entitled to membership. The call for the meeting is issued by Dr. Daniel C. Main, Charles Flynn, Daniel Shay, Charles Peterson, Augustus Broshart and William R. Townsend.

Thurlow Still In Charge.

The report that Assistant Health Officer John O'Brien, of the Plainfield Board of Health, has been appointed health officer to succeed Leon Thurlow, was denied today by a member of the Board. Mr. Thurlow, who has taken a position in New York, is still acting as health officer. Mr. O'Brien, who resigned his office as health inspector of North Plainfield a short time ago, will be continued as assistant under Mr. Thurlow, who will hold the position indefinitely.

Addresses Men's Club.

H. W. Herrman gave a talk on "The Work of a Business Doctor" before the Men's Club of the First Baptist church last night. During the evening these officers were elected: President, B. K. Phelps; vice-president, Arthur Stout; second vice-president, Edson Martin; secretary, J. H. Crane; treasurer, R. W. Barnes. At the close of Mr. Herrman's address, E. C. Martin sang a number of old-time songs, after which refreshments were served.

On Public Playgrounds.

"Public Playgrounds for Our Children" will be the subject for discussion at a union meeting of the Parent-Teacher Associations, to be held in the assembly room of the Franklin school on next Tuesday night. Addresses will be made by Frank H. Summer, formerly sheriff of Essex county, and William J. McKiernan, Newark's playground commissioner. Stereopticon slides will be used to illustrate the address.

Held a Successful Cake Sale.

Henry Seader's Sunday-school class of young women held a successful cake sale in the lecture room of the church Saturday afternoon. Between $11 and $12 was realized and this sum will be used to assist in paying the cost for re-graining the front doors of the church.

John Leary Improving.

John Leary, the tramp, who was struck by a freight train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at South Plainfield, last week, resulting in the loss of his right arm, was able to sit up at the hospital today, and will be able to leave the institution soon.

BENDER'S HORSE MAY YET BE ABLE TO WALK

Possibly Moses Bender will make money on that horse trade after all. Dr. Herbert said in court today that the $22.50 animal will be all right if allowed to rest for awhile and be kept off the hard pavements. Bender said that he will take good care of it and try to sell it to a farmer.

Bender's misunderstanding of a remark made just as he was leaving the court-room to get the animal from the pound almost caused him to be utterly discouraged and to decide to retire from the business of horsedealer. Chief Kiely remarked that he thought the horse ought to be shod. "Well, Chief, shoot him then, if you want to," blurted out Bender, who misunderstood the word. "The Judge says he's all right, but if you say not, why go ahead and shoot him." Bender was so wrought up about the remark that it took several minutes to explain that the Chief's suggestion was only to save life, not destroy it. Bender had to pay for the city's keep of the animal in the pound at the rate of a dollar a day.

W. T. CARLETON RECITAL AT AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

The song recital by W. T. Carleton, in aid of the Kings' Daughters' Baby Camp, to be given tonight at the Hartridge Auditorium, promises to be a great success and this worthy charity will doubtless reap a substantial financial benefit, for the sale of tickets has been such as to warrant the expectation of a large audience. The list of patronesses includes Mrs. Frederic W. Butler, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. B. van D. Hedges, Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, Mrs. Abraham G. Hooley, Mrs. Louis K. Hyde, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Frederic G. Mead, Mrs. John P. Stevens, Mrs. John Sheridan Zelie, and Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney has undertaken the office of treasurer. Those who have not already secured tickets can obtain them at the Hartridge Auditorium this evening. The recital will commence promptly at 8:15.

MUST HUNT FOR BEER AFTER JULY FOURTH

The discomforts of hot weather will be increased this summer by an added obstacle to the quenching of a sever thirst. By July 4 next there will have been removed from the exterior of every saloon, restaurant hotel in New Jersey the hundreds of dollars worth of signs advertising various makes of beer and ale and brands of whiskey and other liquors, in compliance with a law passed at the recent session of the New Jersey Legislature and signed by Governor Fort.

It provides that all signs advertising breweries and wholesale liquor dealers or manufacturers must be removed from the outside of the establishments of retail dealers in intoxicating beverages by July 4. Failure to do so will result in criminal action against the violator of the law.

In Trenton while the bill was under consideration by the Legislature it was freely said that the brewers were behind the bill. The retail liquor interests were widely opposed to it, but no serious clash resulted.

Churchmen's Summer Festival.

Under the auspices of the Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, a summer festival will be held on the church grounds, Saturday, June 19. An entertainment will also be held in the parish house and among those who will appear will be City Judge W. N. Runyon, bass; Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne, contralto; Bayard Hawthorne, tenor; Prof. H. Warren Rankin, prestidigitateur; Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan and his orchestra will assist. The grounds will be illuminated with electric lights and Chinese lanterns. The committee in charge comprises J. M. Hull, chairman; Juan A. Babcock, J. S. Forster, L. M. Leek, Robert Larmour, William J. Ochiltree, Charles Graves, John Kriney and Peter Mauger, Jr.

Y. M. C. A. Summer Camp.

Fred S. Coombs, Paul Manning, Delmore Weinberger, Robert Gavett, Gerald Linke and Joseph Sattels will be among the boys from the local Y. M. C. A. to go to Camp Wanayanga Lake, N. Y., from July 15 to 29. The seventh boy will be sent by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the association, while the eighth boy will be chosen by J. Harry Manning and C. William Bingaman.

CRANFORD MAN MISSING

Mysteriously Disappears in Detroit and Friends Hunt for Him.

HAS BEEN ABSENT TWO WEEKS.

Started For Mackinac—Wife Believes Him Ill In Some Hospital.

The police of Cranford yesterday sent to many cities descriptions of Frank S. Curtis, for some time a resident of that place, and who has mysteriously disappeared. He was last seen at Detroit, Mich., on April 28, but since then not a trace of him has been found. His wife, who lives at 48 Burnside avenue, Cranford, got a letter from him bearing that date and in it he said he was suffering with sever pains in his head. It is her belief that he is unconscious and unknown in some hospital.

Curtis, who was a civil engineer, went to Cranford from New York some months ago, and but little is known of him there, as most of his time was spent away from home on engineering work. On April 26 he attended a dinner at the Transportation Club, New York, and next morning, with Frank Grannis, an engineer, left the city, Grannis to go to Buffalo and Curtis to Mackinac.

Grannis was ill when the train reached Buffalo, and Curtis got off there with him and saw him safely to the home of Grannis' sister. Curtis checked his suitcase to Mackinac from Buffalo and took the next train. For some reason he got off at Detroit and was registered at the Wayne House. He paid for two days' board, but the first night did not return to the hotel, and up to last night had not been seen there since.

Curtis was subject to severe headaches and Mrs. Curtis is confident he has been stricken ill somewhere and is unable to make his identity known. All the Detroit hospitals have been communicated with, but no man of his description is in any of them. He is said to be a sober man, and when he left Cranford did not have much money with him. He was a member of Masonic Lodge, 703, of New York, and its members are interesting themselves trying to locate him.

CALLED POLICE TO KEEP PEOPLE FROM THEATRE

All records were broken at Counihan's & Shannon's Majestic theatre, Perth Amboy, on Saturday. At the evening performance it was necessary to call out a dozen policemen to quiet the crowd which was trying to gain admission.

Perth Amboy has gone wild over the entertainment, which Messrs. Counihan and Shannon are offering their patrons. It is the same class of entertainment that Manager Counihan is offering his patrons at the New Plainfield theatre. It is a dollar show for ten and twenty cents, and the public knows a good thing when they see it. The policy is to give a show three nights in Plainfield and three nights in Perth Amboy.

Owing to the tremendous success of vaudeville at Perth Amboy Messrs. Counihan and Shannon have decided to continue same at the Majectic theatre permenently and to secure the best acts available which will be booked through some reputable vaudeville booking office in New York. The bill for the Plainfield theatre the first three days of this week is as follows: Professor Hampton's trained animals and his wonderful performing goose, "Royal King;" Mae Russell, English character singing and dancing soubrette; Neluso, in mystic feats of magic; Byron and Blanch, in their great sketch, "Matrimonial Sweets in Family Jars," The Rays, colored comedy entertainers; Jerome & Jerome in their great feature act, "Fun in Frogland," carrying their own scenery and electrical effects. There will be an entire change of program on Thursday.

Will Unveil a Monument.

John Burns, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington; Mr. and Mrs. J. Worth Coddington and Edward T. Dunn, were among those who left this morning with members of the Fifteenth Regiment, N. J. Vols., for Salem Church, Va., where a monument is to be unveiled by the regiment. Mr. Burns is a member of this regiment. After the ceremonies at Salem Church, the party will visit Gettysburg on the return journey, reaching home Sunday night. The special train was made up of ten coaches, the start being made from Newark.

DUNELLENITE VALEDICTORIAN OF CITY'S HIGH SCHOOL

To Dunellen goes the highest honors of the Plainfield High School graduating class this year. The fact was made known this morning when Principal Ira W. Travell gave the valedictorian honors to Miss Sarah Brower, a niece of Mrs. M. E. Brower, of Dunellen. The salutatorian will be Miss Anges M. Van Norden, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Van Norden, of Clinton avenue.

Next year Miss Brower will enter Smith College and Miss Van Norden will matriculate at the Ethical Culture School, Central Park West, New York city. Both are members of the high school orchestra.

LINEMAN IS SHOCKED BY AN ELECTRIC WIRE

Walter Murley, aged about thirty years, employed by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, as a lineman in this city, received a severe electric shock this morning while helping to string wires at West Front street and Rock avenue. He was sitting on one telephone line and at the same time pulling up on another. The lose line came in contact with an electric light wire and in the mixup he received the shock in the back of the neck.

Murley was partially dazed, but managed to descend the pole as far as an automobile sign. There he was assisted to the ground, where he fainted away. A telephone message to the company's office on East Fourth street resulted in Dr. W. H. Murray being sent to the scene of the accident. By that time the lineman had recovered consciousness and was removed to the company's office. Later he was able to return to his home in Elizabeth. His injuries were not serious. He is a new man in the Plainfield gang, having been employed here but a short time.

UNION OF ENDEAVORERS MEET AT HOPE CHAPEL

The Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union held held a Congress meeting at Hope chapel, last night, which was attended by members of every society. Rev. L. R. Howard opened the meeting with devotional exercises, after which the business session was held.

William La Tourette, treasurer, reported a balance on hand for convention needs of $194.75. An amendment to the constitution providing for a pastor's advisory committee, was adopted on third reading. Charles F. Windham, secretary, was authorized to prepare a report of the year's work and to give a summary of the committee work. This will be presented at the meeting to be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Thursday night, May 20.

President Clarence B. LaRue spoke of the Endeavor meeting and rally which will be held in Summit Tuesday night, May 18. He urged all Endeavorers to go if possible. He also called attention to the fact that the next mass meeting will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church May 20. State President J. T. Sproull will make the address. Last night's Congress will be the last until September.

Following the business session the Endeavorers were invited to the Sunday-school rooms where ice cream and cake were served and a social hour enjoyed. The committee in charge of the social comprises these persons: Mrs. Harry Keen, chairman; William Baker, Miss Elizabeth Slorah, Harry Kenny and James Robeson. The finance committee held a short meeting after the social. The general committee held a lengthy session at which the question of badges, music, place of holding convention and other detail matters came up for consideration.

Will Assist at Consecration.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, will be among those who will assist at the consecration of the new Episcopal church at Roselle, tomorrow night. Bishop Scarborough will officiate. The cornerstone of the new church was laid last June with elaborate ceremonies. It is enriched by many memorials. The organ is the gift of Mayor Charles W. Macquoid, of Roselle, and also senior warden and lay elder of the church. Rev. Clarence S. Wood is rector of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith, of Willow avenue, go to Racquet Lake, the Adirondacks, tomorrow on a fishing trip.

SERIOUS PRANK OF BOYS

Edward J. Olssen Almost Blinded by Ashes Thrown in His Eyes.

ONE CULPRIT IS PUNISHED.

Frank Mowrey Given a Three Days' Sentence for the Assault By Recorder Dolliver.

Almost blinded by a handful of fine ashes thrown in his eye by Frank Mowrey, a borough boy, Edward J. Olssen, a Civil War veteran, who keeps a confectionery store on Grove street, is in a serious condition at his home today as the result of an outrageous attack Sunday night. Mowrey, who lives on Howard street, is a prisoner in the borough lock-up, having been sentenced to a three-day term of imprisonment by Borough Recorder Charles Dolliver. The Mowrey boy, who is but seventeen years of age, was arrested yesterday upon complaint of Mrs. Olssen, wife of the injured man. He was accompanied by another boy, but has stubbornly refused to divulge his name to the police.

According to Olssen's story of the attack, Mowrey and his companion entered his store at about 8 o'clock Sunday night and asked for some candy. Mr. Olssen, who is about seventy-five years old, went to the confectionary case and as he bent over it, Mowrey came close to him and threw a handful of fine ashes full in his face. Temporarily blinded by the dust, the shop-keeper staggered and clutched the counter for support. The two boys dashed from the place, laughing.

Mrs. Olssen, wife of the veteran, heard his groans and rushed to his assistance. The shop-keeper was removed to his rooms in the rear of the little store, and a physician was summoned. A large quantity of the dust had gone in his eyes and for some hours he was unable to see at all. His condition is still serious.

A complaint was made by Mrs. Olssen for her husband to the North Plainfield police, and Mowrey was arrested yesterday. He acknowledged that he had thrown the ashes, but said that his companion, whose name he positively refused to divulge, had also thrown a handful at the same time. At his hearing before Recorder Dolliver today, he said that the ashes were thrown as a joke, and it is not believed that the boys planned to make any purchase. The police are at work in an effort to find out who Mowrey's companion.

ANNOUNCE PARENTS' DAY AT THE FRANKLIN

Teachers and pupils of the Franklin School will receive their friends at the school tomorrow morning, when an opportunity will be given the parents to see the class-room work and to thoroughly understand the school routine. Miss Noel J. Bullock, the principal, has arranged for a special program in the afternoon. There will be special singing at the opening exercises of the school, which will be held in the assembly room at 9 o'clock in the morning.

In order to give the parents an idea of the school work, the various class-rooms will be thrown open to visitors during the entire morning, and special arrangements have been made for the accommodation of the pupils' parents. The special program will begin at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when a series of "Folk Games" will be given by twenty pupils of the fifth grade, under the direction of Miss Addie Parker Jackson. The program will include the Swedish "Greeting and Meeting" exercise, the German Klapp dance, a Swedish gymnastic game, and the Swedish exercises, "I See You" and "Good-bye, Partner Mine." There will also be an exhibit of the year's work in drawing and manual training.

SURPRISED ON 35TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

In celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, which occurred in Elizabeth, May 10, 1874, Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Van Fleet were pleasantly surprised by about a score of their friends at their home on North avenue last night. A handsome cut-glass punch bowl and glasses were presented to the couple as an anniversary gift, and the guests brought the materials for a prime collation with them.

After congratulations had been tendered, the party played progressive euchre. At the conclusion of the play, it was announced that the greatest number of points had been scored by Mrs. Obadiah Crane, while Mrs. J. M. Lewin had the second greatest number. Of the men, H. D. Templin and William N. Tier had the highest scores.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Fleet have been life-long residents of this city. They were married at Elizabeth thirty-five years ago yesterday, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, now a resident of this city.

MRS. WILLIAM RUNYON, AGED 63 YRS., DEAD

Mrs. William M. Runyon, aged sixty-three years, daughter of the late Dr. Randolph Titsworth, for many years one of the best known physicians in this city, died at 11:40 o'clock last night at her home on East Front street. She had been ill for the past three years with a complication of diseases and had been confined to her bed for nearly four months.

Mrs. Runyon was born in New Brunswick, but spent the greater part of her life in this city, where her father was a practicing physician for many years. She was almost a life-long member of the First Presbyterian church and always interested in the work there. She is survived by a husband and two sons, Louis R. Runyon, of Brooklyn, and Thomas Albert Runyon, who lived at home. The funeral service will be held from the late home Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

GENERAL D. F. COLLINS LOSES HIS LIBEL SUIT

A jury found a verdict of "not guilty" at Elizabeth yesterday for the defendant in the $15,000 libel suit brought by General Dennis F. Collins against the Elizabeth Daily Journal. The case went to the jury soon before four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The jury was out fifty minutes.

The trial was one of the most interesting ever before Judge Benjamin A. Vail in the Supreme Court. About two score of the most prominent men in the county testified as witnesses for the plaintiff and defendant.

General Collins brought suit because of a published account of an address made by him at the Kern mass meeting in that city last October. He was the Democratic candidate for Mayor at the time.

Parent Fined One Dollar.

Peter Blume, of Race street, who was arrested a few days ago on a complaint made by Truant Officer Richard McDonald for keeping his daughter out of school, was fined $1 by Borough Recorder Dolliver this morning. Blume contended that his daughter was old enough to work in the silk factory, but the school records show the girl to be but twelve years of age. At the conclusion of the case Blume promised to send the child to school. He was warned by the Recorder that should any more complaints be made he would be sent to the county jail.

Rings Reveal Marriage Secret.

It was learned today that Miss Margery Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Booth, and Charles Woehrer, son of Augustus Woehrer, both of Asbury Park, were married there on February 7. Persistent questioning by her brother last night regarding two rings she wore brought a confession from the young woman that she was married. The Rev. A. C. McCrea, then pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, this city, performed the ceremony.

Exhibition of School Work.

There will be an exhibition of school work, all grades, at the Borough High School tonight. It will continue until tomorrow afternoon. A feature tonight will be the manual training classes at work.

TROLLEY CAR ACCIDENT

Robert Dixon Thrown 20 Feet But Other Passengers Escape.

SPLIT SWITCH THE CAUSE.

Women Become Hysterical When Car Jumps the Track at West Front Street.

A "split switch" caused the rear trucks of a main line trolley car, westbound, to jump the tracks at West Front street and Grant avenue, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. One passenger, Robert Dixon, of 815 South avenue, who stood on the rear platform, intending to alight at the corner, was hurled about twenty feet, landing on his face and head, which were severely cut, bruised and scratched.

Dixon started for the hospital in a carriage, but the police patrol overtook him and he was removed to his home. Dr. P. B. Cregar was summoned. It was found that he was not seriously hurt. The car was filled with passengers, mostly women, who were shaken up as the car ran over the macadam road. Motorman Newton C. Martin and Conductor Joseph Tompkins, of Elizabeth, were in charge of the car which just passed the switch light on West Front street, near Grant avenue, and had started up the hill. The front trucks passed over the "turn-out" switch at the corner, but when the rear trucks followed the tracks into Grant avenue as far as possible and then skidded toward the gutter. The car swayed, but fortunately righted itself, not until half the passengers, however, were thrown from their seats into the aisle.

While the car was doing these "stunts" Dixon took his aerial flight. He was carrying a large bundle of clothing and at first it was taken for a small child by those who saw the mishap. Most of the women in the car became hysterical and it was some time before they recovered their composure.

Motorman Martin shut off his controller as quickly as possible after the trucks left the track. He was uninjured. The conductor, who had just entered the car a moment before the accident to collect fares, calmed the women, with the assistance of the male passengers.

A telephone message to police headquarters brought the police patrol in charge of Sergeant Overbaugh, but its services were not required. Another telephone message summoned the wrecking crew of the P. S. C. from Dunellen and within an hour the car was put on the tracks and traffic was resumed. Immediately after the rear trucks left the track, the chains which hold them to the body of the car, snapped, allowing the body to swing at will.

Division Superintendent George Luhr was among the first to arrive at the scene and he took charge of affairs. Among those who suffered from shock were Miss Ella Boice and Miss Dealaman, of Dunellen; Chas. Rice and Philip De Hart, of this city.

LOCAL SYNDICATE ACQUIRES CATHERINE WEBSTER'S LAND.

The property of the late Catherine Webster, on Watchung avenue, 202x123 feet, was disposed of at public sale yesterday by the executor, John H. Van Winkle. P. H. Latourette was the auctioneer. L. B. Manning purchased the tract for a syndicate for $84 a front foot.

The land is located on the southwesterly side of Watchung avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, and adjoins that owned by H. W. Marshall, upon which he has just erected a handsome business block. It is considered one of the most desirable tracts in the business section of the city. The plans of the syndicate have not yet been announced.

Wedding Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Bond, of East Front street, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Bessie Wright Bond, to Allen Edward Beals, also of this city. The affair will be celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Thursday night, June 1, at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Beals was formerly on the reportorial staff of The Daily Press and is now editor of a trade magazine.

Using Name Without Authority.

Joseph McIntyre, of Watchung avenue, wishes The Daily Press to state that he has not given his endorsement to the sale of a musical work, being presented in this city by an agent. Knowledge having come to him that the agent has made use of his name, he desires to inform his friends that it is without authority of any kind.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Dixie Minstrels are booked for Excelsior Hall Thursday night. The troupe has enjoyed a most successful season, the entertainment being well received, not only in Plainfield but the surrounding towns. The cast includes the best of Plainfield amateur talent and everyone who want an evening of enjoyment should attend the entertainment.

The rough crushed stone which has been placed on Park avenue during the past week, is the surest check to automobile speeding that the Township Committee could have desired. The reckless drivers soon put on the cuss words and brakes when they struck it.

Manager Frentz has no game scheduled for Saturday as yet, but expects to close a game out with one of the Plainfield teams before the end of the week.

Anthony Schwalbach, who has been a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital for several weeks, has returned home, his condition being somewhat improved.

William H. Lee withdrew his application for a license for the West Side House, when it was called by Judge Atwater yesterday morning at Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Authur Dixon, of Park avenue, have been entertaining Mr. Dixon's mother from Cranford over Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Grisriel, of Madison, were the guests over-Sunday of Mrs. Anna Goodwin, of Stanbury avenue.

Seeley's paper mill is shut down for a few days, while necessary repairs are being made to the machinery.

All our brews are timed, and just as true to age as Grandfather's Clock—no haphazard about it. We test and taste until the rich mellow flavor characteristic of our beer is right. Then it is bottled, and sterilized, and labeled.

Our signature—Feigenspan--on the neck label is your guarantee that it is bottled at our brewery—free from all outside contamination. As perfect a beer as modern skill can produce. On draught at leading hotels, cafes, bars.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Junior Epworth League, of the First M. E. church, will hold a social in the chapel of the church on Thursday night. The proceeds will go toward furnishing the parsonage. There will also be a meeting of the Sunday-school board tonight, at which there will be an election of a superintendent and secretary.

Rev. Dr. W. A. Knox, of the First M. E. church, will deliver a patriotic address to the members of the Jr. O. U. A. M., the Daughters of Liberty and the Patriotic Sons of America, in the church on Decoration Day night. The organizations in both Dunellen and New Market are invited.

While playing on top of some freight cars on Sunday afternoon, Owen Lohan, Jr., of Prospect avenue, fell between some box-cars and was knocked senseless. He was taken home and a physician was summoned.

Miss Lillian Garrison, who has been visiting Miss Ella Dutcher, of Harrison, returned home last night. She was accompanied by Miss Dutcher, who will spend a few days with friends in the borough.

Rev. Ernest Brown, the newly installed pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has moved into his new home on Dunellen avenue. Mr. Brown preached his first sermon as pastor on Sunday morning.

The Home and Foreign Missionaries societies of the First M. E. church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. Smalley, of Fairview avenue.

C. T. Rodgers, of New Market, has purchased a new motor boat which will soon be seen on the New Market pond.

A necktie social will be given by the Jr. O. U. A. M. at the hall on North avenue on Friday night.

Miss Edith Hardgrove, of Somerville, is visiting Mrs. William Wyckoff, of Dunellen avenue.

F. H. Gise and E. J. Lewis spent Sunday in Harrison as the guest of the Rev. E. C. Dutcher.

O. P. Curl and Ray Huff are spending a few days with friends in Bound Brook.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Juniors will cross bats with the Saint Mary's second team of Plainfield, on Saturday. The two teams are old rivals. Saint Mary's seconds last year took four out of five games from the Juniors. The battery for the Juniors will probably be Soffield, pitcher, and McDonough, catcher, and that of St. Mary's, Hanahan, pitcher, and Shives, catcher.

Harry Teeple, a former resident for seventy years of this place, will spend the summer with his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Terrill, of this place.

Clarence Conners, Walter Smith and George Pace, Jr., joined the Jr. O. U. A. M. at a meeting held last night in New Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kellog, of Piscataway, visited friends here last night.

WESTFIELD.

Discovery was made Sunday that thieves had broken into the office of Fred Kreidlers paint shop some time Saturday night and pried open a desk with a chisel. Only business papers were inside, and the thieves scattered them about in search for valuables. Nothing was stolen.

Amelia Becker was granted a renewal of her license for a hotel at Garwood Saturday. The application of Michael Lewandes for a hotel license at Garwood will be taken up by the court at Elizabeth today.

Westfield police arrested four train jumpers at Westfield Depot Sunday afternoon for attempting to jump on a west-bound train. They all gave fictitious names.

The principal speakers at the Westfield Board of Trade dinner to be held May 25 will be Governor Fort, William McAdoo and Thomas N. McCarter.

JOSTLED MAN LOSES $112.

Perth Amboy, May 11.—Jacob Hesslacher, a New York chemist, who has large business interests in this city, lost his wallet Saturday afternoon, as he was leaving a train at the Central Railroad station here. Last night it was found, minus the money it contained, in a letter-box near the station. Mr. Hasslacher did not miss the wallet for several hours after leaving the train, and then he recalled having been jostled in a peculiar manner by a man who was apparently trying to board the train that he left. With the money, which amounted to $112, there were three steamship tickets to Germany and a large quantity of valuable business correspondence and documents. Everything was intact except the money when Letter-carrier Charles H. Seguine found the wallet in a mail box.

Everything for the Man

Snappy Styles in Furnishings

This is a Men's Department strictly, with a most complete line of Furnishings—you know the reputation of this Man's part of the store for snappy styles and extra good values—this reputation is being lived right up to in every way.

New things in Men's Furnishings for Summer—just a few suggestions picked at random to show the "better" values we offer

Fruitwear Hosiery

Men's Shirts

New Styles, Patterns and Colors, for Summer 50c to $1.50.

Hosiery

The largest stock, the greatest assortment, make your selection here 10c to 50c.

Men's Light Underwear

for Summer—cool and sanitary, ideal for Summer, 25c, 39c and 50c.

Men's Night Shirts

The best of values, note prices 50c, 75c and $1.00.

Here Are Extra Good Values in Muslin Underwear

Not exactly a sale—though most stores would call it "extraordinary"—"sensational" and by other abused adjectives.

These are our complete new stocks—larger than ever—made of superior materials of soft, strong weaving—daintily trimmed with exquisite laces, beautiful flouncings and newest insertions.

All clean goods, well made, generous full cut garments, not the skimpy sort that are never worth buying.

Buying in such large quantities we obtained very low prices—you'll find our values are unequalled in this vicinity. We are almost doubling last year's business---and the reason is found in our better qualities and bigger values. Don't fail to investigate our offerings.

Corsets of Style Imparting Qualities

More Than Forty Models to Select From

There is no doubt about the corset being a vital factor in dress. It either makes or mars the gown. Our stocks here offer the greatest assortments of style---any figure can be suited.

We feature C. B., W. B., Warner's Rust Proof, Nemo, R. & G., American Lady, Larine & De Brevoise, Braisone and Ferris Waists. With every corset we give a five yard linen lace.

Prices $1.00 to $3.50

GOLF.

With a view to promoting the social side, the three associations in charge of the woman's inter-city matches for the Griscom trophy, to be held at the Baltusrol Golf Club, have arranged for mixed foursomes on the afternoon of June 11, the last day. This is the policy adopted by the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association for the last day of its championship tournament at the Nassau Country Club for the week of May 24.

The nominating committee of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, consisting of Miss Marie L. Harrison, chairman; Mrs. Henry Fay and Miss M. C. Maule, has presented its ticket, to be acted on at the annual meeting at Baltusrol on June 8. Mrs. E. F. Sanford, who plays at the Essex County Country Club and the Englewood Golf Club, has again been chosen as the chief executive, a position she has served since the formation of the organization, some four years ago. The ticket is as follows:

Mrs. Edward F. Sanford, president; Miss Maud K. Wetmore, vice-president; Miss Louisa A. Wells, secretary; Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, treasurer; Miss Georgianna M. Bishop, Miss Harriot S. Curtis, Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, Miss France C. Griscom, Mrs. E. F. Sanford, Mrs. Chas. L. Tiffany, Miss Louisa A. Wells, Miss Maud K. Wetmore, Mrs. Franz E. Zorrahn, Mrs. William S. Hills and Mrs. R. H. Barlow, executive committee.

The first competitive attraction on the cards for this week is the sixteenth semi-annual University Golf Club handicap over the Nassau County Club links tomorrow. There will be a train leaving the East 34th street ferry, via the Long Island Railroad, at 8:50 a. m., arriving at Nassau at 10 o'clock. Connection with this train at Jamaica, Long Island, may be made by train leaving the Flatbush avenue subway station, Brooklyn, at 9:03 o'clock. A special train will bring the players back, leaving Nassau at 5:30 p. m.

A large field competed for the May Cup at the Forest Hill Club on Saturday, and, according to the conditions, the best sixteen qualified. It remained for Paul E. Heller to head the list with a capital 83, which included a 7 at the home hole. Harry Christ finished a close second, with 84.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church is preparing a new year book, in which there will appear an accurate church roll.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet Friday night and there will be Bible study under the regular leaders.

The official board of the First M. E. church has adopted resolutions thanking James W. Jackson for the handsome memorial window recently given to the church by him.

The annual meeting of the Women's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Association will be held at the Roselle Baptist church, Friday, morning and afternoon.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The subject will be "The Pioneer."

The Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will hold its last meeting for the season on Sunday night, when officers will be chosen for the coming year and Dr. Daniel C. Main will give a lecture on "X-Ray Work."

The Young People's Society of the First Baptist church will have charge of the mid-week meeting at the church tomorrow night, and Randolph Chandler will be the leader. The topic will be "The Saving and Keeping Power of the Lord."

The State Baptist Home for the Aged will hold its annual reception at the Home on Roseville avenue, Newark, today. This afternoon the eighteenth annual meeting will be held at which Rev. Mr. Ferris, of East Orange, will make an address.

JERSEY'S SENATORS DINE THE GOVERNOR

New Jersey State senators gave a dinner in honor of Governor Fort at the Arrowhead Inn, New York, last night.

Of Jersey's living senators there was only one absentee, Mr. Osborne, of Essex, who defeated Mr. Colby not long ago. There was, of course, one vacant chair, that of William J. Harrison, who died during the session. Those who sat down in the Colonial room of the Arrowhead with Governor J. Franklin Fort, were Senators Robbins, Fielder, Minch, Cornish, Silzer, Wakelee, Plummer, Ackerman, Brown, Hand, Bradley, Wilson, Gaunt, Leavitt, Frelinghuysen, Hillery, Hinchliffe, Gebhardt and Price; and there also sat Secretary of the Senate Howard Tyler.

According the Senator Frelinghuysen, who may be the next governor of New Jersey, according to some of his happy friends of last evening, it was a night off for the senators and they felt that they really need not make their speeches public.

JOHN DALY QUITS HOSPITAL.

Elizabeth, May 11.—John Daly, of this city, brother of Surrogate Peter F. Daly, of Middlesex county, was discharged from the hispital at Yonkers Sunday as convalescent. He returned to this city, where he is staying temporarily with his wife's parents on Eugene place.

Mr. Daly is a civil engineer, and was shot several weeks ago at Yonkers by an Italian laborer engaged in a gang working upon work of which Mr. Daly was in charge. The bullet is still in his body somewhere near the spine, but the rays failed to locate it, and the hospital physicians determined to do no probing, lest blood poisoning should result. They decided to let the ball become encysted, and assured the patient he would not suffer any further inconvenience from it.

Parted from Wife; Is Beaten.

Perth Amboy, May 11.—Having refused longer to live with his wife, William Ball was set upon and beaten when he attempted to remove his goods from their home at Kennedale Park, a suburb of Perth Amboy, Sunday. He had shown to his assailants articles of separation which Mrs. Ball had signed before a local lawyer. Ball was badly injured and he was threatened with a worse beating if he does not return the furnishings of the house. Warrants have been issued for two of the ringleaders in the affray and they will get hearings tonight.

NEW JERSEY TEACHERS ARE NOW UP IN ARMS

At a joint meeting of the executive and legislative committee of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association held at the Hotel Albert, New York city, some important matters were considered. Because of the aggressive action of some boards of education towards their teachers, caused by the recent enactment of a teachers' tenure of office law, the committee, realizing the gravity of the situation, unanimously decided to call a special meeting of the association for Saturday afternoon, May 23, in Jersey City, to consider questions that may arise in regard to the duty of the association towards those members whose interests may be jeopardized in the interim before the recently enacted law goes into effect on Sept. 1, 1909.

The teachers who are in most danger of dismissal are those who are wearing their fiftyfifth year of service in the State which would render them eligible to the district thirty-five years' half pay pension act. This pension has to be paid by the district in which the teacher has been employed the last twenty years. In order to escape this "burden" some teachers have already been dismissed.

In view of this situation, the committee decided that it was now time to take action in defense of such cases, hence the meeting to be held on May 29.

The association numbers about six thousand, and, of course, such action would not apply to teachers who are not members.

PERTH AMBOY CHURCH IS NINETY YEARS OLD

Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, of Perth Amboy, began the celebration of the ninetieth anniversary of its organization with special services Sunday at which former pastors assisted Rev. George C. Wilding, now in charge of the church.

Sunday Rev. Dr. W. S. Galloway, the oldest living former pastor, preached at the initial service of the series. Tuesday night the addresses will be delivered by Rev. W. M. Trumbower, of Bayonne. Rev. Dr. S. T. Jackson, of Arlington, will discuss "The Value of the Church in the City." Thursday, Rev. Wesley Martin will speak, and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, formerly of Plainfield, who immediately preceded Dr. Wilding, will be the speaker. Saturday night, May 15, Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, also formerly of Plainfield, who was pastor of the church twenty-five years ago and who is now district superintendent, will hold the first quarterly conference of the church year, and on Sunday he will preach at the morning service. Dr. Wilding will preach at the final service in the evening.

DEMENTED MAN'S ANTICS CAUSE HIS DETENTION.

Elizabeth, May 11.—A man who gave his name as George A. Markarker, fifty years old, and single, was picked up by Policeman Booth Carley yesterday morning running about on the grass on Meadow street. He said he escaped from an insane asylum in Trenton. He is being held for a further examination. He has been in this city two days, and his actions have been commented on by residents.

Trenton, May 11.—The records of the State Hospital in this city show that a George Marbaker was twice an inmate of that institution. He was first discharged in 1899, when his age was given as forty-one years. He was again committed to the institution in 1901 and was discharged a second time on August 10, 1903, at which time he was mentally normal.

Six years ago Marbaker's nearest relatives were said to live in this city. His name, however, does not appear in the Trenton directory and no persons who knew him were found at the address given to the hospital authorities when he was committed. Neither have the police been notified of his absence, and it is thought that since his discharge in 1903 he had probably removed his domicil from Trenton. Whether this is the man detained in Elizabeth is not certain here. The name is spelled as it is written on the asylum records.

MIKADO HONORS PASSAIC MAN.

Passaic, May 11.—Mr. and Mrs. William Eric Church, of 187 High street, gave a reception Saturday afternoon and evening in honor of the conferring of the Order of the Rising Sun upon Mr. Church by the Emperor of Japan. Vice Consul Yamasaki, of the port of New York, attended, as did the wife of Consul-General Midzuno; K. J. Imanishi, manager of the Yokohoma Specie Bank; K. Fukui, R. Arai, D. Ushikubo and other Japanese business men.

For many years Mr. Church has been employed in the Yokohama Specie Bank at New York, and his business brought him into close contact with the Mikado.

WANT IRELAND'S HISTORY TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS.

Preliminary Steps to This End Taken by A. O. H. Members at Elizabeth.

Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Elizabeth have taken the preliminary steps toward having Irish history taught in the parochial schools. A meeting of the historical committee of the order was held Sunday in the Court Street Lyceum, where the matter was thoroughly discussed.

Delegates were present from all eight divisions in the city and enthusiastic talks urging hard work for the cause were made by several of those present. The committee decided to elect prominent officers and named the following:

Joseph Anderson, president; Philip Smith, vice-president; Miss Margaret Mupkerkin, secretary; Mrs. M. M. Martin, treasurer.

Committees were appointed to visit the pastors of St. Patrick's church, St. Mary's, Holy Rosary and the Sacred Heart. They will urge that the history of Ireland be taught in the schools of these parishes. No time will be lost in bringing the matter to the attention of the pastors of these churches and the members of the committee are confident of meeting with success.

The next meeting will be held Sunday, May 23, at 3 o'clock, in the Court Street Lyceum.

Will Present "Black Rock."

Miss Charille Runals will present a dramatic and lyric narrative of "Black Rock," at the Congregational church tonight at 8:15 o'clock, under the auspices of the Men's Club. It will be a "ladies' night" affair.

COL. DUNGAN TO SPEAK.

Will Be Guest of Phil Kearny Guard Tomorrow Night.

Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, of the Second Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey, will be one of the speakers at the annual dinner tomorrow night of Phil Kearny Guard, Company C, at Elizabeth. The dinner will be held in Astfalk's Hall, East Grand street.

The dinner this year will be a notable one in the military circles of the county. It is expected that several hundred persons will attend, nearly all the guests being prominent military men. Members of Phil Kearny Guard for years back will be among the guests of honor.

The committee in charge of the dinner reports that arrangements for the affair have all been completed.

BOARD OF TRADE BUSY.

Will Consider Many Matters at Elizabeth Thursday Night.

Important matters are scheduled to come before the Elizabeth Board of Trade meeting to be held next Thursday night.

Mosquitoes will probably receive further attention, plans for the industrial convention to be held in Elizabeth will be developed, the board may take steps to assist in the general preservation of the city's trees, and reports will be heard on the Sound bridge project.

As the board will shortly suspend its meetings for the summer months, a special effort is being made to arouse interest and to pave the way for action in the movements which have been considered by the members of late.

Chauffeur's Fine Doubled.

Perth Amboy, May 11.—Frederick Medrick, a New York chauffeur, was fined $100 for reckless driving Sunday in Middlesex and Monmouth counties when arraigned by John H. Gregory before H. E. Pickersgill, a local justice of the peace. Medrick pleaded guilty and paid the fine without protest. Mr. Gregory is an unpaid State inspector, and he told of following Medrick from Red Bank to a point beyond this city and Matawan before he could overhaul him. Both drove Packard cars, but Gregory's machine was two years older than Medrick's. The accused man was driving for Gabriel Salant, of New York City. While the justice was looking up the law Medrick, so the court said, whispered to him that if the fine could be made light there would be a bonus in it for him. When the fine was imposed and paid the justice said that he made it double what he had intended to as a rebuke to Medrick for his offer. No costs were imposed. Mr. Salant apologized for his chauffeur's conduct on the road and for his offense in court.

PRESIDENT MAY ATTEND CARRIERS' CONVENTION

Delegates have been chosen by the Plainfield Letter Carriers' Association to the annual State convention of letter carriers, which will be conducted in Jersey City on May 30 and 31. President William H. Taft has announced that he will attend the convention, providing he can get away from Gettysburg in time. Postmaster General Hitchcock will be present, as will the postmasters of all the larger cities of the State.

This convention is expected to be quite the biggest affair that the carriers of New Jersey have ever had. Practically every letter carrier in the State will be in attendance, and there are to be large complimentary delegations from New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. New York has promised 2,000 men and Brooklyn about 1,000. Of the New Jersey offices, Newark is expected to take the lead with 250 men.

The actual work of the convention is to be done during the afternoon and evening of May 30. The next day (Monday) will be observed as a general holiday by Jersey City folks, and the letter carriers will be permitted to parade and have a banquet and to be generally popular.

That Jersey City is taking great pride in this gathering of letter carriers is perhaps best shown by the fact that Mayor Wittpenn some weeks ago appointed a citizens' committee of fifty to arrange for the affair. The Mayor and Postmaster Wanser, of Jersey City, are much interested; so are the letter carriers from all over the State, and their friends. The convention and the aftermath on the next day will probably mark one of the biggest gathering of postal men ever held in this section of the country. The Postmaster General is to have some men with him, and the postmaster guests are to be accompanied by their staffs, and it is tactily understood that there will be a little—maybe more—shop talk.

CHARLES DESHLER DEAD IN NINETY-FIRST YEAR

Charles Dunham Dreshler, widely known as a literary critic and historian, once connected with the Newark Daily Advertiser, died at his home at New Brunswick yesterday, aged 90 years. He had written literary criticisms for Harper's Magazines for years. He owned a valuable historical library, and was one of the best-informed men in the State upon New Jersey history.

He was one of the most active workers in developing the public school system in New Brunswick, and was one of the founders of the original New Brunswick gas company, the New Brunswick Savings Institution and the New Brunswick Free Library. For a number of years he was lay judge of Middlesex county, and was the first superintendent of schools in New Brunswick. He was appointed postmaster under President Cleveland.

Mr. Deshler was born in Easton, Pa., on March 1, 1819, and came to New Brunswick to live with his grandfather, Dr. Jacob Dunham, when but four years old. He was educated in private schools and finished his education at the Rutgers College Preparatory School. He entered the drug business as a clerk and rose to owner. In 1859 he retired from this business and went to Jersey City, where he edited the Jersey City Standard. From there he went to Newark and edited the Newark Daily Advertiser. He then went to the Pennsylvania oil fields, where he remained until 1868, when he moved to New Brunswick and had lived there continuously since. Death was due to old age and general debility.

The funeral will be held at Christ church, New Brunswick, of which he had been a life-long member, on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Find Quick Boy's Body.

The body of George Quick, eight years old, who was drowned at Boonton last Wednesday afternoon, was found last night in a pool below Boonton Falls, about two hundred feet from where he fell into the river. Young Quick and another boy "played hookey." They were at the river bank when the school bell rang, announcing the day's session ended. Quick's companion heard the bell and he turned to the other boy to tell him that it was time to go home, but Quick had disappeared.

NEW STAMP ISSUE WILL MARK BIG EXPOSITION

Postage stamps commemorative of the Alaska-Yukon Pacific Exposition will be put on sale at the local postoffice about the first of next month, according to information received by Postmaster Elias H. Bird yesterday. The stamp is somewhat larger than the regular 2-cent stamp and is printed in red ink. No books containing the stamps will be isuued, and it will not appear on envelopes or newspaper wrappers kept for sale. These stamps will not be used exclusively, but postoffices will be required to keep a sufficient supply on hand.

In panels at the top and bottom will be the words, "U. S. Postage" and "Two Cents," respectively. In the centre the larger part of a circle rests upon the lower panel and incloses a ribbon bearing the words, "Alaska-Yukon-Pacific, 1909."

In the centre is a portrait of William H. Seward, Secretary of State at the time of the purchase of the Alaskan Territory from Russia, and below this is his name. On each side is an eclipse containing the number "II." in Roman numerals.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

An oil concern has obtained permission to demonstrate the laying of dust in Millville streets.

Vineland has adopted a practical way to promote the good roads movement by doubling the road appropriation to $3,000.

Mrs. Mary Pauline Sparks, State secretary of the Loyal Temperance Legion, has organized a branch in Vineland.

James Kelly, twenty-two years old, fell on the sidewalk at Clayton and cut his face so badly he was unconscious for hours.

An unexpected shower spoiled thirteen blocks of cement sidewalk which Contractor Pomelear had neglected to protect at Clayton.

While shooing a chicken away from the dooryard, Saturday, Mrs. J. A. Hobart, a pioneer resident of Vineland, fell and broke her leg.

Falling from a fence, George Smith, six years old, of 209 York street, Camden, fractured his right leg and was taken to Cooper Hospital.

Attacked by a dog on Keighn avenue, Camden, yesterday, George Davis, twenty-one years old, of 1218 Locust street, was bitten on both hands. He was cared for at the Homeopathic Hospital.

Special Tax Collector Dooling, of Millville, who has sent several men to jail for failure to pay $1 poll tax, and who has been complimented highly by the Council for his diligence, has been re-elected.

In the presence of about a thousand persons, a woman was baptized in the Delaware river, along the North Cramer Hill shore, Camden, Sunday, by Rev. J. G. Shireman, pastor of the Mennonite Brethren in Christ Mission, Philadelphia.

Rev. James Bristow, pastor of the Fourth Baptist church, Paterson, Sunday preached an interesting historical sermon in commemoration of the conclusion of forty years of Christian work by the people of the church.

Fire in the basement of Olivet Presbyterian church, Pacific and Tennessee avenues, Atlantic City, a few minutes after Sunday-school had been dismissed, caused much excitement Sunday. Six engine companies responded, but the fire was out before they arrived.

A nervy thief broke into the Westville drug store, cut his finger on a pane of glass, but knew enough of lotions to select the right one for the wound, and then sorted over a number of finger stalls to get one to fit. A quantity of candy, soaps and medicines were taken.

Curiosity is evinced over the will of Mrs. Maria J. Isaacs, who died at Vineland Friday from the shock following a broken hip. That she remembered the Vineland Hospital is assured, but how much will not be known until the document is probated this week.

Harry H. Pond, cashier of the Vineland National Bank, Vineland, has just been elected president of the board of managers of the State Home for Feeble-minded Women, to succeed the late Benjamin F. Lee. Dr. Madeline A. Hollowell, the newly appointed superintendent, is now in charge of the home.

At a meeting of the district stewards of the Methodist church at Vineland resolutions were unanimously adopted commending Governor Fort for re-appointing Royal P. Tuller judge of the Cumberland County Court, and praising the judge for the admirable way he has dealt with illicit liquor dealers.

All Saints' Protestant Episcopal church, located in the fashionable Cadwalader place district of Trenton, has just been robbed for the second time within a year. On their second visit the thieves got away with the Sunday collections, the amount of which is not known, and the contents of an automatic telephone box in the rector's room.

MUNICIPAL ART IN JERSEY.

New York, May 11.—The conference on city planning and municipal art now in progress at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory gave this program for Jersey night, last night, as follows:

"The Problem of Interurban Development in New Jersey Territory Adjacent to New York," Calvin Tomkins, interurban committee; "City Planning and General Municipal Development Work Within Greater Newark Area," Major James W. Howard, consulting engineer; "Tenement-house Conditions in New Jersey," Charles J. Allen, New Jersey Tenement-house Commission; "Parks and Boulevards," Alonzo Church, Essex County Park Commission; "City Planning and Its Relation to Established Charities," A. W. McDougall, Bureau of Associated Charities; "The Industries of a Great Manufacturing City," George F. Reeve, president Board of Trade of the city of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Snell, of this city, are registered at the Chalfonte, Atlantic City.

Miss Randolph, of East Randolph road, has been visiting friends at Lebanon the past few days.

CHAPTER IV.

I Explore Tippecanoe Creek.

My first care was to find the gardener of St. Agatha's and renew his pledge of silence of the night before; and then I sought the ladies, to make sure that they had not been disturbed by my collision with Gillespie. Miss Pat and Helen were in Sister Theresa's pretty sitting room, through whose windows the morning wind blew fresh and cool.

"This is a day for the open! You must certainly venture forth!" I began, cheerily. "You see, Father Stoddard chose well; this is the most peaceful place on the map. Let us begin with a drive at six, when the sun is low; or, maybe, you would prefer a little run in the launch."

They exchanged glances.

"I think it would be all right, Aunt Pat," said Helen.

"Perhaps we should wait another day. We must take no chances; the relief of being free is too blessed to throw away. I really slept through the night—I can't tell you what a boon that is!"

"Why, Sister Margaret had to call us both at eight!" exclaimed Helen. "That is almost too wonderful for belief!"

"Oh, the nights here are tranquillity itself! Now, as to the drive—"

"Let us wait another day, Mr. Donovan. I feel that we must make assurance doubly sure," said Miss Pat; and this, of course, was final.

It was clear that the capture of Gillespie had not disturbed the slumber of St. Agatha's. My conscience pricked me a trifle at leaving them so ignorantly contented; but Gillespie's appearance was hardly a menace, and though I had pledged myself to warn Helen Holbrook at the first sign of trouble, I determined to deal with him on my own account. He was only an infatuated fool, and I was capable, I hoped, of disposing of his case without taking any one into my confidence. But first it was my urgent business to find him.

I got out the launch and crossed the lake to the summer colony and began my search by asking for Gillespie at the casino, but found that his name was unknown. I lounged about until lunch time, visited the golf course that lay on a bit of upland beyond the cottages and watched the players until satisfied that Gillespie was not among them, then I went home for luncheon.

A man with bandaged arms, and clad in a dressing gown, cannot go far without attracting attention; and I was not in the least discouraged by my fruitless search. I have spent considerable part of my life in the engaging occupation of looking for men who were hard to find, and as I smoked my cigar on the shady terrace and waited for Ijima to replenish the launch's tank, I felt confident that before night I should have an understanding with Gillespie if he were still in the neighborhood of Annandale.

The midday was warm, but I cooled my eyes on the deep shadows of the wood, through which at intervals I saw white sails flash on the lake. All bird-song was hushed, but a woodpecker on a dead sycamore hammered away for dear life. The bobbing of his red head must have exercised some hypnotic spell, for I slept a few minutes, and dreamed that the woodpecker had bored a hole in my forehead. When I roused it was with a start that sent my pipe clattering to the stone terrace floor. A man who has ever camped or hunted or been hunted—and I have known all three experiences—always scrutinizes the horizons when he wakes, and I found myself staring into the wood. As my eyes sought remembered landmarks here and there, I saw a man dressed as a common sailor skulking toward the boathouse several hundred yards away. He was evidently following the school wall to escape observation, and I rose and stepped closer to the balustrade to watch his movements. In a moment he came out into a little open space wherein stood a stone tower where water was stored for the house, and he paused here and gazed about him curiously. I picked up a field-glass from a little table near by and caught sight of a swarthy foreign face under a soft felt hat. He passed the tower and walked on toward the lake, and I dropped over the balustrade and followed him.

The Japanese boy was still at work on the launch, and, hearing a step on the pier planking, he glanced up, then rose and asked the stranger his business.

The man shook his head.

"If you have business it must be at the house; the road is in the other direction," and Ijima pointed to the wood, but the stranger remained stubbornly on the edge of the pier. I now stepped out of the wood and walked down to the pier.

"What do you want here?" I demanded, sharply.

The man touched his hat, smiled, and shook his head. The broad hand he lifted in salute was that of a laborer, and its brown back was tattooed. He belonged, I judged, to one of the dark Mediterranean races, and I tried him in Italian.

"These are private grounds; you will do well to leave here very quickly," I said.

I saw his eyes light as I spoke the words slowly and distinctly, but he waited until I had finished, then shook his head.

I was sure he had understood, but as I addressed him again, ordering him from the premises, he continued to shake his head and grin foolishly. Then I pointed toward the road.

"Go; and it will be best for you not to come here again!" I said, and, after saluting, he walked slowly away into the wood, with a sort of dogged insolence in his slightly swaying gait. At a nod from me Ijima stole after him while I waited, and in a few minutes the boy came back and reported that the man had passed the house and left the grounds by the carriage entrance, turning toward Annandale.

With my mind on Gillespie I put off in the launch, determined to study the lake geography. I have, I hope, a soul for landscape, and the soft bubble of water, the lush reeds in the shallows, the rapidly moving panorama of field and forest, the glimpses of wild flowers, and the arched blue above, were restful to mind and heart. It seemed shameful that the whole world was not afloat; then, as I reflected that another boat in these tranquil waters would be an impertinence that I should resent, I was aware that I had been thinking of Helen Holbrook all the while; and the thought of this irritated me so that I criticised Ijima most unjustly for running the launch close to a bowlder that rose like a miniature Gibraltar near the shadowy shore we were skirting.

We gained the ultimate line of the lower lake, and followed the shore in search of its outlet, pleasingly set down on the map as Tippecanoe creek, which ran off and joined somewhere a river of like name. The lake's waters ran away, like a truant child, through a woody cleft, and in a moment we were as clean quit of the lake as though it did not exist. After a few rods the creek began to twist and turn as though with the intention of making the voyager earn his way. In the narrow channel the beat of our engine rang from the shores rebukingly, and soon, as a punishment for disturbing the peace of the little stream, we grounded on a sand-bar.

"This seems to be the head of navigation, Ijima. I believe this creek was made for canoes, not battleships."

Between us we got the launch off, and I landed on a convenient log and crawled up the bank to observe the country. I followed a stake-and-rider fence, half hidden in vines of various sorts, and tramped along the bank, with the creek still singing its tortuous way below at my right hand. Soon the rail fence gave way to barbed wire; the path broadened and the underbrush was neatly cut away. Within lay a small vegetable garden, carefully tilled; and farther on I saw a dark green cottage almost shut in by beeches. The path dipped sharply down and away from the cottage, and a moment later I had lost sight of it; but below, at the edge of the creek, stood a long houseboat with an extended platform or deck on the waterside.

I can still feel, as I recall the day and hour, the utter peace of the scene when first I came upon that secluded spot: The melodious flow of the creek beneath; the flutter of homing wings; even the hum of insects in the sweet, thymy air. Then a step farther and I came to a gate which opened on a flight of steps that led to the house beneath; and through the intervening tangle I saw a man sprawled at ease in a steamer chair on the deck, his arms under his head. As I watched him he sighed and turned restlessly, and I caught a glimpse of close-trimmed beard and short, thin, slightly gray hair.

The place was clearly the summer home of a city man in search of quiet, and I was turning away, when suddenly a woman's voice rang out clearly from the bank.

"Hallo, the houseboat!"

"Yes; I'm here!" answered the man below.

"Come on, father; I've been looking for you everywhere," called the voice again.

"Oh, it's too bad you've been waiting," he answered.

"Of course I've been waiting!" she flung back, and he jumped up and ran toward her. Then down the steps flashed Helen Holbrook in white. She paused at the gate an instant before continuing her descent to the creek, bending her head as she sought the remaining steps.

"Daddy, you dear old fraud, I thought you were coming to meet me on the ridge!"

I turned and groped my way along the darkening path. My heart was thumping wildly and my forehead was wet with perspiration.

Ijima stood on the bank lighting his lantern, and I flung myself into the launch and bade him run for home.

We were soon crossing the lake. I lay back on the cushions and gazed up at the bright roof of stars. Before I reached Glenarm the shock of finding Helen Holbrook in friendly communication with her father had passed, and I sat down to dinner at nine o'clock with a sound appetite.

WILLETT AND SKINNER PLAY TIE WITH LEADERS

Not since the season opened at Campbell's has there been more excitement in bowling circles than last night, when Miller and Skinner held the leaders, Kelly and Miller, to a tie in the last game of the last series. This cuts their lead down by two games and gives the other teams a better chance for the first prize. The tie game, which was rolled off later, was won by Miller and Skelly. In the seven games bowled, Skelly made an average of 199. Vanderbilt and Eller made the high score of the evening, running up 419. On Thursday night, Nash and Blatz will attempt to jump into the lead.

Holy Cross Won Easily.

A team of Plainfield High School ball-players was overwhelmingly defeated by the Holy Cross Club nine on the Cricket field Saturday afternoon when the church team won out by a score of 19 to 4. Lyness was the only P. H. S. "regular" to appear with the school-boys, although the contest was scheduled as a "first team" game. Bailey took the hitting honors, pushing out a home run with the bases full. Harriman pitched good ball for the church nine, who made most of their runs on errors by the schoolboys.

MILK INSPECTION MONTHLY.

Westfield Will Look Regularly Into the Supply.

The Westfield Board of Health has decided to have a monthly inspection of the milk supply. The board received word from N. A. Darby, of Mountainside, to the effect that he had decided to quit serving customers in the town until his dairy was given a clean bill of health by the State board.

Darby served milk in Cranford, which the Board of Health of that place held responsible for the typhoid fever epidemic there. At present there are no cases of typhoid fever in Westfield.

Doubles Fine of Autoist.

Recorder Harold E. Pickersgill, of Perth Amboy, fined a speeding automobilist $100 yesterday. The owner of the car was John Salant, a New York broker, and the car was being driven by Frederick Medrick, also of New York. The Recorder first fined Salant $50. He says the driver asked him to make it light and he would fix it up with him. Recorder Pickersgill thought this was an attempt to bribe him and he raised the fine to $100. Mr. Salant paid $80 and the chauffeur the other $20.

Suthers, cf; W. Honning, 3b; P. Ross, ss; C. Post, lf; A. Eddelle, p; L. Paritz, rf; J. Creager, p. The club would like to book games with teams averaging 18-19 years of age. Address Percy Ross, 152 East Second street.

Two Games Saturday.

There will be two games at the Crescent Oval next Saturday afternoon. The Y. M. C. A. team will open its season with the strong Central Y. M. C. A. team, of Brooklyn. The game will be called at 2:15. The second game will be between Clinton Avenue and a strong nine that has yet to be announced, which will start at 4 o'clock.

JERSEY TO RETURN A FLAG TO GEORGIA

As the guest of the veterans of the Fifteenth New Jersey Volunteers, Colonel Alexander S. Bacon, of Brooklyn, left this morning for the Spottsylvania battle field, where tomorrow in the presence of Governor Fort, of New Jersey, he will turn over to three veterans of the Fourteenth regiment of Georgia a bullet riddled flag which was captured from the Georgia regiment by the New Jersey regiment at the Battle of Spottsylvania.

In addition to the restoration of the flag the exercises on the battle field tomorrow will include the unveiling of a monument to the soldiers of the Fifteenth New Jersey who fell at Spottsylvania. Before the regiments return another monument will be dedicated on the battle field of Salem church.

After the Civil War the colors of the Fourteenth Georgia were among the many trophies of the four years' struggle brought back by the Fifteenth New Jersey. It was presented soon after the war to Chaplain Alanson Haines, who was the son of former Governor Haines, of New Jersey.

The Rev. Mr. Haines was a first cousin of Mrs. Bacon, and it was while she and her husband were visiting at the home of the clergyman that Colonel Bacon expressed a desire to own the flag. A few days before his death, twenty years ago, the Rev. Mr. Haines sent the flag to Colonel Bacon, who placed it in his library.

Several years ago the survivors of the Fourteenth Georgia began a search to learn if the flag was still in existence. It was only after a long hunt that they found it in the home of Colonel Bacon, in Flatbush. A delegation of Confederate veterans called on Colonel Bacon, and he expressed himself as happy to have the opportunity to return the flag to the men who had fought beneath its folds.

It was decided that the return should be made on the occasion of the unveiling of the monument to the soldier dead of the New Jersey regiment, which marks the spot where the boys in blue from New Jersey and the men in gray from Georgia fought and where the colors were captured. The three veterans of the Confederate regiment who will receive the colors were named by Governor Hoke Smith, of Georgia.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold a supper in Vincent chapel Friday night from 6 to 7:30 o'clock.

SUPERB SONG RECITAL

William T. Carleton Charms Fashionable Audience with Baritone Solos.

PROGRAM WAS WELL VARIED.

A Snug Sum Is Made For The King's Daughters' Baby Camp Fund—At Hartridge Auditorium.

A considerable sum will be realized for the maintenance of the work of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp as the net proceeds of a delightful song recital given by William T. Carleton at the Hartridge auditorium last night. The program comprised five groups of songs, seventeen numbers in all, and these allowed for a wide range of subject as well as style of rendition, the singer's voice ranging from the wild crescendo passages of Carmen's "Toreador" to the dainty pathos of Ethelbert Nevin's arrangement of "Little Boy Blue," Eugene Field's pathetic poem about his son. Mr. Carleton's singing won the keen appreciation of the large audience.

Between the various groups of songs, Mr. Carleton took occasion to speak briefly about the songs and their composers, and his remarks proved a feature of particular interest. Although the variety of the music was great, the old time beauty of Mr. Carleton's voice was perhaps most noticeable in the group of Italian songs, which came second on the program. The musical adaptations of Kipling's poems won genuine applause, and they comprised the song "Mother O' Mine," with music by Frank E. Tours, and two of the Barrack Room Ballads, "Gunga Din" and "Danny Deever."

Mr. Carleton's singing was accompanied by M. de M. Woodcock at the piano, and the rendition of "Danny Deever, the concluding song, was particularly noteworthy because of the music. The selection is arranged by Walter Damrosch and the accompaniment for the opening verses suggests the dead march, while the final stanzas show the lively music of the military quick-step. The singer's rendition of A. F. Loud's dainty lullaby, "The Slumber Island," in the third group of songs won appreciative applause that made several recalls to the stage necessary, while there was clever musical humor in the song, "A China Tragedy," and the Old Irish Air, "The Stuttering Lovers." This is the program:

Descriptive song, "The Village Blacksmith," words by Longfellow, music by Weiss; song, "Mother o' Mine," words by Rudyard Kipling, music by Frank E. Tours; Boat Song (new), Ware; Old Scotch Piper Song, "The Piper of Dundee," (Traditional).

Serenade, "Dormi pure," Scudere; Canzone, "Caro mio ben," Giordani; Aria, "Dio possente," (Faust), Gounod.

Song, "Little Boy Blue," words by Eugene Field, music by Ethelbert Nevin; Lullaby, "The Slumber Islands," music by A. F. Loud; Old Welsh Aair, "All Through the Night," (Traditional), (by request); Song, "A China Tragedy," words by R. S. Hichens, music by Clayton Thomas; Old Irish Air (new), "The Stuttering Lovers," (Traditional), arranged by Herbert Hughes.

Ballad, "Daddy," Behrens; song, (new), "A Little Blue Flower," Trotere; song, "The Toreador (Carmen), Bizet.

Barrack Room Ballads of Rudyard Kipling (by request); "Gunga Din," Gerard Cobb; "Danny Deever," Walter Damrosch.

Surprised William Mayse.

A birthday surprise party was given to William Mayse at his home on East Third street, last night, by the Imperial Social Club, of which he is a member. The club met at the home of Robert Stevens, 609 East Third street, and then proceeded to the home of Mr. Mayse. An informal program of music and recitations was given by the Misses Stevens, Nelson and Smith, and Mr. Mayser also received a number of gifts.

Elks Plan Bazaar.

Elizabeth Elks are busily arranging for a monster bazaar to be held on dates not yet decided upon. Exalted Ruler A. W. Schwartz has appointed a committee on arrangements made up of the most energetic members of No. 289, and the success of the coming fair is already assured. It promises to be the most notable affair in the history of the lodge, and the proceeds will gog toward furnishing the new home.

Novel Entertainment at Trinity.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will give a unique and novel entertainment in the lecture room of the church, Friday night, May 28, at 8 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Humbert.

MUECK'S MIND A BLANK FOR WEEKS

The family of young Emil Mueck, who suddenly left his home in Elizabeth early in April and about whose whereabouts nothing was known for weeks by his parents, say that all the time he was away his mind was a blank. Returning home last Saturday, he has been confined to his bed ever since. He had just recovered from an attack of the grip when he disapepared.

He has had little to say, but from what he has said members of his family are convinced that from the time he disappeared from Elizabeth until he had been in Chicago several days his mind was a blank. He does not know how he reached the Windy City, whether he paid his fare or by what railroad he traveled.

He declares that after he had paid several bills for his mother he was suddenly seized with a desire to go away from Elizabeth. He remembers standing in Broad street trying to fight down his impulse, but that it overcame him completely. Of events occuring between that time and when he found himself walking "round in circles" in Chicago he has but a very hazy recollection. When his memory did return he remembered who he was, but why he was in Chicago he could not understand. He finally decided the only thing to do was to find relatives, and with the aid of a directory he located an uncle, with whom he remained until he started back to Elizabeth.

Whether it was because of the fact that his father frowned on his attachment for Miss Edith Guenther, of 951 Olive street, who was the first person in Elizabeth to learn of the missing lad's whereabouts, after he went away from home, Emil refuses to say.

NEPHEW FIGHTS FILING OF C. O. HETFIELD'S WILL

The admission of the will of Cora O. Hetfield to probate in the Union County Court, today, is being opposed by his nephew, Scott Terry, of Fanwood, who claims that undue influence was used in the making of the instrument. Mr. Hetfield, who resided at Two Bridges, near Dog Corners, was one of the best known men in Union county. He died a few weeks ago, and when his will was read it was learned that he had left practically his whole estate, valued at about $75,000, to Joseph Gallagher, a Rahway saloonkeeper.

Mr. Terry is represented by Judge William Newcorn in contesting the will, while Charles A. Trimble, of Elizabeth, represents the estate. Mr. Hetfield was a bachelor and for a great many years lived with a bachelor brother at Two Bridges. Terry was of a saving disposition and when he died it was generally known that he was worth considerable. Why he left his estate to Mr. Gallagher, of Rahway, was not made known at the hearing today.

William Slade.

William Slade, aged fifty-eight years, of West Fourth street, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, from a complication of asthma and pneumonia. He was taken to the hospital on Saturday, but his condition was such that he failed to respond to the treatment. Mr. Slade has been a resident of this city for many years. He is survived by a wife and two daughters, one of whom being Mrs. Howard Woolston, of West Front street. The funeral will be private.

"Black Rock" Recital.

For the benefit of the women, the Men's Club of the Congregational church presented a dramatic recital of "Black Rock" by Miss Charille Runals, of New York. Miss Runals is well known in Plainfield as a dramatic reader, having appeared at the Y. M. C. A. last winter. Her readings last night which were partly recitation and partly songs were much enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience.

Bonfire Started Barn Fire.

Sparks from a bonfire set fire to the barn in the rear of Frank Cullen's residence, 1001 South Second street, at shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. An alarm was sounded from box 47 and the flames were killed with a chemical stream. The loss will be about $20.

FORT AND M'ADOO TO SPEAK AT WESTFIELD

President W. E. Tuttl, Jr., of the Westfield Board of Trade, has appointed a committee of twenty to make arrangements for the first annual banquet of the board, to be held at the Westfield Casino May 25.

Arthur N. Pierson is chairman of the committee. The other members are A. L. Russell, C. A. Smith, J. G. Casey, H. C. McVey, J. M. Walsh, R. V. Hoffman, W. E. Reeve, C. E. Pearsall, G. W. Frutchey, C. H. Denman, F. S. Taggart, W. G. Mooney, F. C. Decker, W. K. Wheatley, G. A. V. Hankinson, Hugh Talbot, L. Ganzel, W. J. Lee and Edward Floyd.

Governor Fort will be the guest of honor. William G. McAdoo, President McCarter, of the Public Service Corporation; W. G. Besler, W. C. Hope and C. P. Huntington, of the Central Railroad, have also been invited to attend. The banquet promises to be an eventful one in the history of Westfield.

SOCIETY AT 'SUNNYSIDE' MEET MRS. MEAD'S GUESTS

Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead gave a charming tea at her home, "Sunnyside," yesterday afternoon, for Mrs. George C. Buell and her daughter, Miss Alice Buell, of Rochester, N. Y., who have been her guests for several days. The home was thronged with fashionable society people of Plainfield and North Plainfield and there were many delightful features. The rooms were lavishly decorated for the occasion, the color scheme in the dining-room being lavendar and white, while dog-wood was used with pleasant effect.

Mrs. Mead, Mrs. George C. Buell and Miss Buell were assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, Mrs. Louis K. Hyde, Mrs. Francis deLacy Hyde, Mrs. T. W. T. Bakewell, Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. D. R. Rowland, Mrs. A. H. Atterbury.

These young women assisted in serving in the dining-room: Miss Helen Harman, Miss Euphemia Bakewell, Miss Elsie Martin, Miss Eva Brown, Miss Marguerite McCutchen and Miss Urzula Rowland.

THIS BOY DESERVES TO BE PUNISHED WELL

Bergen Naylor, aged sixteen years, of Westervelt avenue, who was implicated with Frank Mowery in throwing ashes in the eyes of Theodore Oesniann, of Grove street, Sunday night, was arrested this morning and will be given a hearing before Recorder Dolliver tomorrow night. The boy was put in charge of his father, who assured the police that the lad would be at the hearing.

It was stated yesterday that Edward J. Olssen, of the borough, was the victim of the boy's pranks, but Mr. Oesniann called at the office this morning and stated that it was he who made the complaint. He conducts a candy store on the upper end of Grove street. He will not lose his eyesight as at first supposed.

"One of the Finest" a Hit.

Inspector Messiter causes all the trouble in the play "The Magistrate" to be given Friday night, May 21, at the New Plainfield theatre, by the members of the Park Comedy Club. In real life Inspector Messiter is Kerro Knox, and as the gruff policeman, Mr. Knox will "do his duty" and do it well. William Flanders makes an excellent Achille Blonde, the proprietor of a French hotel; while the character of Wyke, a butler, is exceedingly well taken by Hugh Jarvis. Mr. Jarvis has had considerable experience in comedy roles while a student at Amherst College.

Reception for Father Bogan.

A farewell reception to Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, who is to sail next week for a three-months' trip of recuperation abroad, will be held at St. Mary's School tomorrow night. The scholarly priest will sail Thursday, May 20, and will tour the continent, visiting Naples and Rome and stopping for some time in Ireland upon his return.

Announce Approaching Wedding.

Mrs. Annie F. Hyatt, of East Ninth street, has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Cornelia Lawrence Hyatt, to Dr. J. B. Hawes, 2d., of Boston, Mass. The ceremony will take place in Grace church, Tuesday afternoon, June 1, at 4 o'clock.

SIAM AND ITS MISSIONS

Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley Addresses Crescent Avenue Church Women.

DISPELLS INCORRECT IDEAS.

Praises for King of Siam for His Demovracy—Missionary's Life a Hard One.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church held its last meeting for the season, yesterday, when Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley, of New York, was invited to address the members. He is a brother-in-law to George P. Mellick, of East Seventh street, and a practicing physician in New York. His son, Dr. Duncan Bulkley, is a medical missionary in Siam, and the father has just returned from a visit to Siam. For this reason he was asked to tell about the mission work there.

The speaker was very enthusiastic over the progress of the mission work in Siam. He explained that his son travels with Rev. Dr. Dunlap, and the natives, being especially interested in the presence of the "medical man" make it easy for the minister to get near them and teach them about the Christ. Dr. Bulkley spoke words of praise about the King of Siam, adding that he is most American in his ideas, and in fact has an American for an advisor. He is considered a wide-awake man and one who is very anxious that his people should progress and become thoroughly acquainted with modern ideas as found in America and Europe. Whenever possible he always helps the missionaries.

Dr. Bulkley said that the people in this country so often get erroneous ideas about the work of the missionary, believing that he lives a life of luxury and with plenty of means furnished by the missionary boards. He wished to dispel this fanciful thought, explaining that frequently the foreign governments and others through interest in the work provide quarters for the missionaries and that they are not extravagant, as reported.

At the conclusion of Dr. Bulkley's address, Miss Julia Scribner, who was a delegate from the society to the Presbyterial meeting held recently at Clinton, presented an interesting report of that gathering. Dr. Duncan Bulkley, the medical missionary, is supported in his work by the members of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

METAL WORK CONCERN WITH $25,000 CAPITAL

Incorporation papers were filed in the Union County Court today by the Grove Hinman, Inc., the principal place of business and office of which is at 710 East Seventh street, this city. The capital stock is $25,000, divided into 12,500 shares at a par value of $10. Of the shares, 2,500 are preferred and the other 10,000 common.

The purpose for which the company is incorporated is to manufacture architectural and ornamental metal work in the non-ferrous alloys, a business which has been carried on here by Mr. Hinman for sometime. The incorporators are Lewis Bond, who is the agent, with eighty shares; Charles M. Hummer, of North Plainfield, ten shares, and I. B. Vail, ten shares.

GOVERNMENT OR RAILROAD TO PAY FOR MESSENGERS

For the purpose of revising the statistics regarding the distances between postoffices and railroad stations, a Government official has been engaged in that work along the line of the New Jersey Central this week. Yesterday the distances at Fanwood and Plainfield were measured. The idea of doing this is to ascertain whether it is up to the postal authorities or the railroad company to carry the mail between the offices and the stations.

Where the postoffice is under eighty rods of the railroad station the railroad company is obliged by law to carry the mail between it and the postoffice. Here in Plainfield the office is just a trifle over the eighty rods and for that reason the Government lets the contract to the lowest bidder. When the new postoffice building is erected efforts will be made to locate it within the eighty rods of the railroad station.

WIDOW CELEBRATES GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Although her husband has been dead for several years, yesterday marked the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mrs. Jeffery Heenan, of South Plainfield, and the event was celebrated in a pleasant way by a family reunion. The day was given up entirely to social features, and Mrs. Heenan was congratulated upon reaching a ripe age and still being in possession of excellent health. She was the recipient of many useful gifts, including a purse of $50 in gold. Mrs. Heenan is one of the oldest residents of South Plainfield and she has a host of friends.

Among those present at the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. John Kilbride, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery Heenan, Jr., of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Heenan, of Oyster Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. John Manley, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sofield and Cornelius Heenan, of South Plainfield.

WEDDING BELLS CLIMAX OF LOVE FOR A NURSE

Miss Helen White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Seymour White, of Elmira, N. Y., and William H. Webster, of this city, were married last night at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. A romantic incident of the love affair is that Mr. Webster met his bride while she, as a nurse, was caring for him at Muhlenberg Hospital. Another interesting incident is that the couple will leave on Saturday with Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, to join the latter in his work among the deep sea fishermen of Labrador.

The bride served as a pupil nurse and was graduated from the training school at Muhlenberg Hospital, and while there Mr. Webster was admitted there for treatment, and she was assigned to special on the case. Not long after leaving the institution the couple became engaged and then plans for the wedding and trip to Labrador were made. Mr. Webster is an expert accountant and became converted through the influence of Dr. Grenfell, after which he became interested in his work in Labrador.

During his residence in this city, Mr. Webster has been deelp interested in the work at Hope chapel, where he has been a teacher in the Sunday-school. His wife is also enthusiastic about the work in Labrador, and because of her training as a nurse she will be of great value in the mission work there.

SOME WONDERFUL ACTS AT THE NEW PLAINFIELD.

Hampton's trained animals at the New Plainfield theatre are a big hit. The performing goose is one of the greatest novelties ever seen in this city. This goose adds, multiplies and tells the correct time. The special feature o fthe act is a monkey "looping the loop." On the bill are Jerome & Jerome, in "Fun in Frogland," two of the best acrobats ever seen at a theatre; Mae Russell; Neisuco, the boy magician; the Roys and Byron and Blanch in a sketch called "Matrimonial Sweets in Family Jars."

There will be an entire change of program tomorrow afternoon. Owing to the High School entertainment which is to be given at the theatre on Saturday night the entire vaudeville bill will be shifted to the Orpheum theatre. The regular vaudeville bill will be presented Saturday matinee.

Golden Eagle Memorial Service.

Sunday, May 16, will be observed throughout the country by the Knights of the Golden Eagle as its memorial day, in remembrance of departed members. Freedom Castle, No. 42, of this city, will attend divine services at Trinity Reformed church, in the evening, when Rev. John Y. Broek, the pastor, will address the organization on "Fraternalism," and the choir will sing special music. The members will meet in their rooms at 7 o'clock that night, invested with hat, badge and gloves.

Basket Missionary Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the East Association of New Jersey will be held at the Roselle Baptist church on Friday, May 14. Sessions will be held at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Ida Faye Levering, of India, will be one of the speakers. This will be a basket meeting.

GREAT TURNOUT FOR TOM MUIR TESTIMONIAL

With an attendance of 120 of Tom Muir's friends as volunteers for the chorus of the mammoth benefit minstrel show to be held at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, June 19, the first rehearsal of the big company was conducted in the Elks' lodge rooms last night under the direction of City Judge William N. Runyon. It had been hoped, if possible, to secure enough singers to make up a black-face chorus of a hundred, but there were so many candidates that Mr. Runyon now plans to increase the big semi-circle to number 150 singers. Although over a hundred singers "registered" in the chorus last night, more than a score in addition have assured the Judge that they will turn out for the next rehearsal, which will be held Friday night.

The big chorus got right down to business at the first rehearsal, and practised half a dozen choruses for a solid hour. It is planned to have rehearsals at the lodge rooms each Friday and Tuesday night, and the tickets for the benefit show are to be issued within a week. There is very little "green" material among the chorus volunteers and the list includes delegations from the Hope Minstrels, the Franklin and Dixie troupes, the Elks and a Plainfield High School organization. Boroughites and North Plainfield High School boys have volunteered and the personel of the big chorus shows the universal sympathy felt for Tom Muir in his trouble.

With such a big chorus, it is planned to have eight end men and reports as to the make-up of the show lead to the belief of its unqualified success as the largest affair of its kind ever held in this State.

Y. M. C. A. ORCHESTRA PLEASES BIG AUDIENCE

The thirty-third and last concert of the season, given by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, took place last night before one of the largest audiences ever assembled in the auditorium. The concert was without doubt the best given by the orchestra this season. The program consisted of fourteen numbers, each of which was rendered in a manner that brought forth much applause. The selections the "Poet and Peasant" and the Polish dance, "Kinawreak," by Wieneawski, were the best received and by far the best rendered, especially in time and shading.

Mrs. Theodore Mantz, the soloist, was never in better voice, her two selections, "A Song of Sunshine," by Goring-Thomas, and the "Serenade," from Schubert, were well sung, especially the latter. One of the features of the concert was the 'cello solo work of Miss Emily Moffitt. There was also a cornet solo by Whitney Frazee, and a violin solo by George Spicer, which were well received by the audience. Miss May Vincent Whitney acted as accompanist.

Will Try to Amend Ordinance.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday night, May 24, when among other business to be considered will be the proposed amendment to the police ordinance which provides for the abolishing of the office of roundsmen. It is the purpose of the police board to substitute the word "sergeants" for "roundsmen," which will mean an increase of salary for the new appointee to the office of sergeant, which it is proposed to fill by the appointment of Roundsman Maurice Higgins.

Lodge Women Hold Euchre.

After the business session of Friendship Lodge, No. 4, Daughters of Rebecca, last night, when one proposition was received, the members enjoyed a euchre party. The diversion was a pleasing feature. The highest number of points for the women were scored by Miss May VanFleet, Mrs. J. M. Lewin, Mrs. William Johnson, while J. M. Lewin, William Dunham and William Snyder scored the most points for the men. Refreshments were served afterward.

To Hold Recognition Services.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor, and the officers of the Temple Baptist church, have arranged for a "recognition service" to be held at the church, Friday night, June 4, marking in an appropriate manner the establishment of the church as an independent body set apart from the First Baptist church. There will be several interest addresses, a program of special music, in which Pastor Chambliss and others of the First Baptist church will have a part.

MANY BIG DEMONSTRATIONS.

Prizes To Be Awarded At All Parades — Headquarters at Boice, Runyon & Co. Building.

Definite plans for the "big times" in connection with the three-day Charter Day anniversary to be held July 5, 6 and 7 are being framed by the various committees and arrangements for the parades and contests were discussed at the meetings of the parade and finance committees held last night. The celebration headquarters will be in the vacant store in Boice, Runyon & Company's building at Park and North avenues, where Wm. H. Drayton will be in charge. The offer of the use of the building was made for the firm by H. A. Todd at the meeting of the finance committee held last night. The store will be fitted up as general headquarters for all the committees and officials and a competent stenographer will be in attendance.

That residents of the city and borough are willing to support the anniversary movement in a solid financial manner is shown by the fact that although no appeals for funds have yet been made, a substantial amount has already been voluntarily pledged, according to the report made last night by E. M. Laing, chairman of the finance committee. It was decided at the meeting of this committee to start the campaign for funds this week, and circular letters, appealing for financial support, will be sent out before many days.

Fire Chiefs Doane and Woolston attended the meeting of the parade committee last night, when plans for the firemen's parade were formulated. It was decided to hold this parade on the last day of the celebration, when the firemen will start their march from Watchung avenue and East Front street at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Invitations were sent out today inviting sixty-two fire companies to participate in this parade, and there is every reason to believe that the line will be a long one.

The parade committee will recommend to the finance committee that four prizes be given in connection with the firemen's parade. It is planned to have a prize for the best drilled company, the company having the greatest number of men in line passing the reviewing stand, the best uniformed company of Exempts, and the company coming from the greatest distance.

Plans for Tuesday, July 6,—the second day of the anniversary celebration—show that this will be a particularly "big day." Arrangements were completed last night for a bicycle and motor-cycle section which will form a part of the automobile parade to be held Tuesday morning, adn "Jack" Horner, of the Plainfield Cycle Club, has been appointed to complete the arrangements for this two-wheeled section. The various automobile dealers will form a committee in charge of the auto parade, and it is reported plans are under way to enter some elaborately decorated machines. The prizes have not yet been decided upon.

The athletic games will be held Tuesday afternoon, and at last night's meeting of the finance committee, Physical Director G. L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., was appointed chairman of the committee in charge of these sports. F. A. Duttenhofer, M. C. VanArsdale and Herman Schwed were named as a committee to decide upon and select badges and trophies to be presented to winners of the various athletic events.

City and borough will be turned over to the "Mummers" the Tuesday night of the celebration, when the parade will be made up of grotesqueful costumed men, women and children, and all sorts of practical jokes will be in order. This parade will conclude with a typical Mardi Gras "Mummers' Frolic."

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held a regular meeting, last night, to further complete details for the annual observance of Memorial Day. All reports showed progress.

2nd Week of Our Great May Sale

Last week's business has clearly demonstrated that the people are alive to announcements coming from the "White Store." The values created a tremendous stir, for sentiment could not bring the thousands who flocked here. The people want values, and it is only through such an organization as ours---who are always on the alert to purchase in vast quantities---that such exceptional opportunities can be expected. No Mail, Tel. or C.O.D. orders filled at these prices

This week we desire to again demonstrate our supremacy in value-giving, and promise those who attend that no disappointments will attend their shopping at the "White Store."

The time is here to begin thinking of Screen Doors, Window Screens, Wire Cloth Hammocks, Lawn Mowers, Garden Hose, Window Shades, Matting, Linoleum, Rugs, Trunks, Traveling Bags and Suit Cases. We carry a full line of these articles at the lowest possible retail prices. Come here and look our line over before deciding, as it will mean a saving worth while.

What Franchise Taxes Cost Public Service

WHEN PUBLIC SERVICE undertook last week to tell about the amount of franchise taxes it has paid, the talk and the figures given referred exclusively to this particular kind of tax paid by the corporation's street railway department.

No mention was made of the gas and electric departments. The omission was intentional. Not because these departments do not pay franchise taxes, but for the reason that the sum of such taxes assessed against the company's gas and electric business has grown so great as to rank it almost equal in importance with the aggregate of the trolley franchise taxes. Because of this fact the subject was reserved for this talk.

FOR GAS AND ELECTRIC FRANCHISES.

The trolley franchise taxes, as told last week, amounted to $1,132,490.88, and in addition to this PUBLIC SERVICE has paid during the six years of its existence more than $925,000 in gas and electric franchise taxes. The payments by years are given herewith:

YEAR	AMOUNT
1903	$116,678.20
1904	132,439.79
1905	147,937.37
1906	161,744.95
1907	174,459.82
1908	192,330.92
Total	$925,591.05

The tax assessed is two per cent. of the gross receipts of the company's gas and electric business.

ALL GOES TO MUNICIPALITIES.

Like the street railway franchise tax the assessment is apportioned by the State Board of Assessors and the money is paid directly to the municipalities in whose streets the company's property is located.

As the business increases the amount of tax payable is bound to grow in exact proportion.

Combining the trolley, gas and electric franchise taxes it will be seen that in six years PUBLIC SERVICE has paid out in this way $2,058,081.93.

TAXES COME BEFORE PROFITS.

This is a lot of money. Every dollar of it goes towards relieving the burdens of the taxpayers and every dollar must come from the service before profits can be counted by the company.

To realize what $2,058,081.93 in receipts means just reflect that this sum is more than three times as much as the cities of Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken, Passaic, Paterson, Orange, East Orange, Elizabeth, Plainfield, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Trenton and Camden, all combined, paid to PUBLIC SERVICE for their street electric lighting during the entire year of 1908.

And PUBLIC SERVICE pays the tax solely for the privilege of doing business.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Elmer Cutting and his troupe, the Dixie Minstrels, should be greeted by a full house when the curtain rings up at Excelsior Hall tomorrow night. The show is good, jokes new and the vocalists include Plainfield's best talent.

George W. Marsh, who owns the property on Park avenue which has been used for several years by the ball team, has given the use of the field for the season to the Athletic Association connected with the Baptist church.

The new ball grounds near Forest road are a big improvement over the old grounds, the outfield being much larger and the diamond when finished will be one of the fastest in this section.

Government employes yesterday measured the distance between the postoffice and the Fanwood station. No reason was given as to why the survey was made.

Henry Keuhn and daughter, of Westfield avenue, leave Friday for an extended visit with relatives at Hunter, N. Y.

The teachers and pupils of the public school are taking their annual May walk over the mountains this afternoon.

Mrs. Michael Corrona, of Stanbery avenue, has returned from a visit with relatives in New York.

Mrs. Edwin Fancher, of the borough, has been entertaining relatives from Somerville.

Dixie Minstrels, Excelsior Hall, Thursday evening. 5 8 5

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Mrs. Margaret Brennen, of West Dunellen, was arrested by Constable Pierce yesterday on an assault charge made by her husband, Martin Brennen. The man claims his wife hit him with a piece of wood, causing a bad gash to be cut on his head. She was taken before Justice of the Peace C. T. Rodgers and after a hearing was held for the Grand Jury. Justice Campbell says that about ten days ago Brennen struck his wife with a shovel while they were at the barn and that trouble had been brewing between them ever since.

Dr. Charles Creamer, of Philadelphia, was a business visitor in the city yesterday. Dr. Creamer is a large property owner here and contemplates making extensive improvements to his property in the near future.

Miss Margaret Watton, of New Market, who has been spending several months in Europe, returned home yesterday. Miss Watton spent most of her time in Scotland.

George Hipp, who has been at the Muhlenberg Hospital for the past few weeks owing to an operation, was brought home today.

Work is now being hastened on the new postoffice building, which will be ready early next month.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Miss Nellie Carroll, of South Bound Brook, spent yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Pierre F. Lehmann, at Chimney Rock.

Charles Wilson moved his family from South Branch to Mountain avenue, Bound Brook, yesterday. Mr. Wilson formerly lived here.

A daughter was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. George E. Van Nostrand, at their home in Cedar street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. John R. Tingley is suffering with the grip at her home in Cherry street, South Bound Brook.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Edward McDonough is slowly recovering from the injuries he received in an accident on Sunday.

A meeting of the teachers' training class of the Baptist church was held last night.

Mrs. Melvin Shrope has returned home after a short visit with out-of-town friends.

Mrs. John Maguire has returned home after a short visit with friends in Metuchen.

Miss Theresa Blundredge, of Front street, was in Plainfield yesterday.

New Bill at Proctor's.

There will be a new bill at Proctor's today, the vandeville acts including Webb & Morton, travesty skit; Frava Navare, singing and character change artist, with three life motion pictures: "Romance of Fisherman's Daughter," "Little Orphan," "A Fighting Chance," "Dairy Maid's Lovers," "'Tis an Ill Wind That Blows No Good," "Puzzled Mad," "Falling Arrow," "Caught Red Handed," and "Spending a Holiday."

NEWARK The Reliable Store—Established Over 51 Years

UNIQUE 1/3 OFF MEN'S CLOTHING SALE.

For three months we have been preparing a clothing surprise that would take Newark men by storm. Going to two most reliable makers in the country, we proposed in advance taking entire spring surplus. This would obviate looking for buyers and would insure complete selling of season's output, conditions they ardently desire, but rarely see fulfilled. Remember we went to foremost makers, brands famous, product perfect. They welcomed our terms and granted price concessions greater than ever before.

To these purchases we add from our own stocks, lines already sold down to a few of a kind. Hence you may anticipate fine desirable clothing at record low prices—wonderfully large assortment. Sale will be remembered as one of the most sensational Clothing Cuts right the start of a season, will demonstrate that Snyder's is a factor in the clothing trade and will give still more impetus to this fast growing business.

Sale Starts Thursday Promptly at 8:30 a.m.

Suits that will please particular men—medium and light weight American and English worsteds, cassimeres and cheviot; newest Spring models, mostly all hand tailored; assortments so large that you will surely find nearly every design and shade you can think of and more, light, medium and dark mixed patterns; new gray tone, smoke, tan, olive and green effects; sizes 31 to 44 chest.

Everything for the Man

Snappy Styles in Furnishings

This is a Men's Department strictly, with a most complete line of Furnishings—you know the reputation of this Man's part of the store for snappy styles and extra good values—this reputation is being lived right up to in every way.

New things in Men's Furnishings for Summer—just a few suggestions picked at random to show the "better" values we offer

Cotwear Hosiery

Men's Shirts

New Styles, Patterns and Colors, for Summer 50c to $1.50.

Hosiery

The largest stock, the greatest assortment, make your selection here 10c to 50c.

Men's Light Underwear

for Summer—cool and sanitary, ideal for Summer, 25c, 39c and 50c.

Men's Night Shirts

The best of values, note prices 50c, 75c and $1.00.

Here Are Extra Good Values in Muslin Underwear

Not exactly a sale—though most stores would call it "extraordinary"—"sensational" and by other abused adjectives.

These are our complete new stocks—larger than ever—made of superior materials of soft, strong weaving—daintily trimmed with exquisite laces, beautiful flouncings and newest insertions.

All clean goods, well made, generous full cut garments, not the skimpy sort that are never worth buying.

Buying in such large quantities we obtained very low prices—you'll find our values are unequalled in this vicinity. We are almost doubling last year's business---and the reason is found in our better qualities and bigger values. Don't fail to investigate our offerings.

Corsets of Style Imparting Qualities

More Than Forty Models to Select From

There is no doubt about the corset being a vital factor in dress. It either makes or mars the gown. Our stocks here offer the greatest assortments of style---any figure can be suited.

We feature C. B., W. B., Warner's Rust Proof, Nemo, R. & G., American Lady, Larine & De Brevoise, Braisone and Ferris Waists. With every corset we give a five yard linen lace.

Annual May Sale

of Thousands of

Smart Summer Waists

WE'VE BEEN PLANNING for this sale for a long while, and months ago arranged with one of the best makers we trade with to use up his surplus embroideries in making this immense lot of waists for us for our May Sale.

The models, of course, are the newest and prettiest we could select from hundreds. The materials are the nicest sort, and the making to the last stitch is of a conscientious character, there being nothing slighted, nothing skimped.

We have arranged several groupes for this sale and you can pick from them, saving from $1 to $3.50 on every waist you buy.

This should be one of the biggest waist sales we have ever had because of the quantity and attractiveness of the waists presented, and the diminutive prices at which they are to be sold.

Lot 1—No less than 15 models in waists, made of smart tailored Linon, Batiste and Lawn, in the new Dutch neck and Peter Pan styles; lace and embroidery trimmed; ¾ or full length sleeves; and dressy waists elaborated with Valenciennes lace and neat embroidery; all wanted sizes; values $2 at only ..... .98

Lot 3—Contains no less than twenty-five models in dressy waists of Pure Irish Linen and several smartly tailored styles; also of Imported Madras in all white or with colored stripes. Imported Crossbar Swiss and more elaborate models of Persian Lawn and sheer Batiste; the entire waist embellished and designed with dainty filet and German Valenciennes laces and imported embroideries; all sizes in this lot; values running from $3.50 to $4; offered at $2

Second Floor.

Lot 2—Embraces several attractive and dressy models made of Batiste and Persian Lawn, the entire waist front, back and sleeve beautified with Valenciennes lace and dainty embroideries. There are all sizes in this lot to choose from—every waist is a beauty. They would sell regularly at $2.50, but we price them for this big sale at only $1.45

Lot 4—Embraces the higher grade exclusive models of Batiste and Sheerest Lawns; some with entire front of strips of imported Swiss embroidery; others richly trimmed with Venise, German Valenciennes, filets and dainty embroideries; also entirely new models in Dutch neck styles with turn-over collar and cuffs; ¾ length sleeves; all wanted sizes; values $4.50, $5; priced at only $2.98

Other handsome waists worth $6 to $9.50 on sale at $3.98 and $5.

"Dave" Driscoll, formerly of this city, has been engaged as manager and first baseman for the new baseball club at New Brunswick and the first game was played a week ago, when the home nine defeated Vailsburg. McKenna, who has also pitched for the Plainfield team, is the twirler for the new club. "Dave" has already become popular in New Brunswick.

Clifford Randolph is "making good" at Williamsport, although he did receive his "bumps" in one game in which he was called upon to help out.

The Clinton Avenue team is considered much stronger this year than last and promises to furnish a season of good sport for the fans. Ortleib, as a twirling artist, is delivering the goods, and Seery as a backstop is doing fine work, while the other positions are well filled, as usual.

The Highland A. C., of this city, has a fast team and although but two games have been played, the players are showing up well.

Now that the Watchung Hunt Club has decided to have a team here, the fans are assured of seeing many fast games with such teams as Englewood F. C., Orange, Montclair, New York A. C., Knickerbocker A. C., and other clubs of equal strength.

GOLF.

There already are 110 entries for the Fox Hills Golf Club tourgament on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The entries close with the first mail received yesterday and sent by the club secretary to the tournament committee—A. H. Pogson, chairman—at the Fox Hills Golf Club. The Chevy Chase Club, Washington, has an invitation tournament on the same days, which F. Oden Horstman has planned to be a reunion of old time players and former amateur champions.

The much talked of professional foursome between James Braid and J. H. Taylor and G. Duncan, who is to tour in this country, and C. H. Mayo did not bring out the close contest expected by the British players. The younger pair began brilliantly in the first half at Burhill and took the first three holes, but after that Braid and Taylor had the most dash and best nerves. On the eleventh hole Duncan made a bad put, four or five inches off the line, and knocked the opposing side's ball into the hole. Thereafter Duncan and Mayo seemed to lose confidence and finished 5 down for the morning. Braid and Taylor doing 74 to their 78.

On the first hole of the afternoon Duncan and Mayo lifted after taking three shots in a bunker. They finished the day still 5 down, Braid and Taylor doing 79 and Duncan and Mayo 73 for seventeen holes, the first hole not having been approximated. In the second half of the match at Walton Heath Duncan had many brilliant shots, but Braid and Taylor won by 7 up and 7 to play. They scored 79 and 47 for the remaining eleven holes, Duncan and Mayo scoring 85 and 48.

A one day tournament open to all members of clubs in the United States Golf Association is announced by the Myoria Hunt Club—the St. Andrews of the Massachusetts clubs—for May 31. There will be a Class A scratch stroke competition of thirty-six holes and a Class B competition at eighteen holes handicap. Anybody may elect which class he will enter, but none will be allowed to enter in both classes.

Plainfield, N. J., May 12, 1909.

There should be no hesitation in accepting the offer of the land syndicate which desires to deed over some seventy acres in the west end for park purposes. The only question that arises is whether it would not be preferable for the borough to allow the city to take the title. The city is probably better able financially to assume the task of getting the large tract into shape and to defray the necessary running expenses when the improvements are made. North Plainfield would be benefitted by such arrangement, just so much so as Plainfield for a park partially in its territory would result in higher property values and therefore would be the means of increasing the borough's revenues. And North Plainfield would not be called upon to assume any of the expense.

It is said to be a serious question whether there could be joint ownership inasmuch as the property is situated not only in two municipalities but in two counties. Legal entanglements would occur from time to time in the opinion of those in a position to know whereof they speak and moreover possibly there would continually be reasonable differences between the city and borough as to improvements and maintenance policies. It seems, therefore, that the wise thing to be done is to vest the title in a single municipality and preferably in the city.

It is up to those behind the scheme to show their hand before the city fathers are asked to make a radical change in the police ordinance by abolishing the office of roundsman and substituting that of sergeant. A roundsman is an essential part of any well regulated police department for he acts for the chief in seeing that the patrolmen are discharging their duties. But what use is there for additional sergeants in a department so small as ours, particularly when there is already one sergeant?

The Daily Press was twenty-two years old on Monday. There is nothing particularly significant in that fact excepting it recalls that for such a long period it has continued to hold its place as Plainfield's leading newspaper and has ever enjoyed the reputation of being the best advertising and news medium in the city, and it confidently expects to have this reputation for many years to come.

AUTOMOBILES PRODUCE STATE'S BIG REVENUES

State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles J. B. R. Smith announced yesterday that the automobile returns for the year, so far, have been $109,799.92.

By months the returns were: January, $30,526.97; February, $19,799.81; March, $26,663.02; April, $32,810.12. Including the months of October, November and December last year, from the beginning of the department's fiscal year, the receipts were: October, $9,175.41; November, $3,425.27; December, $27,064.88, or a total for the seven months of $149,465.48.

Commissioner Smith received yesterday from Assistant Attorney-General Gaskill an opinion holding that there is no mandatory duty cast upon the motor vehicle commissioner by the motor vehicle law to serve summonses issued by magistrates in proceedings against automobilists on the charge of violating the law.

Commissioner Smith said yesterday that having received the opinion he would now proceed to serve the summonses in all meritorius cases brought to him, the service to be made in the legal manner, which means that the fee of 30 cents and the mileage will be demanded in advance from the officer presenting the summons for service.

SAYS CHEMICAL PROCESS DOESN'T PURIFY WATER.

E. A. Winslow, assistant professor of biology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, yesterday took the stand before Special Master Magie in Jersey City in the hearing to fix the cost of safeguarding Jersey City's water supply from pollution.

Professor Winslow declared that the chemical process now used by the Jersey City Water Supply Company does not produce a pure and wholesome water supply.

Professor Winslow was called to the stand by James B. Vredenburg, representing the city. He said that a purifying plant such as that at Boonton could not take all the forms of pollution from a stream.

"You visited the disinfecting plant at Boonton?" asked Mr. Vredenburg. Witness said he had.

"Does this disinfecting plant produce a pure, wholesome water?"

"I think that it does not."

"Why?"

"From the cities of Boonton, Dover and Hibernia many forms of pollution get into the water. The chemical removes the living germs, but does not remove the bacteria germs."

Here there was some argument as to the diseases that spring from impure water. Professor Winslow said that from impure water came among other things, typhoid fever, cholera and dysentery. There was some talk as to what success had accrued to the treating of drinking water with chemicals in other cities. Professor Sedgwick said that it had been tried on the river Thames, London, but that it had to be given up.

Professor Winslow was shown a series of maps showing what Professor North's analysis had shown to be the condition of Jersey City's drinking water.

"What is your conclusions as to the purity of the water," asked Mr. Vredenburg, "as shown by Professor North's tables?"

"I think," replied the witness, "that they indicate that the water on most occasions is of a very good quality, but on three occasions, I conclude, that Jersey City's drinking water was seriously polluted. These occasions were on the four days following October 26, on January 28, and on March 4. On October 26, two inches of rain fell. March 4, we had the heavy snow storm. I cannot account for January 28."

Witness did not think the plant could be run intermittently, and said that a chemical might be placed in the water for days to practically purify it, but that suddenly there might be a heavy increase in organic matter in the water with no increase in the supply of the chemical. On such an occasion, the witness thought that the "process would break down."

On cross-examination, William D. Edwards, appearing for the water company, asked:

"Did you ever treat typhoid fever?"

"No," was the response. "My business is not to treat typhoid fever, but to prevent it."

Made Wife Target, Yet Gets Decree.
George Sauer, of Trenton, has been granted an absolute divorce by the Court of Chancery, and the decree seems to indicate that a man has the right to throw hot coffee, dishes and other things at his wife if he so desires, at least such conduct will not prevent him from getting a divorce if his wife refuses to live with him, as was the case with Sauer. Sauer blamed a boarder in the house for the trouble he had with his wife.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

What is expected to be the most successful bazar ever held in Jersey City was opened last night in the new parochial school building of St. Patrick's church with an illustrated lecture by the rector, Mgr. John A. Stafford, who depicted in song and story a most interesting tour of Ireland. Mgr. Stafford hopes to realize a fund sufficient to build and equip a convent for the sisters who are to have charge of the school and teach the children of the parish, numbering 1,000.

The force of Millville men having left work on the new sewage disposal plant, claiming that the foreman was unduly harsh with them and wanted them to work ten hours a day for $1.50, a gang of laborers was taken to Millville from Philadelphia. Councilman Neal, chairman of the Sewer Committee, and Mayor Smith appeared upon the scene and forbid the contractor to put the men to work, owing to the provisions of the contract that local labor, where possible, should be employed. The gang returned to Philadelphia without doing any work.

Benjamin Hirschman, former shoe merchant, of Atlantic City, now under $5,000 bail as an accessory to the burning of his store, that city, in January last, was taken to May's Landing jail after friends failed to find a bondsman. He was accompanied by his younger brother, David, whose confession to Chief of Police Woodruff that he fired the store to allow his brother to collect insurance, resulted in the arrest of both. Hirschman still insists that he is innocent; that he had no hand in the plot, and expert lawyers have been engaged to defend him.

The first victim of Trenton's dog tag ordinance was Albert Johnson, last year's official dog catcher, and now first assistant. Johnson owns a dog which defies description. When he was haled into the First District Police Court on the charge of failing to take out a license for it he seemed inclined to treat the affair as a joke, but when Police Justice Harris became stern, Johnson explained that he had endeavored to take out a license last week, but asserted that the City Clerk had told him to come some other time when he was not so busy. Justice Harris imposed a fine of $5, which Johnson was unable to produce.

NO TRACE FOUND OF MISSING CRANFORD MAN.

No news has yet been received by Mrs. Frank S. Curtis, who lives at 48 Burnside avenue, Cranford, concerning the whereabouts of her husband, a civil engineer, who disappeared from the Wayne House, in Detroit, April 28 last, although detectives and members of Masonic Lodge, No. 703, of New York, are trying to unearth a clue.

Descriptions of Curtis were sent out Monday by the local police to many cities. William S. Curtis, a brother, lives at 1010 Manhattan avenue, New York city, but the engineer has not made his appearance there. Curtis is described as being fifty years of age, five feet ten inches tall, with smooth face and gray hair. He has a daughter, who is a student at Smith College.

Charles Staats, of New York, who has been visiting relatives here, has returned.

GUN "NOT LOADED" FIRES A FATAL SHOT.

Struck with a bullet from an air rifle which was not supposed to be loaded, Mrs. Emma Berwick, of No. 94 West Thirty-fifth street, Bayonne, is near death. The accident occurred last Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, No. 73 West Fiftieth street. No report was made to the police.

In company with her husband, Mrs. Berwick visited the home of the Cooks. When fourteen-year-old Joseph Cook saw his elder brother exhibiting his air rifle he said:

"Just wait a minute until you see my rifle." He soon reappeared with his rifle and began to flourish it.

"You had better be careful, Joe," said Mrs. Berwick. "That rifle might go off."

"Oh, there is no danger. It isn't loaded," replied the boy.

As he spoke his finger touched the trigger and a bullet struck Mrs. Berwick in the neck as she sat a foot or two from the boy. She fell to the floor unconscious. She was removed to her home and physicians found that the bullet had passed into her spine. They said last night that the woman's side had become completely paralyzed and that there was no chance for her recovery.

STATE ASSESSORS MEET.

Board Presided Over by David Baird, of Camden.

Trenton, May 12.—David Baird, of Camden, presided at the meeting of the State Board of Assessors yesterday. He holds his place till the Governor names his successor.

The assessors had a full board present and transacted a lot of routine business. They decided also to take a railroad inspection trip next Monday. The members will go over the West Shore Railroad, the New York and Fort Lee Railroad and the New Jersey Junction Railroad, these comprising the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad system in this State. A complete inspection of all the properties will be made.

Anonymous Gift of $5,000.

Julius S. Rippel, treasurer of the building fund of the Young Women's Christian Association in Newark, received a donation of $5,000 yesterday from an anonymous source. The money, in five new one thousand dollar bills, was handed to him in an envelope by a man who visited his office and stated that it was a donation for the Young Women's Christian Association to aid in its building project.

Pythian Memorial Day.

Sunday, June 20, has been fixed as Pythian Memorial Day, and Crescent Company, No. 13, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, at its meeting last night, appointed Samuel Robinson, Philip Jahn and Jeremiah H. Van Winkle as a committee to take charge of the local observance. There will be the usual parade, decoration of graves of departed brothers and a banquet.

PASTOR ARRESTED ON CHARGES OF LARCENY.

As a sequel to the arrest, over a week ago, of six young men connected with the Lutheran congregation at Lower Mt. Bethel, across the Delaware River, who were charged with conspiracy and malicious mischief in tearing out a coal bin in the basement of the church, has come the arrest of Rev. Howard H. Long, pastor of the Reformed congregation of the same place. The pastor was arrested on charges of larceny.

The two congregations worship in the same edifice and there has been trouble brewing for some time, in which the residents of both sides of the Delaware have been interested. Milton H. Herring, one of the previous defendants, made oath before Alderman Reed, of Easton, charging Rev. Mr. Long with larceny of a gallon and a half of coal oil and a sprinkling pot. The first offense is charged between December 1, 1907, and June 1, 1908; the second between June 1, 1908, and January 1, 1909.

The church fight has created considerable discussion. Mr. Long says he has been persecuted for the last seven years. The pastor was one of the complainants in the charge filed before Alderman Brunner, of Easton, against the young men of the Lutheran congregation. The coal bin was torn out, it is charged, on March 10 and April 6, this year, respectively.

As to the coal oil charge, Herring, the prosecutor, alleges that he saw the parson take the oil out of the church and at one time saw him fill the lawn lamp in front of his own home with the oil taken from the church. Mr. Long has given bail for a hearing next Saturday.

JERSEY PLUMBERS CONVENE TODAY.

Jersey City, May 12.—The seventh annual convention of the New Jersey Association of Master Plumbers is being held here today at the Columbia Club, New Jersey avenue and Bright street.

The convention was called to order at 10 a. m. and will continue until 6 p. m., when a banquet will be held.

Delegates from all parts of the State, to the number of 500 or more, are in attendance, and much important business was transacted.

Following the banquet there will be an entertainment for the benefit of the out-of-town delegates, given under the auspices of the Jersey City Master Plumbers' Association. Joseph A. Sprouls is chairman of the committee having charge of this event.

LIVERYMAN GETS REWARD.

Sergeant Harter Claimed It, but Freeholders Favored Glaser.

At a meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at Somerville yesterday Julius Glaser, a Newark liveryman, was paid the reward of $250 for the apprehension of Edward Siphert and Raymond Smith, who were convicted in the county courts last February of stealing a rig from a local livery stable. The young men offered to sell the horse and buggy to Glaser at his stable at such a low price that he became suspicious and notified the police.

Police Sergeant John Harter, of the Newark force, also claimed the reward, because he made the arrest, but a special committee appointed to investigate the case decided in favor of Glaser.

Big Kirmess for Montclair.

GEORGE TOLEMIE SOUGHT BY ELKS.

Missing Six Weeks, Elizabeth Lodge Sends Out a Circular of Inquiry About Him.

Alarmed over the long continued absence of George Tolemie, of Elizabeth, who has been mysteriously missing six weeks, Elizabeth Lodge of Elks yesterday sent out circulars of inquiry about him.

The circular, which will be sent to every lodge of Elks in the United States, states that his friends at Elizabeth believe he has met with a serious accident or foul play, there being no other explanation of his failure to communicate with friends and relatives here.

Tolemie was last heard from in Tacoma, from where he wrote April 1 that he was about to leave for Idaho on private business, the inspection of some mining property he was interested in, it is thought. Previous to that time he was in Seattle and Vancouver.

Tolemie was formerly braumeister at the Peter Breidt Brewery, but for several years past had been a salesman for a New York firm manufacturing brewers' supplies.

According to the description he is 46 years old, though appearing younger, 5 feet 8 or 10 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds. He had numerous pieces of jewelry with him, including an Elks' emblem. One easy mark of identification is the tattoes on his left forearm.

SIR KNIKHT MOHNS GRAND COMMANDER.

The annual session of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, of New Jersey, was held in Masonic Temple yesterday and was largely attended. Grand Commander John B. Berthoef, of Jersey City, presided. The morning session was given over to the reading of reports, which showed the organization to be in a thriving condition.

At the afternoon session the annual election of officers resulted as follows: Grand commander, Charles A. Mohn, of Hoboken; deputy grand commander, Charles J. Hazard, of Hightstown; grand generalissimo, John P. Contrell, of Newark, grand captain general, Joseph Mason, of Paterson; grand senior warden, Otto O. Stillman, of New Brunswick; grand junior warden, Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville; grand standard bearer, Robert H. Ingersoll, of Atlantic City; grand warden, Joseph McDonald, Jr., of East Orange; grand captain of the guard, Alfred T. Osmond, of Trenton.

John M. Wright, of Trenton, was elected to the office of grand recorder, a position he has filled since the death of Thomas H. R. Redway.

The commandery adjourned to meet at Trenton next year, when the 50th anniversary conclave will be celebrated with fitting ceremonies.

Planning for Convention.

Plans for the organization of a State Industrial School League in Elizabeth, May 19, are rapidly taking form, and all indications point to a most notable gathering of educators, particularly those interested in this movement. There will be speakers of national prominence to outline what the league hopes to accomplish and a most interesting program is being arranged.

Destroy Trailing Arbutus.

Students of floriculture say that the trailing arbutus is becoming extinct in this section of New Jersey, owing to the thoughtlessness of those who gather the pretty, fragrant flowers every spring. The arbutus is torn up by the roots instead of being culled with a knife, and in places where the flowers once grew in profusion only a few are to be found this season.

Boy Dies From Bullet Wound.

Antonio Lombardo, nine years old, died at St. James' Hospital, Newark, yesterday from a bullet wound which he received on Sunday. Angelo Generello was committed to answer to a charge of manslaughter. The police say that the shot which killed the boy was intended for Antonio Leonardis, with whom Generello was quarreling at the time.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Warren C. Pine, of Riverside, is being boomed as a candidate for the Assembly.

As a result of running a rusty nail into his foot, Samuel Ridgway, of Cooperstown, is seriously ill, his doctor fearing that tetanus has set in.

While Benjamin Monroe was cutting timber for the large mills of Daniel Birch & Son, near Danville, he almost severed his foot with an axe.

Miss Josephine A. Dennis, of East Twenty-eighth street, Bayonne, will be married to Miller I. Truex, of Bay Head, this evening at 8 o'clock in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The four hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Calvin will be celebrated at the Church of the Redeemer, Paterson, tonight, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Union of Paterson.

A runaway horse, frightened by a band, threw Miss Elizabeth McMahon, a Weymouth school teacher, against a fence in May's Landing yesterday, but she escaped serious injury.

Andrew Christy, while trimming trees at Beverly, fell thirty feet, dislocating his shoulder and breaking an arm. Dr. Small, passing in his automobile, picked up the injured man, and hurried him to the county hospital at Mt. Holly. His condition is serious.

A four-year-old son of Howard Smith, of Cooperstown, while playing with matches in a bedroom, set fire to the bed clothing. Farm hands formed a bucket brigade and extinguished the flames. A farm hand rushed into the house and carried the boy out. He was painfully burned.

A most enthusiastic reception was given to Rev. Herbert Barber Howe, assistant pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Paterson, by the members of the congregation Monday night. The young man will become a full-fledged minister on Monday night, when he will graduate with honors from Union Theological Seminary.

Herman Zoworsky, of 101 River street, Paterson, who is employed by his father, a wholesale dry goods merchant, went into the Allen & Dunning tobacco factory on Van Houten street on business about 6 o'clock and accidentally fell down an air shaft. He was taken home. He suffers from a number of bodily bruises.

The Atlantic City police believe they have broken up a gang of juvenile hold-up experts in the arrest of Edward and James Carlin, brothers, and Perry Moncrief, who were sent to the Reform School by County Judge Higbee, sitting in the Juvenile Court. The boys are charged with having stolen the handbag of Mrs. Evaline Binz, a visitor.

The old frame building, once a part of the old Gledhill farm, which for many years stood in Barclay street, Paterson, between the Morris Canal and the D., L. and W. Railroad, was partially destroyed by fire, the blaze being due to a defective chimney flue. The house is owned by Catholina Lambert and was occupied by John Matthews.

The husband, charging that his wife was too friendly with a boarder, and the wife, charging that her husband hurled hot coffee and dishes at her, George Sauer, of Trenton, has been granted an absolute divorce from Bessie Sauer. In the testimony Mrs. Sauer admitted that she left her husband, but said she was unable to endure his quarrelsome disposition.

Called in special session, the Camden County Grand Jury found two bills of indictment against John Geroh, who confessed to cutting the throat of Mrs. Alice M. Jansen, of 1510 South Eighth street, Philadelphia, and also slashing her eight-year-old sister, Annie Miller, with a razor, near Delair, last week. He will be placed on trial and probably sentenced tomorrow.

Alighting from a trolley car on her way to the office of a physician for treatment, Mrs. Ira M. Lawshe, of Trenton, stepped into a defective spot in the street pavement in East State street and was thrown heavily to the ground. She was carried into the office of the physician she had set out to consult. An ankle was turned, her face was badly cut and there were bruises about her body.

Because Chief of Police Goan was lenient, although one of his fingers had been chewed like a dog chews a bone, Daniel McGettigan and William Smith, whom he had arrested, were let off with fines of $5 each by Mayor Lincoln at Gloucester. The young men, with another who escaped, were drunk last Saturday night, and when the chief arrested them they attacked him savagely.

When application was made in the Court of Chancery, in Camden, by counsel for Mrs. Florence Voll, of 515 Spruce street, for alimony and counsel fee from her husband, John C. Voll, pending divorce proceedings, Mrs. Voll alleged that she was told by neighbors upon her return from a trip to relatives that her husband had been seen with other women; that he drank to excess and consorted with persons of ill-repute. The case will be heard in two weeks.

CHAPTER V.

A Fight on a Houseboat.

At ten o'clock I called for a horse and rode out into the night, turning into the country with the intention of following the lake road to the region I had explored in the launch a few hours before. All was dark at St. Agatha's as I passed. No doubt Helen Holbrook had returned in due course from her visit to her father and, after accounting plausibly to her aunt for her absence, was sleeping the sleep of the just. Now that I thought of the matter in all its bearings, I accused myself for not having gone directly to St. Agatha's from the lonely house on Tippecanoe creek and waited for her there, demanding an explanation of her perfidy. She was treating Miss Pat infamously; that was plain; and yet in my heart I was excusing and defending her. A family row about money was ugly at best; and an unfortunate—even criminal—father may still have some claim on his child.

Then, as against such reasoning, the vision of Miss Pat rose before me—and I felt whatever chivalry there is in me arouse with a rattle of spears. Paul Stoddard, in committing that dear old gentlewoman to my care, had not asked me to fall in love with her niece; so, impatient to be thus swayed between two inclinations, I chirruped to the horse and galloped swiftly over the silent white road.

The whole region was very lonely, and now that the beat of hoofs no longer rang in my ears the quiet was oppressive. I struck through the wood and found the creek, and the path beside it. The little stream was still murmuring its own name musically, with perhaps a softer note in deference to the night; and following the path carefully I came in a few minutes to the steps that linked the cottage with the houseboat at the creek's edge. It was just there that I had seen Helen Holbrook, and I stood quite still recalling this, and making sure that she had come down those steps in that quiet out-of-the-way corner of the world, to keep tryst with her father. The story-and-a-half cottage was covered with vines and close-wrapped in shrubbery. A semicircle of taller pines within shut the cottage off completely from the highway. I crawled through the cedars and walked along slowly to the gate, near which a post supported a signboard. I struck a match and read:

RED GATE.
R. HARTRIDGE,
Canoe-Maker.
Tippecanoe, Indiana.

This, then, was the home of the canoe-maker mentioned by Ijima. I found his name repeated on the rural delivery mail box affixed to the signpost. Henry Holbrook was probably a boarder at the house—it required no great deductive powers to fathom that. I stole back through the hedge and down to the houseboat. Several canoes, carefully covered with tarpaulins, lay about the deck, and chairs were drawn up close to the long, low house in shipshape fashion. If this houseboat was the canoe-maker's shop he had chosen a secluded and picturesque spot for it.

As I leaned against the rail studying the lines of the house, I heard suddenly the creak of an oarlock in the stream behind, and then low voices talking. I drew back against the house and waited. Possibly the canoe-maker had been abroad, or, more likely, Henry Holbrook had gone forth upon some mischief, and my mind flew at once to the two women at St. Agatha's, one of whom at least was still under my protection. The boat approached furtively, and I heard now very distinctly words spoken in Italian:

"Have a care; climb up with the rope and I'll follow."

Then the boat touched the platform lightly and a second later a man climbed nimbly up the side. His companion followed, and they tied their boat to the railing. They paused now to reconnoiter—so close to me that I could have touched them with my hands—and engaged in a colloquy. The taller man gave directions, the other replying in monosyllables to show that he understood.

"Go to the side porch of the cottage, and knock. When the man comes to the door tell him that you are the chauffeur from an automobile that has broken down in the road, and that you want help for a woman who has been hurt."

"Yes, sir."

"Then—you know the rest."

"The knife—it shall be done."

I have made it the rule of my life, against much painful experience and the admonitions of many philosophers, to act first and reason afterwards. And here it was a case of two to one. The men began stealing across the deck toward the steps that led up to the cottage, and with rather more zeal than judgment I took a step after them, and clumsily kicked over a chair that fell clattering wildly. Both men leaped toward the rail at the sound, and I flattened myself against the house to await developments. The silence was again complete.

"A chair blew over," remarked one of the voices.

"There is no wind," replied the other, the one I recognized as belonging to the leader.

"See what you can find—and have a care!"

The speaker went to the rail and began fumbling with the rope. The other, I realized, was slipping quite noiselessly along the smooth planking toward me, his bent body faintly silhouetted in the moonlight. I knew that I could hardly be distinguishable from the long line of the house, and I had the additional advantage of knowing their strength, while I was still an unknown quantity to them. The men would assume that I was either Hartridge, the boatmaker, or Henry Holbrook, one of whom they had come to kill, and there is, as every one knows, little honor in being the victim of mistaken identity. I heard the man's hand scratching along the wall as he advanced cautiously; there was no doubt but that he would discover me in another moment; so I resolved to take the initiative and give battle.

A HARD STRUGGLE.

Many a Plainfield Citizen Finds the Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching,
With distressing disorders,
Daily existence is but a struggle.
No need to keep it up.
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.

Plainfield people endorse this claim:

Robert Love, 44 Duer street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For eight or nine years I was a victim of kidney complaint. Every cold I contracted, settled in my kidneys and caused my back to ache severely. Any heavy lifting or much standing on my feet gave me additional pain. In the morning upon arising, my back was in a bad condition and the lameness did not disappear until I had exercised for some time. I doctored and used several so-called kidney cures, but this was only a waste of money. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the newspapers, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. When I had taken about half the contents of the box, my condition was greatly improved and before long the pain left me entirely. I will always speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills when the opportunity offers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PATENTED

Why Don't You Economize on Coal?

The hungry furnace and the coal man are a hard combination to beat, but the

BOYNTON

Square Fire-Pot

FURNACE

is the friend of the man who takes care of the fire. The square firepot prevents the clogging of clinkers around the sides of the fire. That means all fire—more heat per unit of space. The square pot gives a greater surface for combustion and heat radiation and actually takes less coal for a good fire. And then there's the Boynton special flue for carrying away the dust. You don't sift ashes all over the house when you shake down the BOYNTON.

ORDERS OUSTED MEN REINSTATED.

The State Civil Service Commission, after hearing testimony at New Brunswick yesterday at Common Council chambers on the complaint of street employes that they had been discharged without cause while under the protection of the civil service act, ordered their immediate reinstatement at their old pay. The laborers are: James Reid, Edward Ennis, John C. Jones, Carmine Terroro and their foreman, Henry Gordon. The men had been laid off in January.

Alderman-at-large Fred. Weigel, who is chairman of the streets and roads committee, testified that he felt at the time of the discharge of the men, as he does now, that the committee had the right to discharge them, as the act putting New Brunswick under civil service had not been published according to law and did not take effect until February 15, while the men had been discharged in January. This act, he explained, was later repealed before it took effect and the matter was now in the Supreme Court awaiting decision.

Mr. Weigel said he was perfectly willing to obey the civil service law if it appealed to New Brunswick, and hoped the Supreme Court would decide the matter before this. The committee had acted in good faith in discharging the men, and they were let out because the party in power and responsible to the people wanted employes in sympathy with it and in whom they had confidence as members of the same faith and household, as it were.

New Jersey Foresters Elect.

The annual convention of the New Jersey Foresters of America took place at the Opera House, Bayonne, yesterday, and 500 delegates from every section of the State attended. Mayor Garven tendered the freedom of the city to the visitors. The report showed that there are 141 courts in the State, with a total membership of 18,514. These Grand Court officers were elected: Andrew D. Mason, Paterson, chief ranger; Thomas Luker, Camden, sub-chief ranger; D. H. Stuhrmann, Hoboken, treasurer; Thomas M. Donnelly, Jersey City, and John S. Dolan, Newark, secretaries.

Runaway Boy Caught.

James McCauley, the eight-year-old boy who fell into the hands of the Newark police on Monday night, with his dog, Jack, and who said his home was in Brooklyn, lives in Jersey City. Frank Skiffington, ten years old, another runaway boy from Jersey City, who was picked up by the police in Newark, recognized the McCauley boy. Both boys were turned over to the Jersey City authorities.

Takes Fatal Dose of Carbolic Acid.

John Kern, a piano tuner, of Jersey City, swallowed a fatal dose of carbolic acid yesterday. Kern had been ordered from his father's home three weeks ago, as he had been drinking heavily.

MEN'S CLUB BANQUETS

Messrs. Fox, Gilbert, Martine and the Rector Respond to Toasts.

GRACE P. E. MEN'S DINNER.

Wit and Reason Flow at Annual Feast of the Parish Organization.

Informal speeches, following a good dinner, combined to make the annual banquet of the Men's Club of Grace church, held in the parish house, last night, an enjoyable affair. There was a large attendance of men and the absence of all formality was a feature. In the absence of President George S. Clay, his place was taken by Thomas Beard, the vice president. The speakers of the evening were Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector; James E. Martine, Alexander Gilbert, Hugh F. Fox, S. Frederick Smith, the new organist of the church, while Mr. Smith, at the piano, and J. Paul Nolting, who had his phonograph with him, furnished the musical program.

Rector Stevenson, the first speaker, said at the beginning of his remarks that he thought the long-suffering members of the club would be glad to escape anything that the rector might have to say, but he realized that when there was any odd job to be done it was usually the rector that was called upon, and that this was especially true when short of speeches.

The rector took occasion to thank the men for their faithful work of the past year. He said that he realized that because of business interests they could not devote the time to religious work that the women can, and when they get together on such an occasion it is an encouraging feature. He expressed his pleasure in the action of the club in adopting the colors, red and black, which are those of Trinity College of the University of Toronto, of which he is a graduate. Another thing that pleased him were the decorations, representing the land from which he came. At this point someone called out "You promised last year to become a citizen of the United States," to which the rector replied: "I have taken proceedings in that direction," which brought forth hearty applause.

"I look forward," continued the rector, "to the time when the whole country will be one, including the great Dominion of Canada, and the great Republic of the United States. The viewpoint of the newspapers on this subject is interesting, and it is a question according to some of them which country is likely to swallow up the other. I trust that the future of the united country will be as happy and genial as my short experience in this country has been.

"I want to congratulate the club, for every man has stood by the organization vigorously, and I only hope that you will all continue to hold up the hands of the rector in the future as you have in the past."

The next speaker, James E. Martine, was introduced as "The Friend of All," and in his response the "Farmer-orator" said that while he had been raised a blue-blood Presbyterian, he had been grafted into the Men's Club of the Episcopal church. He declared that there would have been added pleasure had the women been invited. Referring to the mention of the club colors, red and black, Mr. Martine said that although he had strained his eyes he was unable to see any "black and white," something that only Mr. Fox knew about.

Mr. Martine recalled the early days of Grace church parish, when the house of worship was on East Front street, and the opposition to moving it to its present location. However, he thought the parish to be happily situated. As to being the friend of all, he remarked that he was pleased with the distinction for he did not know that he had an ill friend. Touching upon politics, Mr. Martine said that he hoped to press his claims for greater happiness and joys, which have been a part of his life since the age of eighteen years, and although he had never been elected to office, he would continue to adhere to his principles. He declared that he had lived with the minority and might die with the minority. In closing he paid a glowing triuble to the country, describing it as "a place we all love and for which all are willing to fight and die for if necessary."

When Alexander Gilbert was introduced, he said that he had accepted the invitation to speak upon one condition and that was that there would be no reporters present. "What do I behold?" said Mr. Gilbert. "A newspaper reporter who is here to take down everything that is said." Mr. Gilbert then recalled an experience he had with a report-

NEW YORK ARTISTS TO SING OLD MELODIES

Everybody who loves the dear old melodies of Ireland, Scotland, England and America will welcome the opportunity of hearing the quartet of New York artists at the Plainfield High School Hall, Monday night. The program is devoted to the favorite songs known so well and will be rendered in the highest artistic style.

The Irish songs "Kathleen Mavournee," "Minstrel Boy," "Killarney," the Scotch "Auld Lang Syne," "Robin Adair," "Within a Mile of Edinboro," "Annie Laurie," and others, gives an idea of the program. Stephen Foster will be represented in his never-dying melodies, "Nellie Gray,' "Comes Where My Love Lies Dreaming," "Old Folks at Home," "Swanee River," and others.

The fact that Dr. Carl Dufft, John Young, Mrs. Goold and Miss Learned will be the vocal artists assures the excellence of the program. The harp which is heard so rarely will be played by Miss Robinson, who has an enviable reputation in New York. One of her numbers will be a transcription of the old Irish airs, "Wearing of the Green," "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "Last Rose of Summer." A large audience is already assured by the great demand for tickets.

GEORGE STRONG CLAY MEN'S CLUB PRESIDENT

The Men's Club of Grace church, at its annual business meeting, last night, prior to the banquet, elected these officers for the coming year: President, George S. Clay; vice president, Dr. H. D. Corbusier; secretary, L. A. Johnston; treasurer, J. M. Kirkner; executive committee, one year—G. H. Holstein, F. W. Iredell, A. Willis West, C. G. Munroe, H. E. Jackson; two pears—R. M. Huse, Owen H. Fleming, J. H. Jewett, E. F. Feickert and Thomas Beard.

Practically a new by-laws and constitution were adopted, the important changes being to increase the annual dues from $1 to $2 a year and to provide that the executive committee shall comprise ten instead of fifteen members. By raising the dues it will give the club more working capital, something very much desired. The organization is in first-class condition and the membership is constantly increasing.

Thomas Beard, the vice president, presided last night in the absence of President George S. Clay, who was detained, and he presented the latter's annual report, giving a brief resume of the past year. It was at his suggestion that changes in the constitution of the club were made. He reviewed the history of the organization, particularly as to its usefulness, and in his opinion much has been accomplished and he urged continued loyalty to the church and rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson.

CORNELIUS SCHENCK, JR., AS SIR ANTHONY ABSOLUTE.

The cast for "The Rivals," to be given at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday afternoon and night by pupils of the Plainfield High School, will be as follows:

"Sir Anthony Absolute," Cornelius Schenck, Jr.; "Jack Absolute," Clyde Doane; "Faulkland," Allen Randolph; "Bob Acres," Stanley Robins; "Sir Lucius O'Trigger," S. Edward Abbott; "Flagg," Walter Nolting; "David," John Lyness; "Mrs. Malaprop," Miss Clara Savage; "Lydia Languish," Miss Caroline Lombert; "Julia," Miss Louise Nicholl; "Lucy," Miss Ethel Skillman.

Arranging for Carnival.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the carnival to be held May 22-31, under the auspices of the Clinton Avenue Baseball Club. The affair will be held on the vacant lot on West Front street, near Clinton avenue, and there will be lots of attractions. At a meeting of the club last night further progress was made in planning the affair.

Home from Auto and Yacht Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Wheeler, of Park avenue, who have been visiting in Wilmington, Del., have returned. They went to Wilmington in their automobile and Mr. Wheeler returned in his yacht to Bound Brook, where he left it to be overhauled, prior to a cruise. Mrs. Wheeler and some friends came home in the auto.

New Auto Salesrooms.

Joseph L. Moss, Jr., of Metuchen, agent for the Velie "30" automobile, has opened a salesroom at 208 Park avenue, this city.

PARENT-TEACHERS ASS'N ANNOUNCES MEETINGS.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryant School will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of that school. All parents and friends of the pupils are invited to attend this meeting and to inspect the manual training and art work of all the grades. Friends who are hindered from attending tomorrow night will be welcome on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The teachers and pupils of the Lincoln school will receive their friends next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There will be at that time an exhibition of the manual training and drawing in each of the class rooms.

Borough School Exhibit.

Supervising Principal H. C. Krebs of the North Plainfield Public Schools has issued invitations to parents and all residents of North Plainfield and vicinity to visit an exhibit of school work in both the Somerset and Watchung schools, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon, May 18 and 19, from 4 to 6 o'clock. The written work of every pupil in every class will be shown; also woodwork, sewing, cooking, drawing and kindergarten work. All teachers will be in attendance to welcome visitors.

Dr. Ard Talks to Dentists.

The quarterly meeting and banquet of the Plainfield Dental Society was held at the Park Club last night. Following the dinner, Dr. F. C. Ard presented an interesting paper on "Accessory Sinuses," which was followed by a discussion. About fifteen members of the society were present.

Trust Company's New Signs.

Two handsome brass tablets have been placed on the columns in front of The Plainfield Trust Company building on Park avenue, which make another attractive feature to this up-to-date banking institution. They are suitably inscribed and add dignity to the imposing structure.

"Italian Americans."

"Italian Americans" will be the subject of an address to be delivered at the Congregational church Sunday night by Rev. Antonio Arrighi, and there will be special music by a young people's chorus and by Plainfield Italians. The public is invited.

The horse show committee has been assured of the return of practically all of last year's exhibitors, including Reginald Vanderbilt, Otto H. Kahn, R. L. Patterson, Tonzo Sauvage, Paul A. Sorg, George Watson, George Watson, Jr., Westchester Farm, Judge William H. Moore and many others, including the usual number of entries. There will be considerable interest in the first competition for the handsome trophy offered by Reginald Vanderbilt in place of the one he won last year, known as "The Official Horse Show Blue Book" challenge cup, valued at $250. There will be the usual handsome list of trophies; also purses for the winners in various classes.

PLANS APPROVED FOR ENLARGING THE Y.W.C.A.

Now that plans have been approved for the remodelling of the Young Women's Christian Association, work on the enlargement scheme was begun yesterday morning. The plans, which are considered most complete, were drawn by J. E. Ware & Sons, of New York, the firm that remodelled the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church's interior.

The new home will be composed of the present headquarters and the house to the right, given rent free by Mrs. Percy H. Stewart. The first work to be done will be to build an annex to connect the two buildings. The main entrance will be at the annex. The offices, which will remain where they are at present, will be enlarged to the extent of nearly twice their present size. In the rear of the offices will be placed a modern kitchen, which will be the gift of a friend of the association. The ground floor of the new building will be made into an auditorium large enough to hold a good sized audience.

The two upper floors are to be completed especially for class rooms. These rooms are to be large and airy and will be fixed up with all modern school appliances. The other rooms will be used as bed-rooms. When the building is completed about September 1, it is expected to be one of the most complete of its kind in the State.

MOTOR RIDES FOR ORPHANS.

Twenty-five members of the North Jersey Automobile Club offered the use of their cars to the Paterson lodge of Elks for the outing the latter will give to the orphans on June 16.

It is expected there will be twenty-five more automobiles offered during the coming fortnight. Benjamin Eastwood has charge of the automobile club's part of the outing.

A Parcel Shower.

A parcel shower was given Miss Margaret Yaeger, of Webster place, by a number of her friends last night. Those in charge of the affair saw that all details were so arranged that when the guests arrived Miss Yaeger was taken completely by surprise. Miss Yaeger received a number of presents consisting of cut glass and china.

FIREMEN'S RELIEF WINS

Daniel W. Littell Loses Suit to Recover His Convention Expenses.

DECISION IS OF IMPORTANCE.

Judge Newcorn Decides Delegate Has No Claim Against Local Association.

Ruling that Daniel W. Littell, delegate of the Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association to the State Firemen's Relief Association convention had no cause for action in his suit against the association to secure railroad and hotel expenses for the convention, Judge William Newcorn established a legal precedent by his decision in the case at the District court today. The suit was a friendly controversy brought in an effort to settle the point.

"The entire case," said Judge Newcorn, in giving his decision, "rests upon the construction of the act of Legislature in the session of 1908, and its interpretation of the words 'rights, privileges and powers' as relating to delegates of the relief associations and the exempts. If the Legislature had meant in this act to confer the 'rights, privileges and powers' mentioned upon the exempts as well as the relief association delegates, I take it that it would have so specified in this act. As it is, I construe the meaning to merely give the exempts the right to participate with the State association, and I do not consider the association bound to pay these mileage and hotel bills, inasmuch as no provision for this is made. The court therefore rules that there is no cause for the action and renders a verdict for the defendant."

Mr. Littell was represented by Vincent W. Nash, Jr., but the case was argued in court by Winfield S. Angleman as advisory counsel. William A. Cotter, counsel for the State Relief Association, represented the local Reliefs. Mr. Angleman's line of argument sought to include the disputed expenses among the "privileges" awarded the delegates, along with the "rights and powers" provided by law. The local Reliefs, he claimed, are on a par in powers, rights and privileges with the Exempts, and he pointed out that convention expenses for active department representatives are paid by their various local associations.

In outlining his case for the defense, Mr. Cotter referred to the law of 1885 and its amendments in 1906 and 1908. He claims that there is no provision in the act of 1908 for the payment of expenses, and that this act creates each Exempt Association a Relief Association, which must pay its delegates. He further stated that the plaintiff did not represent his association at the convention, for the local association is not duly incorporated. This statement proved an error, and was disproved by the opposition lawyers.

In announcing his decision, Judge Newcorn took occasion to state that he appreciated its importance and had given the matter careful consideration, and his ruling won the hearty approbation of the courtroom "gallery," which comprised members of the two associations and Chief T. O. Doane, head of the active department.

DEGREES IN MEDICINE FOR TWO PLAINFIELD MEN.

Roger L. Cooley and Henry B. Dorr, both of this city, received their degree of doctors of medicine last night at the forty-ninth annual commencement exercises of the New York Homeopathic Medical College held at Mendelssohn Hall, New York city. The Alumni Association of the college will hold its annual business meeting and banquet tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The speakers tonight will include Dr. John Prentice Rand, of Worcester, Mass., president of the Alumni Association; Dr. Royal S. Copeland, dean of the college; Melbert B. Carey, president of the board of trustees of the college; Dr. Walter Sands Mills, Charities Commissionr Robert W. Hebberd, Cyril H. Burdett, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes and Dr. Clarence C. Howard.

Patronize Home Bank.

At the adjourned meeting of the Borough Council last night satisfactory arrangements were made for transferring the borough's account to the Borough National Bank. The resolution was made by Councilman Charles L. Nichols, chairman of the finance committee. Mr. Nichols stated to the Council he would arrange to have the account transferred soon as possible. There was one building permit granted to C. H. Rugg for a house on Westervelt avenue, between Summit and Mountain avenues.

NAME F. C. IGLEHART JR., AS ONE CO-RESPONDENT

Ferdinand C. Iglehart, Jr., son of Rev. Dr. Ferdinand C. Iglehart, formerly bass soloist in the choir at the First Presbyterian church, and a resident of Plainfield for sometime, is named as one of several co-respondents in the suit brought by Edwin E. Martin, commission merchant, of Brooklyn, for a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Etta H. Martin.

Through her counsel, J. Arthur Hilton, of New York, Mrs. Martin made a statement yesterday denying the sensational charges against her. She says that her relations with certain men named as co-respondents were entirely innocent, in some cases merely the relation between a teacher of vocal music and her pupils.

Mr. Martin has affidavits from six of the nine co-respondents. All of the six affidavits deny the charges made. The five makers of the affidavits are determined to stand by Mrs. Martin and join issue with her in defending the suit. Mrs. Martin is the daughter of Rev. Dr. Jay Benson Hamilton, formerly pastor of the Simpson M. E. church, Brooklyn, which church was served as pastor by Rev. Mr. Iglehart, and it is one of the pathetic incidents of the Martin divorce case that it accuses the daughter of one preacher with misconduct with the son of the other preacher. F. C. Iglehart, Jr., was employed in the New York offices of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, and he has many friends in this city.

LEGAL OBSTACLES TO BI-MUNICIPAL PARK

While the park commissions of Plainfield and North Plainfield, which held a conference at the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, last night, favor the proposition as made by the Plainfield Park Association, it will have to be presented to the two municipalities in a different way before it can be accepted. The original proposition was made in a general way and there is no law on the statute books which will allow either the city or borough to accept the land for park purposes under such informal provisions.

The discussion last night brought out the fact that the association can deed the land in Plainfield to the city and the same course can be followed in the borough, but the deeding of the whole track for joint use presents an obstacle that will have to be overcome in some way. This obstacle was referred to editorially by this paper yesterday. Within a short time another proposition will be made to the city and borough, which it is believed will meet with favor.

No date was set for another meeting, an adjournment having been taken subject to the action of the park association.

THEODORE MARTIN SURPRISED ON FOURTEENTH BIRTHDAY.

A birthday surprise was given to Theodore Martin at his home on West Third street on Tuesday night by his many young friends of the West End in honor of his fourteenth birthday. About twenty young people met at the home of Miss Helen Taylor and while Master Martin was away went to his home and surprised him on his return. The evening was enjoyable passed with games and music. In the playing of games, music, etc. In the donkey contest, Miss Helen Taylor won the first prize, and Bessie Medick the booby prize. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Martin, assisted by Mrs. Taylor. The host received many useful presents. The affair was arranged by Miss Helen Taylor and Master Willie Peterson.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Joseph V. Taylor, Grace Ludgate, Josie Romond, Elizabeth Peterson, Dorothy Medick, Bessie Medick, Helen Taylor, Florence Taylor, Grace Taylor, Hayes Apgar, Roy Apgar, Ludwig Hefti, Samuel Kriney, Ralph Ludgate, Harvey Taylor, George Martin, Willie Peterson, Walter Bowden, Theodore Martin.

REMARKABLE OPERATIONS

Dunellen Youth Cured by Removal of Mastoid Bones and Part of Jugular Vein.

BLOOD POISONING IS STAYED.

Dr. Ard's Surgical Work On George Hipp Attracts Attention In Medical World.

George Hipp, the eight-year-old son of Mark Hipp, of Dunellen, was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday after a series of remarkable operations involving the removal of both mastoid bones and a large section of the jugular vein at the right side of his neck. The operations have proved most successful in every way and the boy will soon be able to be about with his companions in perfect health.

Young Hipp was removed to the hospital about a month ago, when it was found that the right mastoid bone had become effected as the result of an attack of the measles. The entire bone was removed in the first operation, and a week later, when it was found that the left mastoid bone had become diseased, this also was removed in another operation. Blood poisoning was present when the patient was first operated upon and to prevent its extension the jugular vein on the right side of the neck was removed down as far as the collar bone below and above for a distance inside of the skull, so that Hipp's right jugular now ends at the neck.

This removal of the jugular vein is a rare surgical operation, but so successful was the work of the physicians that the boy suffered no ill effects, and quickly recovered his normal health. The operations were performed by Dr. F. C. Ard, assisted by Dr. John D. Richards, of New York city, and have created considerable attention in medical circles.

EARLY MORNING BLASTS DISTURB THE BOROUGHITES.

According to the North Plainfield authorities, complaints are being continually received as to early morning blasting at the quarries on the mountain slope. Residents claim that they are disturbed from needed rest by this annoyance and steps will be taken to have it stopped. At the big quarry of N. B. Smalley & Company, it was learned today that the owners respect the rights of the boroughites and that for several years past former Mayor Smalley has made it an iron-clad rule not to allow a blast to be made before 8 o'clock in the morning.

"We don't make any charge for arousing those who sleep after 8 o'clock," said Mr. Smalley today, "although we might be entitled to the bell boy's tip."

Played at Conried Funeral.

William E. MacClymont, of this city, formerly organist of Grace church, was given a distinguished honor today in being engaged to play the organ at the funeral services of Heinrich Conried, which were held at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, this morning. He played appropriate selections for a half hour prior to the service and also presided at the organ during the singing by a chorus of one hundred boys. An orchestra of one hundred pieces also assisted in the musical service. While the opera house will seat 3,500, there were over ten thousand applications for admission.

Holy Cross Club Dance.

The Holy Cross Club held a successful dance in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross last night. There were about twenty-five couples present. The parish house was decorated for the occasion with the club colors. Music was furnished by Squires' orchestra. The committee in charge comprised Ira Vail, chairman; George Morrison, Edward Williams, Edward Schorb and Earl Moran. During an intermission refreshments were served. The proceeds were for the benefit of the baseball team.

Parent-Teacher Election.

The annual election of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Irving school took place yesterday afternoon. After a reading of the minutes and telling of the success the association had accomplished during the year the officers were reelected. They are: President, Mrs. J. C. Pierson; vice-president, Miss Genevieve Petrie; secretary, Mrs. A. E. Force; treasurer, Mrs. George Stevens. After the business meeting a social hour was held.

Robert Dixon Improving.

Robert Dixon, of South Second street, who was thrown off a main line trolley car Monday afternoon at West Front street and Grant avenue, is improving slowly and will be able to return to work within a short time.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Dixie Minstrels, which are billed for Excelsior Hall tonight, needs no introduction to a local audience, although it is its first appearance in town. The troupe includes many of the old familiar faces of the Gold Medal Minstrels, which appeared here for several years under the management of Thomas Muir. Besides these Manager Elmer Cutting has gathered together a number of Plainfield's best minstrel talent.

Over 100 of the pupils of the public school, together with nearly the entire corps of teachers enjoyed the annual school May walk yesterday. The route selected was a jaunt over the mountain to Stony Hill and return, the trip taking in nearly 8 miles of territory. Lunch was carried and a regular picnic spread was enjoyed before pupils and teachers started on their return trip.

The Baptist Athletic Association are preparing to put the Marsh field on Park avenue in shape to play the schedule of games arranged by Manager Demarest of the ball team. A back stop is being erected and the old diamond will be put in shape within a few days.

A mysterious looking wagon driving through town last night, was mistaken for the dog catcher's outfit. The word soon spread and within a few minutes there was not even a mongrel cur on the streets.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gere, who have been visiting Mr. Gere's mother, Mrs. Thomas A. Gere, of Westfield avenue, have returned to their home at Perth Amboy.

The Seeley paper mill which has been closed several days while repairs were being made, resumed work again yesterday.

The All Americans of Newark are booked by Manager Frentz for Saturday afternoon. Game called 3:30.

Mrs. George Stillger entertained relatives from Brooklyn yesterday.

The Dunellen Eagles and New Market will play the first game of the season on Saturday afternoon. The Eagles is a newly organized team and is ready to meet all comers averaging fourteen years.

The regular meeting of the First M. E. Sunday-school took place Tuesday and the following officers were elected: Superintendent, Geo. T. Schenck; secretary, Raymond Apgar.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maner, of Mountain View terrace, left a few days ago for Mexico, where they will spend a couple of weeks.

The Junior Epworth League, of the First M. E. church, will hold a sociable tonight for the benefit of the parsonage.

E. Brokeley, of Somerville, moved to the Runyon flats yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Juniors game with St. Mary's seconds on Saturday has been cancelled on account of the absence of several players who will run in the Y. M. C. A. marathon race on that day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clinger will remove shortly to North Dakota. Mr. Clinger will sell his property on Lehigh avenue as soon as possible.

A meeting of the committee of arrangements for the firemen's ball to be held Wednesday night took place last night in the fire-house.

Pictures of the pupils of the school printed on postal cards are being distributed.

Painters are at work on the home of Albert Manning on Brookside avenue.

The South Plainfield A. C. has no game scheduled for this Saturday.

Miss M. Mayne, of North Plainfield, visited friends here yesterday.

WESTFIELD.

The body of Lewis Ganzel, of Westfield, who died abroad, is expected to arrive in New York today. The body will be brought to Westfield for interment.

John Klopf, who has kept a hotel at Mountainside for the past ten years, will move today to Lake Hopatcong. He has sold his Mountainside property.

Westfield Motorcycle Club will take a run to Trenton next Sunday. Motorcycle riders of Newark and Elizabeth have been invited to join in the run.

The trolley company is macadamizing Summit avenue between its tracks.

SOMERVILLE.

The new choir of the First Reformed church is composed as follows: Charles W. Moore, choirster; Miss Laura Hoagland, organist; the Misses Brokaw, Mrs. Lou Polhemus, Miss Elizabeth Lindoquist, Frank Brokaw. Professor Norman Landis, of Flemington, has been engaged to drill the choir once a week, leaving Mr. Moore in charge on Sundays.

DOUBLE MURDER IN A SHANTY.

Two Men Found with Skulls Crushed—Work of Tramps Probably.

Lying side by side with their skulls crushed, the bodies of James Purdy and John Whitelaw were found by three boys in an abandoned tallow shanty at Gloucester Tuesday. Near by was a shovel and an iron bar, both covered with blood.

Purdy was identified by means of a letter found in his pocket. He received a money order recently for $210 from St. Thomas, Ont., where he once lived. He was an ironworker. It is believed that he and his companion were murdered by tramps, who are said to have made a headquarters of the abandoned building in which the bodies were found.

ELECTION OF D. A. R. REGENTS.

Boston, May 13.—At the final business meeting of the eighteenth annual convention of the General Society, Daughters of the Revolution, yesterday, the most important matter to come up for action was the election of managers to succeed those whose terms of office expire this year.

Following the election the regents from the different States continued to read their reports. The regents who reported the condition of their State councils yesterday represented Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Great Bill at Proctor's.

An unusually strong bill is offered at Proctor's this week. Webb & Morton, in a comedy sketch, are a scream, and the dancing is great. There will be several feature films of life motion pictures today. The full stage with new scenery was used yesterday for the first and it was a decided improvement.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend An Ordinance Entitled, "An Ordinance to License Inns and Taverns and to Regulate and Prohibit the Sale of Spirituous and Fermented Liquors," approved February 10, 1892, (As Amended).

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 7 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment be and is hereby further amended as follows: By striking out the following words where they occur in said section, that is to say, "and no person not licensed under this section shall sell, furnish or supply any spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors to persons or families in dwellings, under a penalty of a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding sixty days, either or both, for each and every offense," and inserting in lieu there of the following words, that is to say, "and no person or corporation licensed under any other section of this ordinance but not licensed under this section shall sell, or offer or expose for sale, any of the liquors aforesaid in any quantity to persons or families in dwellings, or any of the liquors aforesaid in quantities from one quart to five gallons to any persons or corporations, under a penalty of a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense."

Sec. 2. That Section 11 of said ordinance be and is hereby amended as follows: By striking out the following words where they occur in said section, that is to say, "one hundred dollars, or imprisonment for any term not exceeding sixty days, either or both, at the discretion of the court," and inserting in lieu thereof the following words, that is to say, "twenty dollars for each offense."

Adopted by the Common Council May 3, 1909; approved by the Mayor May 3, 1909.

Here Are Extra Good Values in Muslin Underwear

Not exactly a sale—though most stores would call it "extraordinary"—"sensational" and by other abused adjectives.

These are our complete new stocks—larger than ever—made of superior materials of soft, strong weaving—daintily trimmed with exquisite laces, beautiful flouncings and newest insertions.

All clean goods, well made, generous full cut garments, not the skimpy sort that are never worth buying.

Buying in such large quantities we obtained very low prices—you'll find our values are unequalled in this vicinity. We are almost doubling last year's business---and the reason is found in our better qualities and bigger values. Don't fail to investigate our offerings.

Corsets of Style Imparting Qualities

More Than Forty Models to Select From

There is no doubt about the corset being a vital factor in dress. It either makes or mars the gown. Our stocks here offer the greatest assortments of style---any figure can be suited.

We feature C. B., W. B., Warner's Rust Proof, Nemo, R. & G., American Lady, Larine & De Brevoise, Braisone and Ferris Waists. With every corset we give a five yard linen lace.

Ortlieb, the pitcher for the Clinton Avenue Club, is showing great form this season. It was not his fault that the McNulty Bros.' team defeated the locals on Saturday, for he twirled a winning contest, allowing but a few scattering hits.

Russell and Burns, the battery for the Y. M. C. A. team, are doing good work and when the club goes up against the real thing, the fans will have an opportunity to see a strong combination.

The Clinton Avenues will cross bats with the Newark Stars Saturday afternoon, when a double-header will be played at Crescent Oval. The Y. M. C. A. nine will meet the Brooklyn Central Association club, and fans will have plenty of sport for the afternoon.

The local fans who have been supporters of the New York Giants, have been greatly disappointed in the showing of the team this season. Even with the strongest pitchers in the box, McGraw's players have gone down to defeat by a narrow margin.

PERSONAL.

Miss Estelle Murphy, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with Plainfield friends.

Mrs. Walter Lewis, of Richmond street, who has been seriously ill with grip, is improving.

Mrs. Henry Bergen, of Arlington avenue, who has been seriously ill with heart trouble, is convalescing.

Mrs. John M. Mortimer, of West Seventh street, who has been suffering with a sprained ankle, is much improved.

Miss Acken, the assistant to Miss Hughes, superintendent at Muhlenberg Hospital, is enjoying a few days vacation.

Mrs. D. L. Gips and children, Irving and Selma, of East Front street, are visiting friends in Central Park West, New York.

Miss Marjorie Phillips, of Madison avenue, who has been detained at home with a sprained ankle, is improving slowly.

Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, who was called to Brooklyn by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips, has returned home.

Miss Ethel Eugenia Humphrey, of the '09 Class, Muhlenberg Hospital Training School, is spending a few days at her home in Rome, N. Y., preparatory to the graduating exercises to be held on Thursday night, May 27.

STUDY IN STREETS TO AID THEIR MOTHER.

Fearful of disturbing their mother, who was ill, William and Alfred Pappke, of No. 502 Twelfth street, Newark, who are studious lads and fourteen and thirteen years respectively, had hard tasks ahead of them Tuesday night for yesterday's classes, and, desiring to complete their studies, walked South Orange streets until long after midnight and frequently stopped beneath electric lights to study their books and to incidentally ask each other questions.

The little chaps were so busy reciting for each other alternately that they did not see Policeman John Matle, who hailed the lads to ask them a reason for their late night traveling. Honestly enough the boys told the policeman they had started from home to recite their lessons for yesterday, and as mother was ill they did not wish to disturb her.

The lads had been busy all afternoon caring for their invalid parent, and it was late at night when Mrs. Pappke finally went to sleep, and the boys decided to start their lessons in the street. They had wandered to South Orange in their eagerness for knowledge.

The lads were taken to the police station and the father, anxiously searching for his children, was informed of their whereabouts. He confirmed the boys' strange tale, and with their books they were hurried home in a trolley car.

$2,000 IN FINE GOWNS STOLEN IN EAST ORANGE.

Women's gowns valued at $2,000 were reported stolen late Tuesday night from the cleaning establishment of Mme. Leonie Lassans, in Main street, near Ashland avenue, East Orange, and society women are mourning the loss of their finery.

A bulldog and watchman usually kept at the place were not there, and thieves evidently seized the opportunity to help themselves. The bulldog was ill Tuesday and was taken home by Mme. Lassans, and the watchman had been discharged and not replaced.

Goes to Sleep Telephoning.

John Cavanagh, of Jersey City, went into the drug store of Emil Brockroth before midnight to use the telephone, and fell asleep in the booth. He was forgotten by the proprietor, who locked up for the night. Cavanagh did not awaken until early yesterday morning. He managed to get the front door open and was leaving when discovered by Policeman Jacob Ferber. At the City Hall station Cavanagh explained.

DIVORCE IS GIVEN TO THIS TEACHER

A remarkable story of an erring wife and a forgiving husband is told in a report filed in the Court of Chancery at Trenton by Special Master Samuel E. Ayres, recommending that Henry Spurdle, a New York school teacher, now living at Sterling, Morris county, N. J., be divorced from his wife, Helen F. Spurdle. The divorce has been granted by Chancellor Pitney. In his testimony before the master, Mr. Spurdle accused his own brother Alfred of being a party to the wrecking of his home. The unhappy husband's eight-year-old daughter was also dragged into the case as a witness against her mother. The specific ground upon which the special master recommended the divorce was the conduct between Mrs. Spurdle and Harry Hatton, a resident of Lakewood, which resulted in an unsavory scandal at that resort.

Mrs. Spurdle in telling his story to the master said he was married at Springfield, Mass., in 1898. Six years later he removed with Mrs. Spurdle to New York, where he obtained a position in the public schools. For the past two years he has been living at the home of his brother, Francis O. Spurdle, in Sterling. Mr. Spurdle said that about five years ago he criticized his wife's conduct with his brother Alfred. She denied any guilt and he forgave her. Afterward reports came to him that there was an affair between his wife and Harry Duncan, who was a cleaner at the Brooklyn school of which Mr. Spurdle was then principal.

The scandal became so notorious that Mr. Spurdle was forced to demand the resignation of Duncan, which was forthcoming, and Mr. Spurdle eventually had to resign his principalship on account of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Spurdle returned to their old home, with a mutual understanding that the wife should forget Duncan, but the following Christmas one of the teachers in the school showed Mr. Spurdle a letter from his wife, in which she admitted having been in New York with Duncan. This started Mr. Spurdle on an investigation, the ultimate result of which was that he found among his wife's effects twenty-six letters from Duncan, which he described as "gushing epistles." The husband at that time threatened divorce, but Mrs. Spurdle begged for forgiveness, and her husband again condoned her indiscretions.

ILLEGAL PRACTISE OF DENTISTRY IS ALLEGED.

Police Judge Farmer, in the First Criminal Court at Jersey City heard the evidence in the case of George B. Saxenmeyer, proprietor of a dental parlor in Newark avenue, who was arrested upon complaint of Dr. Ella Hind, assistant secretary of the State Board of Dentistry, for practising dentistry without a license. The hearing occupied over three hours. Saxenmeyer, through his counsel, Merritt Lane, tried to show that he was being persecuted by the State Board of Dentistry. He tried to introduce, through cross-examination of Dr. Hind, testimony that the State board had promised to give him a license if he would refrain from advertising his business. Dr. Hind, who dealt with him in his dealings with the State board, said that she did not recall having made any such assertion, or that advertising was ever mentioned. Saxenmeyer applied for an application blank, she said, and was handed one. The blank, which is the same as is furnished all applicants for license, contains a clause stating that in the event of a license being granted it may be revoked by the State board at any time, if the holder engages in "unethical practise." Lane tried to show that that clause was construed by the State board to prevent licensed dentists from advertising.

Dr. Hind testified that she did not recall discussing the ethics of the business with Saxenmeyer. She said that after getting the application blank Sexenmeyer never applied to the board for a license. She said that he had been practising without legal authority to do so, for over two years to her knowledge. She produced as proof that Saxenmeyer practised illegally, William F. Bloom, who had several teeth filled and crowned by Saxenmeyer, and had his written receipt for money paid for his services. Howard Cruse appeared for the State board. He urged that the board had presented a prima facie case and asked that Saxenmeyer be held for the grand jury, it being a misdemeanor to practise dentistry without a license.

Lane asked for time to submit a brief. He said he had not thoroughly examined the law on the matter. Judge Farmer said that on the evidence it appeared that a prima facie case had been established, but that he did not desire to hurry the matter unduly and would give Lane until Tuesday next to submit a brief. He said he would announce his decision on that day, at the morning session of court.

During the argument over Saxenmeyer's dealings with the State Board of Dentistry, Lane hinted at a conspiracy to bar his client from practise. Judge Farmer said that if he had any evidence of any such conspiracy before him he would personally see that it was brought to the attention of the grand jury.

MUST SCREEN BAKERIES.

Orders Issued to Owners by State Labor Commissioner.

Trenton, May 13.—With a view of lessening the amount of sickness which has been traced to unsanitary conditions in bake shops, Commissioner of Labor Lewis T. Bryant has forwarded to the proprietor of every bake shop throughout the State a letter requesting him to place screens in all windows and doors leading to bake shops.

At the same time the commissioner has furnished cards which call attention to the effect that it is against the law to spit upon the floors of passageways of bakeries. The cards call attention to the effect that any violators will be prosecuted if it is found that any proprietor allows the violation of this law. It likewise warns other persons of the law upon this subject. The cards are to be placed in plain view of all persons who may come into or may be connected with the various bakeries.

The commissioner informs the bakery owners that soon after May 20 the inspectors from the department will call upon the proprietors and ascertain whether the directions have been carried out.

In his letter Commissioner Bryant says that it has been shown by the authorities that a great deal of disease has been traced to the fly, and because of this it is hoped to lessen the spread of sickness by doing everything possible to keep flies from places where bread is manufactured.

SMALL BOY FATALLY HURT WHILE AT PLAY.

Thomas Mullens, four years old, a son of Thomas Mullens, of Washington street, Perth Amboy, was so badly injured while playing in a partially completed building near his home last night that he died several hours later. With other children the boy was climbing about the building, when some bricks were knocked from a scoffold above him.

One of them struck the lad and knocked him down. Unable to get up, the boy cried for help, and his playmates ran for aid. Mr. Mullens responded and carried his boy home and then summoned a physician.

After lingering in agony for about four hours the child died. The exact nature of his injuries could not be ascertained. The accident happened only a short distance from the scene of a similar fatality, where a partly finished wall of the Italian Catholic church collapsed last August and crushed to death two boys who were playing there.

MEN'S CLUB BANQUETS

er for a New York newspaper, when an interview was asked for. Although he did not grant an interview, more than a column appeared in a New York newspaper, purporting to be his opinions.

Mr. Gilbert briefly and in a general way touched upon the financial and agricultural business of the country, referring to the "love of money as being the root of all evil," and the pursuit of wealth. An interesting fact was presented, showing that the bulk of the country's business is conducted on credit, fully ninety-five per cent. It was shown that money is only needed for wages, Custom House duties and the retail trade. Credit and debt were described as twin brothers, and the banking credit system one of the greatest things known. For this reason commercial credit should not be impaired.

The speaker touched in an interesting way upon the system of the great money exchanges in this and other countries, including New York, London, Berlin and Paris, all of which was listened to intently by the men present.

Hugh F. Fox was presented as the "founder of the club," and he was received with much applause. He spoke chiefly in a humorous vein, first referring to Rector Stevenson as the "professor of odd jobs" and he believed that he had been a success as a transplanted product. Turning his attention to Mr. Martine as the "friend of all," Mr. Fox said that he understood from his remarks that he was willing that the "women should be clubbed." "Any man speaking as Mr. Martine must take with the women," continued Mr. Fox. "As to the reference to 'black and white,' I want to say that like my friend, Elmer Runyon, I believe only in 'American beers.'"

"Speaking of interviews, I remember a visit to a western city, where I was to speak on the subject of 'Dependent Children,' in connection with a charity conference. A reporter was sent to interview me on my topic, and soon afterward another reporter from the same newspaper called on me and inquired whether I was interested in the growing of hops, to which I replied in the affirmative. When that newspaper appeared I saw to my amazement four lines on the topic of 'Dependent Children,' and a column story with a scare headline: 'The Hop King Is Here.'

"I am very glad to learn from Mr. Gilbert that all I need is five per cent. in real money to carry on business." Becoming more serious, Mr. Fox paid deserving tribute to New Jersey, which he said he knew thoroughly. The institutions of New Jersey in the care of all special tax on society and in the test of real values he said was right in the forefront and her citizens were constantly finding reasons to become proud of her as a commonwealth. Referring to Plainfield, Mr. Fox that that in health, cleanliness, schooling, water, sewage and all things which were bought with taxes, Plainfield is getting full value, and he said that he believed that Mr. Gilbert was responsible for setting the high standard. He said that he believed the present city government to be efficient, honest and conscientious.

After several piano and phonographic selections, the affair terminated, all expressing their pleasure of its success.

BLACK HAND AFTER 3 BURLINGTON MEN.

Black Hand letters have been received by three residents of Burlington this week, and the police and federal authorities are trying to trace them.

Jacob Ellis, owner of a large department store there, was ordered by a letter to place $1,000 under steps of the Presbyterian chapel or have his store dynamited.

Angello Ancello, a shoemaker, ordered to have $500 ready to hand to a man who would call at his store and indicate that he was to receive the money. If Ancello fails his fate is to be the same as Ellis'.

William V. Abdill is the third man warned. He is to place $50 under a stone on the Jacksonville pike or be killed.

Oppose New York Store Liquor Sale

At a meeting of the Jersey City Excise Board Job H. Lippincott, the president, was directed to send a letter to the Board of Police Commissioners asking for its co-operation in putting a stop to the practice of Manhattan department stores and other concerns supplying customers with liquors in Jersey City without a liquor license.

HE QUITS BECAUSE OF THE BADGE "23."

"Not for mine thank you," said Thomas J. O'Neill, member of the Summit hook-and-ladder company, when handed badge No. 23 by Chas. J. Cushing, secretary of the fire company, Tuesday night.

"Why, when I joined this company there were just twenty-three members, and it was on the twenty-third day of the month and now I'm handed this badge, eh? Well, I'll resign before I'll fight fires with that number on me," O'Neill is said to have declared.

Shouts of "Skiddoo, Tommy," from his fellow-firemen greeted the declaration of O'Neill, and the meeting it is asserted, was in an uproar when O'Neill left.

O'Neill was a well-known baseball player a few years ago, and claims it was on the twenty-third day of the month when he first showed signs of losing his ability as a player. A month later he was released on the same date by Manager Robert J. Murphy, of Summit's Lackawanna League team, after the opposing team had piled up twenty-three runs, due largely to as many errors, the manager claimed, that O'Neill had made.

Friday, April 23, O'Neill, with a party of friends, went coon hunting, and attempted to dig a coon out of a hole. The animal sank its teeth into his arms and hands so viciously that he was laid up for twenty-three days.

Secretary Cushing declared when he had recovered from the suddenness of O'Neill's departure last night that the fireman must take that badge if he wishes to remain with the hook-and-ladder company.

FIND MAY LEAD TO THE DISCOVERY OF SUICIDE.

Chatham, May 13.—What may be a case of suicide came to light Tuesday, when several fishermen found a quantity of woman's wearing apparel on the bank of the Passaic River, about a mile east of the Main street bridge. The clothing was of good material, and consisted of a gray rain coat, gray sweater, black skirt, silk waist and other garments. There was neither hat nor shoes there.

The fishermen searched the pockets of the clothing, but found nothing that would lead to the identification of the owner of it. Where the articles were found is the deepest part of the river, and is known as "Condit's deep hole." Several drowning accidents have occurred there. Farther down the stream the fishermen came across a boy's hat. The police have been notified, and an investigation will be made. The fishermen did not disturb the clothing.

DETECTIVE FINDS THE MISSING COLORED YOUTH.

William Johnson, aged fourteen years, colored, who disappeared from his home at 151 Main street, Somerville, on Sunday, was arrested at 10 o'clock this morning on Watchung avenue, by Detective-Sergeant John Flynn. Detective George Totten appeared at headquarters this afternoon with a warrant for the youth who was turned over to him. The lad will be sent to the Jamesburg Home.

Johnson, while he refused to say much about himself, informed the police that the reason he left home was because his mother beat him. He said that he had been to New York, Brooklyn, the Oranges and Newark and then came to this city. It was through the help of Charles Mann, a Watchung avenue barber, that Detective Flynn was led to arrest the boy. He is said to have an aunt employed on Second place as a servant.

No More Jaw from Her.

Dingley was contemplating the purchase of a country place, and had driven his wife out to look at it.

"How do you like it?" he asked.

"Oh, I am delighted," she cried; "it's beauty fairly renders me speechless."

"That settles it," exclaimed hubbie. "I'll buy it this afternoon and we'll move out tomorrow."—Ally Sloper.

ELIZABETH WANTS A PUBLIC PARK.

Several matters of importance to Elizabeth were brought up Tuesday night at the monthly meeting of the Downtown Republican Club in G. A. R. Hall, Elizabeth. President Sidney Williams made an address urging the establishemtn of a park somewhere in the county where the youth of Union may enjoy harmless pastimes. "If a park of the kind I suggest were provided," said Mr. Williams, "it would be a great benefit, for the reason that it would keep many from the evil influence of the saloon and from other injurious environments.

As yet this matter is only in the agitation stage, and no one has knowledge of a site, but it is believed that if the county provided the finances the selection of a location would not be difficult.

Another matter discussed was the failure of City Council to provide proper approaches to the new bridge over the Elizabeth River at South First street. The span was built by the Freeholders, who declare that the approaches to it are not properly laid. Council will be memorialized on the matter by the downtown organization.

The club also indorsed the move of the Downtown Civic Association, which wants a new public school in the First ward. This is a rapidly growing section of the city, and in some parts the congestion is very great.

Several other matters of import were discussed by the club. The organization paid off its last debt last night, and is now entirely free from financial obligations. It has 100 active members and many more who are interested in its work. Outside of political campaigns it takes much interest in civic matters.

SUPPOSED YEGGMEN IN BATTLE WITH TRAMPS.

Word reached Elizabeth Tuesday of a fierce battle in Linden Township, between a gang of supposed yeggmen and a lot of white and negro tramps. The latter were camped in a wood and were attacked by the yeggmen while eating their supper, which the assailants sought. In the conflict that resulted, Richard Overton, a tramp, known as "Old Clothes," was so badly beaten that he had to be sent by some farmers to a hospital in Jersey City. He formerly used to be a well-known racetrack tout.

The tramps were routed in the desperate struggle and fled from their camp, leaving their food supplies in the possession of the enemy, who after appropriating the provender, which it is believed had been gathered by the tramps in a foraging expedition, the victors disappeared in the direction of Cranford.

HILLERY IS SEATED.

Takes Place on Railroad Commission, Effective May 1.

Trenton, May 13.—Acting with the advice of Assistant Attorney-General Nelson B. Gaskill, former Senator Thomas B. Hillery, of Morris county, was Tuesday seated as a member of the New Jersey Railroad Commission, succeeding Borden B. Whiting. Mr. Hillery then took part in the reorganization of the board. Former Sheriff Frank H. Sommer, of Essex, was elected president and former Assemblyman Alfred M. Barber was elected as secretary.

The opinion concerning when Senator Hillery should assume office as Mr. Whiting's successor holds that the former's term began May 1, according to the provisions of the act creating the commission. Mr. Gaskill points out that the law provides that appointees as railroad commissioners shall serve two years.

SPITE FENCE TO REMAIN.

Poplar trees as a substitute for a spite fence did not appeal to Thomas Dwyer, of Glen Ridge, when Mayor White, of that borough, asked him to remove the unsightly fence that he has erected between his home and that of Mrs. Frances Spowers. The Mayor represented to Dwyer that poplar trees would be as effective for his purpose as the thirty foot fence which he has erected and would look a great deal prettier.

Dwyer disdained to answer the Mayor's communication on the subject. In speaking of the fence Mayor White said: "I do not know what course to pursue, and I suppose we will have to leave the case in the hands of Providence."

The spite fence was erected some time ago because of a disagreement between Dwyer and Mrs. Spowers over a land deal.

Recapture Escaped Lunatic.

Anthony Strocher, an inmate of the Overbrook Insane Asylum at Montclair, escaped from that institution, yesterday. His absence was discovered almost immediately, and guards started in pursuit of the man, who is often violent. Strocher was tracked to Montclair and half an hour after the alarm was sent out he was in custody.

COLDS FROM EXPOSURE

to all kinds of inclement weather are of such common occurrence that they are not generally considered dangerous. This is a great mistake. Serious illness often follows in the wake of a neglected cold.

AN ORDINANCE

CONCERNING DOGS.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That hereafter no person shall keep, harbor or maintain any dog, or suffer one to be kept, harbored or maintained within the City of Plainfield, unless a license to keep such dog has first been obtained from the City of Plainfield in the manner hereinafter provided, and any person keeping, harboring or maintaining, or suffering to be kept, harbored or maintained any dog within the City of Plainfield without having obtained such license shall be guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 2. The City Clerk of the City of Plainfield is hereby authorized to issue such license in the name of the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield to any person applying therefor in writing and paying a license fee of two dollars and fifty cents, which license when so issued shall be valid and remain in force only until the 20th day of May next fol*lowing the issuing thereof.*

Sec. 3. The written application for a license as hereinbefore provided, shall be signed by the owner or person having the custody of such dog, shall set forth the place of residence of the applicant and the owner shall state the place where such dog is to be kept, and shall contain a description of such dog, including its name, color, breed and sex. All licenses issued pursuant to such application shall be consecutively numbered, and shall among other things contain a brief description of the dog to keep which such license is issued, including its name, color, breed and sex, the name of the owner, and shall state the place at which such dog is to be kept.

Sec. 4. Any person or association in the City of Plainfield owning five or more dogs which are kept for breeding, show or sporting purposes may obtain a kennel license, which shall entitle the holder thereof to establish and maintain within said City a kennel for the purpose of keeping dogs for breeding, show and sporting purposes. Such license shall be issued by the City Clerk upon a written application signed by such person or association which shall set forth the place of residence of the applicant, the place where such dogs are to be kept and the breed of such dogs. All licenses issued pursuant to such applications shall have plainly written or printed upon them the words "Kennel License" and shall set forth the facts stated in the application. Kennel licenses shall be valid and remain in force only until the 20th day of May next following the issuing thereof. There shall be attached to the collar of each dog kept pursuant to a kennel license, the tag required by this ordinance, each of which tags shall bear the number of such license. Such license shall be issued upon the payment of a license fee of ten dollars and in addition thereto there shall be paid to the City Clerk for each tag provided by him the sum of twenty-five cents. All provisions of other sections of this ordinance not in conflict with the provisions of this section shall apply to any and all dogs kept pursuant to a kennel license. The license fee of ten dollars required by this section shall be in lieu of any license fee otherwise provided for by this ordinance.

Sec. 5. Every dog to keep which a license is issued shall wear a collar to which shall be attached a metal tag bearing the number of such license; such tag to be furnished by the City Clerk at the expense of the City. The tags used for each year shall be different in size, shape or color from the tags used the preceding year that the appearance of the tag will differentiate with sufficient certainty the year for which the tag is issued, and three full years shall elapse before a tag of the same size, shape or color is again provided. If a tag is lost a new one may be obtained from the City Clerk upon satisfactory proof being furnished that a license to keep the dog for which tag is desired had been previously issued for the then current year and upon payment therefor of the sum of fifty cents.

Sec. 6. Any person who shall substitute or use any tag in place of the one furnished by the City, or shall allow any dog owned, kept, harbored or maintained by him to leave the premises occupied by such person without having a proper tag attached to the collar of such dog shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 7. The City Clerk shall on or before the 1st day of June in each year transmit to the chief of police a statement showing all licenses to keep dogs issued as aforesaid. The chief of police upon receipt of such statement shall ascertain by the officers upon their respective beats, what persons have failed to comply with this ordinance, and all such persons shall thereupon be proceeded against before the City Judge of the City of Plainfield.

Sec. 8. The Mayor of the City of Plainfield may at any time when in his judgment the public safety demands it, order and direct by public notice that no dog shall be allowed to leave the premises of the person owning or entitled to the custody of such dog unless securely confined upon a leash and accompanied by a person over the age of twelve years. Such notice shall be published at least three consecutive times in the official newspapers of the City, and shall state how long the said order is to remain in force. Any person who shall, after the issuing of such order, and during the time same shall remain in force, suffer, allow or permit any dog owned, kept or harbored by him to go upon any of the streets or public places of the City of Plainfield, or upon any premises other than those owned or occupied by him unless securely confined upon a leash and accompanied by a person over the age of twelve years, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 9. The Common Council at its first regular meeting in May of each year, shall establish a pound and the Mayor shall prior to such meeting appoint a pound-keeper, subject to confirmation of the Common Council, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the Common Council. The said pound-keeper, any police officer, or any person specially appointed by the Mayor for that purpose, may seize and convey to the pound any dog found upon any of the streets or public places of the City of Plainfield without the tag provided for by this ordinance, as well as any dog found upon any of the streets or public places of said city not confined upon a leash as provided for by this ordinance, during the time that any order issued by the Mayor, as hereinbefore provided, shall remain in force. The owner, if known, of any dog so seized and impounded shall be notified thereof by the City Clerk as soon as possible thereafter. The said pound-keeper and any person specially appointed by the Mayor as aforesaid, shall wear a suitable badge to be provided by the City Clerk indicating his authority. Any person authorized to seize any such dog shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of fifty cents for each dog delivered by him at the pound, to be paid to him by the pound-keeper who shall be re-imbursed by the City. Should any person appointed as aforesaid seize any dog other than such as is without a tag, or during the period within which dogs are required to be confined upon a leash, any dog other than such as is not so confined he shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this ordinance.

Sec. 10. Every dog so seized and impounded, shall be kept, fed and kindly treated by the said pound-keeper for a period of not less than seventy-two hours from the time of impounding, and the owner or person entitled to the custody of any dog so seized and impounded may within said period redeem said dog upon paying the sum of three dollars to the said pound-keeper, one-half of which shall be for the use of the said pound-keeper and the other half for the use of the City. No dog so seized and impounded shall be redeemed by the owner thereof or released by the pound-keeper unless a proper license and a tag are procured for said dog previous to such release.

Sec. 11. After the expiration of such period of seventy-two hours any dog remaining in the pound and not redeemed shall be killed in a humane manner by the said pound-keeper. For every dog received by the pound-keeper at the pound and subsequently killed, the pound-keeper shall receive the sum of fifty cents to be paid by the City. The pound-keeper shall also receive the sum of twenty-five cents per day for each unredeemed dog during the said period of seventy-two hours.

Sec. 12. The expense of furnishing the licenses and tags herein provided for, the fees paid for seizing and impounding any dog, the expense of keeping all dogs while in the pound and the fee paid to the pound-keeper for each dog killed shall be borne and paid by the City and shall be paid out of its general fund. All sums received for licenses and tags, and one-half of the amount received for the redemption of any dog, shall belong to the City and shall be paid into its general fund. Out of the license fees received as aforesaid the City Clerk shall be paid the sum of twenty-five cents for each license issued by him. The amounts so paid and received by the pound-keeper shall be reported by him in writing to the City Clerk on the last Friday of each month, which said report shall be presented to the Common Council at its next regular meeting.

Sec. 13. The word "dog" whenever used in this ordinance, shall include all dogs, male and female.

Sec. 14. Any person found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense. Conviction for any violation of this ordinance shall not be a bar to prosecution for any other or further violation thereof, and a failure to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance after such conviction shall constitute a new violation thereof *and shall be punishable as herein pro*vided.

Sec. 15. No license shall be required for any dog brought into the City of Plainfield for the purpose of being exhibited at a bench, kennel or dog show, provided such dog is not allowed to leave the building or enclosure where exhibited unless in the custody of an adult person and confined by a leash and does not remain within the City limits for a period exceeding fifteen days.

Sec. 16. An ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Dogs," approved July 6, 1887, and the various amendments thereof approved respectively June 1, 1891, May 4, 1892, January 3, 1895, and September 1, 1898, and all other ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance, are hereby repealed.

Adopted by the Common Council May 3, 1909; approved by the Mayor May 3, 1909.

AN ORDINANCE

to Amend an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to Provide for the Licensing and Regulation of Peddlers, Hawkers, Cartmen, Hack, Omnibus, Stage and Truck Owners and Drivers," approved March 14, 1882, (as amended).

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the title of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"An Ordinance to Provide for the Licensing and Regulation of Peddlers, Hawkers, Cartmen, Motor Vehicle Hack, Omnibus, Stage and Truck Owners, and Drivers."

Sec. 2. That Section 1 of said Ordinance (as amended) be and the same is hereby further amended by inserting in said section after the words, "to drive or keep for use for hire a hack, omnibus, stage, truck," the words "motor vehicle."

Sec. 3. That Section 4 of said Ordinance be and the same is hereby amended as follows: By inserting after the words "used for hire or wages, any cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage," the words, "motor vehicle;" and that said Section be and the same is hereby further amended by striking out the last sentence of said Section beginning with the words "One license and only one shall be required," and substituting in the place of said sentence so stricken out, the following words, that is to say: "One license and only one shall be required for each cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, and such license shall suffice for the owner of such cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, but for each driver other than the owner of such licensed cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, a separate license shall be required.

Sec. 4. That Section 6 of said Ordinance be and the same is hereby amended as follows, that is to say, by interlining in said Section after the words, "pay therefor the sum of five dollars for each license," the following words, that is to say, "except that in the case of motor vehicles the license fee shall be the sum of ten dollars for each license, and except that in case of each Driver other than the owner of such licensed cart, truck, hack, omnibus, stage, motor vehicle or other vehicle, the license fee shall be the sum of one dollar for each license. Every application for such driver's license shall be in writing, and the applicant shall endorse thereon the names of three reputable citizens to whom reference is made as to the character of the applicant, and the granting of any such driver's license shall be in the discretion of the Mayor. In every application for a license for a motor vehicle the applicant shall be required to set forth that his motor vehicle has seating capacity for at least four passengers and that he has equipped his said motor vehicle with a taximeter of standard make, affixed to the front axle of said motor vehicle, and so constructed and adjusted as to indicate automatically on the dial of said taximeter the charges for distance in accordance with the charges fixed by the Ordinances of this City.

Sec. 5. That Section 8 of said ordinance as amended be and the same is hereby amended by inserting the words "or corporation" after the word "person" in the first line of said Section 8; and the words "or corporation" after the word "person" in the last sentence of said Section 8.

Sec. 6. That Section 9 of said Ordinance be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 9. That any license granted under this Ordinance may be suspended or revoked by the Mayor or City Judge upon proof to the satisfaction of either that any such licensed person has been guilty of fraud with respect to making charges against any passenger or passengers, or that the owner or driver of any motor vehicle has practiced fraud with respect to the recording by his taximeter of the distance travelled, or the charges for distance, or for other satisfactory cause not included in the offenses elsewhere specially provided for in this Ordinance; provided, that no license shall be so suspended or revoked without reasonable opportunity first afforded to the licensed person or corporation to be heard on his or its own behalf; and every person or corporation who or which shall during the suspension or after the revocation of his or its license, carry on the business for which such license was granted, shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Sec. 7. That Section 10 of the said Ordinance (as amended) be and the same is hereby further amended as follows: By inserting after the words "use for hire or wages, any hack, omnibus, stage," the words, "motor vehicle;" also by inserting after the words "may charge therefor the following rates, but no more, that is to say: where they occur in said section, the following, namely:

"(a) As to all vehicles except 'motor vehicles' as defined in Chapter 113 of the Laws of New Jersey for the year 1906;"

and that said section be and is hereby further amended by adding at the end of said section hereby amended, the following, namely:

"(b) As to all 'motor vehicles' as defined in Chapter 113 of the Laws of New Jersey for the year 1906: For any number of passengers from one to four inclusive, for the first half mile or fraction thereof, thirty cents; and for each quarter mile thereafter, ten cents; and for each six minutes waiting, ten cents; and for ordering such motor vehicle within one mile and a half from any stand or station to the point ordered at which the passenger or passengers enter said motor vehicle no charge shall be made; and for ordering such motor vehicle more than a mile and a half from any stand or station to the point at which the passenger or passengers enter said motor vehicle a charge may be made at the rate of twenty cents for each mile or fraction thereof in excess of one mile and a half; provided, that children under ten years of age shall not be counted as passengers if accompanied by older persons."

Adopted by the Common Council May 3, 1909; approved by the Mayor May 3, 1909.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright, 1907, by Bobbs Merrill Company

My finger-tips touched the back of one of the folded camp chairs that rested against the house, and I slowly clasped it. I saw the leader still standing by the rail, the rope in his hand. His accomplice was so close that I could hear his quick breathing, and something in his dimly outlined crouching figure was familiar. Then it flashed over me that he was the dark sailor I had ordered from Glenarm that afternoon.

He was now within arm's length of me and I jumped out, swung the chair high and brought it down with a crash on his head. The force of the blow carried me forward and jerked the chair out of my grasp; and down we went with a mighty thump. I felt the Italian's body slip and twist lithely under me as I tried to clasp his arms. He struggled fiercely to free himself, and I felt the point of a knife prick my left wrist sharply as I sought to hold his right arm to the deck. His muscles were like iron, and I had no wish to let him clasp me in his short thick arms; nor did the idea of being struck with a knife cheer me greatly in that first moment of the fight.

My main business was to keep free of the knife. He was slowly lifting me on his knees, while I gripped his arm with both hands. The other man had dropped into the boat and was watching us across the rail.

"Make haste, Giuseppe!" he called impatiently, and I laughed a little, either at his confidence in the outcome or at his care for his own security; and my courage rose to find that I had only one to reckon with. I suddenly slipped my left hand down to where my right gripped his wrist and wrenched it sharply. His fingers relaxed, and when I repeated the twist the knife rattled on the deck.

I broke away and leaped for the rail with some idea of jumping into the creek and swimming for it; and then the man in the boat let go twice with a revolver, the echoing explosions roaring over the still creek with the sound of saluting battle-ships.

"Hold on to that man—hold him!" he shouted from below. I heard the Italian scraping about on the deck for his knife as I dodged round the house. I was satisfied to let things stand as they were, and leave Henry Holbrook and the canoe-maker to defend their own lives and property. Then, when I was about midway of the steps, a man plunged down from the garden and had me by the collar and on my back before I knew what had happened.

There was an instant's silence in which I heard angry voices from the houseboat. My new assailant listened, too, and I felt his grasp on me tighten, though I was well winded and tame enough.

I heard the boat strike the platform sharply as the second man jumped into it; then for an instant silence again held the valley.

My captor seemed to dismiss the retreating boat, and poking a pistol into my ribs gave me his attention.

"Climb up these steps, and do as I tell you. If you run, I will shoot you like a dog."

"There's a mistake—" I began, chokingly, for the Italian had almost strangled me and my lungs were as empty as a spent bellows.

"That will do. Climb!" He stuck the revolver into my back and up I went and through the garden toward the cottage. A door opening on the veranda was slightly ajar, and I was thrust forward none too gently into a lighted room.

My captor and I studied each other attentively for half a minute. He was beyond question the man whom Helen Holbrook had sought at the houseboat in the summer dusk. Who Hartridge was did not matter; it was evident that Holbrook was quite at home in the canoe-maker's house, and that he had no intention of calling any one else into our affairs. He had undoubtedly heard the revolver shots below and rushed from the cottage to investigate; and, meeting me in full flight, he had naturally taken it for granted that I was involved in some designs on himself. As he leaned against a table by the door his grave blue eyes scrutinized me with mingled indignation and interest.

I seemed to puzzle him, and his gaze swept me from head to foot several times before he spoke. Then his eyes flashed angrily and he took a step toward me.

"Who in the devil are you and what do you want?"

"My name is Donovan, and I don't want anything except to get home."

"Where do you come from at this hour of the night?"

"I am spending the summer at Mr. Glenarm's place, near Annandale."

"That's rather unlikely; Mr. Glenarm is abroad. What were you doing down there on the creek?"

"I wasn't doing anything until two men came along to kill you and I mixed up with them and got badly mussed for my trouble."

He eyed me with a new interest.

"They came to kill me, did they? You tell a good story, Mr. Donovan."

"Quite so. I was standing on the deck of the houseboat, or whatever it is—"

"Where you had no business to be—"

"Granted. I had no business to be there; but I was there and came near getting killed for my impertinence, as I have told you. Those fellows rowed up from the direction of the lake. One of them told the other to call you to your door on the pretense of summoning aid for a broken motor car off there in the road. Then he was to stab you. The assassin was an Italian. His employer spoke to him in that tongue. I happen to be acquainted with it."

"You are a very accomplished person," he observed, dryly.

He walked up to me and felt my pockets.

"Who fired that pistol?"

"The man in charge of the expedition. The Italian was trying to knife me on the deck, and I broke away from him and ran. His employer had gone back to the boat for safety and he took a crack at me as I ran across the platform. It's not the fault of either that I'm not quite out of business."

An inner door back of me creaked slightly. My captor swung round at the sound.

"O Rosalind! It's all right. A gentleman here lost his way and I'm giving him his bearings."

The door closed gently, and I heard the sound of steps retreating through the cottage. I noted the anxious look in Holbrook's face as he waited for the sounds to cease; then he addressed me again.

"Mr. Donovan, this is a quiet neighborhood, and I am a peaceable man, whose wordly goods could tempt no one. There were undoubtedly others besides yourself down there at the creek, for one man couldn't have made all that row; but as you are the one I caught I must deal with you. But you have protested too much; the idea of Italian bandits on Tippecanoe creek is creditable to your imagination, but it doesn't appeal to my common sense. I don't know about your being a guest at Glenarm house—even that is flimsy. A guest in the absence of the host is just a little too fanciful. I'm strongly disposed to take you to the calaboose at Tippecanoe village."

Having been in jail several times in different parts of the world I was not anxious to add to my experiences in that direction. Moreover, I had come to this lonely house on the Tippecanoe to gain information touching the movements of Henry Holbrook, and I did not relish the idea of being thrown into a country jail by him. I resolved to meet the situation boldly.

"You seem to accept my word reluctantly, even after I have saved you from being struck down at your own door. Now I will be frank with you. I had a purpose in coming here—"

He stepped back and folded his arms.

"Yes, I thought so." He looked about uneasily, before his eyes met mine. His hands beat nervously on his sleeves as he waited, and I resolved to bring matters to an issue by speaking his name.

"I know who you are, Mr. Holbrook."

His hands went into his pockets again, and he stepped back and laughed.

"You are a remarkably bad guesser, Mr. Donovan. If you had visited me by daylight instead of coming like a thief at midnight, you would have saved yourself much trouble. My name is displayed over the outer gate. I am Robert Hartridge, the canoe-maker."

He spoke the name carelessly, his manner and tone implying that there could be no debating the subject. I was prepared for evasion, but not for this cool denial of his identity.

"But this afternoon, Mr. Holbrook, I chanced to follow the creek to this point and I saw—"

"You probably saw that houseboat down there, that is my shop. As I tell you, I am a maker of canoes. They have, I hope, some reputation—honest hand-work; and my output is limited. I shall be deeply chagrined if you have never heard of the Hartridge canoe."

He shook his head in mock grief, walked to a cabarette and took up a pipe and filled it. He was carrying off the situation well; but his coolness angered me.

"Mr. Hartridge, I am sorry that I must believe that heretofore you have been known as Holbrook. The fact was clenched for me this afternoon, quite late, as I stood in the path below there. I heard quite distinctly a young woman call you father."

"So? Then you're an eavesdropper as well as a trespasser!"—and the man laughed.

"We will admit that I am both," I flared, angrily.

"You are considerate, Mr. Donovan!"

"The young woman who called you father and whom you answered from the deck of the houseboat is a person I know."

"The devil!"

He calmly puffed his pipe, holding the bowl in his fingers, his idle hand thrust into his trousers pocket.

"It was Miss Helen Holbrook that I saw here, Mr. Hartridge."

He started, then recovered himself and peered into the pipe bowl for a second; then looked at me with an amused smile on his face.

"You certainly have a wonderful imagination. The person you saw, if you saw any one on your visit to these premises to-day, was my daughter, Rosalind Hartridge. Where do you think you knew her, Mr. Donovan?"

is without equal. Its principle of concentrated heat means that the work can be done quickly and without the kitchen being heated to an unbearable degree. Can be lighted instantly and turned "high," "low" or "medium" at will. Three sizes. With or without Cabinet Top. At your dealer's, or write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp comes as near lamp perfection as it's possible to get. Gives a clear, bright light that reaches the farthest corner of a good-sized living-room. Well made throughout of nickeled brass; perfectly safe and very ornamental. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

PROPOSALS FOR MACADAMIZING.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Common Council at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at 8 o'clock p. m. on Monday, the twenty-fourth day of May, 1909, for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the macadamizing contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council April 12, 1909, and approved by the Mayor April 12, 1909, and as provided for in the specifications entitled "Proposal, Specifications, Contract and Bond for Macadamizing Streets, 1909," filed in the office of the Street Commissioner April 29, 1909.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announced the contents thereof in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of said prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

A separate price must be named for each street, and proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Macadamizing."

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

P.H.S. TEAM WALLOPS HASBROUCK HIGH NINE

Plainfield High School easily defeated Hasbrouck High, of Jersey City, at the Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon by a score of 10 to 3. Errors were the cause of the big score made by the home team, the visitors making seven misplays. Both Van Zandt and Lyness kept their hits well scattered and had Snyder given them proper support they would have pitched a shut-out game. Lyness, who is hitting in old time form, made a couple of two-base hits off the opposing pitchers.

BOWLING RESULTS ON THE CAMPBELL ALLEYS

Revelle and Connelly had an easy time last night in winning from Snyder and Minnock on Campbell's alleys. The scores made by both teams were far below the standard and only once during the contest did Revelle give evidence of his mid-winter form.

Tonight Nash and Blatz will bowl against Matthews and Brown and will endeavor to cut down the lead of Skelly and Miller who are now ahead.

BOROUGH HIGH DEFEATS WESTFIELD HIGH SCHOOL.

The North Plainfield High School defeated Westfield High School at the DeLacy avenue grounds, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 16 to 11. Bailey and Conroy did fine work in the field, each man excepting many hard chances without an error. Powlison's batting was a feature. The fast left fielder got three clean hits. Brown, of the visitors, caught a fine game.

GOLF.

The program for the invitation golf tournament of the Nassau Country Club on May 20, 21 and 22, is more extensive than last season, when the affair was disposed of in two days. In the coming tournament there will be an all-day thirty-six hole testing round, with contestants qualifying in no less than five sixteens.

Those who make the first sixteen will continue on at match play for the Nassau Country Club cup, the second sixteen for the North Country cup, the third sixteen for the Red Spring cup, the fourth sixteen for the Overlook cup and the fifth sixteen for the Mill Neck cup. If six sixteens qualify an extra cup will be provided. A gold medal will be presented to the contestant returning the best thirty-six hole score in the stroke competition, and coincident with this will be a team competition of four men each from any club holding membership in the United States Golf Association. Conditions call for all match rounds at eighteen holes, with the usual eighteen-hole, medal play, handicap on Saturday.

Although the season at the Deal Golf and Country Club has not really started, the members are displaying unusual keenness, and this has spurred on the committee to extra efforts in an endeavor to get the course into the best possible condition. All the greens have been repiped, and the entire fairway has been seeded down, while warfare is being waged on the worms.

In a recent four-ball match W. V. Conover, the Deal champion in 1907, succeeded in equalling the amateur record for the course of 77, held jointly by Walter J. Travis, P. W. Kendall and J. B. Turner, Jr. Conover, who played with E. G. Frazer against Kendall and W. R. Delehanty, chairman of the greens committee, went out in 40 and back in 37. He missed getting a 2 at the home hole by three inches.

MANY CANDIDATES FOR SENATOR HILLERY'S JOB

Politicians of the regular order in Morris county are somewhat upset over the announcement by Joseph B. Righter, of Denville, that he will be a candidate for State Senator on the Republican ticket this fall, to succeed Thomas Hillery, who is now on the Railroad Commission. Mr. Righter is considered a strong vote getter in the northern part of the county. He is not in sympathy with the dictations of the bosses and has not hesitated in saying so in his declaration of his candidacy for the nomination of the Senatorship.

As told, Uncle Dan Voorhees' choice, thus far expressed, is between James H. McGraw, of Madison, formerly county chairman, and John H. Capstick, of Montville. There are a number of prominent Republicans who are urging Charles M. Lum, of Chatham, as a good candidate. Mr. Lum is strong in Morristown, and last year would have been nominated for member of the Assembly, but declined. It was then stated that he would be entitled to the nomination for Senator at the expiration of Mr. Hillery's term.

VICIOUS PICTURES ON BRIDGE, COMPLAINED OF.

Morristown, May 13.—Complaint was made by the Morristown school to the Board of Freeholders at its meeting yesterday over objectionable pictures and vulgar writing on a bridge which spans the Whippany River in the rear of the school property. In a letter written by Arthur P. Butler, vice president of the school, it is suggested that the freeholders paint the bridge a dark color and then put up a sign. The letter also sets forth that the school at its own expense painted the bridge some time ago, but that it only afforded a new opportunity for more drawings.

The freeholders referred the letter to the Morris and Hanover Bridge Committee.

A petition signed by a large number of residents along the Pine Brook and Caldwell roads asked that a sharp turn in the road be eliminated. This was referred to the Road Committee.

The Finance Committee reported during the month, receipts, $53,361.17; disbursements, $42,535.40, leaving a balance of $10,825.77. The Courthouse and Jail Committee reported twenty-six prisoners in jail, forty-six having been discharged during the month.

R. A. MASONS' ELECTION.

S. G. Rudderow, of Camden, Elected High Priest at State Convocation.

The New Jersey Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, at its fifty-third annual convocation yesterday afternoon elected these officers: Grand High Priest, Samuel G. Rudderrow, of Camden; Deputy Grand High Priest, Daniel L. Campbell, of Paterson; Grand King, Ralph R. Eichlin, of Newark; Grand Treasurer, Frederic G. Wiese, of Bordentown; Grand Secretary, Leonard L. Greer, of Passaic; Grand Scribe, Charles Berg, of Orange; Grand Captain of the Host, Abram A. Roger, of Somerville; Grand Principal Sojourner, Lorenzo D. Sanborn, of Harrison; Grand Royal Arch Captain, Henry S. Haines, of Burlington.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance will meet in the W. C. T. U. rooms, 100 Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Williams, of Brooklyn, will be the speakers. The public is invited.

MAKE APPEAL FOR AN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

The interest in the Schofield Normal and Industrial School at Aiken, S. C., is constantly growing and increased support is being received. The members of Trinity Reformed church are regular contributors to this worthy mission enterprise and the following sets forth a few important facts concerning the school.

"A word for the Schofield School. Many of our good friends when asked to contribute towards this work in the South, bring up this question —Why is it that help of this kind should now be necessary? Intimating by this time the negro ought to be able to take care of his own education. The State in which he lives should provide public schools for him.

"The Friends' Intelligencer published an article written by E. Lloyd which gives an explanation to that question, which to my mind is a very true one. If these Friends could spend a few weeks in the South and see for themselves how poor that section is when compared with the North, they would have a better understanding of the situation. The Southern States are impoverished because of the devastation of centeuries of slavery. Much of the land is worn out, and can only be made fertile by intelligent farming. Population is scattered and in country districts the schools that are maintained, are miles apart. If all who have given to these schools might see for themselves how much superior the neighborhoods surrounding are to the hundreds of dismal arces through which the railroads pass, they would surely feel that no good seed they have sown elsewhere has borne a richer harvest.

"In some neighborhoods all the children in the schools, black and white, are counted in making out the tax apportionment, but when it comes to spending the money, though the blacks outnumber the whites, the greater part of the money is used to maintain the white schools. What the better class of negroes can do when thrown on their own resources, is shown by their first State fair, held in Columbia, S. C., last year. The attendance was large, the exhibits very creditable, and when it was over $1,200 was left in the treasury as a nest egg for next year."

ROCK THAT MOSES STRUCK.

"The 'Rock of Moses' lies in the wild valley of the Leja at the base of Jebel Musa, the Mount of the Law, in the Pensinsula of Sinai," says a writer in the May Strand. "The rock is eighteen or twenty feet high, slightly inclined, a rough indentation running over each side, which is intersected here and there with slits, and the stone is worn away in places as if from the effects of running water. It is beyond doubt the oldest known legendary object in the vicinity. The Koran refers to this rock more than once, and from these allusions arose the reverence of the Bedouins, who hold it sacred. From the Middle Ages onward it has been visited by Christian pilgrims, who have carved rude crosses in its side. Of all the objects in the desert it is most closely bound up with the simple faith of its wild inhabitants and of its early visitants."

He Knew.

They were country people pure and simple, but they had read the papers and thought they were educated up to all the improvements of a city.

When they went to Washington they went through the Navy Department and saw the models of our ships of war. Pointing to a companion ladder hanging over the side of one of the boats, she asked her better half what it was.

"Oh, that's the fire escape," replied the husband.—Lippincott's.

A TRINITY CELEBRATION

Reformed Church's Sunday School Home Department Entertainment.

C. M. DOLLIVER IN CHARGE.

Superintendent F. E. Smith Speaks —Pastor Makes Appropriate Remarks.

Under the auspices of the Home Department of Trinity Reformed church, a delightful social and entertainment was held in the lecture room of the church last night. There was a large attendance, a majority of the members of the department, which numbers 310, being present, together with a number of friends. The rooms were attractively decorated for the occasion by a committee of which Mrs. Frank P. Storr was chairman.

During the evening there was an interesting informal program, with Recorder C. M. Dolliver as master of ceremonies. An address was made by F. E. Smith, superintendent of the Sunday-school, in which he spoke words of encouragement to the Home department members and congratulated them upon the excellent showing made during the past year and hoping for greater things in the future. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor, also made a few remarks pertinent to the occasion, taking occasion to congratulate the department.

Other enjoyable features of the program included piano solos by Miss Mary Graves; recitations by Mrs. Henry Humbert and vocal solos by Mrs. W. T. Squires, all being well received.

Perhaps, one of the most interesting features was the result of the contest for members on the part of the visitors, which was written on the blackboard in view of all. This led off with the following: "January 15 to May 15, "Faith and Works" equals 115 new members. Mrs. Henry Van Name was captain of the winning side, bringing in 72 new members, while the opposing side, captained by Mrs. George Saums, brought in 43 new members. Mrs. Van Name's side was composed of the following assistants: Mrs. A. L. Force, Mrs. Winfield Schomp, Mrs. L. Sheppard, Mrs. M. Dunham, Mrs. L. B. Van Camp, Mrs. H. Huff, Mrs. John Krymer, Mrs. Philip Vroom, Mrs. William Van Deventer, Mrs. L. Dunavan, Mrs. Heidloff, Mrs. A. Swalm, Mrs. Angerbauer, Mrs. Pratzner. The team captained by Mrs. Saums was assisted by Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. Julius Williams, Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver, Mrs. George Dufford, Mrs. T. R. Van Zandt, Mrs. W. Leitheuser, Mrs. William Olmsted, Mrs. F. P. Storr, Mrs. W. Nelson, Mrs. G. Merkle, Mrs. A. Runyon, Mrs. C. Dutcher, Mrs. C. M. Dolliver, Mrs. R. Freiday, Mrs. J. H. Whitenack. All of these names appeared on the blackboard.

Following the program there was a social hour and refreshments were served under the direction of the refreshment committee of which Mrs. Julius Williams was the chairman. Mrs. W. Nelson was chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. John H. Ross was chairman of the committee on reception and badges.

"For Self-Preservation."

Robert and Elizabeth Hart, a married couple who have a mutual love for liquor, were arrested by Patrolman Dobson on Grant avenue last night, in a drunken condition. The woman told Judge Runyon that she had been trying to get her husband to go home with her, and had become so faint and tired that she poured down a few drinks "for self-preservation." Sentence was suspended.

Woman's College Commencement.

Commencement day exercises will be held at the Woman's College, Baltimore, Wednesday, June 2, and the alumne association will meet on Saturday, May 29. Among the members of the association are Miss Gertrude Snodgrass, formerly of this city; Mrs. Wilbur Merwin Alling, Mrs. Herbert Edwin Baright, Miss Bertha Stevens, all of this city.

Rendered Brazilian Music.

Miss Angie Kuhl, a graduate of Plainfield High School, Class '99, and Wellsley College, '03, and now a teacher of music in Brazil, rendered several selections on the piano at the Plainfield High School this morning, also singing several Portugese songs and national airs of Brazil.

"A Nation Triumphant."

Guy Carleton Lee, Ph. D., LL. D., of Baltimore, will lecture before the Monday Afternoon Club, Monday afternoon at the Hartridge School auditorium. His subject will be "A Nation Triumphant."

MARTIN TO CAPTAIN REGIMENTAL TEAM

Major W. B. Martin, formerly captain of Co. K, this city, known as the champion rifle shot of the world, has been detailed by Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, as captain of the regimental rifle team to be selected next week at a trial shoot in Somerville. Sergeant James A. Dabb, of Co. C, Elizabeth, will be one of the competitors for a place on the team.

The regimental team will be composed of twelve men. Nineteen men have been ordered to Somerville to try for the team. Co. K of this city is not represented. The first ten men will go to Somerville on Monday and the remaining number will appear on the range the following day. Those selected for the team will participate in the shoot for the National Guard trophy at Sea Girt, May 31. Captain Franklin Phillips, inspector of small arms practice, and Lieut. Charles F. Sylvester have been ordered to Somerville to supervise the practice.

The men will shoot a string of ten shots at 200 yards, slow fire, and ten more at the same distance, rapid fire; ten shots at 600 yards, ten shots at 800 yards and ten shots at 1,000 yards. There will also be a skirmish run of twenty shots.

SPANISH-AMERICAN VETS TO FORM LOCAL CAMP

Spanish-American veterans to the number of twelve gathered in the City National Bank building last night for the purpose of discussing plans for the formation of a camp in this city. William R. Townsend was made temporary chairman and Dr. Harold D. Corbusier temporary secretary. It was decided to send out return postal cards for another meeting to be held at the same place on Thursday night, May 20.

The prospects for a strong camp here are bright, as forty-eight names of men eligible to membership were presented last night and is estimated that there are at least seventy-five in all in and about Plainfield. At the next meeting steps will be taken toward obtaining a charter from the headquarters of the National organization.

EPISCOPAL RECTOR INSTALLED

Rev. Clarence C. Silvester was installed as the rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Roselle on Wednesday. Mr. Silvester was called by the vestry, in January, and began his work there February 1.

The installation services were in charge of Right Reverned John Scarborough, bishop of the diocese of New Jersey. The sermon to the congregation was preached by Rev. John Medary, of Philadelphia. Others who took part were Rev. Dr. Denslow, of the General Theological Seminary, New York; Rev. Mr. Wood, of Roselle; Rev. Dr. Phelps, of Bound Brook, and Rev. Dr. Stevenson, of Plainfield. After the service a collation was served in the parish house to the visiting clergy and vestry.

Funeral of Mrs. W. M. Runyon.

The funeral service of Mrs. William M. Runyon was held from the late home on East Front street, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Runyon was a member for a great many years, officiated. During the service Charles L. Lewis sang "Crossing the Bar," "Face to Face," and "Looking This Way." The pall bearers were Howard A. Pope, John M. Lewis, Fred. Cutter, Thomas Chapin, W. A. Woodruff and Albert J. Leader. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Catch a Fugitive.

Accompanied by Chief Kiely, Assistant County Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., went to Philadelphia yesterday on the case of William Saunders, the colored man who broke out of the Cranford jail last October and has recently been arrested in Philadelphia. The colored man was positively identified by Chief Kiely and was held by the Philadelphia magistrate to await extradition proceedings.

Parish House Dance.

Miss Eva Kelly has issued invitations for a May Day dance to be given in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross, Wednesday night, May 19, at 8 o'clock. This dance will differ somewhat from other similar affairs, the program comprising waltzes, two-steps, barn dance, lanciers, May pole, cotillion, Paul Jones and the boardwalk, in all about twenty numbers.

WHAT THE TRAMP COSTS

Orlando F. Lewis Gives Some Figures and Facts About the Hobo.

AN EXPENSIVE PROPOSITION.

The American Jail Breeds Tramps —There Are Many Classes of Them.

Stating that the vast army of tramps, hoboes and bums in this country means an expense of millions of dollars each year to the railroads and the jails, Orlando F. Lewis, financial secretary of the New York Charity Organization, gave some interesting facts and figures about American vagrants and work-dodgers in an address before the Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, last night. There are three classes of these 'knights of the road," the lecturer said, tramps, hoboes and bums. The first two classes wander about the country "looking" for something to do, while the bums look for a place to exist without working.

Mr. Lewis, who has made a careful study of the American tramp, is the author of several books dealing with this class of society, and his remarks were received with great interest by the large gathering of the men of the parish. In dealing with his topic, "The American Tramp, and What We Can Do For Him," he said that tramps are a constant source of annoyance and expense to the railroads of the country. The damage to rolling stock caused by the vagrants, and the loss of life of employes arising from accidents caused by the tramps amounts in the course of a year to twenty-five millions of dollars. "Our jails," he said, "are training schools for tramps, for the rounders and hoboes committed for vagrancy teach the younger prisoners the tricks of the road and lead many of them to follow the same sort of a life."

The lecturer spoke of the filthy conditions in the "tramp lodging houses" of the larger cities, and said that the literal cleaning out of these places was a big field for the Charity Organization's work. "The work to ameliorate the present conditions," said Mr. Lewis, "must be a work among the boys and young men. Between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five years, young men are appealed to by the life of vagrancy, and these are the tramps of the coming generation." He spoke in detail of the work of the Charity Organization in fighting to stamp out this branch of the society. In connection with the meeting, several phonograph selections were rendered by Harry Brentnall, and refreshments were served.

Final arrangements were completed for the summer festival which is to be held Saturday, June 19. A feature of the affair will be a baseball game between the Men's Association team and one of the leading local teams. John Kriney, manager of the association team, is working hard to get the players in condition for this contest, and frequent practises are being held.

SILVER WEDDING FOR MR. AND MRS. NELSON.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Nelson, of the Pleasant Valley Farm, about three miles south of New Market, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary last night. The affair was one of the largest that has taken place in that vicinity in a number of years, there being nearly 200 relatives and friends present. The house was prettily decorated with all kinds of spring flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson receive many beautiful and handsome presents.

The evening was spent in dancing and singing, the party not breaking up until the early morning hours. There were guests from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Plainfield.

Details for Big Cycle Race.

Jack Horner is now engaged in laying out the course for the twenty-five miles bicycle race to be held here on Monday, May 31, which will take the place of the famous Irving-Milburn event. Among the officials already selected is D. E. Adee, president of the National Cycling Association, who will be referee and Val. Valiant, one of the writers for The Bicycle World. Among the judges from Plainfield will be R. P. Gay, Robert Barnard, H. H. Farley, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, R. W. Osland, J. E. Shillinger and W. B. Trembath. There will be thirty-five prizes, now on exhibition at Horner's bicycle store.

YOUNG HEBREWS BUY A CHURCH PROPERTY

The First Church of Christ property on Grove street, near Green brook, which was recently put in the market for sale, was purchased yesterday by the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Plainfield, and possession will be taken at once. The purchase price was $3,000 and the association has already raised about $400 of the necessary amount.

The association will transfer its Bible school quarters from the Jewish Synagogue on New street and in the future all meetings, as well as social affairs will be held in the new home. It is also proposed to make many improvements in the building.

The structure was originally erected by the members of the First Church of the Christ, through the assistance of the missionary and extension boards of the denomination. It was always a difficult matter to maintain the various meetings and support a pastor and when Mr. Squires, the last pastor, took charge, he soon learned of the true condition of affairs. He was then authorized to sell the property. The few members of the congregation have not decided on future plans.

JERSEY CENTRAL GETS INTO SERIOUS TROUBLE

Charges that the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and other carriers from the Pennsylvania bituminous coal fields to New York harbor and other tidewater points, were parties to an argument to discriminate against small orepators, were filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday at Washington.

The charges were made by Beale, Peacock & Kerr (incorporated). They say they are engaged in mining and shipping bituminous coal from Central Pennsylvania, principally from Centre, Cambria, Indiana and Jefferson counties to New York and other tidewater points.

The complaint charges that the Central Railroad of New Jersey imposed certain demurrage charges at the tide-water points, which are illegal, unjust and unreasonable. The statement was made that these demurrage charges are imposed to discourage the smaller shippers of bituminous coal from using the coal cars, tracks, sidings and switches of the carrier for storing and holding the coal while seeking a purchaser. The regulations providing for these demurrage charges it is claimed was brought about by the concerted action of the defendant company and other railroad companies and a few of the largest producers and shippers of coal, the only beneficiaries being the large shippers.

The complaint says that the demurrage charges are especially discriminating against the small shippers on coal destined for New England points.

Will Attend Alumni Banquet.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Whitney, of Second place, will be among the guests at the annual banquet of the Alumni Association of Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, to be held tonight at the Hotel S. Denis, Nek York. Rev. Dr. J. M. Meeker, president of the institution; George A. Ferry, former Mayor of Orange, and Carl F. Price, of New York, president of the association, will be among the speakers.

Plainfielders See the President.

John Burns, Mr. and Mrs. J. Worth Coddington, of this city, were among those of the Fifteenth New Jersey Volunteers who were received by President Taft at the White House yesterday. The veterans and their friends had been to Salem Church, Virginia, where a monument was unveiled and are now en route for home. They will visit Gettysburg before returning.

Adella Tepe Must Attend School.

Charles Tepe, of Maple avenue, the borough, was brought before Recorder Dolliver last night because of the failure of his daughter, Adele, to attend school. He promised to have the girl in school regularly and for this reason sentence was suspendhed.

Grammar School Speaker.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, has been chosen as speaker of the Grammar school commencement exercises. This announcement was made by the Board of Education today. His subject has not been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Randall left this morning on the Mallroy line for New Orleans, where they will spend a few weeks. They will then go to Waco, Texas, thence to Southern California, where they will remain until December.

SCHOOL BOARDS TO MEET

Spring Session of the Union County Association on Tuesday Night.

AT ROSELLE HIGH SCHOOL.

Apportionment of School Moneys to Be Explained by President Morris.

The Spring meeting of the Union County School Board Association will be held in the High School building, Roselle, on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Recent legislation affecting the tenure of office of teachers, medical inspection, compulsory attendance, supervising principals, instruction in patriotism, etc., will be explained and discussed.

Other matters of interest to school boards will be brought up and discussed. An explanation of the recent apportionment of school moneys will be made by A. P. Morris, the president. Amounts have been apportioned to the various districts in Union county for the school year beginning July 1, 1909, from the State appropriation of $485,360.65. In most cases these amounts are somewaat in excess of the apportionments for the year 1908-1909, exclusive of the railroad tax of 1907.

The total amounts apportioned for the two years in Plainfield and vicinity, are as follows:

Plainfield, 1908-1909, $103,715.56; 1909-1910, $79,681.11; Fanwood, 1908-1909, $9,756.68; 1909-1910, $7,984.11; Westfield, 1908-1909, $39,054.86; 1909-1910, $29,770.77; Elizabeth, 1908-1909, $255,528.89; 1909-1910, $255,528.89! 1909-1910, $203,063.01. The total amount received for 1908-1909 was $610,641.12, and that for 1909-1910 will be $485,360.65.

RANKS G. W. EDWARDS AMONG THE MASTERS.

George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, who is one of the judges of the exhibition of the American Water Color Society at the American Line Arts Galleries, New York, as well as an exhibitor, received high praise this week from the Art Critic of the New York Herald. He classes Mr. Edwards with a few very best exhibitors of whom he says, "They are easily masters in water color and therefore can achieve legitimate effects without endeavoring to startle the beholder of their work. Two of Mr. Edwards' pictures in this show have a cheerful sparkle that delights the eye while the third, "Inside the Ledges,' is more sombre."

Badly Burned With Acid.

J. E. Townsend of Richmond street, is suffering from terrible burns of the right hand, the result of an accident on Tuesday. He was opening a box containing hydrocloric acid and in putting his hand into the sawdust which encased the bottle to remove it, he found the cork had come out and a quantity of acid had run out. Mr. Townsend's hand came in contact with the acid and it was burned so severely that it was necessary to seek medical aid. The hand is now being carried in a sling. The acid is used by Mr. Townsend to clean marble.

Boy's Prank Cost Him $7.

Bert Naylor, aged 16 years, who was arrested charged with throwing ashes into the eyes of Theodore Oesniann, an aged resident of Grove street, was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver last night. He entered a plea of non vult and was given his choice of a $7 fine or three days in jail. The fine was paid by the boy's father, who was present and was represented by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr. S. S. Swackhamer was counsel for Mr. Oesniann.

In Latin America.

A. C. Hall, of New York, a young Y. M. C. A. secretary in Buenos Ayres, whose salary is being paid by the local organization, has sent on some papers telling of the progress of the Y. M. C. A. in Latin America. Mr. Hall is studying Spanish in the South American metropolis for two years, after which he will be sent to Santiago, Chile, where he will act as secretary of the association in that city.

HARRY DREIER WINS EJECTMENT PROCEEDINGS

The ejectment proceedings instituted by Harry Dreier against Francis M. Bacon, of this city, were begun before Judge Vail in the Union county court, yesterday afternoon and were concluded this morning, when a verdict for the plaintiff was found. A week was allowed, however, to permit the defendant to certiorari the proceedings to test the validity of the tax sale. There was no defense. Mr. Dreier was represented by H. C. Runyon and Frank Bradner, of Newark, while W. S. Angleman was counsel for Mr. Bacon.

The action was brought by Mr. Dreier to obtain possession of a property on New street which he purchased from the city through the provisions of the Martin Act. The deed was passed after Mr. Dreier paid the amount asked, but Mr. Bacon refused to give up the premises, claiming an interest and also stating that he had offered to pay the taxes.

Now the suit has resolved itself into a test of the validity of the tax sale and upon the decision in that matter, the case will remain statue quo.

TO SHIFT THEIR BEATS FOLLOWING THE REVIEW

A general "shake-up" of the police force, effecting the "beats" of a large number of the patrolmen will follow the annual review of the department to be held on Saturday, May 22. The police review this year will not be as elaborate an affair as that of last year,and will mainly consist of the parade and review by the police board. There will be no presentation of medals. The police board will convene at headquarters, where the men will be assembled for review, and the occasion will be marked by the appearance of the policemen in their summer uniforms.

Chief Kiely would give no particulars about the impending "shake-up" today, but hinted that the changes would be considerable. "This year's review," said the Chief, "won't be an elaborate affair, for the police board feels that Plainfield's 'finest' will be considerably in the spotlight during that Charter celebration parade."

POLICEMAN JOHN KELLEY HAS NOT RESIGNED.

The report of Patrolman John Kelley's resignation from the police force came as a surprise to the police board, the department and the policeman himself. Speaking to a Daily Press reporter today, Kelley declared that he had not tendered his resignation, and stated that the report that he was obliged to give up his duties as officer because of fallen arches in his feet is entirely unfounded.

Some time ago, the patrolman spoke to Chief Kiely about leaving the force, saying that he had an opportunity with the Hudson and Manhattan Tunnel Company, but said today that he is considering other propositions as well. Any change will be made because of an opportunity for financial betterment and not because of physical inability or dissatisfaction with the police job. Kelley, who is unmarried, is the tallest man on the police force, and has been a policeman for about six years. He has an excellent record.

Somerville Man Drunk.

Timothy Ryan, who lives in Somerville, paid his first visit to Plainfield yesterday, and left every penny he had this morning at the city police court in payment of a fine of $3 imposed by City Judge Runyon for drunkenness. The visitor sampled liquor freely and developed a first-class "edge" on Somerset street, where he was arrested by Patrolman Nolan early this morning.

A May Walk.

The Owl Social Club will run its annual May walk next Sunday morning. The course will be along Stony brook. The party will start from Grand avenue about 8 o'clock in the morning. It is expected that about thirty members and their friends will take part in the event.

Development of the Steam Boiler.

P. C. Idell, of the Babcock & Wilcox Boiler Company, will describe the development of the steam boiler at the rooms of Plainfield Association, No. 12, National Association Stationary Engineers, at 109 Park avenue, tonight. All interested are invited.

—I. A. Laing, of Fairview avenue, will leave in a few days for Mansfield, Conn., on a business trip.

TRIBUTE TO FR. BOGAN

On Eve of Departure for Trip Abroad, Regard for Priest is Shown.

RECEPTION IN HIS HONOR.

Presented With Check For Large Amount—J. E. Martine and Others Speak.

As a token of the high esteem in which they hold the popular priest, parishoners of St. Mary's together with others presented a handsome check to Rev. Bernard Bogan last night, on the eve of his departure for an European trip in search of health. Father Bogan had just returned from a trip to Atlantic City, when he was escorted from the rectory to the parochial school hall by his assistant, Father Hogan, and some laymen. He was taken completely by surprise when he found the large hall filled with friends to the number of six hundred.

When the applause had subsided, Michael D. O'Keefe stepped forward and extended a formal greeting to the guest of honor. After telling the priest in what high regard he is held not only in his parish but in the community generally, Mr. O'Keefe presented to Father Bogan an envelope containing a check for a large amount. The pastor was visibly overcome and it was some moments before he could respond.

"It matters not what this envelope contains," said Father Bogan, "for whether the amount it represents is $2 or $2,000, a treasure better than gold is represented by the affection you show for me by your presence here. I have already bought my ticket for Europe but I assure you that your gift guarantees my return home for the first dollar of it I spend will be for a return passage. When I see in what regard you hold me I feel like staying home but my health compells me to seek rest and recreation for a time."

James E. Martine made a few appropriate and well received remarks. The "farmer-orator" spoke as the representative of those who are friends of the scholarly priest though not members of his parish. He lauded the priest for the great interest he has manifested in the community and said that Plainfield is proud to count him as one of its first citizens. To this well deserved tribute, Father Bogan made a brief reply, thanking Mr. Martine for his eulogistic remarks and adding that among all the many worthy men in the city there is none the peer of "the farmer-orator" in popularity.

Father Hogan, the assistant priest, preceded Mr. Martine as a speaker. He had many nice things to say of his superior. The choir sang a few appropriate selections and an informal reception followed.

Father Bogan will leave on the Carpathia on Thursday at noon. After a visit to Genoa and Venice he will go on to Rome, where he will be received in audience by Pope Pius. After a sojourn at the Holy City he will tour Switzerland, France and England and will pay a visit to the land of his forefathers before returning three months hence. On his trip across, he will be one of a party of graduates of the American College of Rome, who will occupy the entire first cabin.

Father Bogan said last night that when he returns he will bring with him the Sovereign Pontiff's blessing for his flock. Father Hogan will be in charge of the parish during Father Bogan's absence.

The reception committee consisted of David T. Kenney, Father Sciolo, Daniel Carty, M. F. Watson, John Gallagher and M. D. O'Keefe.

Announce--Beginning Tomorrow

An Unusual Suit Sale

1278

Men's $16 to $30 Spring Suits at - 13.75

All This Season's Garments

The high character of every Marshall & Ball Offering is well known. But this is an Unusual Clothing Event. Not alone on account of the Great Saving on a Smart Spring Suit just before Decoration Day, but also because of the magnitude of its provision.

This Extraordinary Suit Opportunity is made possible by the fact that the backward season left one of the leading manufacturers of high grade clothing in the country with a lot of canceled orders on his hands. Knowing our ability to handle large quantities he appealed to us. We took the entire lot at almost our own price.

To this immense choice of suits we have added many of our own make taken from a number of lines in which the sizes were not complete. We stake our reputation for clothing goodness on every suit in the lot, whether made by us or not.

All this season's popular gray shades are represented in the lot, as well as tans and modes; also blacks. Conservative as well as radical models. Every garment was made this season to sell at $16, $18, $20, $22, $25, $28 and $30.

No Man or Young Man who sees the handsome models, the attractive patterns, and the tailoring skill exhibited in the finish of these suits will want to miss his share of the savings,

There'll be an unusually brisk demand for these Suits tomorrow, and the man who comes in early will get the choicest patterns.

AUGUSTINE CORSET DEMONSTRATION THIS WEEK.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The opening competition for the President's cup will be held Saturday at the Park Golf Club. The conditions will be the same as heretofore—handicap, medal play, eighteen holes, three lowest scores to count points. The opening play for the Park Golf Club cup, scratch, will take place on Saturday, May 22. An interestinng program of events has been arranged for Memorial Day. Copies of the new schedule will be sent out by the golf committee in a few days. The tennis court is now ready for play. According to the usual custom, tea will be served to the members and their friends on Saturday afternoons.

Circulars announcing the tenth annual tournament of the New Jersey State Golf Association specify that all entries, including the handicap, close June 1 with Walter C. Shoup, 60 Wall street. The tournament will be at the Montclair Golf Club June 3, 4 and 5 and the course will be open to the entrants for two days before. "All residents of the State of New Jersey who are members of golf clubs belonging to this association and all non-residents who belong to no other than such clubs shall be eligible to play," according to the rules. The sixty-four to make the lowest scores in the qualifying round at eighteen holes, which will include an interclub team match, will keep on at eighteen hole match play to the finals, which will be at thirty-six holes. The first sixteen play for the championship cup and gold medal, also a runnerup medal. There are prizes for the next three sixteens and for all beaten eights.

Jerome D. Travers is the titleholder and is off seeking higher honors in Great Britain, so he will not defend it. Jason Rogers is chairman of the tournament committee. His associates are Fred H. Thomas, Leighton Calkins, George B. Martin, E. N. Todd and the officers, President H. V. Keep and Secretary Walter C. Shoup.

A. C. Gregson, the amateur from Great Britain who has been in this country on professional work for some time, had a match with Isaac Mackie, Eastern professional champion, at Fox Hills Tuesday, which developed a remarkable incident. On the 265 yard seventeen hole, the wind helping some, both drove the green past the hole and ran down the put, halving in 2. There are 117 entries for this annual tournament which began this morning.

BASEBALL.

The Woodland A. C. defeated Walter Bell's team Wednesday afternoon by a score of 9 to 0.

The peculiarity of baseball is evidenced in New York these days, where the fans are interested in the success of Marquard and Raymond, two of the new pitchers with the Giants, while Mathewson and Wiltse, tried and true, have not struck their streak.

The friends of Clifford Randolph are closely watching his work at Williamsport, where he is one of the staff of pitchers. He has not been given much opportunity to display his ability, but his friends believe he will stick.

If the Clinton Avenue Baseball Club make a success of its carnival this month, steps will be taken to purchase a baseball grounds and equip the same in first-class manner.

Seery, the backstop on the Clinton Avenue team, is one of the best receivers in this part of the State. His work is uniformly good and he can hit some, too.

The Monroe A. C. has organized a strong team for the season and will be a factor in the local field.

RECEPTION TO HEADS OF METUCHEN LEAGUE.

A reception was given in the Metuchen Borough Improvement League House Wednesday afternoon by the outlook committee and an attractive musical program was presented. The interior was made resplendent with flowers and appropriate decorations. Mrs. F. A. Pattison, president of the Borough Improvement League, was given an ovation and presented with a basket filled with choice flowers, after which a speech was so insistently demanded by the gathering that the recipient responded.

It was through Mrs. Pattison's energetic efforts that better quarters were secured for the Metuchen Postoffice, a public library started and the work of securing a new school building carried to a successful issue. She was the founder of the Improvement League, about seven years ago.

With the payment of $300 the league will own the clubhouse in which yesterday's reception was held, and efforts are well under way to bring about the consummation of that event before the end of June. The club will then have won the distinction of having transformed an old historic house gone to decay into an attractive, cozy clubhouse, situated on the old town pike from New York to Philadelphia. The distinction will also have been won of this being the second clubhouse in New Jersey owned by women.

Last year a fair netted $600 for the purchase fund, and other events resulted in a total of $2,230 being raised. The clubhouse, remodeled, has electric lights, a furnace, a fine fireplace, a kitchen, a piano, donated by the Quiet Home Club, and rugs, chairs and pictures in profusion. During the winter a woman's exchange has been successfully conducted in the league house.

TO TEACH GERMAN IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Elizabeth, May 14.—The local Board of Education put itself on record as favoring the plan to teach the German language in some of the public school grades. The board's action folowed the submission by a majority of a special committee of a report on the feasibility of such a scheme. When the board decides to go ahead with the project the plan of procedure will be worked out by the teachers and school officials.

Noah Morrison, the minority member of the special committee, reported that the scheme was not practicable.

FARM TRAINING NOW IN ITS NEW SCHOOL.

Bernardsville, May 14.—Available sites for a State industrial school in Bernards Township were examined yesterday by a committee of the National League for Industrial Education, which is seeking to bring about the establishment of such an institution to teach agriculture and kindred subjects. The committee made a tour of the township in an automobile, visiting places where it was believed the school could be located. No decision was reached as to what would be the best site.

Ulrich Eberhardt, of the Newark firm of Gould & Eberhardt; Dr. Claire M. Henry, of the Bernardsville Board off Education; Garrett S. Voorhees, of Basking Ridge, and Dr. Albert A. Snowden, secretary of the National League, comprised the committee. Mr. Eberhardt is the head of a committee which is seeking to raise the funds needed for the institution.

It is proposed to establish the school under the authority of a law passed in 1881. This provides that where any municipality raises $3,000 or more by private subscription or any other way for the building of such an institution the State will give an equal amount. Under this law the State will contribute annually for maintenance an amount equal to that expended by the locality where the school is situated with a limit of $7,000 on the State's contribution, unless $100,000 is invested in the land and buildings, when the State will give $10,000 a year toward the expense of operating the institution.

Under the arrangements proposed the school would be operated as the Newark Technical School is maintained and was constructed. The proposed institution would receive students a grade below the agricultural college and take those who left the public schools from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Practical agriculture, horticulture, landscape, gardening, floriculture, bee keeping and poultry raising would be some of the subjects taught. The government of the institution would be in the hands of a board of trustees appointed by the Governor.

ELECTED PEACE JUSTICE, BALKED TAKING OFFICE.

Cranford, May 14.—The Township Committee is much displeased because of the failure of the election board to make a return of the votes cast at the general election held last fall for the office of justice of the peace. Theodore Kline was elected to displace W. W. Mendell, the present incumbent, but when Kline called at the county clerk's office yesterday to take the oath and receive his commission he was dismayed when informed that there was no commission for him because no return had been made to the secretary of State of his election.

Mr. Mendell, who is senior vice-commander of the State G. A. R., when told of the committee's desire to get rid of him, defied them, as under the veteran act of 1900 he is entitled to hold the office during good behavior. He said he proposes to draw the pay of $50 a year and allow the committee to get any justice they please to do the work, a move that is not at all to the liking of the committee.

The trouble grew out of the disposition of police cases brought before Mendell, which did not suit Committeeman J. Z. Smith. Justice Mendell declares he will deal out justice in accordance with his own ideas without regard to the Township Committee, the members of which, he says, are not qualified to judge of the merits of criminal cases.

The keeper of the jail has been instructed to exclude Justice Mendell from that institution. He says he will not tolerate any such action and proposes to employ a lawyer to test the committee's authority.

STATE COUNCIL, K. OF C., CONCLUDES CONVENTION.

Atlantic City, May 14.—Besides the election of John J. Hickey, of Bayonne, to be State deputy, and of Cornelius A. McGlennon, of East Newark, to be secretary, and James J. Toomey, of Camden, treasurer, Wednesday afternoon, these officers are chosen at the State council of the Knights of Columbus, which concluded its sessions late in the day:

State advocate, Patrick J. Dolan, and warden, John F. Flynn, both of Newark; delegates to national convention, Thomas J. McLaughlin, Newark; Thomas P. Fay, Asbury Park; Frank A. O'Connor, of West Orange, and Edward F. McKeon, of Harrison.

DETROIT RIVER SEARCH FOR CRANFORD, N. J., MAN.

Detroit, Mich., May 14.—Assisted by policemen and rivermen, Harbor Master Ellison yesterday began dragging the river for the body of Frank S. Curtis, the Cranford, N. J., and New York civil engineer, who disappeared from the Wayne Hotel several days ago while suffering from a severe headache.

Curtis is believed to have fallen into the river from one of the docks near the Michigan Central station.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

At the meeting of the Board of Education of South Bound Brook it was decided to call a special meeting of the voters of the district to vote on the annual appropriation. The board has asked for $1,400. J. J. Gremillot was appointed to serve as a member in the place of John Thompson, who resigned. It was voted to close the schools for the summer vacation June 17.

Frederick Bartow and Michael Burns, of New York, were entertained at the home of Mr. Bartow's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, in Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. William Schenck, of Lincoln, is convalescent from typhoid fever at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Long, in Canal street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. Andrew Smyth, of Main street, South Bound Brook, spent Wednesday at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, in Plainfield.

Mrs. Carrie Cregar, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Diehl, of Bloomfield.

Mrs. Robert C. Hicks and daughter, Miss Lucy Hicks, of near Bound Brook, are spending several months traveling through England and France.

Mrs. Edward Hire, of Newark, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Zimmerman, in Main street, South Bound Brook.

A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. John Magaw at their home in John street, Bound Brook.

Miss Margaret Apgar is ill at her home in Cedar street, South Bound Brook.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

M. B. Culhane, of Summit, has taken up his residence in Dunellen, in order to personally superintend the grading and sub-dividing of the Eleanor B. Smith farm, opposite the schoolhouse, recently purchased by Mr. Culhane.

NEWARK LAD SUES FOR $20,000 FOR LOST LEG.

Trenton, May 14.—The suit for $20,000 damages, brought on behalf of Isadore Schmidt, of 153 Boyd street, Newark, against the Pennsylvania Railroad, was brought to trial before Judge Cross, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday. Schmidt is the eight-year-old son of Solomon Schmidt. As the boy was crossing the tracks of the railroad near Badger avenue on May 6, 1908, he was struck by a passenger train, as the result of which he lost one of his legs.

At the opening of the trial former Judge Alfred F. Skinner, counsel for Schmidt, introduced evidence to show that at the point where the accident occurred there was a well-defied path leading across the railroad, which, although not a public highway, was commonly used by the public. The purpose of this evidence was to offset the claim of the company that when he was struck young Schmidt was a trespasser on the company's property.

Albert C. Wall represented the railroad company.

EXAMINATION FOR FREE SCHOLARSHIPS AT RUTGERS.

The twentieth competitive examination for free scholarships in Rutgers College, the New Jersey State College, will be held at each county court house in the State on Friday and Saturday, June 4 and 5, beginning promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning and continuing until 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Particular attention is called to the fact that hereafter these scholarships are open to candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts and for the degree of bachelor of letters.

In 1909 the number of points required for admission to the "A. B." course will be fifteen, to Litt. B course fifteen points and 12½ points to the B. Sc. courses. Further information concerning these examinations can be obtained from County Superintendent J. J. Savitz, of Westfield.

OBJECTING METHODISTS BUY NEW CHURCH SITE.

Bernardsville, May 14.—Mrs. L. Manker has sold her property, consisting of three stores and a dwelling, fronting 147 feet on Main street and running 157 feet to the railroad line, to the First Congregational church, for $12,000. The committee in charge is working hard to break ground and build the church on the easterly side of the lot. This is the outcome of the split in the Methodist church. The greater number of the congregation following Rev. John W. Morgan, the pastor whom they wanted and whom Bishop Neely did not recognize.

SHOOTS HER CHILD AND KILLS HERSELF

Mrs. George W. Wenke, forty-six years old, of 909 East Grand street, Elizabeth, shot her nine-year-old daughter Mildred and took her own life by drinking carbolic acid last night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Josephine Kaufman, 118½ Jefferson avenue.

Mrs. Wenke had been a sufferer from nervous trouble and seemed to fear that her children would become ill. She died a few minutes after the shooting. The girl is still alive in the General Hospital, Elizabeth, but will die. Two bullets entered her mouth.

Mrs. Wenke went to the home of her sister last evening and soon afterward Mrs. Kaufman went out shopping and left her sister and the child alone. Upon her return she heard groans from the floor above. A search revealed the mother and child lying apparently lifeless on the floor.

Mrs. Kaufman summoned the General Hospital ambulance, but her sister died before it arrived. The child was taken to the hospital and placed in a cot in a ward adjoining one where an elder sister lies seriously ill. The sister, who is a trained nurse at the General Hospital, was operated on two days ago for appendicitis. The news of her mother's deed has been kept from her.

Mrs. Wenke was deeply attached to the child Mildred. She spoke of her love for the girl to Mrs. Kaufman sortly before she went upstairs to carry out her plan.

Mrs. Wenke was the wife of George W. Wenke, an engineer on the New Jersey Central Railroad. He said last night that he knew of no reason why his wife should kill herself and the child. He believes that nervous trouble coupled with worry over the illness of her eldest daughter and two other children unbalanced her mind. Mr. Wenke said that his home life had been happy and Mrs. Wenke had always been a devoted wife.

Sanderson a Suicide.

John H. Sanderson, the Philadelphia contractor, who has been out on $25,000 bail pending an appeal from his conviction for defrauding the State of Pennsylvania in the building of the $13,000,000 Capitol building in Harrisburg, died in his apartments in Sherry's Hotel, New York, late this afternoon. He had been living there with his bride ever since his conviction on March 12, 1908. Mr. Sanderson had many friends in this city.

PORTAUPECT ON THE SHREWSBURY—The Portaupeck Realty Company is building a bungalow colony on its magnificent property which lies on the banks of the Shrewsbury and adjoins Long Branch and Monmouth Beach. This property lies high and from it there is a commanding view of the water and the green hills beyond. The beach is sandy and sloping. The water is clear and clean. The Shrewsbury is famous for its fine fishing, crabbing and boating. A handsome clubhouse, with bowling alleys and tennis courts is now under construction for the exclusive use of lot-holders. The inland lot-holder has the use of the community pier, giving to them the same advantages as a water front owner at a much more moderate cost. Thirty bungalows are now under construction. This property must be seen to be appreciated. The property is highly restricted against all nuisances and deep driven artesian well water is now being installed in all the houses, which are also equipped with electric lights, and the very latest modern plumbing and bath-room fixtures. There are first class ranges in the kitchens and artistic fireplaces of stone in the reception rooms. The sizes of the bungalows range from five to eight rooms and the prices from $2,000 to $3,500, including the plot, 50x150 feet. The famous Portaupeck Inn is convenient for those wishing to avoid the cares of housekeeping. All in all an ideal spot for the home-seeker and from an investment stand-point. Convenient terms can be arranged. Send for booklets, yours for the asking. CENTRAL PARK—If you have not visited Central Park lately you will be surprised to see the many fine improvements underway, by prominent individuals. You will find them on Hillside at Prospect, also at Martine. On Kensington at Prospect and on Park avenue at Arlington place. Central Park is the attraction, the magnet, which is slowly but surely drawing the home-lover and the investor to its center. With its rigid restrictions as to style and cost of dwellings, against nuisances of all kinds, against shops, locations of stables and garages and its uniform building line it comes very near covering every point for your protection. When you buy at Central Park you do not have to live on promises. The history of past developments teems with glorious promises unfulfilled. Ours are fulfilled. Our streets are curbed and macadamized and cement walks are laid. Shade trees planted; sewer, water, gas and electric lights are all installed. Our prices are reasonable. Plots and dwellings can be purchased on most convenient terms. Send for our new booklet, free for the asking. CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Junior Band of the First Baptist church will meet in the lecture room this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for sewing.

Rev. J. W. Musson will conduct the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tonight.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet tonight and continue the course of Bible study.

S. Frederick Smith, the new organist at Grace church, is rapidly getting his boy choir thoroughly organized and trained for the church services.

Miss Beulah Duncan, soprano, has been engaged for the coming year as soloist at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, the matter having been decided this week by the music committee of the church.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will be held in the parlors of the church this afternoon. The general subject will be "The Pioneer."

Miss Jeanette Grant, the new soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian church, is proving very satisfactory. She will sing a solo, her first one here, on Sunday, when a good opportunity will be given to hear her voice.

The annual meeting of the Women's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Association is being held in the Roselle Baptist church today, with morning and afternoon sessions. The local Baptist churches are largely represented.

PERSONAL.

Miss Helen Meaney, of Elm place, is recovering from a recent illness.

Miss Sadie Matthews, of the Ritz store, is enjoying a few days vacation.

Miss Marie Brown, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Miss Florence Jones, of Jersey City, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

John Stryker, of Flemington, is spending several days at the Hotel Kensington, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns.

Fred C. Burner, of Jackson avenue, is detained at home by illness which started with an attack of acute indigestion.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schmidt, of New York, who have been visiting friends in this city for several days, have returned home.

Charles C. Brower, of Park avenue, a horse trainer, was kicked in the right leg by a colt a few days ago, which causes much suffering.

Russel MacIntyre, of West Seventh street, who was bitten by a dog at Scotch Plains on Tuesday, is improving. He had the wound promptly cauterized and the physician fears no further trouble.

A TOUCHING TRIBUTE.

The dignity of work well done, and the appreciation which people have for whoever does his work faithfully, no matter what that work is, is illustrated in the plan of the citizens of Montgomery, Alabama, who have undertaken to build a monument to "Old Bob" Goodwyn, a one-armed negro ferryman who recently lost his life in the discharge of his duty. "Old Bob," as he was affectionately called, had saved more than twenty lives on the Alabama River, often at a great risk of his own. Many families are grateful for his bravery and skill which spared the lives of one or more of their circle. The funeral of "Old Bob" was an elaborate one, in charge of his white friends. Now the city officials, business men and school children are to join in raising a fund for a monument to his memory, Mayor Teague being in charge of the fund.

It is an unusual honor to be paid to a humble worker, but it is honest sentiment, such as people feel at heart for the qualities of fidelity and self-sacrifice, no matter by whom they are manifested.—Waldo P. Karren in Collier's.

A Deadly Offense.

"Well, sir," remarked the somewhat garrulous landlord of the Puxico tavern. "Throgmortion, the constable, arrested a feller day before yesterday for walking down Main street, here, in the middle of the afternoon in his stockin' feet. He's in jail now, and—"

"But, great Scott!" ejaculated the washing machine agent, "it is not a crime, is it, for a person to walk in his stocking feet? Why, my dear sir, personal liberty—"

"Aw, personal liberty is proper enough as long as it don't interfere with the rights of other people. Anything that tends to add to the silence of our promisin' little city is an offense against the general weal. We're public-spirited here, even if we ain't exactly metropolitan."—Puck.

Justifiable.

"According to this paper," observed Mr. Goodwin, "a man has lived a year on beer alone."

"Well, that's as it should be," observed Mrs. Goodwin. "Any man who lives on beer ought to be compelled to live alone."

A MINUTE FROM MARKET STREET

SUPERB SPRING SUITS

12.00 to 25.00

My! that old winter suit looks heavy and uncomfortable—isn't it high time you were putting on a new, fresh looking Spring suit?

The trees have their new raiment, the flower shave recognized the season, the winds are whispering Spring, and you still hang on to that old winter suit.

Come down South Broad Street way on Saturday—come to the store of GOOD CLOTHING and tog out.

You can get more for 12.00, 15.00 or 18.00 at Mc GREGOR'S than any other store in the city. One certain fact, you CAN'T BUY a cotton mixed suit in this store. We stand alone on that point. Another, and most important fact, OUR PRICES ARE LOWER.

We want you to compare these special suits we advertise with the suits others show at the same prices.

We feel perfectly sure of winning and holding your patronage if you are a dollar-saving man.

SEE THESE SUITS

A beautiful range of pure worsted suits (warranted) in neat gray pin checks and stripes, also blue serges. Wonderful value at $15.00 and $18.00. Our price

12.00 and 15.00

Selected finished and unfinished worsted suits in beautiful shades of blue, olive, taupe and shadow stripe effects. Look $20.00, but they are only

16.50 and 18.00

We particularly call your attention to our line of superfine worsteds, mostly silk mixed fabrics, the best the mills produce. Semi-dress suits in black and white effects—dark. royal and navy blues in self and shadow stripes; also smoke shades, our best - - - - - 20.00 and 25.00

BOYS' SERGE SUITS

Boys' Knickerbocker Suits—coat either derby or plaited styles—pants full lined, sizes 8 to 17. Special at

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

The linen industry of Ireland employs 70,000.

Within a circle of 60 miles in diameter, with its centre in New York, there are more telephones than in all Great Britain.

The United States annually produces more oats than any other country in the world—754,000,000 out of 3,582,000,000 bushels.

False teeth of ivory, on a plate of the same material, and held in place by gold wire, were in comparatively common use as early as 1000 B. C.

It is said that the inventor of absinteh sold his secret for a trifle to a man, who disposed of it for $50,000 to a third person, who made millions out of it.

Encouraging oil developments have occurred in the remote parts of Athabasco and Peace River, Canada. The latest search has been made by men from the oil fields of West Virginia. Extensive tracts of oil bearing territory exist in the northern parts of Alberta Province, right on to British Columbia.

The Providence, R. I., police department has added to its equipment a lifeboat fitted with wheels and runners, so that, winter and summer, it can be taken from the police station where it is housed, hitched to the rear of a patrol wagon and quickly drawn to a place of launching. At a pond, boat carriage and all can be launched and the wheels dropped when the craft is well in the water. Police officials are delighted with their odd barge and commend the type to all inland cities where boats are scarce and hard to get in an emergency.

MOTHERS SHOULD HAVE THEIR RIGHTS.

There is no one in the average family, says O. S. Marden, writing in Success Magazine, the value of whose services begins to compare with those of the mother, and yet there is no one who is more generally neglected or taken advantage of. She must always remain at home evenings and look after the children when the others are out having a good time. Her cares never cease. She is responsible for the housework, for the preparation of meals; she has the children's clothes to make or mend, there is company to be entertained, darning to be done, and a score of little duties which must often be attended to at odd moments snatched from her busy days, and she is often up working long after every one else in the house is asleep.

No matter how loving or thoughtful the father may be, the heaver burdens, the greater anxieties, the weightier responsibilities of the home, of the children, always fall on the mother. Indeed, the very virtues of the good mother are a constant temptation to the other members of the family, especially the selfish ones ,to take advantage of her. If she were not so kind, so affectionate and tender, so considerate, so generous and ever ready to make all sorts of sacrifices for others; if she were not so willing to efface herself; if she were more self-assertive; if she stood up for and demanded her rights, she would have a much easier time.

LITERARY

"The Hundred Worst Books" is the engaging topic with which Samuel M. Crothers opens the May Atlantic. The whimsical humor of his essay is balanced by the serious and suggestive paper that follows it, "Is Immortality Desirable?" by G. Lowes Dickinson, the famous author of "The Letters of a Chinese Official" and other contemporary classics. In his article on "Railroads and Publicity," James O. Fagan reaches the climax of his series, supporting the grave charges he makes against unionism in a way which will be difficult enough for the unions to answer. The other Atlantic series, "The Diary of Gideon Welles," provides an interesting installment on the gross mistakes of Seward during the early years of the war.

BREEDING BLACK HANDERS.

The idea that Black Handers are bred exclusively in Italy and slip into this country through lax immigration precautions is a myth fostered by police officers anxious to shift responsibility. For every one imported from the other side there is another brought up in this country. The young Italian growing up in New York and absorbing the American passion for "easy money" on one hand, and the other conscious of the defenseless position of his people, drifts only too readily into crime. Every caffe and ristorante has its quota of potential Black Handers, young men who understand pool or cards enough better than the average patron so that they make a business of playing for stakes.—Arthur H. Warner in the Survey for May.

Not At All.

Bosh—Yes, he doesn't do anything but pick up pins all the time.

Josh—Well, well, that's a queer superstition.

Bosh—Not at all. It's an occupation. He's employed in a bowling alley.

Fodder for the Newlyweds.

The newly married couple had just moved into their new home. On the morning after their arrival a baker called to solicit their trade. He found the young wife in the kitchen. After explaining that his wagon delivered once a day, the baker asked, "And may we have your trade, madam?"

"Yes," she replied timidly; "we will give you a trial."

"And about how much bread will you want each day?"

"Well, I don't know exactly. You see, there are only two of us." Then doubtfully, "Would five loaves a day be enough, do you think?"

You accurately reckon
Her coming to a day!
When her bright fingers beckon,
You're up and on your way.

And on some rainy morning,
Refreshing and remote,
I catch the first spring warning
In your metallic note.

Sing on, brave little Robin,
Until the blossoms start
To bless the lyric throb in
The music of your heart!

LEADING AMERICAN CLOTHIERS

Corner Market and Halsey Sts., Newark, N. J.

Sale Starts Saturday Morning, May 15, at 9 o'Clock

Four Wholesale Clothiers' Entire Stock to Be Sold by Us at Half Manufacturers' Cost

This is by Far the Most Sensational and Important Clothing Announcement Made in Newark in Years

$109,000 Worth of Elegant, New, Stylish Clothing for Men and Boys' at Half and Less

During the past two weeks four large clothing manufacturers came to us seeking a quick outlet for their immense surplus stocks for ready cash. We offered them less than half the usual manufacturer's prices, and they refused positively to accept our ridiculously low offer until last Tuesday at 4 p. m., when a conference of all four makers was held at our Twenty-third Street Store, New York, and

The Four Manufacturers Came to Our Terms

This grand total of Men's and Boys' Spring and Summer Suits, Top Coats and Trousers should have been disposed of by the wholesalers around the Easter holidays, but on account of the cold April and extremely unseasonable weather the makers have been unable to move their stocks.

That's why they accepted our unprecedentedly low offer and are willing to take heavy losses in order to move their stocks and get ready cash at once. The goods must be sold at any price, and KING'S Newark Store, corner Market and Halsey Streets, will be the distributing point.

Sale Starts Saturday at 9 A. M.

There are 5,800 Men's Spring and Summer Suits, 1,900 Spring Overcoats and Top Coats, 948 Cravenettes and Rain Coats, 3,100 pairs of Men's Trousers, 2,068 Young Men's Suits, 1,195 Children's Suits with Knickerbocker Pants, 1,940 Men's Blue Serge Suits, 1,400 Elegant Strictly Hand-Tailored Suits, and many other styles and patterns.

Fifty Cents on the Dollar

The savings are simply wonderful. It is necessary to see the clothing, try it on and note its excellence, then the value will become apparent and no printed argument will be needed. It is the most wonderful clothing opportunity presented in Newark for years, and one that cannot be repeated this season.

HoraceAh! Miss Gwace, what should a young man do when he is keyed up to write spring poetry?

Grace—He should be locked up for safe keeping.

Clearly Defined.

Dinks—What is your idea of a dude?

Winks—A dude is a young gentleman who tries to behave in a ladylike manner.

His Way.

Tom—How do you keep the moths out of your clothes during the summer?

Dick—I wear the same suit all year round.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

County Collector Joseph I. Scull and wife, of Ocean City, left yesterday for Hot Springs, where they will stay two weeks.

Patrick Mealey, chief of Gloucester Fire Department, who was injured several months ago, is able to go about on crutches.

Ira Batten and Harry Bailey, the Paulsboro lads, who ran away from home, have been found, the former at Gibbstown and the latter at Grenloch, each working on a farm.

The Ocean City Board of Health is killing off mosquitoes and mosquito larvae by the use of oil, which is being thrown on low-lying grounds by Nuisance Inspector Foster.

At a meeting Tuesday night the Board of Education of Ocean City decided to introduce manual training in the High School next fall, and appropriated $1,000 for the purpose.

The post laundry at Fort Hancock took fire yesterday and the building, with practically all of its contents, was destroyed. It is estimated that the loss will be between $4,000 and $5,000.

May 20 will be "general cleaning-up day" at the Richwood cemetery. The women will furnish a chicken pot pie dinner on the church lawn, and the men will also repair wagon sheds at the church.

Survivors of Company G. Twenty-eighth New Jersey Volunteers, held their annual reunion at the home of Comrade William H. Stiles, near Repaupe, yesterday. Only fourteen were present of the sixteen living.

Catching fire while climbing Broad street hill, Bridgeton, the automobile of Dr. S. V. Tremaine was saved from destruction last night by Oscar Whipple, who seized a bottle of seltzer and extinguished the flames.

All the bids for the $22,000 sewage disposal plant bonds and the $46,000 school building bonds were rejected at a special meeting of the Millville Council Tuesday night, owing to irregularity. New bids will be readvertised.

Margaret Hogan, of 82 Jersey street, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Paterson, yesterday, suffering from burns received while burning rubbish and waste paper in the yard. The victim was badly burned about the face, chest, back and left leg. While in a critical condition the doctors express hope for the patient's recovery.

Dr. Alonzo A. Smith, of Malaga, has received a report from State Entomologist J. B. Smith, of Trenton, that the millions of insects which have invaded that section of the country are thysanurids. They are the least developed of all insects and are found in damp places. Their purpose in life is to help reduce the decaying vegetable matter.

THE LADY AND THE BRUTE.

Just as there are fashions in hats, so, of course, women have fads in the men they make pets of. Changing fancy calls one year for a Shetland breed in pianists or poets, and next season's contrast brings a velvet-voiced Bing-Binger in a toupee. The actor has his day, but he, too, knows the bitterness of finding some knotty-muscled athlete in the Morris chair with the cushions at his back.

And he also passes, and the earnest settlement worker receives the mash notes that used to go to the stage door. After a war the army and navy men retain their prestige sometimes for nearly a week, and then the ministers get back the bouquets, for they have the advantage of a spiritual halo that follows them like a spotlight even when they are gamboling at Chautauqua summer schools.

But the Brute has had to play dead through all this. Women, from the time of the cavemen until now, have veered to the soft-pedal lovers, the poet with his stars and his songs, the man who stole gloves instead of kisses and talked pretty over the telephone. Plain puplike devotion has won many a Junoesque woman who would have been appalled by a rowdy Apollo. Mr. Pipp was a gentleman, every inch of him! He was, as Colonel Watterson says, the kind of man women call a "dear."

The present turn to the deification of the cub-hunter, who sits on a Shippendale sofa as though it were a Bactrian camel, dates back, as we see it, to a terrible time when mother dressed their boys in imitation of the Fauntleroy freak. A lad's highest ambition at this time was to keep from getting mussed. It became a brain lesson with him.—Kate Masterson in Harper's Weekly.

He Had the Idea.

A Chinaman who had been robbed by a woman on the Bowery was trying to describe her at the police station.

"Can't you remember how she was dressed?" asked the lieutenant at the desk. "What sort of a hat did she wear?" For a moment John seemed puzzled. Then his face brightened.

"He dead—she glad," he confidently announced.

And now the police are looking for a woman with a Merry Widow hat.—Everybody's Magazine.

TENNIS.

The tennis courts at the Plainfield Country Club are now in first-class condition and the regular season's play will begin next week. The schedule of events is as attractive as ever.

BLATZ AND NASH TEAM MAKE SOME BIG SCORES.

It took the best kind of bowling at Campbell's, last night, for Nash and Blatz to win from their Somerville opponents, Matthews and Brown. Both teams were in fine trim and ran up some exceedingly big scores. In the second game of the last series the winners ran up a total of 440, Blatz making the individual score of 256, the best seen on the alleys in some time. In the first game the Somerville team started out like winners, making 431.

Tonight Campbell and Herbert will again attempt to take away some of the lead that is now held by Miller and Skelly.

Training for Cycle Races.

George Adams, of this city, who is a bicycle rider of some note, has decided on a rather novel method of keeping in condition for future races to be held here and elsewhere. Adams, who is about eighteen years of age, is employed here as a carpenter and at present is boarding with his brother, Fred Adams, in Newark. He covers the distance between here and Newark every day on his wheel, night and morning, in fifty minutes each way. The route he follows is by the way of the Springfield road and is sixteen miles.

Miss Malden, of Tennessee, is visiting at the home of her grandparents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue.

The Misses Petrie, of East Sixth street, left today for Denver Colorado, where they will attend meetings connected with the Presbyterian General Assembly.

MOVE TO PROTECT SINGER EMPLOYEES

The Elizabeth Board of Trade last night adopted a resolution asking the New Jersey Senators and Congressman Charles N. Fowler to seriously consider the proposed reduction in the metal schedule in the proposed revising of the tariff which would affect the sewing machine manufacture. It was said by James MacMaster, who introduced the resolution, that a reduction from 40 to 25 per cent. was being considered by the Senate, and that were this to go into effect it would be to the disadvantage of the 9,000 employes of the Singer plant at Elizabeth. Mr. MacMaster pointed out that the proposed changed does not concern the company to any great extent, because of its large plants in Canada and Europe.

Although there was some opposition to the question being thus summarily disposed of, this was speedily overcome by strong addresses favoring the resolution by Walter B. Timms, Henry Isham and Mr. MacMaster.

Another important act of the board was the adoption of a resolution to be forwarded to the Board of Chosen Freeholders recommending that an appropriation of $5,000 be made to defray the expenses of making soundings and preliminary surveys of Staten Island Sound, looking toward the building of a bridge between Elizabeth and Staten Island Sound. A member of the New York and New Jersey Interstate Bridge Commission was present and told the members of the progress made by the commission.

Because of the condition of Elizabeth's finances some opposition to the bridge project developed, it being pointed out that half of the cost the county would have to bear would fall upon that city. Elias D. Smith said that the estimated cost of the proposed span is $400,000. James C. Connolly advocated a bridge from Hudson County, via Bayonne, to Elizabeth, instead of the proposed Staten Island bridge.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Neuman Bros. have a full and complete line of the finest vegetables, all selected, which should not be overlooked in your preparation for dinner.

—The Councilmanic fire committee has purchased a new gray horse in New York for use at headquarters. The animal is now being broken in and appears to be satisfactory.

—Henry Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf, will open his summer garden in the rear of his hotel tomorrow night. The resort has been fixed up in the most modern styles and those who are acquainted with Germany and German resorts will have cause to think of the Fatherland.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

"Transmitters" will be the topic of the prayer-meeting at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tonight. Tomorrow morning the pastor, Rev. Edwin Shaw, will preach on "The Wells which Isaac Digged."

The last meeting of the Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church for the season will be held in the church parlors Sunday night, when the annual election will be held. Dr. Daniel C. Main will give a lecture on the effects of the X-rays upon the human body.

TO UNVEIL TABLETS AT TRENTON BARRACKS.

Trenton, May 14.—An interesting event will take place at the Old Barracks, West Front street, on Thursday afternoon, May 20, when two handsome tablets will be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies. The largest tablet will be placed on the outside of the building, on the Front street side, and the smaller one on the inside.

Colonel Washington A. Roebling will unveil the exterior tablet, which will be decorated with American and English flags. Vice-Chancellor Edwin Robert Walker will make the unveiling address.

The other tablet will be placed in the interior of the building and will be unveiled by Mrs. Forst. This latter tablet was presented by Mrs. Cornelius Hook, of this city, who is chairman of the general committee, comprising every member of the association.

Strong Vaudeville Bill.

Another act has been added to the big bill at the New Plainfield theatre by Manager Counihan. The vaudeville performance last night was a big success and considered the best ever. Miss R. Virginia King, who has played th principal music halls in London and vaudeville houses in this country, has a fine voice and made a hit last night. Other headliners appearing last night were Lake and Sorge, in comedy work; Clark and Razzillian, late of Ringling Bros.' circus, daring feats; the Todesco Trio, marvelous bicycle act; Hank and Lottie Whitcomb, barnyard sketch; Braddock and Leighton and Billy Sully and Miss Leighton in illustrated songs. Tomorrow the big show will move to the Orpheum theatre, as the New Plainfield theatre will be used by the Plainfield High School.

MAKING IT CLEAR.

I like the tariff speeches, for
The more I read of them the more
I do not know, and thus I can Rely upon my Congressman,
Upon the very slightest hint
He gets unending leave to print,
And when he prints a speech you see
He takes and mails it out to me.

He makes it very clear just how
If I pay more than I do now
For socks and gloves and baby's dress,
While I pay more, they cost me less.
And then he shows me where I lose
By paying somewhat less for shoes,
For, though I pay less than before,
My shoes they really cost me more.

He makes it very clear to me
That what I lose I gain, you see,
And on such things as clothes and shoes
I seem to gain, but really lose.
Thus, if I buy my socks too low,
They'll still be higher, don't you know;
And shoes I thought were high last Fall
Were really low shoes, after all.

You see, if I pay less for shoes
Or hats, the maker has to lose,
And if he loses, then you see
He charges up the loss to me.
Now, when I have to pay him more,
He reckons profits to his score,
And thus there is a share for me
In all of this prosperity.

The speeches shed a radiant light
Upon the theme and make it bright;
I merely read them o'er and o'er
And find more's less and less is more;
In buying hat or coat or vest,
Dear's cheap and cheap is dear at best;
High's low, low's high, far's near, near's far,
Light's dark, white's black—and there you are.
—J. W. Fowley in N. Y. Times.

THE PIPE O'GORDON'S MEN.

Home comes a lad with the bonnie hair,
And the kilted plaid that the hillclans wear;
And you hear the mother say,
"Whear ha' ye bin, my laddie, whear ha' ye bin th' day?"
"Oh I ha' bin wi' Gordon's men;
Dinna ye hear the bag-pipes play?
And I followed the soldiers across the green,
And doon th' road ta Aberdeen.
And when I'm a man, my mother,
And th' grenadiers parade,
I'll be marchin' there, wi' my father's pipes,
And I'll wear th' red cockade."

Beneath the Soudan's sky ken the smoke,
As the clans reply when the tribesmen spoke,
Then the charge roars by!
The death-sweat clings to the kilted form that the stretcher brings,
And the iron-nereved surgeons say,
"Whear ha' ye bin, my laddie, whear ha' ye bin th' day?"
"Oh, I ha' bin wi' Gordon's men;
Dinna ye hear th' bag-pipes play?
And I piped the clans from the river-barge
Across the sands—and through the charge,
And I—skirled the—pibroch—keen and high,
my—lips—bin—dry."
—McClure's Magazine.

The Deadly P. S.

"Harry, love," exclaimed Mrs. Knowall to her husband on his return one evening from the office, "I have b-been d-dreadfully insulted."

"Insulted!" exclaimed Harry, live. "By whom?"

"B-by your m-mother," answered the young wife, bursting into tears.

"My mother, Flora? Nonsense! She's miles away on a visit to poor Tom!"

Flora dried her tears.

"I'll tell you all about it, Harry, love," she said. "A letter came to you this morning, addressed in your mother's writing, so, of course, I—I opened it."

"Of course," repeated Harry, love, dryly.

"It—it was written to you all the way through. Do you understand?"

"I understand. But where does the insult come in?"

"It—it came in the p-p-postscript," cried the wife, bursting into fresh floods of briny. "It s-said: 'P.P.S.S. — D-dear Flora, d-don't f-fail to give this l-letter to Harry. I w-want him to have it."—Tit-Bits.

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN.

A minister who had been doing missionary work in India recently returned to New York for a visit, according to Success Magazine. He was a guest at a well-known hotel where everything pleased him except the absence of the very torrid sauces and spices to which he had become accustomed in the Far East. Fortunately he had brought with him a supply of his favorite condiments, and by arranging with the head waiter these were placed on his table. One day another guest saw the appetizing bottle on his neighbor's table and asked the waiter to give him some of "that sauce."

"I'm sorry, sir," said the waiter, "but it is the private property of this gentleman." The minister, however, heard the other's request, and told the waiter to pass the bottle.

The stranger poured some of the mixture on his meat and took a liberal mouthful. After a moment he turned with tears in his eyes to the minister:

"You're a minister of the Gospel?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you preach hell and damnation?"

"Yes," admitted the minister.

"Well, you're the first minister I ever met who carried samples!"

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Store Orders for Liquors.

Supreme Court Justice Bergen has done for this section of the State, which is nearest New York, what Supreme Court Justice Garrison did for the section nearest to Philadelphia. In his charge to the Union County Grand Jury on Tuesday last he devoted the larger part of his instructions to a full, detailed statement of the law with reference to the liquor traffic, and particularly as it relates to the sales of liquors from New York department stores and the delivery of the same to purchasers in New Jersey.

This part of the charge was prompted by the action of Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, in causing the arrest of two express drivers for delivering liquor that had been ordered from two of the largest of the New York stores, and Justice Bergen went into this matter very carefully. He said that where orders are taken in a county in this State for grocery and department stores in another State, the orders being filled by delivery on a subsequent day, and the price or charge collected on delivery, it is a clear case of a sale of intoxicating liquors in such county. The order is given, the goods collected, the money taken in such county; the whole transaction takes place in such county and is an indictable offense.

The court went even further in the Union county charge than was done in the Camden case. Reference was made to the Wilson act passed by Congress, by the terms of which intoxicating liquors transported into any State are subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such State in the same manner as though the liquors had been produced in such State. They are not exempt from such laws by reason of being in original packages; they are subject to police regulations immediately upon their arrival in the State.

It is evident from the care taken by the Supreme Court justices to define the operations of the national and State laws with reference to the interstate traffic in liquors that there is a movement to put a stop to at least one feature of the department store liquor business, and that feature is the soliciting of orders, the delivery of goods and the payment therefor in this State. Just what is behind this movement is as yet a matter of conjecture, but in each case thus far the county prosecutor has called the court's attention to these sales, of which there are thousands, and the court has explicitly charged the grand juries upon such information.

It would be surprising to learn that licensed local liquor dealers have originated this movement. They would certainly be warranted in so doing. They have paid from $300 to $1,000 for licenses to sell. They are under many liabilities, and in so far as they conform to the law they are entitled to protection against all illegal sellers. If department stores in New York or Philadelphia trespass upon prohibited or licensed territory without a license they are selling illegally and should be stopped. The matter is one of large importance and it is more than probable that action will be taken in other counties than Union and Camden.—Newark News.

An Union County Event.

The opening of the trolley line from Elizabeth to Union, Springfield and Summit is promised by July 1. This event may surprise many, but will hardly startle any. This is one of the trolley lines that were begun several years ago, and though it is only about eight miles long it is as yet unfinished. The larger part of the track has been laid over a year, but the rails have rusted deeply for lack of use and wear. The line is not a Public Service Corporation scheme, though it will touch the latter's lines at Elizabeth; it is a part of the system owned and controlled by the Morris Traction Company, which, when completed, will extend to Lake Hopatcong. Work is being pushed on the Elizabeth end of the line, not only, but on that part which is between Morristown and Summit. The first few rails of a horse-car line from Elizabeth to Union were laid nearly forty years ago, simply to hold a charter. If the new line is completed on July 1 it will be the first time that Elizabeth and Summit will have had any direct traffic connections except by macadam road and stages.—Newark News.

Remington's Frank Criticism.

Frederic Remington, the illustrator, fresh from a Western trip on which he had been making studies of Indians and cowpunchers and things outdoors, met an art editor who insisted upon dragging him up to an exhibition of very impressionistic pictures.

"You don't seem enthusiastic," remarked the editor as they were coming out. "Didn't you like them?"

Remington, remembering what he had been told as a boy, counted ten before replying. Then:

"Like em? Say! I've two maiden aunts in New Rochelle that can knit better pictures than those!"—Everybody's Magazine.

WILL WATCH HUBBY

MRS. BUNCHEAU SCADS HAS HER DOUBTS.

She Relates Some of the Happenings Incidental to Their "Butting In" to High-Class Social Functions.

"Me and Bunch had an invite to a bridge party at the Pomeroy Maltine Burgundays las' night, and though I don't care much for them funcshuns, Bunch was so set on goin' that we went—an' me without the least idee what a bridge party might be like; whether a fishin' picnic or some new kind of a straw ride.

"But, say, them Burgundays has sure got a swell manshun. Must be anyway all o' 30 rooms, all lit by 'lectricity and het by steam, and furniture an' statutes an' pictures till you can't rest.

"First thing when you go in th' front door you see a marble statute of a young woman, with nothin' partic'lar on, and one arm broke above th' elbow.

"An' I tole Bunch then and there I thought it plum disgraceful to have statutes of young wimmen standing 'round 'thout no raiment, though it was a sin an' shame that th' hired girl had been so careless 'bout breakin' off th' arm.

"Bunch, who's been studyin' all about art since he's tried to butt into society, whispered that th' arm hadn't ben broke by no hired girl, but that the statute was a replicky—I think he said—of one made by some famous old feller, and th' arm was broke—likely bein' hit by a spade when they dug her up hundreds o' years ago. Said she was the Shef Doover of this old statute-maker. (Bunch's also been readin' a French dict-nary, and I spose Shef Doover means somethin' he didn't want to say right out, 'cause you can't never tell what them French'll do.)

"They was a picture of another lady entitled 'Return of Spring,' but it looked t' me more like midsummer, for she didn't have a stitch more on her than th' Shef Dooverin' woman did.

"Positively they ain't a thing to this high-falutin' society for me, but I've just made up my mind that Bunch don't go to none o' these doin's 'thout me bein' along.

"He's pretty wise as a money getter, but I noticed las' night a woman who, for goodness' sake, was old enough to know better, sort o' goo-gooin' at him.

"An' you can't never tell; mebby she might be one o' them Shef Doovers."

One Belted Earl.

The Earl of Leicester, who died recently, was known as the "first farmer of England." On the great estates which he inherited from his father were first introduced methods of scientific farming that have greatly benefited English agriculture. They include the four-course rotation in crops—turnips, barley, clover, wheat—and the live stock shows. The earl was interesting not only as a farmer, but as an example of longevity in a long-lived family. No less than 157 years separated the birth of the father and the death of the son, and the son married his second wife 100 years after the father married his first. The father of the earl, who has just died, headed a deputation from Norfolk to urge George III to acknowledge the independence of the American colonies. He died at the age of 90, the son at the age of 87.—Youth's Companion.

"Inauguration" of Henry V.

The terrific blizzard which marred President Taft's inauguration has a parallel in English history in the stormy weather experienced at the coronation of Henry V. in 1413. Holinshed, most accurate of chroniclers, informs us: "He was crouned the ninth daie of Aprill, being Passion Sundaie, which was a sore ruggie and tempestuous day, with wind, snow and sleet that men greatly marveled thereat, making diverse interpretation what the same might signifie." Hardyng also mentions this tempest in his quaint rhyming chronicle:

On Passyon Sundaye after was this King
Anoynted and crowned without taryeng,
The ninth daye it was of April so
With stormes fell and haylstones grete also.

Takes Pessimisitic View.

Dr. J. L. Elliott, associate leader of the Ethical Culture society, is reported to have said recently that "we are getting tired of education as displayed to us by the Yale and Harvard man, Vassar and Bryn Mawr girl. They grate on our nerves and we are beginning to think that it is money not well spent to send our children through college." With the exception of lawyers and doctors they turn out he seemed to think the college of little benefit to the man or woman in the process.

Didn't Mean It.

"A man told me yesterday that he thought you one of the smartest chaps he ever saw, but he held his hat before his face when he said it."

"What did he do that for?"

"To show me that he was talking through his hat, I guess."

Her Dear Friend.

Nan was sitting for her photograph.

"What is that strange noise I hear?" she asked.

"I think it's the camera, trying to sound the 'C. Q. D.' alarm," said Fan.

CARPET SWEEPER TOO NOISY.

Dealer Left with Memory of Good Joke to Compensate Him for Loss of Sale.

A hardware dealer in town tells a story about a prim old lady who came into his store the other day to purchase a carpet sweeper. She gazed here and there about the store as she entered, and finally going up to the dealer she looked at him quizzically over her glasses and asked: "Do you keep carpet sweepers?"

"Yes, madam," replied the dealer, and naming the two kinds which he had in stock, asked which she desired.

"Well," said the lady, "you may show me both kinds, if you will."

"Just a moment, madam, until I get them from the rear of the store." And with that he went to an obscure corner and took down the carpet-sweepers from their hooks upon the wall.

It happened that in front of one of the makes which he desired there was a lawn mower so hung that he had to move it. He took it down from the hook and as he did so it rolled along the floor with a grinding rattle.

Before he had time to turn around he heard the old lady shout from the front of the store: "That makes more noise than my old one, and I don't care to look at it," and so saying, she whisked out to the door, leaving the dealer to wonder whether the joke was worth the loss of the sale.—Portland Express.

MERE INCIDENT IN FOOTBALL.

Broken Collar Bone, Supposed to Be Enemy's, Considered a Detail of the Game.

There had been a hotly contested football game between the Steam Rollers of the Benjamin Franklin school and the Avalanches of the George Washington school. After the game was over and the contestants had returned to their various homes one of the heroes of the winning team complained of a feeling of soreness in the lower part of his neck.

"I didn't feel it until just now," he said; "but it hurts like sixty!"

His father examined it. It began to swell, and was very sore to the touch.

"I believe your collar bone is broken, my boy," said his father.

A surgeon was hastily summoned, and made an examination.

"Yes," he said, "the bone is fractured. How did it happen, Walter? Do you remember anything about it?"

"Why, yes," answered the boy. "I remember that when I tackled Skinny Morgan I fell on top of him, and I heard something crack, but I thought it was his collar bone."—Youth's Companion.

Not One of His Studies.

Miss Blank's second grade was notorious throughout the school for a lamentable lack of discipline. It was in this grade that printed reports were first issued to the children. One day Tom came home, proudly bearing the first formal record of his progress in scholastic lines. His mother, having been a teacher, was pleased to note that her offspring's ratings were of high order, but his lawyer father, having scanned the slip minutely, said gravely:

"I don't see any record of deportment here, Thomas."

For a moment Tom looked blank, revolving the possible significance of the unknown term, then his face cleared.

"Oh," he said, "we don't have that in our room."—Delineator.

Ability Appreciated.

Sir Charles Wyndham (speaking at a dinner) told of a young man he once heard of who was paying attention to a lady to the great disgust of her father, who remonstrated very kindly with him. The father said: "If I see you in this house again I shall kick you out." The young man came back the very next day. "I told you what would happen," said the father, and it did happen. The young man did not appear for about five weeks, and then one day the father saw him coming toward the house, and immediately went and opened the front door. "Haven't you had enough?" said the old man. "Have you come again to see my daughter?" "No, no," replied the other, "I have come on behalf of the president of our football club."

Following Illustrious Example.

An art student in Berlin wrote recently to a brewing concern in Bohemia, offering to paint for the brewers "pictures suitable for advertising purposes—artistic, appropriate, attractive and cheap." He goes on to say: "Sir John Millais was not above taking 40,000 marks from a soapmaker for one of his paintings, to be used as an advertisement. Nor did he hesitate to offer other pictures for the same purpose at the same price. Why should not I, who owe my tailor, and who fear to look my landlady in the face, not do the same? Stay! I shall do better. Am willing to take less than 40,000 marks for my best work."

The Last Straw.

"Say, paw," queried small Tommy Toddles, "why do they always put in a scythe when they make a picture of Father Time?"

"It is intended to represent the shortness of life, my son," answered Toddles, Sr. "Time cuts people down, you know."

"But, paw," continued Tommy, "when Time shall be no mower, he'll drop his scythe, won't he?"

"Speaking of time, young man," said the father, "you go up and tell your mother it's time to put you to bed."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 16, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—"Pilgrim's Progress" series—V. At the cross.—John xix, 16-27; Luke xxiii, 39-49.

The parting words of Interpreter to Christian were, "The comforter always be with thee, good Christian, to guide thee in the way that leads to the city." Christian then continued his way. There was "a highway up which Christian was to go that was fenced on either side with a wall, and that wall was called Salvation." Through the walled way of Salvation every sinner seeking salvation and the celestial city must pass. As he nears the cross he still feels even more than ever the burden of his guilt and is often bowed down with fears. That at the cross he can have the burden of sin rolled away seems too wonderful, and until it is an actual experience with him doubts and fears remain, only in an instant to be wiped away completely when the actual experience has taken place. And when he knows that such has been the case his joy is great, the change being so sudden, and he wonders how he ever could have been possessed of doubts or fears.

Along the highway of Salvation Christian ran, still with great difficulty because of the burden on his back. "He ran thus till he came at a place somewhat ascending, and upon that place stood a cross and a little below, in the bottom, a sepulcher. * * * Just as Christian came up with the cross his burden loosed from off his back and so continued to do till it came to the mouth of the sepulcher, where it fell in." With all sinners seeking the celestial city, through the walls of Salvation in Christ, it is the same. When convicted of our sins, burdened with them as a load, we come up with the cross, trusting in Christ's atoning sacrifice for our sins, the burden of sin falls from off us and we feel it no more.

At the cross, at the cross,
Where I first saw the light
And the burden of my sins rolled away,
It was there by faith I received my sight,
And now I am happy all the day.

May this be the experience of every one who has not found Christ as his Saviour.

The vision of the cross, which removed the burden of sin, made Christian very happy. "Then was Christian glad and lightsome and said, with a merry heart, 'He hath given me rest by His sorrow and life by His death.'" He looked and looked at the cross, and "as he stood looking and weeping, behold, three shining ones came to him and saluted him with 'Peace be to thee.' So the first said to him, 'Thy sins be forgiven thee;' the second stripped him of his rags and clothed him with a change of raiment; the third also set a mark on his head and gave him a roll with a seal upon it, which he bid him look at as he ran and that he should give it in at the celestial gate. So they went their way. Then Christian gave three leaps for joy and went on singing:

"Blest cross, blest sepulcher, blest rather be
The Man that there was put to shame for me."

Oh, the joy of being saved at the cross and knowing it! The cross is able to save all men. If not saved let us come to it, for there alone can we find salvation.

A Visitor From India.

The United States had the great pleasure recently of welcoming the Rev. D. Downie of the Lone Star Mission, Nellore, in India. Mr. Downie is president of the South India Christian Endeavor union and a warm friend of young people's work. He plans to return in time to attend the world's Christian Endeavor convention at Agra in November next.

REV. D. DOWNIE.

Hymns Cut In Two.

Dr. Cowan, the new editor of the Christian Endeavor department in the Hawaiian paper, the Friend, is making those pages fairly shine. Here is a sample of his pointed paragraphs:

"I like the Hawaiian practice of singing the hymns through. In the east too many Endeavor societies chop off the head of the hymn—the first two stanzas—and throw the rest away."

It's Mission Is Its Strength.

No organization has a right to exist which has not a distinct mission, a unique place which none other fills. All others are cumberers of the ground. Because Christian Endeavor has such a mission and fills such a place it will, with God's blessing, go on from strength to strength in the years to come.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

"I saw her this morning at St. Agatha's school. I not only say her, but I talked with her, and I am neither deaf nor blind."

He pursed his lips and studied me, with his head slightly tilted to one side, in a cool fashion that I did not like.

"Rather an odd place to have met this Miss—what name, did you say?—Miss Helen Holbrook;—a closed schoolhouse, and that sort of thing."

"You may ease your mind on that point; she was with your sister, her aunt, Mr. Holbrook; and I want you to understand that your following Miss Patricia Holbrook here is infamous and that I have no other business but to protect her from you."

He bent his eyes upon me gravely and nodded several times.

"Mr. Donovan," he begin, "I repeat that I am not Henry Holbrook, and my daughter—is my daughter, and not your Miss Helen Holbrook. Moreover, if you will go to Tippecanoe or to Annandale and ask about me you will learn that I have been a resident of this community, working at my trade, that of a canoe-maker. That shop down there by the creek and this house, I built myself."

"But the girl—"

"Was not Helen Holbrook, but my daughter, Rosalind Hartridge. She has been away at school, and came home only a week ago. You are clearly mistaken; and if you will call, as you undoubtedly will, on your Miss Holbrook at St. Agatha's in the morning, you will undoubtedly find your young lady there quite safely in charge of—what was the name, Miss Patricia Holbrook?—in whose behalf you take so praiseworthy an interest."

He was treating me quite as though I were a stupid schoolboy, but I rallied sufficiently to demand:

"If you are so peaceable and only a boatmaker here, will you tell me why you have enemies who are so anxious to kill you? I imagine that murder isn't common on the quiet shores of this little creek, and that an Italian sailor is not employed to kill men who have not a past of some sort behind them."

His brows knit and the jaw under his short beard tightened. Then he smiled and threw his pipe on the cabarette.

"I have only your word for it that there's an Italian in the wood-pile. I have friends among the country folk here and in the lake villages who can vouch for me. As I am not in the least interested in your affairs I shall not trouble you for your credentials; but as the hour is late and I hope I have satisfied you that we have no acquaintances in common, I will bid you good night. If you care for a boat to carry you home—"

"Thank you, no!" I jerked.

He bowed with slightly exaggerated courtesy, walked to the door and threw it open. He asked where I had left my horse, wished me a pleasant ride home, and I was striding up the highway in no agreeable frame of mind before I quite realized that after narrowly escaping death on his houseboat at the hands of his enemies, Henry Holbrook had not only sent me away as ignorant as I had come, but had added considerably to my perplexities.

CHAPTER VI.

A Sunday's Mixed Affairs.

The faithful Ijima opened the door of Glenarm House, and after I had swallowed the supper he always had ready for me when I kept late hours, I established myself in comfort on the terrace and studied the affairs of the house of Holbrook until the robins rang up the dawn. On their hint I went to bed and slept until Ijima came in at ten o'clock with my coffee. An old hymn chimed by the chapel bells reminded me that it was Sunday. Services were held during the summer, so the house servants informed me, for the benefit of the cottagers at Port Annandale; and walking to our pier I soon saw a flotilla of launches and canoes steering for St. Agatha's. I entered the school grounds by the Glenarm gate and watched several smart traps approach by the lake road, depositing other devout folk at the chapel.

The sight of bright parasols and modish gowns, the semi-urban Sunday that had fallen in this quiet corner of the world, as though out of the bright blue above, made all the more unreal my experiences of the night. And just then the door of the main hall of St. Agatha's opened and forth came Miss Pat, Helen Holbrook and Sister Margaret and walked toward the chapel.

It was Helen who greeted me first. "Aunt Pat can't withstand the temptations of a day like this. We're chagrined to think we never knew this part of the world before!"

"I'm sure there is no danger," said Miss Pat, smiling at her own timidity as she gave me her hand. I thought that she wished to speak to me alone, but Helen lingered at her side, and it was she who asked the question that was on her aunt's lips.

"We are undiscovered? You have heard nothing, Mr. Donovan?"

"Nothing, Miss Holbrook," I said;

I Brought My Horse to a Walk as I Neared the Cottage.

and I turned away from Miss Pat—whose eyes made lying difficult—to Helen, who met my gaze with charming candor.

And I took account of the girl anew as I walked between her and Miss Pat, through a trellised lane that alternated crimson ramblers and purple clematis, to the chapel, Sister Margaret's brown-robed figure preceding us. The open sky, the fresh airs of morning, the bird-song and the smell of verduous earth in themselves gave Sabbath benediction. I challenged all my senses as I heard Helen's deep voice running on in light banter with her aunt. It was not possible that I had seen her through the dusk only the day before, traitorously meeting her father, the foe of this dear old lady who walked beside me. It was an impossible thing; the thought was unchivalrous and unworthy of any man calling himself gentleman. No one so wholly beautiful, no one with her voice, her steady tranquil eyes, could, I argued, do ill. And yet I had seen and heard her; I might have touched her as she crossed my path and ran down to the houseboat!

She wore to-day a white and green gown and trailed a green parasol in a white-gloved hand. Her small round hat with its sharply upturned brim imparted a new frankness to her face. Several times she looked at me quickly—she was almost my own height—and there was no questioning the perfect honesty of her splendid eyes.

"We hoped you might drop in yesterday afternoon," she said, and my ears were at once alert.

"Yes," laughed Miss Pat, "we were—"

"We were playing chess, and almost came to blows!" said Helen. "We played from tea to dinner, and Sister Margaret really had to come and tear us away from our game."

I had now learned, as though by her own intention, that had been at St. Agatha's, playing a harmless game with her aunt, at the very moment that I had seen her at the canoe-maker's. And even more conclusive was the fact that she had made this statement before her aunt, and that Miss Pat had acquiesced in it.

We had reached the church door, and I had really intended entering with them; but now I was in no frame of mind for church; I murmured an excuse about having letters to write.

"But this afternoon we shall go for a ride or a sail, which shall it be, Miss Holbrook?" I said, turning to Miss Pat in the church porch.

She exchanged glances with Helen before replying.

"As you please, Mr. Donovan. It might be that we should be safer on the water—"

I was relieved. On the lake there was much less chance of her being observed by Henry Holbrook than in the highways about Annandale. It was, to be sure, a question whether the man I had encountered at the canoe-maker's was really her brother; that question was still to be settled. The presence of Gillespie I had forgotten utterly; but he was, at any rate, the least important figure in the little drama unfolding before me.

"I shall come to your pier with the launch at five o'clock," I said, and with thanks murmuring in my ears I turned away, went home and called for my horse.

I repeated my journey of the night before, making daylight acquaintance with the highway. I brought my horse to a walk as I neared the canoe-maker's cottage, and I read his sign and the lettering on his mail box and satisfied myself that the name Hartridge was indisputably set forth on both. There was no one in sight; perhaps the adventure and warning of the night had caused Holbrook to leave; but at any rate I was bent upon asking about him in Tippecanoe village.

This place, lying two miles beyond the canoe-maker's, I found to be a sleepy hamlet of perhaps 50 cottages, a country store, a post-office, and a blacksmith shop. There was a water trough in front of the store, and I dismounted to give my horse a drink while I went to the cottage behind the closed store to seek the shopkeeper.

I found him in a garden under an apple tree reading a newspaper. He was an old fellow in spectacles, and, assuming that I was an idler from the summer colony, he greeted me courteously. I questioned him as to the character of the winters in this region, spoke of the employments of the village folk, then mentioned the canoe-maker.

"Yes; he works the year round down there on the Tippecanoe. He sells his canoes all over the country—the Hartridge, that's his name. You must have seen his sign there by the cedar hedge. They say he gets big prices for his canoes."

"I suppose he's a native in these parts?" I ventured.

"No; but he's been here a good while. I guess nobody knows where he comes from—or cares. He works pretty hard, but I guess he likes it."

"He's an industrious man, is he?"

"Oh, he's a steady worker; but he's a queer kind, too. Now, he never votes and he never goes to church; and for the sake of the argument, neither do I"—and the old fellow winked prodigiously. "He's a mighty odd man; but I can't say that that's against him. But he's quiet and peaceable, and now his daughter—"

"Oh, he has a daughter?"

"Yes; and that's all he has, too; and they never have any visitors. The daughter just come home the other day, and we ain't hardly seen her yet. She's been away at school."

"I suppose Mr. Hartridge is absent sometimes, he doesn't live down there all the time, does he?"

"I can't say that I could prove it; sometimes I don't see him for a month or more; but his business is his own, stranger," he concluded, pointedly.

"You think that if Mr. Hartridge had a visitor you'd know it?" I persisted, though the shopkeeper grew less amiable.

"Well, now, I might; and again I mightn't. Mr. Hartridge is a queer man. I don't see him every day, and particularly in the winter I don't keep track of him.'

With a little leading the storekeeper described Hartridge for me, and his description tallied exactly with the man who had caught me on the canoe-maker's premises the night before. And yet, when I had thanked the storekeeper and ridden on through the village, I was as much befuddled as ever. There was something decidedly incongruous in the idea that a man who was, by all superficial signs, at least a gentleman, should be established in the business of making canoes by the side of a lonely creek in this odd corner of the world. From the storekeeper's account, Hartridge might be absent from his retreat for long periods; if he were Henry Holbrook and wished to annoy his sister, it was not so far from this lonely creek to the Connecticut town where Miss Pat lived. Again, as to the daughter, just home from school and not yet familiar to the eyes of the village, she might easily enough be an invention to hide the visits of Helen Holbrook. I found myself trying to account for the fact that, by some means short of the miraculous, Helen Holbrook had played chess with Miss Pat at St. Agatha's at the very hour I had seen her with her father on the Tippecanoe. And then I was baffled again as I remembered that Paul Stoddard had sent the two women to St. Agatha's, and that their destination could not have been chosen by Helen Holbrook.

My thoughts wandered into many blind alleys as I rode on. I was thoroughly disgusted with myself at finding the loose ends of the Holbrooks' affairs multiplying so rapidly. The sun of noon shone hot overhead, and I turned my horse into a road that led homeword by the eastern shore of the lake. As I approached a little country church at the crown of a long hill I saw a crowd gathered in the highway and reined my horse to see what had happened. The congregation of farmers and their families had just been dismissed; and they were pressing about a young man who stood in the center of an excited throng. Drawing closer, I was amazed to find my friend Gillespie the center of attention.

"But, my dear sir," cried a tall, bearded man whom I took to be the minister of this wayside flock, "you must at least give us the privilege of thanking you! You cannot know what this means to us, a gift so munificent—so far beyond our dreams."

Whereat Gillespie looked bored, shook his head, and tried to force his way through the encircling rustics. He was clad in a Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers of fantastic plaid, with a cap to match.

A young famer, noting my curiosity and heavy with great news, whispered to me:

"That boy in short pants put a $1,000 bill in the collection basket. All in one bill! They thought it was a mistake, but he told our preacher it was a free gift.'

Just then I heard the voice of my fool raised so that all might hear:

"Friends, on the dusty highway of life, I can take none of the honor or credit you so kindly offer me. The money I have given you to-day I came by honestly. I stepped into your cool and restful house of worship this morning in search of bodily ease. The small voice of conscience stirred within me. I had not been inside a church for two years, and I was greatly shaken. But as I listened to your eloquent pastor I was aware that the green wall paper interrupted my soul currents. That vegetable-green tint is notorious as a psychical interceptor. Spend the money as you like, gentlemen, but if I, a stranger, may suggest it, try some less violent color scheme in your mural decorations."

STATE'S HUNTING LAWS

President Kuser of Commission Announces Changes in the Statistics.

AS TO GETTING LICENSES.

In view of the fact that the complete edition of the new fish and game laws will not be printed for some time, President B. C. Kuzer, of the Fish and Game Commission, has had prepared a circular giving a synopsis of the changes, together with information concerning the issuance of resident hunting licenses, unnaturalized foreign-born resident hunting licenses and non-resident licenses. No license is required for fishing.

The law requiring hunters to take out licenses will become effective July 4 next. In summarizing its provisions the circular says:

"No citizen of this State is entitled to hunt any of the game birds, wild animals or fowls protected by law without first procuring a license to do so, and then only during the respective periods and places when and where hunting is lawful. The word 'citizen' shall be construed to mean any person, male or female, who has resided or shall reside bona fide in this State for a period of one year immediately preceding the application for a license."

The law provides that the occupant of any farm in this State and the immediate members of the family of such occupant residing on said farm shall have the right without a license to hunt on the farm when hunting thereon is lawful. The words "members of the family of said occupant," however, shall not be taken to include any employe or tenant of said occupant. The license shall be procured from any county, city, borough, town, township or village clerk, to be furnished to such clerks by the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners through the county clerk. All licenses expire December 31. Every applicant for a license shall prove to the satisfaction of the clerk that he is a citizen of this State within the meaning of the act. The license must be exhibited by the license on demand of any person, is not transferable, and gives no right to trespass. The penalty for violation is $20; cost of license, $1; clerks fee, fifteen cents extra. Further information concerning hunting licenses is given as follows:

"There is no prohibition against granting a license to a minor; nor is there any prohibition against his hunting in a lawful manner.

"When a man believed to be an alien applies for a resident hunting license, he should be made to show his naturalization papers or produce other proofs to show that he is entitled to a resident hunting license, and the clerk should refuse to issue a resident license if he is not thoroughly satisfied that the applicant is entitled to take out such a license. He must have taken out his full naturalization papers before he is entitled to a resident hunting license. Residence in the State does not entitled a foreigner to take out a resident hunting license any more than it entitles him to vote.

Unnaturalized, foreign-born residents are not permitted to hunt without a license. To obtain such license the applicant should fill out a blank application, to be furnished by the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners of the State on the application of any clerk of any county, city, town or township, or other municipality. The cost of said license is $10, in addition to a fee of fifty cents to the clerk. On receipt of an application blank properly filled out, a blank license will be forwarded by the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners to the clerk. The clerk issuing the license shall send the State's fee of $10 to the State Treasurer.

"Non-residents are not permitted to hunt without a license. The fact that an applicant owns property in this State, or that he has a summer residence in the State, does not entitle him to take out a resident hunting license, if he has not lived in the State one year preceding the application for a license. Only county clerks are authorized to issue licenses to non-residents, which cost $10.50. County clerks will furnish the application blanks for a non-resident license. One's fixed permanent abode shall determine his residence.

"When a hunting license has been lost a duplicate or certificate cannot be issued. A new license must be obtained at the original cost.

"When a resident license has accidentally been spoiled at the time of making it out, in order to obtain credit for the same it must be attached to the report of the month of issue and forwarded with the regular returns through the county clerk to the State treasurer."

Not So Much Needed.

Like most ministers' families, they were not extensively blessed with this world's goods. She, however, was the youngest of ten children until her father explained to her of the baby sister who had come in the night.

"Well," she said, after due thought, "I 'pose it's all right, papa, but there's many a thing we needed worse."—Delineator.

Rain Coats

A Garment for a Rainy Day A Garment for a Sunshiny Day

In this age of progress the making of rain coats has advanced with the times; the ungainly rain coat of some years ago is a thing of the past.

Women have demanded protection from the weather by stylish apparel.

So well have the makers succeeded that many find them suitable when the day is clear and bright, and most excellent for automobiling and traveling.

We had about 200 a week ago; they were practically gone in one day's selling. We have succeeded in getting another lot. We trust enough to go around tomorrow. Consigned to us by a manufacturer who wished to clear out his stock.

These are rubberized, heavy striped taffetas, pongee effects, bengalines, etc., in plenty of blues, browns, blacks, greens and grays. Made in the universally desired, semi-fitted, full-length styles; neatly trimmed with piped bands on shoulders and large directoire pockets with pretty novelty buttons.

Lot No. 1 is worth $10, Special at $5.98

Lot No. 2, valued at $15, Special at $8.50

OVER-VALUATION OF LOVE.

As one's eye travels over the news one reads day after day the records of those who commit suicide or kill others, giving as their excuse the enthralling powers of love or jealousy. It turns one back with a sigh of relief to that high-hearted, cheerful-minded maiden Rosalind, who felt quite secure that all those tales of dying for love were founded on lies. To her clear-sighted gaze this 6,000-year-old world had never yet seen a man "die in his own person, videlicet, in a love cause." Troilus, indeed, had his brains dashed out with a club and Leander was seized with a cramp in the Hellespont, but, however the romantic coroners of that day chose to furbush up the tale, Rosalind knew that "men have died from time to time and worms have eaten them, but not for love." Indeed, had Rosalind, by the nature of the case, been able to make acquaintance with Romeo and Juliet and know the tragic story of their ending she would likely enough have recognized them for eloquent but sickly children, with but little stored wisdom to apply to this various world.

Indeed, a very various world it is we hasten ehrough. And he who, whatever odds are against him, will attempt to stand still in the flowing current and hold things fixed will, by the nature of the case, be dashed against the rocks and broken. Who is determined to fling all his hopes into one investment and make believe that life has room for but one passion and one emotion is like enough to be shipwrecked. It is one of the most serious injuries done mankind by the glut of cheap fiction with which we are overrun, that its convention is to try to uphold this false standard, and to misinform and emphasize readers as to the important part which emotion plays in life. It would be quite a service to humanity to write a few readable novels, light enough to reach the masses, setting straight this sad misapprehension as to the power of love. To tell the truth, it is no life-and-death affair at all.

Normal people train themselves not to fall in love periodicaly—to avoid this, a modern writer says, as they would fits—and when they do, to treat the ill rationally. To realize, for example, that the tendency belongs to a limited period of life; that we are most prone to the discomfort between 18 and 28, and that after 35 most healthy occupied people tre entirely immune. It might be well, too, to impress the fact on sensational and emotional natures that success in wooing very much lessens the value of that we strive for and brings about an immediate readjustment of vision, in which we see that for which we were so willing at one time to lay down our lives more nearly at its true valuation as only one factor in satisfactory living; at best, a comfort to have achieved; but, at any rate, not indispensable to the interests of life.—Harper's Weekly.

Y. M. C. A. IN THE ORIENT.

In no phase of Y. M. C. A. activities is the work of the association thrown against a more picturesque or dramatic background than in its labor in the Far East, writes Hugh C. Weir in The Circle Magazine. It is a work for those young men who, in all the world, face the most stupendous problems. Among the youth in the gymnasiums and libraries of the Y. M. C. A. we will find the leaders of the new Orient—the men who are to guide the oldest nations in history through their greatest crises, and upon whose shoulders largely depends the question of how China and Japan and India and Ceylon are to use the new power that is just within their grasp.

We are accustomed to view the eastern half of the world much as the "minority party" in politics. Few of us know that while the continents of Europe and America boast 400,000,000 inhabitants those of Asia and Africa boast 900,000,000, two and a half times as many. These hundreds of millions have been dozing through the centuries which have given us the supremacy of the globe, but they are waking up. For over 200 years missionary heroism and martyrdom have been sowing seed in the world's darker half, and we are just realizing that the harvest is at hand. We have nourished that harvest we have eliminated one by one the obstacles to its growth, but the reaping will not be in our hands.

The most that we may do is to strengthen and develop the reaper, even as we have developed their harvest. The reapers are the young men of China and Japan and India and Korea, the youth of today who will be the statesmen and the educators and the warriors of tomorrow. These are the nation builders whose future and that of so great a percentage of the world's population depends largely upon the influence of the Y. M. C. A. and the currents of physical, mental and moral manhood set in motion on American territory by Americans.

GIVES TALK ON BOILERS

P. C. Idell, of New York City, Speaks Before Branch of Stationary Engineers.

HIS ADDRESS WAS INSTRUCTIVE

Various Types of Boilers Adapted for Different Kinds of Fuel Says Lecturer.

Before a large gathering of engineers, P. C. Idell, of New York city, delivered an interesting and instructive address on the development of the modern steam boiler before the members of the Plainfield Association, No. 12, N. A. S. E., in their rooms on Park avenue last night. During the course of his remarks Mr. Idell took special pains to bring out the real value the safety boiler and what it has to do with public safety, besides what convenience the modern boiler had done towards advancing civilization.

"Of the stationary boiler," said Mr. Idell, "there are many kinds, the upright being perhaps the oldest and most practical, having been established and used since 1878. The present type with its horizontal steam drums and vertical headers, is not only safer and more modern but is a great fuel saver. Such types are known among engineers as the B. and W. boilers. There is also another type, which is preferred by many engineers, called the "Stirling" boiler, with three horizontal upper drums and one lower drum, connected by a veritcal tube slightly curved, which is used for convenience and a space saver. Our Caholl and Rust boilers which are also of the vertical type and are seen in large numbers throughout the coal and iron districts of Pennsylvania, Ohio and other mining States; while our improved modern marine boilers are used on ninety per cent. of the battleships of the new American navy.

"The different types of boilers depend largely upon the location and under what circumstances they are used. Every boiler built is for the purpose of a certain kind of fuel. In California we had to experiment for a number of years on the oil fuel boiler, as there was little coal in that section. In Cuba came another problem as to what was the cheapest fuel. Upon finding that 'lagasse' or sugar cane pulp made a hot fire and burned easily a boiler had to be invented to make use of the natural fuel of the locality. In West Virginia and other States where natural gas is abundant there is now a boiler for such uses, and there are boilers which burn saw dust."

JOHN H. SANDERSON DID NOT COMMIT SUICIDE.

John H. Sanderson, of Philadelphia, convicted of defrauding the State of Pennsylvania and sentenced to serve two years imprisonment, did not die from his own hand as at first reported. He passed away at his apartments at Sherry's, in New York, suddenly on Thursday night and the cause of his death was heart disease.

Sanderson was implicated in the alleged gigantic frauds perpeterated in the building of the $13,000,000 capitol at Harrisburg and had out on $25,000 bail pending an appeal from the conviction. He had many friends in this city who denounce the story that he would take his own life and who firmly believe in his innocence.

William Shivas a Benedict.

Miss Annie Flannery, of West Eighth street, and William Shivas, of 313 West Second street, were quietly married at 8:30 o'clock last night, by Rev. L. R. Howard at his home on West Fifth street. The couple was attended by Miss Frances Toppin, and John C. McDonald, both of this city. The groom is engaged here as a carpenter. He and his wife will continue to reside in Plainfield.

Baptist Women Elect.

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the East Association of New Jersey, the following officers were re-elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. W. T. Lambar, Newark; vice-presidents, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Plainfield; Mrs. J. Madison Hare, Jersey City; Mrs. J. W. Sarles, Stelton; recording secretary, Miss Florence Bogart, Roselle.

ALLEGED SCOLD GETS SIXTY-DAYS SENTENCE

Mrs. Mary Halliwell, whom five of her women neighbors denounced in the city court this morning as a scold and neighborhood trouble-maker, was sentenced to serve a sixty-day term of imprisonment in the county jail by City Judge Runyon, after some surprising testimony had been received. One and all, the neighbors, among whom is the sister of Patrolman Andrew Saffron, declared in court that "her goings-on are something terrible" in the otherwise peaceful Spooner avenue district where Mrs. Halliwell has her home.

Of course, "the trouble-maker" denounced all the allegations as base falsehoods, but she is known to the police through previous complaints, and has been keeping the West End section in a high state of excitement by her periodic tirades. When Mrs. Halliwell was being led back to her cell after sentence was passed by Judge Runyon, she turned to the quintet of accusers and said: "Never mind, I'll get back at you some time later."

MAN AND HIS WIFE ARE FOUND GUILTY

Dominico Borrill and his wife, Emma, were found guilty at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon of atrocious assault on Michael Pesco, and will be sentenced next Friday. The assault occurred on August 31 last, and Pesco, acting ac a peacemaker, was stabbed five times. While several men were quarreling over some money, the stabbing occurred, and two men fell badly wounded. One was Pesco, who ran into the melee, and the other was Mrs. Borrill's father. Pesco's wounds proved of a very serious nature and he was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital, where he was obliged to remain for a long time. One of the wounds in the back was very deep, and such a serious condition developed that it was thought that Pesco would die, and the priest was sent for to administer the last rites of the church. He finally began to improve and gradually recovered, however.

Borrill and his wife were charged with the stabbin. Neither was present when the stabbing began, but when they heard shots fired they rushed out, as did many others in the neighborhood. It was claimed that Borrill had a knife and that his wife had a razor. Both denied yesterday afternoon that they had done the stabbing, and Mrs. Borrill denied that she had any razor.

In summing up the case Attorney Nugent, who represented Mr. Borrill, held that it looked as if two men who were in the midst of the rtuoble, but who disappeared afterward, were the ones who did the stabbing.

THIS 'PHONE COMPANY DOES NOT ROAST ITS PATRONS.

The Bell Telephone Company, of Pennsylvania, surprised its local subscribers this week by the announcement that all charges for 'phones would be reduced beginning July 1. Hereafter there will be no two or three-party lines. The wires will either be exclusive or four-party. The cost in the first instance will be $36, instead of $48 for business wires, and $24 instead of $39 for residence wires. The charge for a four-party line will be $24 a year, instead of $27, for business places, and $18 instead of $24 for residence lines. The local representative, James M. Shafer, is making new contracts on this basis.—Washington, N. J., Star.

Parrot Turns On Gas and Dies.

Charles Beebe, a Sandy Hook pilot, is mourning the loss of his large South American parrot, Sandy by name, which committed suicide yesterday by turning on the gas in the kitchen range. Sandy was an intelligent parrot and was a keen observer of everything that took place in the house. When Mr. Beebe went to look for his parrot yesterday morning he found it dead on the kitchen range, with the gas turned on full force.

Musical Service Postponed.

Because of the fact that Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will attend divine service at Trinity Reformed church tomorrow night, the special musical service announced will be postponed to another date. Instead the quartet choir will render music appropriate to the occasion and the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, will preach a sermon to the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

Rev. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey are Given a Reception by Warren Chapel Flock.

RECEIVE A PURSE OF GOLD.

Pastor's Wife Wears Her Wedding Gown—J. W. Gavett Extends the Congratulations.

Rev. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, of Grandview avenue, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding, yesterday and last night in honor of the event a delightful reception was tendered to the couple at Warren chapel, of which Mr. McKelvey is the popular pastor. More than two hundred members of the chapel and their friends gathered to extend their congratulations and wish them many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey, assisted by the members of the Missionary and Aid Society who had arranged the affair, received the guests in the chapel parlors, which were elaborately decorated with American flags, dogwood, lilacs and apple blossoms, by Theodore Martin and Alfred Everett. An interesting feature was that Mrs. McKelvey wore her wedding gown, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses.

One of the pleasant surprises of the evening was the presentation of a purse of $100 in gold to Pastor McKelvey, by Joseph W. Gavett on behalf of the chapel members. He recalled the faithful services of Mr. McKelvey and his wife during the sixteen years they have been co-laborers at the chapel and the excellent service they have renderd to the community. In this connection Mrs. McKelvey was presented with fifteen bride roses as a gift from the women of the chapel.

Responding to the words of Mr. Gavett, the pastor thanked one and all for the substantial remembrance and expression of good will and hoped that the strong bond of Christion fellowship would continue for many years to come.

During the social part of the evening's program, the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, under the direction of Martin A. Korff, rendered popular selections. Refreshments were also served during this time.

Those comprising the committee in charge of the celebration were Mrs. William Bacon, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Mrs. George Hoagland, Mrs. John Snyder, Mrs. Benjamin A. Moore, Mrs. John Greene, Mrs. Gibson Smith, Mrs. John Higgins, Mrs. John Schenck, Mrs. Theodore Martin, Mrs. Alonzo Brokaw, Mrs. Andrew J. Stiglitz, Mrs. Robert Stewart, Mrs. Augustus Jenkins, Mrs. William Demarest, Mrs. Beena Newmiller, Mrs. George Demarest and Mrs. A. J. Gavett.

Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey have been connected with the chapel for about sixteen years, the former being the first and only pastor. They have been popular with their people and the harmony existing during their long service is one of the pleasing features of the work.

TEST FOR CIVIL SERVICE LAW.

Court in Doubt as to Constitutionality of Certain Features.

Expressing uncertainty as to the constitutionality of the provisions of the Civil Service law under which it has become operative in municipalities adopting its provisions, the Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton directed a reargument of the proceedings instituted by Richard W. Booth against Patrick McGuinness, contestants for the position of collector of Essex county. The court is in doubt only as to the validity of certain features of the law, and not of its general provisions.

The reargument will be set down for the opening day of the June term of the court, and it is expected that an early decision will then be reached.

Buys Beckstein Property.

The Beckstein estate, on Park avenue near Oak Tree, has been purchased by Col. John M. Hardy, of this city. The property consists of thirty-two acres of farming land with a manor house. Former Judge William A. Coddington negotiated the deal. The consideration is not given. It is one of the finest country places in this city. Col. Hardy will make it his summer home.

H. B. Howell Dead.

Henry B. Howell, Trenton's oldest resident, and one of the best known advocates of temperance in the State, died Thursday night at his home in Trenton of the infirmities of age aggravated by a slight cold and acute indigestion with which he had been ailing several days. Mr. Howel was born in Trenton, September 13, 1817, and was in the ninety-second year.

ALBERT C. CLARK WEDS AT "TRANSFIGURATION"

Miss Laura M. Stuhr, of Eighty-ninth street, New York city, and Albert C. Clark, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., of Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, were quietly married at 11 o'clock this morning at the "Little Church Around the Corner," New York, by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Houghton. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few friends of the couple.

Miss Dora F. Pfister, of New York, was the bridesmaid, while Clarence T. Brokaw, of this city, was the best man. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, and later the couple left for a wedding trip to Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Washington and Richmond, and upon their return will reside with the groom's parents at 59 Jackson avenue. They will be away about three weeks.

Mr. Clark, who is well-known here and who has a large circle of friends, is engaged in the manufacture of men's hats, being associated with his father in this business in Newark. The bride is also popular and has a host of friends both in New York and this city. She was the receipient of a number of handsome gifts.

TO STOP ROUGH PLAY ON SCHOOL GROUNDS

Starting the second year of its organization by undertaking definite work among the pupils of the school, the Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryant School, at its annual meeting held last night at the Bryant School, started a campaign against rough playing in the school-yard and has sought to promote cleanliness among the pupils by the appointment of committees from its members. Mrs. J. S. Hanson, president of the school organization, announced the appointment of a committee to consider the appointment of a person the supervise the children's play in the school-yard before the morning and afternoon sessions, and also named a committee to provide handkerchiefs for use by the pupils in the class-rooms. A visiting committee of parents was also announced.

Mrs. Smith, of Seventh street; Mrs. Steinmiller, of Carlton avenue, and Mrs. H. R. Moyer were named by Mrs. Hanson as the committee to select a supervisor for the play in the school-yard, and it is reported that the women will try to secure some High School pupil. Mrs. Beaton, Mrs. Hadley, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. McKay were named as a parents' visiting committee, and will co-operate with the teachers and principal of the school in visiting whenever and wherever necessary. Mrs. Williams, treasurer of the association, and Mrs. Stout, of Putnam avenue, were named as a committee to provide handkerchiefs for the use of the pupils during school sessions.

The annual elections resulted in the choice of these officers: Mrs. J. S. Hanson, president; Miss Flora Griffen, principal of the Bryant School, first vice president; Dr. O. B. Whitford, second vice president; Mrs. Hadley, secretary, and Mrs. Williams, treasurer. The association, which has a membership of fifty, is conducted with particular conservatism of policy.

The meeting was held in connection with the exhibition of the class work of the pupils of the school. This exhibition was largely attended, fathers as well as mothers of the children coming to the school to inspect the examples of class-work displayed.

Probing Communipaw Wreck.

Jersey City, May 15.—The State Board of Railroad Commissioners met in Chancery Chambers yesterday and heard testimony with the view of fixing the responsibility for the two collisions at the Communipaw avenue station of the Central Railroad of New Jersey on the morning of April 19. Assistant Attorney-General Gaskill conducted the examination for the commissioners and several lawyers looked after the interest of the railroad company. hTe investigation was not concluded.

Plainfield Boys in Track Meet.

Andrew McDonough, George Durar, Russel Miller, Horace Earl and Debere Beeken will represent the Plainfield High School at the big track meet to be held at Elizabeth this afternoon under the auspices of Pingry School. The Plainfield lads are all in the best of condition and should be successful.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of Lincoln place, have gone to Washington, D. C., to visit friends.

SOLDIER BOYS AS COOKS

Company K's Members Will Have a Novel Experience at Sea Girt.

TO SAVE THE STATE MONEY.

Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan Enthusiastic Over the Indigestion Proposition.

The soldiers who will go to the camp at Sea Girt this summer will get their first lesson in caring for their own stomachs in the field, as far as cooking of food is concerned, according to the regulations laid down by the war department to be followed by all troops of States under the Dick law.

In the last annual report of Quartermaster General C. Edward Murray the general again advocated this plan of doing away with the civilian cooks at Sea Girt and making the two enlisted men of each company do the work for which they are enlisted. This is according to the regulations, which require the soldiers to learn how to care for themselves in the field. The experience of the men at the late riots at Perth Amboy was so successful where they did the cooking in the Second regiment that Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, commandant, is highly enthusiastic over this coming company cooking. Colonel Henry Freeman, of the First regiment of Newark, highly approves of the plan, and it is a certainty that the civilian cooks will be dispensed with this summer and the troops look after their own cooking.

As an economical measure this is important, now that a five weeks' camp has been planned with but four weeks' money in sight to pay for it.

Some idea of the saving that will result was given last evening by Major Samuel S. Armstrong, of the quartermaster general's office, when he said that last year there were twenty-eight civilian cooks employed for twenty-eight days at $1.50 a day, or a wage distribution to them of $1,176. This year, with a five weeks' camp, this would mean the payment of $1,411 in such wages, and to save this money will be a portion gained of the amount necessary for conducting the five weeks' camp.

General Murray has been an advocate of company cooks in strict conformity with the war department regulations ever since the mess halls were given up so that the soldiers could be instructed in the art of caring for the soldier stomach in the field. He has been vetoed on this plan in past military board meetings, but this year, with a search being made for every cent of money wherewith to run the five weeks' camp, it is certain that the company cooks will be required to do the work for which they were enlisted and for which they are carried on the military pay rolls.

NEW MARKET TO JOIN IN CHARTER DOY PARADE.

Members of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, have offered to take part in the parade of lodgemen to be held in connection with the Charter Day Anniversary Celebration on July 5, and will be in line with a delegation of sixteen uniformed members and a full turn-out of the order. It is believed that this action on the part of the New Market Juniors will lead to similar offers by other New Market and Dunellen organizations.

Little business was done at the first meeting of the Charter Day decorating committee, held last night at A. E. Force's store. Mr. Force, chairman of the committee, said today that his cards of notification of the meetaing were in several cases the first news the members had received of their appointments. H. E. Parker, Thomas Meaney, Charles S. Wilson, Walter C. Chandler and Dr. M. L. Clawson attended the meeting, which adjourned subject to the call of the chair, after a general discussion of plans.

Granted a Divorce.

J. Henry Crane, attorney for Mrs. May Grobes Henry, in her suit for divorce from her husband, Charles T. Henry, today received the final decree from Chancellor Mahlon Pitney for the petitioner. The couple, colored, was married in 1896 at Bound Brook. The suit was brougt on statutory grounds. There was no defense.

This musical program will be given at Grace M. E. church tomorrow night: Prelude, violin solo, Mr. Speer; anthems, "Sing Hallelujah Forth," Dudley Buck; "Magnificat," Tours; offertory, violin solo, Mr. Speer; soprano solo, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," DuBois, Mrs. E. D. Young.

TOM MUIR TESTIMONIAL TICKETS WILL BE $1.50

Tickets for the Tom Muir testimonial to be held at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, June 18, will be distributed for sale by the members of the show's chorus at the next rehearsal, to be held next Tuesday night. The price of the tickets will be $1.50, and they will be redeemed for seats at the theatre box office Friday morning, June 11. All tickets will be of equal value at the redemption, and it will be a case of "first come, first served."

The chorus for the show now numbers 135, several more friends of the popular newspaperman having registered with Manager Charles G. August last night, when the second rehearsal was held. City Judge William N. Runyon spent a solid hour coaching the singers in the half-a-dozen catchy choruses which have been announced as Tuesday and Friday of each week, and the chorus meets in the Elks' lodge rooms.

SUPPER AND SALE AT THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church held a successful supper and sale of candy and flowers in the basement of the church last night from 6 to 8 o'clock. The room was attractively decorated with bunting and flowers and the social committee of the league, which had full charge of everything, spared no pains in making the affair complete. Although Miss Frances Weed is the chairman of the committee, she was unable to be present and Miss Edna French took her place.

An excellent supper was served by the young people, those acting as waitresses being Mrs. B. Van Buskirk, Miss Edith Randolph, Miss May Randolph, Miss Edna French, Miss Laura Gesswein, Miss Rose Gesswein, Mrs. C. A. Gesswein, Mrs. James Busby, Miss Ada B. Stark, Miss Edith Weaver, Mrs. Maurice McGrath, Miss Ethel Prior.

In addition there was a candy table in charge of Miss Irene Miller, and Mrs. Thomas R. MacDonald, assisted by Miss Zeta Voorhees, Miss Helen Edgar, Miss Hannah Bingman, Miss Frances Rittenhouse. There was also a flower table in charge of Miss Mattie Humble, assisted by a number of the young women. Lawrence Edgar and Charles Small acted as ushers and Edward Brown was at the door to receive tickets.

The proceeds from the affair will be used for missions, but the Epworthians have not yet decided whether it will be foreign or home. It is possible that the sum may be divided equally between the two.

PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED FOR OLD-FOLKS CONCERT.

Great interest is being taken in the "Concert of Old Favorite Songs" at the High School auditorium, Monday night. The artists are Mrs. Edith Chapman Goold, Miss Ellen Learned, Dr. Carl Dufft and John Young, vocalists, with Miss Gertrude Ina Robinson, harpist, and Joseph McIntyre at the piano. This will be the program:

"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," "The Minstrel Boy," "Kathleen Mabourneen," "Scenes that Are Brightest," transcription for harp in the Irish airs, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Wearing of the Green," "Last Rose of Summer," "Bonnie Doon," "Annie Laurie," "Sally In Our Alley," "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," and "Old Uncle Ned," for quartet; "Within a Mile of Edinboro Town," "Darby and Joan," "Loves Old Sweet Song," "Bendemeers Stream," "harp solo, "Ballade," by Hasselman; "Bloom is on the Rye," "Killarney," "Castles in the Air," "Old Folks at Home," (Swanee River), "Auld Lang Syne," and "Home, Sweet Home," for quartet.

More than two hundred tickets have been reserved and those wishing to secure their seats should apply without delay as the sale has been large.

Lodges to Take Park.

Invitations have been sent to the various lodges requesting them to fix a night when the members want to take part in the carnival to be conducted by the Clinton Avenue Baseball Club, May 22-31. Already three nights have been taken by lodges and those desiring to take part are requested to communicate with Manager Ernest Dorflinger or Captain D. B. Martin, who is chairman of the affair.

REFORMER 'IN OUR MIDST'

South Plainfield Man Comes to Town to Clean Out the "Speak-Easies."

HE'S A WHOLE TRAFFIC SQUAD.

When Arraigned in Court William Elliott is Sentenced to Go Back to the Village.

William Elliott, a forty-seven-year-old South Plainfielder, who says he has been crazy since he was eleven years old, organized a new traffic squad for the police department yesterday, and worked hard on Front street as its only member until he was arrested by Patrolman Charles Flynn. He secured a police whistle from somewhere and got on the job with a formidable looking club. His method of controlling the traffic consisted in standing in the street and stopping automobiles. As the machines would come to a stop to prevent running him down, he would step aside, bow, and with a wave of his hand, signal them to proceed. In the same way, he would stand in the trolley tracks and hold up the cars. In the evening, he strolled around the business section, beating the pavement with his stick and blowing the whistle. He got the police so restless that he was finally "taken up."

In court this morning, Elliott said that he came to Plainfield to clean out the "speak-easies" and "make this town look like a city." He told Judge Runyon that his first job wulod be clean out West Third street, where he claimed there were several places wher liquor is sold without a license. So busy has Elliott been that he hasn't had time to eat since yesterday morning, but has drunk three "schooners" of water in various "places" which he has on his list as "suspicious."

Elliott is a militant reformer, all right, but refuses to give up his campaign, although Judge Runyon urged him to go back to South Plainfield. "I'm monarch of all I survey," he said, "and I can survey a good ways." The man, who has a married son in South Plainfield, was dismissed by the court and told to go back to Middlesex county.

COLLEGIANS TO APPEAR IN PINERO'S "MAGISTRATE."

It is a noteworthy fact that in the cast for "The Magistrate," to be presented by the members of the Park Comedy Club, Friday night, May 21, at the New Plainfield theatre, nearly all of the leading colleges are represented. They include Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth, Amherst, Williams, Cornell, Lehigh and Wellesley.

The experience these members have enjoyed while with the dramatic association of their respective colleges assures the many friends of the comedy club that this year's play will be the strongest amateur production that Plainfield has yet seen. The advance sale of the seats has been large and indications point to "S. R. O." on the night of the performance.

ARRESTS IN DOUBLE MURDER.

Umbrella Menders Held, One of Them Showing Signs of Unusual Prosperity.

Camden, N. J., May 15.—In connection with the murder of two men whose bodies were found in an abandoned factory building in Gloucester, N. J., on Tuesday, with their skulls crushed, William Bradley and Patrick McDermott, umbrella menders, were arrested at Camden yesterday.

The murdered men, James Purdy and John Whitelaw, had been dead for several days before their bodies were found by two boys. Proudy, it is said, had recently received several hundred dollars from an estate in Canada, and the police advance the theory that Purdy and Whitelaw while sleeping in the factory building had been attacked for the purpose of robbery.

Bradley, when arrested yesterday, wore a new suit of clothing and had $97 in his possession. He says he received the money for work done at Port Norris, N. J.

Simons the Winner of Race.

Edward Simons was the winnter of the Y. M. C. A. five-mile marathon race, held this afternoon. The start was made at 1:57 and Simons crossed the line at the finish at 2:35. Dorman was second.

Mrs. Charles Marshman Slocum and Miss Molly P. Slocum, of Central avenue, are spending a fortnight at Washington.

Miss Mary Mauldin, of Greenville, S. C., daughter of W. L. Mauldin, formerly Lieut.-Governor of South Carolina, and now a Senator, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue.

G. A. R. MAN WANTS TO BLOW UP WIRZ SHAFT.

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 15.—The West Virginia Department of the Grand Army of the Republic, which ended its sessions here Thursday, condemned the erection of the monument at Andersonville, Ga., to Colonel Wirz, Confederate keeper of the Andersonville prison.

In a speech that roused the old veterans to a high state of indignation, Colonel Romeo Freer, of Harrisville, said that he would help raise a fund to have the Wirz monument dynamited, and many of the veterans present volunteered their help to do it.

Several other speeches were made, in which Wirz was bitterly denounced, and the erection and unveiling of the monument to him characterized as an insult to the men who fought for the Union.

FALLS 100 FEET; LITTLE HURT.

Hackensack, May 15.—Though he fell 100 feet yesterday, Louis D'Alauio, of Alpine, is doing nicely at the Englewood Hospital. A sprained ankle and several cuts and bruises about the body were the result of his fall. D'Alauio was building a stone wall along the Palisades at Alpine and was engaged in moving a boulder with a crowbar. The crowbar slipped and D'Alauio toppled over the precipice. Half way down his fall was broken by the branches of trees.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hours: Morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 3:30; at the vesper service at 4:30, H. W. Herman, of Plainfield, will make an address, "How to Make the Most of Both Worlds." William Holmes, of Plainfield, will sing.

There will be two games of baseball this afternoon, the representative team playing the All-American team, of Newark, on the Forest road grounds, and the Baptist Athletic team playing a picked team from the Plainfield High School on the Park avenue diamond. Both games will be called at 3:30.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church will hold its anniversary exercises in the church tomorrow night. A pleasing program has been arranged. Dr. Randolph, of Plainfield, will be the speaker.

The first quarterly conference meeting of the Methodist church was held last night in the church. Dr. Randolph was in charge of the meeting, which was well attended by the members.

Hunter avenue is receiving some much needed attention from the road committee. The gutters are being scraped and the road bed built up.

John B. Stillger, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stillger, of Front street, has returned to his home in Brooklyn.

Mrs. James Pope, of Grant avenue, Plainfield, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. John Marsh, of Park avenue.

Miss Caroline Lent, of Front street, has been entertaining friends from New York.

Former Constable Under Arrest.

Trenton, May 15.—Charged with impersonating an officer, Harry Potts, a special officer and constable for several years, was arrested Thursday night by Captain Dettmar and Patrolman Donnelly, both of the Second District Station. The complainant was Captain Dettmar. It is claimed by the police that Potts has been posing as an officer during the past six months, and in that time has effected a number of arrests without authority. Potts' commission as a special officer expired December 31, 1908. It is charged in the complaint that he was never sworn in for the following year by Mayor Madden.

Mrs. W. D. Britts, of Yonkers, N. Y., who has been visiting her sister, Miss Lottie Billett, of West Second street, has returned home.

FIRE'S DAMAGE $2,000, FIREMEN ARE DELAYED.

Morristown, May 15.—Fire partially destroyed the residence of Shade Tree Commissioner John D. Canfield, in Madison avenue, shortly before noon yesterday. The damage is estimated at $2,000.

Irene Carr, a maid in the employ of Mr. Canfield, discovered the fire on going to her room in the third story. Flames had then enveloped the front room. As the roofs of the house are shingled, it is thought that fire originated from sparks from the chimney. A fire in the stove had been started, the maid said, a short time before she went upstairs to her apartments.

Mr. Canfield's residence is near the outskirts of the town and about a mile and a half from the fire companies' quarters, and the run taxed the endurance of the fire horses. Poor water pressure crippled the efforts of the firemen at the start, and the delay of Washington Engine Company due to an accident of the chemical engine added to the trouble of the fire chiefs.

The firemen succeeded in saving considerable of Mr. Canfield's furniture. The chemical engine horses had just returned to the company's quarters when the fire alarm came in. The driver quickly snapped the harness on the horses and started out of the house, but the off-horse kept turning its head in. It was seen that one of the reins had in some way caught in the dashboard and could not be loosened. Washington Engine Company's house is next door and its horses were harnessed and ready to proceed to the fire, but could not pass the chemical engine. The driver of the chemical engine was forced to cut the reins and then fasten them together with a piece of wire.

FIVE YEARS IN PRISON FOR BRUTAL HUSBAND.

Paterson, May 15.—William Leonard, of 15 Cross street, was tried before Judge Francis Scott yesterday on his wife Mary's charge of result of bruises which she alleged had to be assisted into court, as the result of burises which she alleged were inflicted by her husband. The alleged assault and battery was committed last Monday and the woman's face yesterday was a mass of cuts and bruises.

Eighteen months ago Leonard was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill made by his wife. At that time the woman alleged that her husband struck her over the head three times with the sharp end of a hatchet. When Leonard came up for trial at that time Judge Scott sentenced him to serve five years in the State prison, but Mrs. Leonard pleaded for her husband to be allowed to go, and her request was granted.

Yesterday morning the complainant said that she wanted nothing more to do with her husband, and Judge Scott sentenced the prisoner to serve five years in the State prison at hard labor. After the sentence was pronounced Leonard laughed and said to the constables that the sentence made no difference to him.

ROLLS HER SISTER IN CARPET TO STIFLE FIRE.

Trenton, May 15.—The presence of mind of Miss Nellie Dana probably saved her sister, Miss Eunice A. Dana, seventy years old, from being burned to death Thursday.

The aged woman was burning some old pamphlets from the library, and had ignited a big pile of papers in the yard of her home at 24 South Clinton avenue. A piece of blazing paper blew against her dress and she ran into the house screaming, her body enveloped in flames. Her sister Nellie seized her and forced her to the floor, then rolled the imperiled woman in a large piece of carpet. The hands and faces of both women were badly burned, but it is not believed fatal results will follow. Miss Eunice Dana walked to her room and went to bed and a physician was summoned.

"It's all very well to leave the stage to darn socks."

"Well?"

"But before doing it, remember that you will have to go through your performance with no orchestra and no spotlight."—Pittsburg Post.

GOLF.

The attraction at the Plainfield Country Club today will be the weekly competition for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B. Since the golf committee changed the handicaps, dividing the two classes, the results have been more satisfactory to the players and is sure to work out better.

The Park Golf Club will open its active season today with competition for the President's cup, weekly event. The course was never in better condition and some extra good scores may be expected. The tennis court is also ready for play.

Golfers who have been playing over the Plainfield Country Club course this week pronounce it to be the finest ever and it certainly shows the result of hard work. The new greens are also in the best of condition.

A feature of the social life at the Plainfield Country Club this season will be the Saturday night dinner-dances, which proved so popular last year. Other social functions will be planned from time to time.

The much talked of Tom Morris memorial golf trophy, presented by Peter Dawson, of Glasgow, for competition under the auspices of the Western Golf Association, is now on exhibition at the Waldorf, New York. The trophy is valued at $1,200. It stands four feet high, and shows the figure of a gray-haired man in the act of hitting the ball; also the shield of the United States and the Dawson coat of arms. It is inscribed as follows:

"Presented to the Western Golf Association of America by Peter Dawson, Glasgow, in tribute to the memory of Old Tom Morris, a golfer and a man."

The Tom Morris competition will be held on June 16, and is open only to clubs holding membership in the Western Golf Association. Teams will compete at medal play, and the one with the lowest aggregate total will hold the cup for a year.

NO POWER AS TO TEACHERS' FITNESS

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles J. Baxter, has made an official denial of the stories going about the State press scaring the teachers of schools, and which say that the State Board of Education is to conduct examinations as to the fitness of teachers to hold their places under the eligibility clause of the tenure of office act. Mr. Baxter said:

"The story is absolutely absurd. The State board has no power to make such examinations, and no inclination to assume the power. The relation of teacher as to fitness to the schools is entirely with the local board which hires him or her."

Many teachers have written to the State Board of Education inquiring as to the alleged coming examinations, and yesterday many calls were made by teachers at the State House to make inquiry. To all inquirers Mr. Baxter replied in vigorous language that such stories were ridiculous.

SENATOR COLBY TO FIGHT.

Says He Will Be in the Thick of Contest for New Idea Party.

Former Senator Everett Colby, of Essex county, vigorously denied yesterday a story that he had given up politics and would devote his time to his law practice. On the contrary, he said, he intended to enter into the coming primary contest with greater vigor than ever, even going so far as to give up his vocation this summer to be in the thick of the fight, which is expected to be one of the most strenuous ever held in Essex. The New Idea men will open their campaign with a dollar dinner on May 27 in Newark.

Asked whether he would be a candidate for one of the Republican Assembly nominations next fall, Mr. Colby said:

"Some of my friends have mentioned my name in that connection, but in no sense am I a candidate. I do not believe that it is essential in order to serve the people that a man should be a candidate. I don't believe in perpetual candidates. I intend to work in the ranks of the New Idea forces for better government, and I have given up my vacation this summer to be in the contest. Assemblyman Martin made an excellent record at Trenton, and he will make a strong candidate for Governor next year."

Mr. Colby said that the New Idea forces expect to be victorious in the fall primaries, at which not alone will candidates be nominated, but a new Republican county committee chosen.

SOCIETY OF ST. MARY'S TO HOLD ANNUAL MEET.

Burlington, May 15.—The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Society of the Daughters of St. Mary's Hall, this place, will be held at the hall Thursday, May 27, "Founders Day," at 10 o'clock a. m. This year it is of unusual interest.

At the last meeting in 1908 the society determined to raise a fund of $3,000 for repairs and improvements on the hall and buildings. This sum is to be presented at the grand reunion, which is held every five years, and will be due in 1910. A considerable amount has already been collected. It was asked that each member pledge himself to raise ten dollars, paid in five dollar instalments, for this and next year, and send to the treasurer of the society, Miss M. M. Gummere, or Mrs. John Fearnley, president of St. Mary's Hall. Luncheon will be served at the hall after the morning business meeting. A large attendance is expected.

MONTCLAIR HOPES FOR $5,000.

Expect "Tag Day" for Mountainside Hospital to Surpass Last Year.

Montclair is to have another "tag day" on June 11 to raise funds for the Mountainside Hospital. Last summer the sale of tags for the benefit of the hospital netted about $3,000.

It is expected that $5,000 will be realized next month.

"Tell Us What Is Hell."

Robert H. Hirsh, assistant pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, will lecture in Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall, 119 West Front street, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock on the subject: "Tell Us What Is Hell." There will be no admission fee and no collection.

CLERGY MAKE DEMAND FOR "DRY SUNDAYS."

Samuel Wilson, General Superintendent of the Civic Righteousness Federation of Hudson County; Father J. C. MacErlain, the Rev. George G. Vogel and the Rev. J. P. Stoffiet yesterday, by appointment, met Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City; Mortimer Gleeson, president of the Police Board, and Job Lippincott, president of the Excise Board, in the Mayor's chambers at the City Hall and called attention to the fact that the bishops' excise law was being violated on Sundays.

Mayor Wittpenn said he was surprised. Mr. Gleeson declared it was impossible to obtain evidence against the saloonkeepers, because they served only their regular customers on Sundays. When evidence was obtained, Mr. Gleeson stated, the saloonkeepers were acquitted by the courts. He also told Mr. Wilson and the clergymen that if they would make specific charges and not deal in generalities they could be of much assistance in lessening the liquor traffic on Sundays. Mayor Wittpenn told his visitors that he would request the authorities to watch the saloons closely in the future.

FORMER STATE SENATOR IS SUED BY HIS WIFE.

Mrs. Lillie V. Rogers, of Camden, wife of Maurice A. Rogers, former Senator, of that city, began suit in the Court of Chancery at Trenton yesterday for maintenance and alimony, basing her claim on the charge that her husband's brutality makes it impossible for her to live with him, while his prosperity warrants her in asking support. Rogers was Senator from 1891 to 1894, and was president of the Senate in 1904.

The couple were married in 1880 and, according to the wife, the husband began his cruel treatment soon afterward, continuing it in 1907, when she separated from him. She charges him with habitual drinking, the use of vile language, saying that much of his misconduct was due to a violent and ungovernable temper. Once, she says, he made her run an errand to permit the servant girl to continue a card game with him. On another occasion, she says, he tore up one of her dresses and then struck her because she threw a comb at him. She says she is now in bodily fear of him, since his conduct drove her and their three children from their home.

"Jack the Hugger" Sent to Jail.

Thirty days in the county jail was the punishment meted out to a "Jack the Hugger" at Mountclair yesterday by Recorder Henry L. Yost. The "hugger" was Frank Petana, of No. 34 Garside street, Newark, who has a wife and three children. Petana seized two girls in Ray street last night and embraced them so ardently that their screams brought a policeman.

4 FORMER GOVERNORS GUESTS OF MR. M'CARTER

About 100 of the foremost men of the State will gather at "Rumsonhill," the beautiful home of President Thomas N. McCarter of the Public Service Corporation this afternoon for luncheon. State Assessor David Baird is to be the guest of honor.

The men who will partake of the luncheon will include four former Governors—Franklin Murphy, of Newark; Edward C. Stokes, of Millville; Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth, and John W. Griggs, of Paterson. The invitations were not limited to men of one political party.

Mr. McCarter said yesterday that he did not want to have the affair misunderstood or taken to be of any political significance. The guests were for the most part his personal friends, he said. They included a large number of men who had taken an active interest in politics, but that was incidental. The directors of the Public Service Corporation and its subsidiaries, men active in the business life of Philadelphia and New York, and several State officials were among those who had been invited, it was said.

United States Senators John Kean and Frank O. Briggs sent regrets, stating that the tariff bill would keep them in Washington. Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., is among those who will be present. Guests from this end of the State will go to Red Bank on the train leaving Jersey City at 11:30 this morning, and return on the train reaching New York at 5:09 o'clock this afternoon. "Rumsonhill" is located in Rumson, near Seabright.

Governor Fort will not go. He stated last week that he would not get back from the Southern battle monument unveiling trip in time for the 1 o'clock function. He unexpectedly appeared at the State House yesterday afternoon, and was at once asked if the early return meant that he would go to Mr. McCarter's luncheon. He retorted:

"Why, I declined that invitation a week ago."

Having promised Mr. Baird reappointment on a dozen different occasions, and having asured his friends right up to the last of the Legislative session that the South Jersey leader was to be named, the Governor's failure to send the nomination to the Senate places him in a peculiar position. He has studiously avoided coming face to face with Mr. Baird since that time. He missed the annual convention of the Bankers' Association at Atlantic City and has sent "regrets" to everything that might bring up embarrassing situations.

POLICEMAN'S SON KILLED BY A WAGON.

John Mannion, the six-year-old son of Policeman James Mannion, of the Fourth precinct, Jersey City, was amusing himself by jumping on and off trucks at Johnston and Pacific avenues yesterday. After leaping from a truck the boy ran against the shafts of a wagon, which was going in an oposite direction. He fell and the wheels of the wagon passed over him.

Hugh Sutherland, of No. 105 Carteret avenue, driver of the wagon, carried the injured child to a drug store, where the little fellow died. Sutherland was held on a charge of manslaughter.

HE WALKS IN SLEEP, AND FALLS TWO STORIES.

George Wood, a boarder for two days at the home of Henry Randall, Trenton, was late Thursday night afflicted with sleepwalking, and tumbled from a second story window, landing in the street almost on top of a policeman.
